BRIBERY HERE LAID TO CUBAN BANKERS SEIZED FOR FRAUD

AFTERMATH OF A FAILURE

Attorney General Acts Against Officials of Cuban-German Firm on Report of Bank Examiners.

HAVANA, May 16.—Herman and Albert Upmann, brothers, heads of the Cuban-German banking house of H. Upmann & Co., which recently failed, involving approximately $10,000,000, were taken into custody late today by the secret police. The arrests followed rumors of an attempt to be made to escape by airplane.

The brothers are charged with fraud, the charge being preferred by the Attorney General with the complete knowledge of the Commission for the Liquidation of Banks, on which the United States has a representative.

Although the arrests caused a sensation in clubs and upon the boulevards, Americans seemed even more interested in an item of $1,028,517.48 which the auditors for the Havana Clearing House found upon the books of Upmann & Co. According to the only copy of that report which has reached the public, this item was charged off as "expenses of Herman Upmann in Washington to secure the return of the properties from the Alien Enemy Property Custodian, $1,028,517.48."

It is charged that this item, discovered in "profit and loss," represents money of the bank's depositors. No statements have come to light showing to whom this money was paid.

Newspaper Demands Inquiry.

The Evening News, a stanch supporter of Major General Crowder, asks tonight, "How was that million spent?" as the heading for an editorial which mentions Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and refers to a "former Havana banker up there at the time." The questions being asked here tonight are summed up in that editorial as follows:

"It is the statement that more than a million dollars of the depositors' money has been used to regain the private property of Mr. Upmann and that this money was used to gain an end where no money is supposed to be used. How was a million dollars expended in Washington? Who got it? Was it used for graft, for a bribe, for securing influence to secure the return of the property? Who got the money? Why was it necessary to spend a million dollars for it? Has an official of the American Government yielded to the voice of the tempter and taken this money? Of what did the property consist? If Mr. Upmann spent the money for bribery, the United States Government should compel him to tell where he spent that money."

"Was this property, held by the Alien Enemy Property Custodian, those shares in the woolen mills in which Senator Frelinghuysen is connected and what connection did Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey have with assisting Mr. Upmann in spending the million dollars in Washington in order to get that property out of the hands of the Alien Enemy Property Custodian?"

The News calls for a Senatorial investigation, declaring the charges are "an official document now," inasmuch as they were turned in with the bank's statement.

Report of Bank Examiners.

HAVANA, May 16.—The detention of Herman Upmann, President, and his brother, Albert Upmann, of the firm of H. Upmann & Co., was connected with the affairs of the bank, which failed to open for business on May 1 and was taken over on May 12 by the Bank Liquidation Commission after the members of the Havana Clearing House declined to come to its assistance.

The order of the Attorney General to detain the Upmanns followed closely upon the submission of a report to the Bank Liquidation Commission by Angel G. Del Valle and Carlos M. Batolongo, who made an examination of the bank's books, especially in connection with certain information alleged to have been given to the Havana Clearing House by accountants delegated to report on securities offered by the bank to secure a loan of $3,000,000 which the Clearing House members were asked to make.

Included in the report to the Clearing House was a statement alleging that the bank's books showed an entry of $1,028,517 as "expenses of Herman Upmann in Washington to secure the return of property sequestrated as a result of the war." Another statement set forth that $1,891,650 of securities deposited by clients have been hypothecated by the bank without the written, but with the verbal, permission of the owners, and that $67,000 had been pledged without the bank admitting that even verbal permission had been secured.

In 1918 A. Mitchell Palmer as Alien Property Custodian seized six woolen and worsted mills in and near Passaic, N. J. They were the Botany Mills, the Garfield Worsted Mills, the Gera Mills, the Passaic Worsted Spinning

'Aerial Daredevil' Herrick Finds Stunts in Air 'Tame'

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Representative Manuel Herrick of Oklahoma, self-styled "aerial daredevil of Congress," took the air over Washington today, but his advertised plan of operating the machine himself was frustrated by the Army Air Service.

"Give him everything in the book," a top sergeant shouted to the aviator, as the plane started from Bolling Field with Herrick safely strapped to a seat.

The House adjourned prior to the getaway, and members went to the roof. Circling near the Capitol, the plane went through enough daring stunts to give the average Representative the thrill that comes once in a lifetime, but as the Oklahoman landed he called it "tame."

Except for the high cost of flying, Mr. Herrick said he would buy a machine for campaigning next Fall.

GOVERNMENT MEETS DEFEAT IN COMMONS

Motion to Adjourn as Protest Against Education Bill Wins by Three Votes.

CABINET TO MEET TODAY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 16.—The Government was defeated in the House of Commons tonight. It was not over a question of first-class importance, and it happened when it was playing the somewhat unfamiliar rôle of champion of economy. Nevertheless it has given it an unpleasant shock. It will be explained, probably, as a mere accident, but it is one of those accidents which do not happen in really well regulated families.

The defeat by 151 votes to 148 occurred over a motion for the adjournment of the House as a protest against the Government's proposal to charge fees in the State schools 5 per cent. of the salaries as a contribution toward their pensions. This was one of the recommendations of the Geddes committee which had sounded an alarm against the heavy liability the country was incurring with regard to the pensions to teachers. It did not object to the pensions in themselves, or to the amount, but it did consider that the teachers should be required to shoulder part of the responsibility concerning them.

This proposal, however, apart from its own merits, was of political importance in that it was the first step the Government had taken to censor the amount spent on education. This has increased three-fold since pre-war days, and its extraordinary growth is likely to be one of the leading issues in Britain's domestic politics, the Liberal and Labor Parties defending it and the Conservatives demanding its drastic reduction.

The Government was able to state tonight that it was merely trying to give legislative effect to one of the proposals of the Geddes committee, whose opinions had been held by a large part of the Opposition press to be almost sacred; it was unable to get the ear of the House. To some extent this was due to the lack of parliamentary skill on the part of H. A. L. Fisher, the Minister of Education. He could have appeased the opponents of the Government by agreeing to the relegation of the pension question to a committee, but he declined and was supported in his position later by Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader in the House.

As the tellers advanced to the table, it was observed that one of the representatives of the Opposition held a paper containing the figures of the division in his hand. It was a sign that the Government had been defeated, and the members hardly waited for the official announcement to burst into a storm of cheers and counter-cheers. "Resign!" roared the Opposition, and hot retorts came from the other side of the chamber.

The excitement was brought to an end by Mr. Chamberlain's rising and, according to custom on such occasions, moving the adjournment of the House. A hurried consultation of Ministers took place behind the Speaker's chair, and it was decided to hold a Cabinet meeting tomorrow morning to consider the situation.

Writing on the prospects, The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent says: "An adjournment as a considered

LABOR BOMB FIRES CHICAGO BUILDING; TENANTS WARNED

LETTERS PREDICTED FIRES

Man Who Alarmed Occupants Said Explosion Was Coming and Cursed Landis Award.

TERROR INQUIRY GOES ON

Woman, Said to Be the Wife of Driver of Assassins' Car, the Latest Prisoner.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—A renewal of labor terrorism was seen tonight by the authorities when a partly tenanted and not completed apartment house, valued at $500,000, was badly damaged, following a bomb explosion of which the tenants had been warned. The warnings were given by a man who shouted "To hell with the Landis award!" The loss was put at $250,000.

It was recalled that Assistant States Attorneys Hodges and McLaughlin received letters last week warning them that if the "Big Three" labor leaders accused of complicity in the bombing of buildings and the murder of two policemen were not released fires would be started in buildings being erected throughout the city. The letters set the time limit for the release of the three at last Saturday.

Cursed Landis Award.

The building was situated at 7,655-7,715 Sheridan Road, Rogers Park, and contained seventy-two apartments. It was nearly completed and was being constructed under the terms of the Landis award.

The fire started simultaneously on the first and third floors and spread rapidly. Many apartments were occupied by tenants who had moved in on May 1. Considerable plumbing and electrical work was uncompleted. The north half, containing thirty-seven apartments, was destroyed, the walls falling two hours after the fire began. All the interior of the south half was burned, but the walls remained. The interiors of the second and third floors of an adjacent three-story apartment building were destroyed and expensive house furnishings and pictures were burned. The value of these is estimated at $30,000. Ten thousand persons watched the blaze.

The wife of James C. Corbett, a contractor-owner of the three-story apartment building, living on the second floor, was called to her door at 7 o'clock last night by a man who shouted, "get out quick, the building is going to burn. You'll hear an explosion in a minute."

He then hurried to the apartment of Mrs. Francis Choate, wife of F. P. Choate, an official of Sears, Roebuck & Co., on the first floor, and repeated his warning.

Mrs. Choate was bewildered by his words and asked him to repeat them. In answer he attempted to kick her and then fled from the building.

"He knocked on the rear door of my apartment and when I opened it he waved his hands wildly and shouted for me to get out of the building," Mrs. Choate said. "My husband had noticed smoke coming from the Sheridan Rogers apartments and was at that moment notifying the Fire Department.

Tenants Heard Explosion.

"The man told me that our building would be burned too, and then talked somewhat incoherently about an explosion. He then turned and ran down the stairs, calling back 'Down with the Landis award,' or something like that. A moment later we heard an explosion, and the fire, which was then on the first floor of the building, broke out on the third."

Mrs. Corbett described the man as 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, and having a small mustache. He wore a brown suit and hat.

Shirley T. High, fire attorney, hurried to the scene and began an investigation. He said there was no doubt that the fire was the work of incendiaries.

H. A. Zisook, President of the Zisook Construction Company, in charge of the construction work on the building, denied that he had been employing workmen under the Landis award. David Greenburg, an official of the United Plumbing and Heating Company, which held the plumbing contracts for the building, admitted, the police said, that his company employed workers under the Landis award. Officials of the Douglas Con-

3 Are Fined $1 a Pound For Unfit Food on Sale

Magistrate Alexander Brough in Municipal Term Court yesterday inaugurated the policy of fining food violators $1 for every pound of unwholesome food found in their possession.

As a result Bernard Prohlinger of 128 East 110th Street was fined $93 for offering for sale ninety-three pounds of assorted candy unfit for human consumption. Prohlinger went to City Prison for five days because he couldn't pay the fine.

Pasquale Margarella of 477 Broome Street was fined $90 for offering for sale ninety pounds of faulty shelled almonds, and Altman & Mendelsohn, Inc., of 2,346 Seventh Avenue was assessed $70 for offering for sale fifty-five pounds of peanut bars and fifteen pounds of walnut puffs unfit to eat.

Complaint in each case was made by Frederick G. Laemmle, health inspector.

DENBY SAYS 'GO,' SENATE SAYS 'NO'

BUT ACTION IS NOT BINDING

Secretary Says the Henderson Will Sail as Planned—Denies It Is to Be a Junket.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Senate today passed a resolution offered by Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois objecting to the use of the United States naval transport Henderson to transport the prominent former members of the class of 1881 of the United States Naval Academy from this country to Japan for their annual reunion, which is to be held in Tokio on July 4.

The resolution is merely declaratory of the sense of the Senators who assented to its passage. The action is in no way binding on the executive branch of the Government, and Secretary of the Navy Denby stated tonight that the adoption of the resolution would not interfere with the plans for the departure of the Henderson from Hampton Roads at noon next Saturday, May 20, with members of the class of 1881 on its passenger list. Mr. Denby expressed regret that the Senate had adopted the resolution. Long before the Henderson's trip is over, he said, members of the Senate would have a better appreciation of the value of the voyage.

Less than a dozen Senators were present when the resolution was adopted. No roll-call was taken, and the resolution slipped through by a viva voce vote. Among those not present were Senator Page, the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs; Senator Poindexter, who is in charge of naval legislation on the floor, and Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of the committee. Senator Weller of Maryland, a member of the Naval Academy class of 1881, who is going to Japan on the Henderson, also was absent.

Calls Them "Former Midshipmen"

The text of the McCormick resolution follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the transport Henderson should not proceed to Japan to convey thither former midshipmen of the United States."

The inference conveyed by the McCormick resolution is that the Henderson, a large and modern transport and the only one specially built for use in American naval service, is being sent for the sole purpose of conveying "former midshipmen" to Japan. Secretary Denby asserted this afternoon that the primary mission of the transport is to take a heavy cargo of supplies to naval stations and ships in the Pacific and a large force of enlisted men to replace others whose terms of enlistment have expired in the fleet of Admiral Strauss in the Orient. These supplies will be sent to Hawaii, Guam, the China station, the Philippines, and to vessels operating in Asiatic waters. These stores have been placed on board the Henderson at Hampton Roads. The complement of enlisted men going to the Orient will be put on board in a few days.

Secretary of War Weeks is a member of the class of 1881, but is unable, much to his regret, to attend the Tokio reunion. Secretary Denby is going to the reunion by express direction of President Harding, who believes the holding of the class reunion at Tokio on July 4 at the invitation of the Japanese Government will further cement the friendly relations between the United States and Japanese Governments. The class reunion is being held at the suggestion of Admiral Uriu, of the Japanese Navy, who was graduated from Annapolis in 1881. The Japanese Government has invited the members of the class to be its guests during its reunion.

The Tokio class banquet will assume the aspects of an official function. It will be attended by prominent American and Japanese officials. Among the American speakers will be Charles B. Warren, the American Ambassador to Japan, and Secretary Denby. Admiral Baron Kato, who was the head of the Japanese delegation to the Washington arms conference, and Baron Shidehara, Japan's Ambassador to this country, now in Tokio on leave of absence, will speak for Japan. It is the belief of Washington officials that acceptance by members of the 1881 class of the Japanese Government's invitation will be beneficial to the relations between the two countries.

The class of 1881 consists of a number of Annapolis graduates who have since become prominent in official as well as private life. Members of the class who have been authorized to go to the Far

PINCHOT'S BIG VOTE IN RURAL DISTRICTS MAY DEFEAT ALTER

His Indicated Country Plurality 173,000 and Growing, Alter's 198,000 in Cities and Dropping.

ONLY 6 COUNTIES FOR ALTER

Big Vote for Him in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh — Pinchot Leads in 61 Counties.

PEPPER AHEAD FOR SENATOR

Seems to Be Assured of Victory Over Congressman Burke, the Labor Candidate.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—With Gifford Pinchot, anti-machine candidate for Governor, steadily crawling up in the late returns on his organization opponent, Attorney General Alter, the result in the fiercest struggle of the State-wide primary yesterday was still in doubt this morning.

It is evident that the final outcome will be close, thus negativing all the early indications, which seemed to show that Pinchot had been overwhelmed by the machine by a very large plurality.

At a late hour this morning Alter was leading Pinchot by slightly more than 21,000. The indicated plurality for Alter in the cities and for Pinchot in the country showed an apparent difference of only 25,000.

Returns from 4,096 out of 7,934 in the State gave Alter 309,888 and Pinchot 288,274.

The vote from 2,593 out of 5,188 districts outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties gave Alter 112,413, Pinchot 190,135.

Thus in the two counties Alter has 197,475, while Pinchot has 99,135.

On the basis of these figures with the ratio of Pinchot's lead continuing (it has now reached 334) he will have 173,400 lead in the outside counties, while Alter with his ratio cut a little more (now 72.1) will have only 198,000 lead in the two big counties.

Returns at 2:30 A.M. showed that Pinchot was leading in sixty-four of the sixty-seven counties in the State. Alter was leading in Allegheny, Dauphin, which includes Harrisburg, Delaware, the home of Governor Sproul who supported Alter; Fayette, the home county of Senator Crow; Green and Philadelphia counties.

Returns from 1,045 districts out of 1,430 in Philadelphia gave Alter 151,346 and Pinchot 70,509. Figures from 460 districts in Allegheny County out of 1,316 gave Alter 46,129 and Pinchot 19,097.

Barely half the State has yet reported, but a significant feature of the latest figures is the way the Pinchot ratio of lead per district in the outlying counties has been going up while that of Alter in the two machine strongholds, Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties, has fallen.

When the returns from 562 outside districts were totaled, Pinchot had an average lead per district of only 15 votes. This ratio became nearly 18 when 609 districts were in, and continued to rise with even more rapidity as more country districts were heard from.

When reports were in from 1,854 outside districts, the ratio had mounted to 31.4. There was another rise to 32.9 when 2,307 outside districts were totaled.

Meanwhile the average lead of Alter per district in Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties had hung around 90 votes through the early returns, but suddenly dropped to 72¾ when the totals for 1,282 districts were recorded.

A very heavy vote was rolled up in Philadelphia as a result of the organization's activities. Reports from outside and the available returns indicate a much smaller vote relatively in the areas which the Pinchot men counted on carrying.

In the other contest in the Republican primary which excited interest, the fighting for nomination for United States Senator between George W. Pepper, the present incumbent, and Representative W. J. Burke, laborite, it would seem that Pepper is nominated.

The nomination of David A. Reed of Pittsburgh, both for the unexpired term of the late Senator Knox, the seat now filled by Senator William E. Crow, and

RUSSIANS MAY SEEK TO MEET OUR TERMS; HUGHES NOTE HAS AN EFFECT AT GENOA; INVITATION TO HAGUE MAY BE REPEATED

Japan Sees No Hope of Russia's Recovery Without Assistance of United States

GENOA, May 16 (Associated Press).—Japan's regret at the refusal of the United States to accept an invitation to participate in the Hague conference was expressed in the following statement made by Viscount Ishii:

"The Japanese delegation has received with a keen feeling of regret the news of the United States' refusal to participate in the mixed commission of The Hague. The Japanese delegates came to Genoa moved by a sincere desire to contribute to the full measure of their powers the work of repairing the damage caused by the war and to assure the maintenance of peace. Reconstruction cannot be accomplished unless Russia resumes its place in the Council of Civilized Nations and without the assistance of the United States, which alone possesses material riches and capital capable of bringing about this result.

"The debates in the Genoa conference have, unhappily, demonstrated that the conditions preliminary to fruitful co-operation between Russia and the other powers have not yet been realized. It is necessary for Russia, as well as the other countries, to create first an atmosphere which will permit the United States to participate in the work of reconstruction.

"Entirely comprehending the reasons which inspire the Government of the United States, the Japanese delegation regrets the American refusal, which will prevent the Hague conference from bearing all its fruit."

HOOVER'S FIVE STEPS TO RESTORE EUROPE

A BILLION GIVEN IN CHARITY

And $4,000,000,000 Lent Since 1918, He Tells Commerce Chamber, Denying Aloofness.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A frank statement of the position taken by the United States Government in its relations with Europe, which attracted unusual attention because of the publication today of Secretary Hughes's note declining an invitation to attend the proposed conference at The Hague, was made tonight by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in an address before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on "The Effect of the European Situation on American Business."

Mr. Hoover cited five steps which he said were fundamental to the recovery of Europe, among them the reduction of armaments, the balancing of budgets and a settlement of the German reparations problem. He contended that it would be futile for the United States to enter European conferences until definite effort was made by the nations to accomplish these ends.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Hoover emphasized the statement that since the signing of the armistice America had extended governmental and private loans to Europe to the extent of at least $4,000,000,000, and that another billion had been extended in charity. This was his answer to those who have asserted that the United States had held entirely aloof. Had this aid not been extended, Mr. Hoover said, the continent of Europe would have sunk into chaos long before this.

Mr. Hoover characterized the possibility of the United States extending further governmental loans as "the most unlikely event on the economic earth." Further assistance, he said, must come from private enterprise, and to gain this aid, Europe must first establish the soundness of her institutions.

The wonder of it all, Mr. Hoover said, was that Europe had survived the shock of the greatest of wars. The fact that the European countries had survived, he held, was proof of the virility of their institutions.

"Next to our domestic economic problems," said Mr. Hoover, "the matter uppermost in the minds of all of us must manifestly be the advance of Europe toward the degree of stability which we ourselves enjoy. The steps necessary for its attainment have been in vigorous debate for the last three years. Business men and economists the world over have long been in common agreement upon the major steps. The great debate at Genoa has again

HUGHES NOTE OPENS THE DOOR NO WIDER

Genoa View That Washington Has Modified Its Russian Stand Is Contradicted.

WILLING TO JOIN INQUIRY

But the Facts Are Considered Already Clear—Future Proposals Not Barred.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Mr. Lloyd George and others are deluding themselves if they think, as a dispatch from Genoa today indicates, that the United States Government's response of last night to the invitation of the allied powers to take part in the proposed conference on Russian affairs at The Hague paves the way for American participation.

Secretary Hughes's answer to the allied invitation has not changed the situation as far as it affects the United States. This Government stands firmly on its refusal to have dealings with Russia unless, and until, the Soviet Government at Moscow acknowledges the principles which the United States has laid down as fundamentals for the resumption of Russo-American relations.

Optimistic observers at Moscow and some people in Washington are apparently seeking to find in a paragraph of the Hughes note an assurance of a modified policy on the part of America. That paragraph said that, while the American Government believes that it is reasonably clear that Russia herself must make the changes which would justify the resumption of international relations, this Government "has always been ready to join with the Governments extending the present invitation in arranging for an inquiry by experts into the economic situation in Russia and the necessary remedies."

No Change in Washington Stand.

One interpretation sought to be placed on this paragraph is that the door is now open for American participation in an international conference to consider the Russian situation. That was a polite way of answering the invitation of the allied Governments and at the same time stressing the repeated desire of the United States to be of help to the Russian people if a means was afforded. But it does not change any essential of the American position, so frequently declared.

The United States Government would be willing to be represented in any practical conference of experts to ascertain economic conditions in Russia. It believes, however, that such a conference would be a superfluous affair, as the economic conditions in Russia are perfectly clear.

Granted that this Government should find its way open to send representatives to the proposed gathering of economic experts at The Hague, whatever promise of accomplishment would be held out in such a meeting would amount to nothing in the face of the American position that Russia must put her own house in order before the Soviet Government can hope for relations with this country.

Terms Definitely Set Forth.

The terms upon which America will deal with Soviet Russia have been set forth clearly in Secretary Hughes's notes of March, 1921, and March, 1922, his address to an organization of women who called on him this month to urge formal recognition of the Soviet Government and in Secretary Hoover's speech before the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington last night. Mr. Hoover's address was an amplified exposition of the Government's attitude as set forth in Secretary Hughes's several statements. He made plain, as Mr. Hughes has made plain, that there will be no recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States or approval of trade between Russia and America unless the Moscow authority provides guarantees of safety of life and property, the sanctity of contract and the rights of free labor.

Nothing in Secretary Hughes's note of last night to the allied powers changes

RUSSIANS DELAY ANSWER

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENOA, May 16.—The American declination of the invitation to take part in the proposed Hague conference with the Russians fell like a bucket of cold water on Genoa today. All the Italian newspapers this morning carried scare headlines announcing American acceptance, and there was high hope in the English-Italian camp. The effect can be imagined when at noon Ambassador Child delivered to the Secretary General, Washington's reply.

According to the Italian newspapers, Mr. Child saw Senator Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, last night, and told him Ambassador Harvey's note to the invitation under two conditions—first, that no separate agreement be made during the conference, and, second, that The Hague decision be not final, the last word being left to the Governments. The Hague plan fulfilled both of these conditions.

Late in the evening the Italian publicity bureau had summoned the Italian journalists and announced that American acceptance could be taken for assured.

Child Says He Was Misquoted.

It is true that Mr. Child saw Signor Schanzer last night. The American Ambassador's version of what he said was that the two conditions mentioned were conditions without which America could not accept. He denies absolutely that he told any one America would surely accept.

Of course Mr. Child is very much worried over the mix-up and feels deep resentment at the accusation in tonight's Italian papers that he has been playing double. Mr. Child has taken great interest in the conference and followed it closely. He has had frequent conversations with the leading statesmen and with the best intentions has often gone deep into the issues at Genoa. Although it appears to some experienced observers that the Ambassador has somewhat exceeded the pre-requisites of that peculiarly American person the "unofficial observer," they think it may well be that in so doing he was following his instructions.

The American note was considered informally by many delegations today and will probably be discussed at a meeting of the political commission tomorrow. It is altogether likely that there will be a reply, but what this reply will be is not yet clear.

I learn tonight that the Russians are considering trying to make their proposals meet the American conditions, as they are conceived in a very vague way. According to M. Tchitcherin, there are two things for the Russians to do—one is to try and get the Americans in and the other is to shuck the whole thing. They were expected to reply tomorrow to Mr. Lloyd George's proposal, and this morning, before knowing about the American note, asked twenty-four hours in which to answer. The American note changes everything.

If the Russians show a disposition to meet the American terms, then the powers will endeavor to write a note repeating the invitation to a somewhat changed conference.

English Disappointed, French Pleased.

The Hughes note is recognized as being in keeping with the American attitude toward the Soviet. Of course it worries the English. Mr. Lloyd George hoping to make The Hague project an alibi for the failure at Genoa. On the other hand, it pleases the French greatly, who point to the fact that the Americans agree with them and the Belgians that, as long as the Russians act as they have at Genoa, it would be a waste of time to negotiate with them.

Mr. Hughes's note is held to be basically sound when it says that The Hague conference would confront the same difficulties and the same issues as Genoa. That is true beyond the slightest doubt. When he says that the conditions of Russia's restoration are productivity and life in Russia itself he chimes in with the French point of view, which is that under the present Russian conception of property and of the rights of individuals outside aid will not go to Russia nor can the Russians redeem themselves.

In suggesting a commission to study conditions in Russia he bumps against the fact that the League of Nations two years ago and the Allies one year ago and the powers here at Genoa made the same suggestion, which was turned down by the Russians. It seems, it is pointed out, that the weakest point in the Hughes note is his hailing the American decision on the Russian note of May 11. No Russian note represents intangible principles. The Russians on

250 Policemen in Fifth Av. Burglar Hunt Halt Traffic on 4 Streets as 5,000 Look On

One hundred detectives and 150 policemen for more than ten hours last night held a cordon around the block at Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Nineteenth and Twentieth Streets and searched lofts, roofs and yards in quest of three loft burglars who detectives had trailed to one of the buildings.

The hunt began shortly after 5 P. M. At 2 o'clock this morning detectives under Acting Captain John Stapleton of the Safe and Loft Squad, who trailed the thieves, had recovered a complete set of burglar tools in the building at the southwest corner of Broadway and Twentieth Street and were still combing the block with squads of detectives and policemen in search of the suspects.

With the arrival of the detectives and policemen in cars and patrol wagons, a crowd of 5,000 persons gathered behind the cordon of bluecoats thrown around the block. Stapleton formed squads of the remaining policemen and detectives, and a systematic search was made of each building. Most of the occupants of the lofts had left for the day and were called back by telephone when the police sought to enter their establishments in search of the thieves.

At 1:30 A. M. the police discovered a hole bored through the brick wall on the fourth floor of 10 East Twentieth Street to the establishment of G. M. Thurneur & Co., manufacturers, next door. The police said the robbers evidently had bored the hole earlier in the day.

As police actually engaged in the man hunt used acetylene torches, adding a spectacular touch to the scene. Acting Captain Stapleton announced that every inch of space in the entire block of buildings would be searched for the criminals before the hunt was abandoned.

President's Views on Bonus Unchanged, Announcement From White House Asserts

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Harding's attitude on the soldiers' bonus remains exactly as he expressed it in his letter to Chairman Fordney of the House Committee on Ways and Means several weeks ago. In that letter the President suggested a sales tax as the method of financing the obligation, or the postponement of the legislation until the country was in a better position to shoulder the added tax burden. This was the official word that came from the White House this afternoon.

The news that the President had let it be known that his position remains unchanged was received with a show of surprise by Administration leaders in Congress. Despite the repeated White House announcements, the Republican bonus advocates in the Senate and House continue to assert that they are hopeful the President will agree to a compromise that will make possible the passage of some sort of a bonus bill.

In the tariff debate in the Senate Senator Williams of Mississippi, who is against the bonus in any form, referred to the condition of the Treasury and expressed his doubt as to whether or not President Harding would veto any bonus bill that Congress might pass.

"We cannot balance our budget even this year," said Senator Williams, "and a bonus is threatening us. Everybody who calls himself a veteran is demanding a bonus and wants to collect in cash. As matters stand, we won't balance the budget this year or next, or for twenty years to come, unless we tax the people almost to death.

"Now here we are in this bad fix in the Treasury. It is going to get worse, too, because, just as sure as fate, if a cash bonus bill comes before these two Houses of the national Legislature, composed as they are of men of ordinary weaknesses and of political ambitions, it is going to pass, and the President will have to have the courage to veto it if it does not become a law. I shall not say beforehand that he will not have the courage, because he may have it. I do not know; but it will be an immense strain upon a purely political conscience to expect him to do it, and I rather imagine he will not."

May 31 had consented to withdraw their claims for damages and had agreed to recognize pre-war debts. They did that through hopes of a loan. When they could not get their conditions fulfilled they fell back on their principles as expressed in the note to which Mr. Hughes objects. The Bolshevist principles are for sale. They have been for sale at the price of a loan since Genoa started. It is suggested here that Mr. Hughes has taken the note of May 11 too seriously.

His declaration that Washington will still welcome any suggestions from Genoa will form the basis of repeated invitations to America.

Whatever wording may be given to an invitation one thing seems certain, so long as there are conferences with the present gang of Moscow the same wordy propaganda arguments and the same fighting for anti-capitalistic principles will have to be met, and any agreement will have to be paid for with gold or its equivalent.

At this morning's meeting of the political commission of the powers, a proposal was laid before the Russians. M. Tchitcherin asked a series of questions.

He wanted to know why Germany was excluded. Mr. Lloyd George replied it was because Germany had made her treaty with Russia. M. Tchitcherin then asked whether Poland, which has a separate treaty (that of Riga), with the Russians, would be excluded. He was told no. M. Tchitcherin observed it was apparent that Germany was being excluded as a punishment for the Rapallo treaty. There was no reply.

The Russian chief next objected to the term "debts" in the plan and wanted it made "credits." This was refused.

He wanted to know if Russia would get a loan or de jure recognition, or both, at The Hague. Mr. Lloyd George told him to wait and see.

M. Tchitcherin thereupon objected to The Hague on the ground that Holland did not like the Bolshevist. Mr. Lloyd George replied that if necessary the conference would try to find a country which did like them.

Russo-Japanese Clash.

Then ensued an incident between the Russians and Japanese over the Siberian situation which led Mr. Lloyd George to plead that the European truce be applied to the conference table at Genoa.

It started about a proposed truce on the basis of de facto frontiers. M. Tchitcherin wanted to know what was the frontier in Eastern Siberia. Viscount Ishii replied that de facto was from the Latin and meant frontiers controlled by the powers in Siberia today.

This angered M. Tchitcherin, who started a harangue against the Japanese. Viscount Ishii replied that the Soviet recognized that the Chita republic ran Siberia, and therefore, Chita not having been invited to Genoa, the question under discussion was out of place. But he could not resist the opportunity to pay his respects to the Bolsheviki, which he did at length.

The dispute really became heated when, in response to Viscount Ishii's statement that the Bolsheviki had massacred Japanese soldiers, M. Tchitcherin said that if the Japanese soldiers had not been in Siberia they would not have met their fate there. He revealed that in the Dairen negotiations the Japanese had demanded the annexation of Northern Sakhalin as the price for withdrawal from Siberia and had also demanded that before they got out of Vladivostok there be neutralization of that district. He said the Japanese had been guilty of most reprehensible conduct in Siberia.

Viscount Ishii retorted that those negotiations had been with the Far Eastern Republic and not the Moscow Government. The Russian chief replied that he represented the Far Eastern Republic. Ishii said he did not believe it. Tchitcherin replied that if anybody attacked any allied Soviet republic he was treading on Moscow's toes and would find out about it.

Mere Premier Facta tried to stop the debate, in which both men were plainly angry.

Ishii, however, insisted on talking. Although only yesterday he announced that Japan had begun with Moscow negotiations looking to withdrawal from Siberia, he proceeded to "bawl out" the Bolsheviki. His vigor caused some surprise among the diplomats who know him for a quiet man.

He declared that the Far Eastern Republic not having been invited to Genoa no one had a right to speak in its name in order to say nasty things about the Japanese. But the Japanese were not afraid of the issue, and indeed it gave him pleasure to point out what he thought of the Soviets. Japanese troops could not withdraw honorably because they owed that protection to Japanese nationals which the Soviets had not yet given. He told about Nikolaievsk in 1920—how the Japanese had been massacred, their flag trampled on and even a picture of the Emperor defiled by Bolsheviki. After such doings the Japanese did not intend to be precipitate about getting out of Siberia. They would when things were run decently, but they wanted to "be shown."

As for Tchitcherin's fears about Japanese aggression, he could assure the whole world that unless the Russians started something there would be no fight in Siberia.

Tchitcherin replied that all Ishii had said was grossly exaggerated, that Japanese were at fault and that trouble was sure if they tried to force the Chita Republic to accept their terms.

At the conclusion of the meeting M. Tchitcherin asked twenty-four hours in which to reply.

French Want Conference Ended.

This afternoon the convening powers held a meeting at Mr. Lloyd George's villa. The American note had evidently incited the French to try and wind up the conference quickly before it could look like less of a failure. Mr. Lloyd George agreed that questions like Gratz and Vilna would not be taken up here and then there was a discussion of the program of the remainder of the Genoa meeting.

M. Barthou said the French Parliament demanded his presence on Tuesday, and he proposed that the Russians be made to answer yes or no tomorrow, and that the conference be ended Thursday. Mr. Lloyd George thought the Russians deserved more time. M. Barthou then asked for a final session on Friday. Signor Schanzer objected that the Italians were too superstitious to permit of a meeting on Friday, and then M. Barthou insisted on Saturday. The English said tonight the final session would be either Saturday or Monday.

The chief talk tonight is about the American note. The English are gloomy and the Russians worried. The Germans are platonically sorry, but the French are in good humor. They feel they have America again at their side and thus have overcome the bad political effects of the Washington conference on Franco-American relations. This may rank as a great achievement.

Very few really expect that any reasonable proposals to which the Russians could agree would win American acceptance by The Hague plan. The French say frankly that the American note has killed the whole Hague project.

HUGHES SURPRISES LONDON.

Impression There Was America Would Join Hague Meeting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 17.—The decision of the United States not to take part in The Hague Conference has caused surprise here. Newspaper dispatches from the United States in the last few days have conveyed the impression that the Administration was coming round to the idea that absolute aloofness from Horounan affairs was a mistake. And some of the Washington messages last night were quite definite in their statement that America would accept an invitation to The Hague.

The Star points out that Mr. Child, the United States Ambassador to Italy, gave Premier Lloyd George to understand that Washington was likely to take part in the adjourned conference if she were invited. It adds: "Apparently intention of the American Government was changed as a result of the debate in the Senate when Senator Borah strongly opposed participation by the United States. He declared that the aid of the United States was not needed and ascribed the illness of Europe to the Treaty of Versailles."

The Evening Standard says:

"Hopes were entertained in Downing Street of America's acceptance, especially as it was pointed out that the Prime Minister has maintained close contact with prominent Americans who were present unofficially at Genoa and from whom he is believed to have received certain assurances, equally unofficial, which led to the invitation being sent."

It is, however, recognised that Washington's decision was in accordance with its consistent attitude since the Treaty of Versailles.

The Evening News, in accordance with Lord Northcliffe's opposition to the policy of the Genoa conference, says:

"We shall not solve the Russian problem by changing the words Genoa conference to Hague conference. That problem can be solved in only one place by one Government. The place is Russia and the Government is the Russian Government."

After quoting part of the message of Mr. Hughes, "the clear-headed American Secretary of State," The News adds:

"The present American refusal is a definite blow to The Hague conference on Russian affairs. But those who invited America to go there could hardly have expected America to change her opinion while the Bolsheviki have not changed their policy. Russia can have no credits until her Government establishes sound law and gives guarantees.

"Mr. Hughes's note will be regarded with approval in this country and it says to Moscow all that need be said or can be said at this moment."

The Daily Telegraph says:

"With America absent and with France and Belgium reluctant the Soviet representatives must see that they are in no position to impose conditions, and in these circumstances Tchitcherin's attitude to The Hague commission is simply 'not business.' The Bolshevist leaders, however, have the matter largely in their own hands. They have another opportunity of showing themselves moderate and reasonable and so helping to bring about an accommodation even at the eleventh hour.

"If they are teachable at all, Mr. Hughes's note may have some effect upon them since it will bring home to them that help for Russia will not come from America till Russia has made a genuine effort to restore those bourgeois sanctions of legality and morality which her present masters repudiate."

The London Times says:

"Mr. Hughes goes straight to the root of the whole problem of Russian recuperation. Restoration of productivity is 'the inescapable and ultimate question.' The essential conditions of this restoration are still to be secured and it is Russia herself who must provide them.

"America has always believed these conditions to be clear. They have been indicated with authority and with sufficient precision by American statesmen from the early days of the Russian revolution onwards. Mr. Hughes himself set them out in his vigorous reply to the Bolshevist Government of March in last year. The safety of life, recognition of private property, sanctity of contracts and the rights of free labor are among them.

"Mr. Hughes declared then that until the United States Government has evidence that these conditions have been actually fulfilled it could not see any proper basis for considering trade relations. That is the common sense doctrine which we ourselves have always upheld."

The Westminster Gazette in an editorial headed "The Wisdom of America," says:

"For perfectly intelligible reasons the American Government declined to send a delegation to Genoa even before it knew what a beer garden the Genoa conference was to be, and that it should have changed its mind on the question of European entanglements after what it has seen during the last few weeks, is almost inconceivable.

"Naturally, we regret the American attitude. Many people on this side of the Atlantic are inclined, we think, to exaggerate intrinsic importance of American participation in the re-settlement of Europe. It is not, and never was, either necessary or at all practicable that America should continue to play a leading part in the politics of Europe. But from the British point of view her presence at Genoa or The Hague or at any other European conference would be exceedingly welcome since it would give overwhelming moral preponderance to that broad policy of peace and international economic co-operation for which Britain stands.

"Clearly, however, we cannot blame America for holding aloof, and it is not certain that in the long run her abstention may not turn out to have been the wisest policy from our own point of view as well as from hers. For what the Genoa conference seems to have proved is that for the present at any rate the ideal of international co-operation is not realizable in Europe.

"The real problem which Britain has to face as a result of the Genoa fiasco is whether or not to follow the example of the United States and run loose from all political entanglements in Europe."

The Daily Mail says all Lloyd George's efforts at Genoa have been directed to secure recognition by the Allies of the tyranny of brute force which exists in Russia and that these have failed owing to the determined resistance of France and Belgium. It adds:

"The American note—refusing any participation in the projected conference at The Hague is of great importance as showing that the United States in this matter stands at France and Belgium."

LEAGUE ASKS GENOA TO ACT ON FAMINE

OPIUM REPORT ADOPTED

M. Hymans Points Out America's Large Share in Traffic League Will Attempt to Break Up.

GENEVA, May 16 (Associated Press).—The Council of the League of Nations refused today to take up the Russian problem, and referred to the Genoa conference the Norwegian Government's request for an immediate inquiry by the League into the general situation in Russia and the effect of the famine on economic reconstruction in Europe.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who presented the Norwegian Government's request, and who is the League's high commissioner for Russian relief, fought hard to prevent the question going to Genoa. He said handing it to Genoa was equivalent to burying it.

Marquis Imperiali of Italy protested against this, saying he was confident the conference at Genoa would give the question fullest consideration.

Dr. Nansen, however, insisted that the Genoa conference was about to break up without, according to the press reports, having solved the Russian problem.

Dr. Nansen insisted that a permanent body should not refer such a vital problem to a temporary organization like Genoa, adding that the members of the council would have failed in their first duty to their Governments if they refused to act in this matter. All the members of the council, however, supported Lord Balfour's resolution passing the question on to Genoa, but only after the council agreed to reconsider it if it should be buried at Genoa. Dr. Nansen accepted this compromise resolution.

"The council, having heard a discussion on the economic consequences and the spread of disease as a result of the famine, desires to recommend to the Genoa conference or some commission growing out of the Genoa conference that all available information be co-ordinated on the effect which the famine must have on European reconstruction."

Dr. Nansen praised the work of the American Relief Administration in Russia, and said the Americans were now feeding nearly 5,000,000 people. But he declared all the relief organizations in Russia could not expect to overcome the famine, which probably would be just as bad next year, since the sowing of next years' crops would be only 20 per cent. of the pre-war acreage.

The United States is one of the largest morphine manufacturing and exporting countries in the world, Paul Hymans, Chairman of the Council of the League of Nations Commission on Opium, told the members of his commission this afternoon. M. Hymans was discussing recommendations made at the recent meeting of the League's consultative commission on the opium traffic.

The Council of the League unanimously approved the report of the recent meeting, at which Mrs. Wright of Washington, D. C., represented the United States. The report, which has already been published, calls for a series of measures for control of the traffic and later for limitation of production of opium to needs for medical purposes.

M. Hymans declared opium was finding its way to natives of countries where the drug heretofore was unknown. He said the commission was determined, if possible, also to stamp out the use of cocaine.

Pressure from Zionists in all parts of the world has led the Council of the League of Nations to reconsider its decision not to take up the Palestine mandate at its present session, and the question of placing it on the agenda will be discussed at tomorrow's meeting.

It is still regarded as highly improbable, however, that any action looking to confirmation of the British mandate will be taken at this session, because of the opposition from French and Italian quarters.

The Zionist representatives here are pressing for a decision, and say a delay of another three months will mean just that much time lost in establishing the Jewish national home.

GERMANY, TOO, IS SORRY.

Our Refusal Held to Condemn Hague Meeting to Futility.

By CYRIL BROWN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 16.—There is consternation here over America's refusal to participate in The Hague conference. "Is The Hague conference endangered?" is a headline in this evening's National Gazette, reflecting the latest turn of German public opinion.

Almost the entire Berlin press features the headline, "America Won't Go to The Hague." Therefore, in the view of most Germans The Hague conference is doomed in advance to futility. The shock of rejection is the more severe because illusory hopes of America's participation had been raised, chiefly by an alleged statement of Ambassador Child that America would give The Hague invitation sympathetic consideration.

German feeling is becoming stronger that Germany gained nothing material at Genoa, and financial circles tonight viewed The Hague conference with the utmost distrust, as it was argued that neither Germany nor Russia would be treated on a basis of equality, but would find themselves face to face with take-it-or-leave-it propositions previously formulated and agreed on by a conference of the powers.

A more optimistic note is sounded about the reparations negotiations in Paris and the possibility of an international loan for Germany. The feeling gains ground that May 31, by which date Germany is called on to agree to the Reparations Commission's peremptory demands, will pass without "unpleasantness" and without Germany having submitted anything.

Teuton interest today is almost absorbed by J. P. Morgan's trip, which looks like business, and very big business, to the Germans. "Morgan would not come to Europe to discuss the loan and reparation questions for nothing," is a frequently expressed sentiment. After May 31 the Germans look with confidence for the improvement of the mark.

The German delegation is expected back from Genoa at the end of the week, and the return of Chancellor Wirth and Dr. Rathenau will be the signal for a resumption of politics now in a state of suspended animation. A meeting of the National Economic Council has been called for tomorrow to hear a full report on Genoa. The Government spokesman may expect a grilling about the Rapallo Treaty, concerning which there is considerable criticism.

The conclusions of the majority include:

"First—Such political relations between the States in Europe themselves as will produce an atmosphere of peace and destroy the atmosphere of war.

"Second—The reduction of armament, not only to lessen Government expenditure, but to give confidence of peace.

"Third—The inter-governmental debts, including German reparations, to be fixed upon such a definite basis of payment of interest and principal as will create reasonable confidence that payments will be met.

"Fourth—The balancing of budgets more through the reduction of expenditure than the increase in taxation, and a cessation of the consequent inflation in currency and short-time bills.

"Fourth—The ultimate establishment of the gold standard with the assistance of either credits or gold loans, and where necessary, the acceptance of diminished gold content in many old units of currency."

Might Bring Speedy Change.

"There are many less important steps, but they become easy and certain when these major issues are accomplished. If these measures could be accomplished tomorrow, the stream of commerce and industry would rush economic recovery at a pace which would amaze the world.

"It is easy to lay down principles and measures. It is, indeed, of value that this should be done. But the attainment of such measures would imply much realignment of political and economic relations.

"These things are not to be accomplished in days or months. So long as they are not accomplished progress will be slow. For these are not economic theories; they are inexorable principles of economic hygiene, disregard of which brings a continued harvest of human misery and danger. And until their accomplishment is in sure progress our citizens must guide their business with caution in relation to the nations who are as yet unable to make these steps.

"I am not one who believes that civilization will crash because these matters have been delayed by some nations in the multitude of passions and almost insolvable difficulties they confront as the aftermath of the greatest of wars. We are now more than three years from the armistice and despite the failure to secure universal economic hygiene, the combatant States upon the continent, except Russia, have made very definite progress in these directions. The very fact that these States have survived at all is proof of the virility of their institutions.

Burdens Abroad Recall Here.

"Our people have a deep solicitude for Europe's prosperity and a sympathy for her difficulties, which are comparatively so much greater than our own. Our interest extends far beyond considerations of purely economic interest. Her burdens, indeed, do react on our employment and the difficulties of our farmers and of our merchants.

"In arguments of some European business men and economists, however, there is a tendency to over-estimate our economic dependence upon Europe and there is sometimes a tendency to place too highly the ward responsibility as applied to the United States. Our economic program is to some extent freeing itself from dependence upon the international situation as witness our recovery from the world depression, and we have first to keep America strong if we would be of assistance to anybody.

"We have, indeed, poured out resources into the assistance of Europe ever since the war was on to a total of probably more than four billions of dollars of Governmental and private loans, with an addition of over a billion of charity. If we had not done so, the continent would have sunk into chaos long before this. It is not our desire to dictate but to co-operate in every way that is possible, practicable, and that will be effective.

Looks for Productive Purposes.

"When we come to the problems of further economic assistance, we must deal with very realistic questions. First, the most unlikely event on the economic earth is that the United States will, as a Government, again engage in any Governmental loans, and, second, as financial assistance must arise from our private investors, then in order that great investors confidence must be maintained in the progress toward peace and economic stability in that nation which wishes assistance from our people.

"There are some matters in the lending of private capital that are of concern to the nation as a whole. For instance, it is essential that these loans should be confined to reproductive purposes. All loans to foreign nations which are not employed for reproductive work are a restriction of the capital.

"The furnishing of raw materials, the construction of transportation facilities, public utilities, factories and production throughout the world is a use for American capital that blesses both the borrower and the lender. The upbuilding of the rest of the world and its consuming power adds primarily to world well-being, but it also adds to the future demands for our own labor, the products of our own farmers and the services of our own merchants.

"But loans that are dissipated either directly or indirectly in military expenditures or in unbalanced budgets, in bolstering up of inflated currencies, are a double loss to the world. They are not only a loss in that they add nothing to increased productivity, but they are a loss in that they entail the postponement of those measures which are vital for the economic rehabilitation of the world."

Howard Predicts Soviet's End.

James R. Howard, President of the American Farm Bureau, discussed the effect of the European situation on American agriculture. He predicted that "sooner or later Russia's experiment in Sovietism will end and her reconstruction begin." That reconstruction, he added, would be largely agricultural. He touched upon the tariff situation, saying:

"The agricultural interests of the country will not be best served by tariff walls so high as to become artificial barriers to the freest possible exchange of commodities. It is only as Europe can sell to us that she will be able to absorb our agricultural surpluses. The tariff should be no longer considered a political football, with that element which can talk loudest and longest before Congressional committees securing the vociferous ear. The time has come when it should be considered a highly technical and economic science and have an administration sufficiently flexible to meet rapidly changing conditions of production, distribution and conversion costs.

"There are three great things which if accomplished in Europe would assist greatly American agriculture, viz., the balancing of European budgets, the final setting of German reparations, and the stabilization of exchange. The three are somewhat inter-related."

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was opened today by Joseph H. Defrees, President of the Chamber, who reviewed the growth of the organization and dwelt at length on European business conditions. Arthur Balfour of Sheffield, Vice President of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, told of economic and business conditions abroad.

Mr. Defrees said that although business conditions were on the mend in this country, the improvement throughout the world, and particularly in Europe, since the war had "not been sufficient to justify optimism as to the future."

"In England," Mr. Balfour said, "and in some other countries, we have seen the worst. We are reaching economic conditions where trade on a proper basis will again be possible, and I am very hopeful that before the end of the year trade will begin to flow in its normal channels. But it is imperative that you and we, the great American people of the world, should stand together, work together, with the greatest possible harmony for the reconstruction of Europe."

Work Commends Chambers.

Postmaster General Work said that as organization was the keynote of the world's business today the Chambers of Commerce typified the greatest advance in that direction yet reached in perfecting the economic production and distribution of natural resources.

Mr. R. Coyle, President of the Wholesale Coal Association, advanced a novel idea at one of the meetings for a solution of the coal problem as it affects the consumer. He suggested the organization of a complete production and distribution institution with local dealers in all cities listed as partners in the enterprise. Such a central agency, he said, should buy an interest in the local dealers' plants and sell the dealer an interest in the production of the material they would merchandise.

Industrial waste by fire during the last year involved the loss of 10,000 lives and property damage of $500,000,000, 80 per cent. of which was preventable, W. H. Merrill, President of the Underwriters' Laboratories of Chicago, said in an address before the insurance group meeting.

In the afternoon the delegates in a body attended the laying of the cornerstone for a new home for the chamber. Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, delivered the principal address.

FAIL TO FIND POISON PIE AND BLAME POLICE

Health Department Officials Say No Report of Illness Was Made to Them.

Because of the alleged negligence of the police, the Board of Health may never learn the specific cause of more than a dozen persons being attacked with ptomaine poisoning on Monday, Ola Saithe, Director of Food and Drugs of the Health Department, indicated yesterday.

The negligence, said Mr. Saithe, lay in the failure of the police to inform the Board of Health of the ptomaine cases. A section in the Sanitary Code, he pointed out, makes it obligatory for all persons handling food poisoning cases to notify the health authorities immediately.

Because of the failure of the police and the hospital physicians to comply with this provision, inspectors of the Health Department are finding it difficult to obtain a piece of cream pie, which is believed to have caused the ptomaine attacks. The restaurants which served the pies have none left, and the baker himself had none of Monday's baking in his establishment when an inspector called yesterday.

All the young women who suffered from the poisoning on Monday were recovering, and several had returned to work.

WANTS STADIUM INQUIRY.

Hulbert Says Fees Are Being Charged to Games at City College.

Following his complaint to the Board of Estimate that the stadium of City College was being rented to semi-professional baseball teams on certain days and that a fee was required for entrance, President Murray Hulbert of the Board of Aldermen announced yesterday that he had requested Mayor Hylan to direct Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield to make an investigation. The Aldermanic President also said he had heard that if an entrance fee was not charged "the hat was passed around" for money collections.

"As a member of the Board of Governors of the Amateur Athletic Union," said Mr. Hulbert, "I don't think that passing the hat should be permitted in a public park or a public playground."

FRANCE MAY REFUSE TO GO TO HAGUE

Opposes Discussion of Political Questions and Further Haggling With Soviet.

PARIS, May 16 (Associated Press).—The declination of the American Government to participate in the conference of experts at The Hague on the Russian question is attributed in official circles here to the ambiguity of the memorandum setting forth the agenda of the conference, which in French opinion may be interpreted so as to permit the discussion of political questions.

Unless conditions are laid down so as to avoid this danger, there is little likelihood, it was declared, that France will be represented at The Hague.

"An event of capital importance" is the Temps' characterization of what it terms the "just refusal" of America to participate in the proposed Hague conference. The editorial approves unreservedly the American decision and the grounds on which it was based, saying the proposed conference would become a second haggle with the Soviet representatives and that the Government of the United States was convinced nothing useful could be done in Russia while the present régime existed.

In the Liberté, Jaques Bainville comments similarly, declaring the American reasons for abstention are just, and that the refusal constitutes a sharp check for Mr. Lloyd George and a death blow to his great idea.

GERMANY PAYS ON TIME.

Last Instalment of 50,000,000 Marks Deposited in Brussels.

BRUSSELS, May 16.—The German Government yesterday deposited with the Belgian Treasury the final payment of 50,000,000 gold marks under the provisional moratorium granted by the Reparation Commission.

Government measure carried against the Government is, of course, a serious matter. Although there is no reason to suppose in the present instance the Government will take the most serious view of the incident, it was decided tonight that the Cabinet should meet tomorrow morning to consider their action, and a statement will be made in the House of Commons this [Wednesday] afternoon by Mr. Chamberlain. I believe the course the Government is likely to adopt is to bring in a supplementary estimate for the amount of the 5 per cent. contribution which it was hoped to obtain from the teachers toward pensions, and if the House of Commons grants this estimate the bill will be voted forward on a non-contributory basis."

It appears, therefore, that tonight's vote will have no direct effect on the life of the Government, but it is one of those incidents which occur in British parliamentary life, when a Government still firmly seated in office finds its power beginning to wane.

this position in any way. While officials said today that the note was perfectly clear and that they did not care to gloss it, and that if interpretations were attempted by them confusion was likely to arise, it can be stated in the most emphatic way that the only hope Russia and the allied powers may entertain of American participation in any international conference dealing with Russia is dependent upon Soviet recognition of the principles mentioned.

Statement of American Attitude.

The following may be accepted as an accurate statement of the Government's position:

The economic situation in Russia is perfectly clear. It has been set forth in Secretary Hughes's several diplomatic notes and the address of Secretary Hoover in Washington last night. The report crediting Mr. Lloyd George with believing that Mr. Hughes's note of yesterday might open the door for further negotiations with the United States does not involve any change in the American attitude. The Hughes note does not open a new door, but merely points to a door which has been open all the time.

This Government has no objection to an economic inquiry by the powers. If the powers believe that there are facts concerning Russian economic conditions which should be ascertained, the United States will be willing at all times, as it has in the past, to join in such an inquiry. This Government believes that the economic facts concerning Russia are perfectly clear, but if other nations desire further information this Government has no objection to having them obtain it.

But, dovetailing with this position of the United States is a fact which the Harding Administration did not lose sight of in determining the scope and character of its answer to the allied invitation to a fact-finding conference of economic experts at The Hague. This fact is that in their note of May 11, replying to the allied communication proposing terms for Russia to accept, the Russian emissaries at Genoa set up what this Government construes as a barrier to any real consideration of the Russian situation. Whether this is a permanent barrier, officials in Washington acknowledge that they do not know. The barrier is found in the adherence of the Soviet representatives to their communistic doctrines, which this Government has declined to sanction by any relationship with the Moscow authority.

Proposal Considered Futile.

This Government, it was indicated today, does not desire to do anything that will make the situation of the allied powers and the Soviet Government more difficult, but it is clear that the suggestion that the United States should enter another conference concerning Russia, which presents the same conditions as confronted the Genoa conference, with the same Russian barrier to American participation, does not appeal to those who determine the policies of the United States. Such a conference, they believe, would be certain to fail.

Of course, it was pointed out today, this Government would give the most serious consideration to a proposal for a real scientific inquiry and the remedies that should be applied from a study of it. The Government, it was emphasized, is not shutting its eyes and is not refusing to consider the situation, but the Russian reply of May 11 to the allied envoys at Genoa laid down impossible and inescapable conditions. In this situation it is futile to expect helpful conditions to arise from another conference concerning the Russian situation.

All of which means that the American reply of last night to the allied invitation, while it leaves this Government free to act as it deems best, is in reality a reiteration of the American doctrine that until Russia puts her house in order, she is not worthy of any recognition from the United States. The door has been open all the time to a resumption of relations between Russia and the United States, but it is useless for Russia or the powers to expect the Washington Government to ask Russia to enter that door unless the fundamental principles laid down by the Harding Administration are accepted by the Soviet authority at Moscow.

Open to Further Negotiations.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (Associated Press).—There were intimations today that administration officials expected early developments in Genoa or perhaps later at The Hague which might clarify the Russian situation sufficiently to permit American participation in some international project designed to restore Russia to productivity. On what information that feeling might be based was not indicated. It was evident, however, that the exchange of cabled notes with the Genoa conference group yesterday was regarded as having moved matters at least a step forward so far as Russia is concerned.

The only authorized statement going beyond the terms of Secretary Hughes's note declining the invitation to The Hague was obtained during the day at the White House, that the note did not close the door to future conversations on the subject. In the light of that statement Mr. Hughes' assertion in the note to Genoa of the willingness of the United States Government "to give serious attention to any proposals issuing from the Genoa conference or any later conference," took on added significance.

The Sport of Kings!

On its own merits Flor de Murias is happily described as the "King of Havanas—Made in Tampa." Quite right, too, for we speak of a brand of cigars; and if there is really a "sport of kings," it is smoking, not horse racing. The whole world smokes and kings follow the lead. "King of Havanas—Made in Tampa" seems to sum up the story of Flor de Murias. Why? Flor de Murias is a reigning monarch in the kingdom of quality—a "monarch of all he surveys."

INK!

IN effect, the Dunn-Pen is simply a writing ink-bottle. Because it has no rubber sac to reduce its capacity, it carries ink concealed in the uttermost limits of its person. Even the plunger of the Little Red Pump-Handle is hollow, thus increasing the reservoir space.

—It holds several times more ink than any other self-filler of the same size.

—It has no seams to leak or springs to break.

—It never floods, clogs, sputters or stutters.

BIGGEST LINER HERE WITH WORLD RECORD

Majestic Docks at White Star Pier After Maiden Voyage of 5½ Days.

HUGE BUT EASY TO HANDLE

Completing its maiden voyage from Southampton in 5 days 14 hours and 45 minutes, the Majestic of the White Star line, the world's largest ship, steamed up New York harbor yesterday afternoon and received from smaller craft the tribute due to a new monarch of the seas. Sirens blew and flags dipped as the 56,000 ton liner, majestic in appearance as well as name, passed by on the way to its pier, the longest in port. From the Battery to the White Star piers at the foot of Twenty-third Street, thousands waved from office windows and wharfs. Overhead aeromarine planes encircled and acted as an aerial escort.

Apart from the size of the Majestic, the manoeuvreability of the steamer won the greatest admiration from observers. Under the command of Captain Sir Bertram Hayes, with Pilot A. H. Peterson, the ship accomplished a feat seldom attempted by large steamers, namely, turning around in the Narrows after weighing anchor at the conclusion of the Quarantine examination. Usually vessels proceed out to Gravesend Bay where there is plenty of room to negotiate a sweeping turn around. But the Majestic, as if on a pivot, with only one tug assisting, swung around in the half-mile wide Narrows and started upstream.

One hour and fifteen minutes after weighing anchor the Majestic had warped into her pier and the gangplank was down. The actual docking, which means the time the beam was off the pier end until the vessel was tied up, required only twenty-five minutes.

Ten Tugs Puff Away at Giant.

A favorable tide made the berthing of the ship a comparatively easy task. Ten tugs, dwarfs pitting their strength against a giant, puffed away in turning the Majestic into the pier slip. Just as the Majestic was ranging alongside the pier to a position behind the pier head shed as close as possible, the nose of the vessel crashed into the corrugated side of the shed. The impact, though the Majestic was scarcely moving, tore away about fifteen feet of the outer covering of the shed. The damage, according to officials, amounted only to a few hundred dollars.

Moored several feet from the shore bulkhead, the stern of the ship projected forty-one feet into the Hudson beyond the solid pier which is 925 feet long. Scows were placed at the stern to protect the quadruple screws. At night red lights will be hung to warn river craft to keep clear.

The official average speed reported during the trip was 22.69 knots an hour, but it was said unofficially that the Majestic at times plowed through the seas at the rate of 25 knots. It was suggested by shipping men that the Majestic bids fair to be a contender with the Cunarder Mauretania for the speed record across the Atlantic. The Mauretania made a trip in four days ten hours and forty-one minutes.

"We just let the Majestic loaf along; there was no attempt to push her," said Captain Sir Bertram Hayes, who in addition Commodore of the White Star fleet of steamers, "she handles well and we experienced no trouble on the way over. We are after no speed records. Our job is to carry passengers safely across the Atlantic."

Harold A. Sanderson, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, the corporate name of the White Star Line, who was a passenger, said the performance of the Majestic on the maiden voyage was highly satisfactory.

"The ship can steam twenty-five knots easily; how much more we do not know nor do we intend to find out for the present," he said. "There will be no attempt to push the vessel."

Full Power Not Used.

Officials of the Belfast Ship Works said that the full power of the boilers was not used. One said that great care had to be used in handling the ship on the initial trip because should any trouble develop there was no accessible drydock in either the United States or England where an examination could be made.

Just as the Majestic was arriving at Quarantine, the Mauretania and Reliance were leaving for Europe. While their flags dipped to the new boat, passengers lined the rail and waved to those aboard the Majestic.

The Majestic is 956 feet long and has a beam of 100 feet. Her depth from bridge to keel is 102 feet. With nine decks, above which project four superstructure decks, the giant vessel presented a trim appearance which won favorable comment. She is of the three-funneled oil-burner type. Forty-eight boilers, with 240 furnaces, provide the power to turn the triple screws. The promenade is said to be the most extensive on any ship, four times around equaling a mile.

The Majestic has accommodation for 4,100 passengers and a crew of 1,000. There are 1,265 staterooms aboard, including many suites, the largest of which consists of eight rooms and three baths. Just to name a few of the features of the ship there is a lounge 76 feet long and 57 feet wide, a dining room 117 by 88 feet and a Pompeian swimming bath of 830 square feet area.

NEEDED MIRACLE AT GENOA.

Allies Seriously Divided, Says Edward H. Harden, Returning.

While the Genoa conference was accomplishing much good in the way of laying the foundation of a later understanding, only a miracle could bring any definite results, said Edward W. Harden, a member of J. B. Colgate & Co., 55 Wall Street, and brother-in-law of Frank A. Vanderlip. Mr. Harden, who was a passenger on the Majestic yesterday, said that the policies and aims of the countries represented were so at variance that agreement on important questions was impossible.

"England and France are getting further and further apart, and in my opinion, there will be still greater divergence as time goes on," he declared. "England must have markets for her manufactures and it is essential to her welfare quickly to open up trade with Germany and Russia. On these markets and others outside her own limits depends her ability to buy provisions for the feeding of her population. France is more nearly self-sustaining.

"The French have no intention of repaying the United States the loans made to her during the war. In Genoa I talked with a former member of the French Ministry. He was not inclined even to discuss the debt, but when I pressed the question he very frankly said in his opinion we should cancel these debts. He felt we had not contributed in proportion to France in the winning of the war.

"France in war was magnificent. France in peace is quite the contrary. She has no doubts as to the justice of her reparation claims on Germany—nor have I. As to Germany's ability to pay this bill, there is, outside France, only one view generally held: It is impossible. The financial situation in France, in my opinion, is that the payment of the full German reparation is imperative if she is to continue solvent and its collection in full is impossible. If the United States would definitely agree to the cancellation of its war loans, then perhaps she might consider the scaling down of her reparation claims."

ARRIVALS ON THE MAJESTIC.

Smith, Who Served 14 Years in British Prisons, a Passenger.

Lord Inchcape, Chairman of a committee appointed by the British Government to study the finances of India and to increase the efficiency of Government servants there, was among those who arrived here yesterday on the maiden trip of the Majestic. He was accompanied by his daughter, with whom he said he would make a short visit to Washington. He expects to go to India in October.

Charles Smith, an American who served fourteen years and seven months in British prisons for shooting "Eddie" Guerin in London, returned "to begin life anew." Smith, who is now 41, and whose tanned face gave no indication of his long confinement, ascribed his freedom to the efforts of Lady Astor. Smith said he would visit his three brothers and two sisters in the South for the first time in twenty-three years. Later he said he would take up farming.

James H. Parton of the London office of the White Star Line, accompanied by his wife, arrived on a visit to the city. They will be at the Waldorf-Astoria. Others among the 665 passengers were Herbert Pulitzer, Mrs. Ernest Thompson-Seton, Dr. Frank Crane, Dr. Georg Schmidt, attaché to the Austrian Legation; Dallet H. Wilson, Charles A. Frueauff, Agnew T. Dice, President of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad; Captain James Irvine, Cyrus H. McCormick, Thomas F. McAvoy and Edward Rascovar.

BOLIVIA RENEWS PLEA TO CHILE AND PERU

Warns That a Settlement Ignoring Her Claims Will Not Make for Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Carlo Aldunate of the Chilean delegation and Melitón Porras of the Peruvian delegation will alternate as Chairman in the sittings of the Tacna-Arica Conference. This decision was reached today at the second meeting of the conference.

Today's session of the conference, which was held in the Columbus Room of the Pan American Union, lasted about half an hour, Señor Aldunate presiding.

The conference agreed that a joint communiqué should be issued after each meeting. The text of today's communiqué follows:

"The Chilean and Peruvian delegations came to an agreement in their first sitting this morning in order to appoint the Hon. Carlos Aldunate and the Hon. Melitón Porras to act alternately as Chairman.

"It was agreed that official joint reports be issued on the proceedings of the meetings. A protocol will be signed by the delegates when the discussion of each point is brought to a close."

The conference will meet again tomorrow morning in the same place, when Dr. Porras will preside.

WASHINGTON, May 16 (Associated Press).—The Chilean-Peruvian conference, which began its course here only twenty-four hours ago amid universal declarations of optimism, encountered signs of unpleasant sailing today soon after the two delegations came together for their first executive meeting.

Most prominent among these developments was a decision understood to have been reached by the Chileans to bring the bitterly debated question of the validity of the Treaty of Ancon to a sharp issue at the very outset of the negotiations.

Another disturbing element was a reiterated plea by Bolivia that her rights and interests, as well as those of Chile and Peru, must be considered in any settlement designed to remove causes for unrest in South America.

The purpose of Chile to bring the real issue of the conference to the surface at once may result, in the opinion of diplomatic observers, in determining in the very near future whether the Washington negotiations are to be a success or a failure.

The Chilean plan, it is understood by The Associated Press, is to present, either tomorrow or on Thursday, a proposal that the question of fulfilling the Tacna-Arica article of the Ancon Treaty be debated at once.

What form Peru's reply will take was not revealed tonight, but it is known that the Peruvian delegation came to Washington hopeful that the conference would result in a broad readjustment of the whole "problem of the Pacific" and convinced that the treaty provision for a plebiscite in Tacna-Arica never could be fulfilled under present conditions.

Bolivia's renewed effort for recognition of her interests was made tonight in the form of a statement by Alberto Gutierrez, a former Foreign Minister, who is here as an unofficial observer for his Government.

"In Bolivia," said Señor Gutierrez's statement, "it is expected and it is wished that the Chilean-Peruvian question be settled; but if the interests and rights of all the countries which took part in the war of the Pacific are not considered, that solution will not be durable nor will it assure the peace in the continent.

"Any arrangement, compromise or agreement which ignores the just reclamations and the unquestionable rights of Bolivia will be a new cause of unrest and discord in South America."

Miss Marbury Invited to Paris.

Elisabeth Marbury of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment received a cable dispatch yesterday signed by the Marquis de Polignac inviting her to speak at the Théâtre des Champs Elysées in Paris on "The Practical Results of Prohibition in the United States After Two Years' Trial," at a date to be selected by her. She will reply in a day or two.

40 MORE INVOLVED IN VEROTTA KILLING

Raffaele, in Death House as Boy's Slayer, Reported to Have Made Full Confession.

TRIAL OF OTHERS PUT OFF

Five Held as Accomplices in Kidnapping to Await Inquiry Along New Lines.

Through a confession reported to have been made last Saturday by Roberto Raffaele in the death house at Sing Sing, the police and attaches of District Attorney Banton's office hope to reveal the identity of the actual kidnappers and slayers of 5-year-old Guiseppi Verotta. Raffaele, who is 24 years old, was arrested with four others last May, a few days before the boy's body was found in the Hudson River off Piermont, N. Y. He was convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury in Judge Talley's part of General Sessions, and the Court of Appeals recently affirmed the verdict.

The murder trial of John Melchione, a second member of the alleged kidnapping band, was to begin in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court this week. Yesterday morning Assistant District Attorney Benedict D. Dineen appeared before Justice Martin in that court and obtained an indefinite postponement. Mr. Dineen explained that within the preceding few days certain developments in the case had made it impossible for the State to engage in the trial of "this man or any others connected with the case at the present time."

Was Eager to Hasten Trial.

District Attorney Banton had been anxious to speed the trial. Melchione with Santo Cassamano, James Ruggiere, Antonio Marino and two unidentified men had been originally indicted with Raffaele for the kidnapping. While five of the seven men believed to have had part in the crime were prisoners in the Tombs, early last June, the body of the boy was found. It was known that the District Attorney felt that much of the evidence used in the conviction of Raffaele could very effectively be used against Melchione.

The unexpected request of Assistant District Attorney Dineen for delay indicated that there had been important developments in the investigation of the blackmailing plot which led to the kidnapping and killing of the Verotta boy.

Soon after Justice Martin had acquiesced in the Assistant District Attorney's request, it leaked out that on Saturday morning last District Attorney Banton received a letter from Raffaele, who is to be executed next month. The letter was reported to have said that the condemned man wanted to tell all he knew about the kidnapping of the boy from in front of his tenement home at 354 East Thirteenth Street and the subsequent killing.

Mr. Banton enjoined secrecy about the receipt of the letter and immediately ordered Assistant District Attorney Dineen to Sing Sing to interview Raffaele. When he returned from Sing Sing that evening Mr. Dineen communicated the result of his interview to the District Attorney.

No inkling of the letter or of the visit to the Death House became known until after Mr. Dineen's appearance in court yesterday. When he was asked afterward about his statement to the court Mr. Dineen said he had no statement to make, and intimated that no one connected with the District Attorney's office would make a statement at present. Mr. Banton also refused to discuss the reported confession. Raffaele's statements, however, were said to have involved between forty and fifty persons in the kidnapping and murder plot.

A Surprise to His Counsel.

The reported confession of Raffaele was an even greater surprise to his counsel, John Palmieri. "This report comes as a shock to me," said Palmieri. "At the present moment his mother is with me here going over a plan to attempt to induce Governor Miller to commute Raffaele's sentence on the ground that the decision of that court was rendered by the close vote of four to three, and showed that there was a strong element of doubt in his mind."

"I had visited Raffaele in the Death House since the decision of the Court of Appeals was announced," Palmieri continued. "He stuck to his original story that he knew nothing about the plot to kidnap the boy and the eventual killing. He repeated the story he told at the trial, that a stranger met him in Cooper Square, near the Verotta home, and asked him to go to the Verotta family's apartment to get some paper in connection with a will case."

In the police investigation before the finding of the boy's body it developed that the father had received several letters written in Italian demanding that he deliver $15,000 to a blackhand band under threat of death to his son. Verotta, it was learned, had filed suit against a man for the injury of another son in an automobile accident on Long Island. The impression had gained ground in the vicinity that the Verottas had received $30,000 from the owner of the automobile, and the demand for the money followed. Verotta was warned in the letters that if he told the police about the demand his son would be slain. He turned the letters over to the police, however, on the day Giuseppe was kidnapped from in front of his home.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—A pearl necklace, valued at 1,250,000 francs, or about $130,000, lost yesterday by the Marquise de Amadio, formerly Miss Josephine Wainwright of St. Louis, was handed over to the police today by Stephen Clark, wealthy young American, said to be the son of the former United States Senator.

Clark stated he had found the necklace in a taxicab which he had taken in the Rue St Honore. He said he had driven immediately to a police station with it, but, finding the station closed, had taken it to his hotel. The police did not listen any farther, but rushed the necklace to the Marquise, who had spent a sleepless night because of the loss.

This ends the mystery which the police attitude gave the case and which the Marquise strengthened by refusing to discuss the matter.

Leipsic Court Sentences Man Who Disclosed Location of Aerial Motors.

BERLIN, May 16.—The Leipsic Supreme Court, says a dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung today, has sentenced Emil Scherber, a motor mechanic of Wilhelmshaven, to eighteen months' imprisonment on the charge of having given information to the Interallied Commission last July regarding the location of seventy-one aerial motors.

HARDING WON'T JOIN TURKISH INQUIRY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—It was indicated at the White House today that the United States Government probably will not accept the invitation from Great Britain to participate in a joint investigation of alleged atrocities by the Turkish Nationalists upon Christian minorities in Asia Minor. The President believes this Government is under no obligation to take part in such an investigation, it was stated, and sees no particular reason why we should participate.

The United States already has made informal inquiries concerning the alleged atrocities, it was pointed out, and acting entirely in an informal way, American organizations and American individuals have done much to alleviate suffering in those regions. Such work, however, is of an entirely different nature from official governmental participation in a formal investigation such as has been suggested by the British Government.

The request of the British Government for American co-operation has been received by the State Department, it was admitted by department officials. This invitation, it was understood, also has been extended to France and Italy. The request asks that the United States designate a carefully selected officer to proceed to Trebizond or some other port on the Black Sea for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information concerning the alleged massacre and deportation of large numbers of Greeks and Armenians by the Turkish Nationalists.

Austen Chamberlain stated in the House of Commons yesterday that confirmation had been received of the statements made by a major of the American Relief Administration indicating deportations made by the Turks in a deliberate plan to get rid of the minorities. Under the proposed terms of peace, designed to bring about an end of hostilities in the Near East, the British Government assumes responsibilities for the protection of minorities in Asia Minor, and it is believed that the purpose of the British in asking for American, French and Italian co-operation in investigating the charges was to bring the greatest possible pressure to bear upon the Turks, as well as to secure the endorsement of other powers in any course which it may seem wise to adopt if the investigation bears out the truth of the allegations.

4 DROWNED, 15 MISSING IN BRIDGE COLLAPSE

Crowd Watching Brazos Flood Near Marlin, Texas, Is Hurled Into River.

WACO, Texas, May 16.—Four persons are known to have been drowned late today when the Marlin-Belton Bridge, five miles west of Marlin, over the Brazos River, collapsed under pressure of high water. Fifteen others are missing.

The most reliable report gives the number on the bridge at the time as thirty.

The high water three weeks ago had cut into the approach of the west side, it is said, but the bridge had remained intact and a crowd of people gathered there to watch the raging waters. While they were thus engaged the west end of the bridge gave way and all were thrown into the river.

The Rev. H. W. Knickerbocker was rescued a mile and a half below the bridge in an exhausted condition.

Those known to be missing were seen to sink in midstream. They had been clinging to fragments of the wrecked bridge.

Two of the four bodies recovered have been identified as those of Mrs. Ed-Mosely of Beaumont and Mrs. Goldberg of Marlin.

Rescue parties hurriedly summoned dragged many of the struggling persons from the water. Boats and rafts quickly thrown together aided in the work. Several of those rescued had drifted to the falls, three miles south of the accident, before they were taken from the water.

Mayor F. M. Stallworth and Dr. W. H. Allen of Marlin, who were among those who went down, were rescued several miles downstream. Both are said to be in a serious condition.

BUCKET SHOP TRIAL OPENS.

Howard E. Stanley the Defendant in First of Banton's Cases.

The first trial growing out of indictments returned in connection with District Attorney Banton's investigation of bucket shops began yesterday before Judge Johnstone in General Sessions. Howard E. Stanley, former member of the firm of Minifer, Norton & Co., 20 Broad Street, was the defendant.

The indictment charged him with bucketing the orders of Joseph Keiser, a chemical manufacturer of Newark, N. J. Mr. Keiser told the jury that in September, 1921, he opened an account with the brokerage establishment, depositing $700 and $1,500 in Liberty bonds. When he attempted to close his account on Oct. 26, 1921, he had figured his winnings at $1,000. Stanley gave him a check for $1,500, he testified, and said he would make good the balance of the $3,200 due him later. Keiser said the check was returned from the bank marked "No funds." The witness asserted that Stanley then admitted he had lost his account in stock speculation.

THIRD PLANE TO SEA FLIERS.

Aircraft Will Be Sent From Lisbon to Pernambuco on Cruiser.

LISBON, May 16 (Associated Press).—The new hydroairplane with which Captains Sacadura and Coutinho, the Portuguese aviators, will attempt for a third time to finish their transatlantic flight, will be sent to Pernambuco on Thursday on board the cruiser Carvalhao Aronjo, it was announced today.

Popular subscriptions are being taken throughout the country to pay for the machine.

FORMS NEW GREEK CABINET.

Stratos, Who Opposed Venizelos's War Policy, Is Now Premier.

ATHENS, May 16 (Associated Press).—A new Cabinet has been formed under Nicholas Stratos to succeed that headed by M. Gounaris, which resigned last Friday.

M. Stratos was one of the organizers in 1916 of the anti-Venizelos war party. He was Minister of Marine under Premier Gounaris in 1916 and before that had served as Minister of the Interior in the Cabinet of M. Rhallis.

New Canada Steamships Directors.

MONTREAL, May 16.—The annual and special meetings of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., today resulted in confirmation of the $6,000,000 issue of 7 per cent. twenty-year bonds recently placed in the United States and Canadian markets and the election of nine new Directors in a board of fifteen. W. H. Coverdale is the new President.

SHAKESPEARE FOLIO IS SOLD FOR £8,600

BOUGHT FOR £816 IN 1864

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 16.—Two famous first folios of Shakespeare were bought today at the Burdett-Coutts sale by Dr. Rosenbach of Philadelphia. The first, for which £8,600 was paid, was the "Daniel" copy. It was last sold in 1864, when Baroness Burdett-Coutts prevented its leaving England by giving the then unprecedented sum of £816 for it.

This delighted her friend, Queen Victoria, so much that she gave her some wood from "Herne's Oak," which used to be a landmark in Windsor Great Park and is the trysting place in one of the most effective scenes of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The Baroness had the wood made into a case in which the folio has ever since been kept. Dr. Rosenbach bought this, together with an account of the chest written by the Baroness herself.

The price Dr. Rosenbach has paid for this first folio is the highest ever given for such a volume, either at auction or by private sale. So also was the Baroness's £816; yet the prophecy was made at the time of the earlier sale that the day would come "when our children's children will hear that it has been sold for ten times that sum." That prophecy has now been fulfilled.

Other first folio bought by Dr. Rosenbach was the "Sheldon" folio. It was knocked down to him for £5,400.

The price paid by Dr. A. W. S. Rosenbach of New York and Philadelphia, in each of which cities he had bookstores, for the Daniel copy of the first folio Shakespeare, at the sale in London of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts collection, is the highest ever paid in England or America for this work.

It carries out one prediction made abroad that it would realize a higher sum than ever before paid for a first folio, but not another statement that it would be retained in England. It passes to America, as did the famous Van Antwerp copy of the first folio, for which Dr. Rosenbach paid $18,000 at Sotheby's in London, some years ago.

Mr. Van Antwerp, although an American, caused his library to be sold in London because that city then was the chief book auction mart in the world. Dr. Rosenbach purchased the Van Antwerp copy for Harry Widener, who was drowned in the Titanic disaster. His father, Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia, gave his son's collection to Harvard University. Many of the books in it related to Shakespeare and among them was the Van Antwerp first folio.

Dr. Rosenbach sold privately to Joseph E. Widener a set of the four folios of Shakespeare, and the sum paid for them is said to have been about $85,000. It was said in this city last night that Dr. Rosenbach, in yesterday's purchase was acting as an agent either for Henry E. Huntington, for whom he has been buying rare books since the death of George D. Smith, or for a well-known book collector resident in Brooklyn, to whom Dr. Rosenbach some time ago sold books relating to Shakespeare for $100,000.

BOOK SALE BRINGS $11,271.

Rare Autographs and Fine Volumes Bid In.

Fine books and rare autographs, from the library of Jonathan A. Coles and other consignors, realized $11,271 at the American Art Galleries yesterday.

C. A. Bell paid $425 for a series of etchings by James Barry, London, 1808. William E. Wordsworth gave $440 for the "Life of J. B. Isabey," by Basily-Callimake Paris, 1909. James R. Smythe bought for $415 "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," extra-illustrated. Robert Annandale obtained for $470 the catalogue of J. P. Morgan's Collection of Chinese porcelains, privately printed.

The sale will be conducted this afternoon.

BANKERS VISIT RHEIMS.

American Delegation Is Welcomed by Mayor and Archbishop.

RHEIMS, May 16.—The delegation of American bankers who are making a tour of investigation of the economic situation in France was received today by the Mayor of Rheims and taken on a tour of the war-ruined city. Cardinal Lucon, Archbishop of Rheims, met the Americans at the famous cathedral and through them he sent his greetings and blessings to America, to whose sympathy he paid tribute.

$2,500 More for Shackleton Heirs.

LONDON, May 16.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, left property amounting in value to £556 (approximately $2,500) that had not been disposed of by settlement prior to his death on the steamship Quest off the Island of South Georgia, Jan. 5, it was announced today. No personal property was included in this amount.

Company and the New Jersey Worsted Spinning Company of Garfield. They were "Americanized" in subsequent sales, the properties bringing prices which ranged well over $1,500,000.

The sale of the Botany concern was contested bitterly by Stoehr & Sons, Inc., who owned a large share of stock in the mill. In one or two of the sales there was some mystery as to the real identity of the purchasers, but in no case, so far as newspaper files disclosed last night, was the name of Senator Frelinghuysen mentioned in any way.

Mr. Palmer and the Senator engaged in a bitter row in 1919 over the conduct of the Alien Property Custodian's office. Senator Frelinghuysen had moved for an investigation of the office, charging that its operations had been too secret. Just after he was confirmed by the Senate as Attorney General, Mr. Palmer launched an attack on the Senator in which he accused him of "pleasing Germany" and cited alleged efforts by the Senator to prevent the liquidation of various insurance companies of German flavor, of one of which, he said, the Senator was President.

In a statement in reply the Senator accused Mr. Palmer of being "more Prussian than the Prussians" and renewed an accusation already denied by Mr. Palmer that the "M. P." reference in the Albert papers was to him.

Efforts to reach Senator Frelinghuysen at his New Jersey home last night were fruitless.

LONG BEACH VOTES, RESULT IS DELAYED

State's Baby City Has But One Polling Place and Balloting Lasts Until Midnight.

STATE GUARDS ELECTION

Ex-Senator W. H. Reynolds and Charles Gold Fought a Lively Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., May 16.—This the baby city of New York State shed its village swaddling clothes today and held its first municipal election after a campaign enlivened with metropolitan features imported by the New Yorkers who make up its resident population.

At midnight the result was only beginning to be tallied, after an exhibition of civic interest that augurs well for the new city. Only a single polling place was provided for approximately a thousand men and women who exercised the right of franchise. As a result voters stood in line an average of six hours each.

At 8 o'clock tonight when the voting booth in the Town Hall was closed there were 330 in line waiting to mark their ballots. They were herded into the firehouse, so as to be technically inside the Town Hall building at the closing hour and thus eligible to vote.

The rival candidates are ex-Senator William H. Reynolds, real estate man and promoter, whose friends call him the father of Long Beach, and Charles Gold, Wall Street broker. Reynolds, long President of the incorporated village, ran on a People's ticket. Gold headed the Independent Citizens' Party. Both men are Republicans. Ordinary party lines were obliterated, the fight having been waged on purely local issues.

So keen was the campaign and so heated did it become that Gold's supporters appealed to the State in fear that Reynolds, controlling the village machinery, might unduly sway the voting. As a result Deputy Attorney General Samuel Berger with a staff of assistants kept watch on the ballot boxes while a squad of State troopers was held in readiness just across the bridge in Hempstead. Everything was peaceful, however, and Captain Walter Barriscale of the local police handled the situation easily without outside aid.

Reynolds made his services in upbuilding Long Beach his chief campaign issue. He promised to develop a real metropolis if he were kept in power under the broadened opportunities of a city charter. He promised a magnificent City Hall with a four-faced clock tower 100 feet high. That tower was his emblem. Moreover, he charged that William R. Hearst was at the bottom of the opposition, because Victor Watson and Louis W. Fehr of The New York American staff were important adjuncts of the Gold forces.

Watson gently denied the Hearst charge in a letter in which he doubted "if Mr. Hearst even remembers that Senator Reynolds is still alive, it is so long since that gentleman was heard of."

Gold, who is a Director of the local bank, Treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and President of the Long Beach Fuel Company, disputed Reynolds's claims of civic service. In a campaign newspaper the Gold forces charged that Reynolds had manipulated the destinies of the town for the benefit of his real estate schemes and that he had ignored property restrictions. They were even more heated in charging that Reynolds knew all about a "joker" in the act creating the new city. That "joker" left the long beach out of Long Beach, allowing it to remain in the town of Hempstead.

Gold promised to rectify the omission by inducing the Legislature to amend the city limits. He promised a zoning law. His followers reminded the citizens that last Winter when Long Island faced a coal famine Gold bought at the mines and rushed fuel to the shore to relieve his fellow townsmen.

The Reynolds party, too, had a newspaper. It explained, as did the ex-Senator in his campaign speeches, that it would cost $500,000 to acquire the beach and wouldn't help any, since it was there to be used anyway. He also defended his projected 10-cent trolley line, for which it is proposed that the city shall provide free electricity for a period, after which it is to sell the power at cost.

RADICAL SHIFTS IN THE HARVARD CREW

Four Members of Varsity Eight Are Sent to Second Boat by Dr. Howe.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—The most radical change in a Harvard varsity crew attempted in years was authorized by Dr. Heber Howe this afternoon, when four members of the regular eight were shifted to the second crew. Among those dropped were Walter Amory, stroke, and Barklie Henry, Charley Hubbard and Dick Storey, regarded as fixtures.

Those promoted included Stan Brown, second crew stroke; Joe Nickerson, Arthur Hobson and Sam Duncan. Captain Appleton has been shifted from bow to No. 2, Duncan going to the former position.

The order of the crew, with one possible exception, Arthur Cornell, May 27, as announced tonight follows: Bow, Duncan; 2, Captain Appleton; 3, Nickerson; 4, Ladd; 5, Hobson; 6, Cummings; 7, Fuller; stroke, Brown; coxswain, Badger.

Harry Morgan, who is suffering from indigestion may replace Cummings next week, but that substitution is regarded as remote.

CHICAGO ATTORNEY JAILED.

Remus and 13 Others Sentenced for Breaking Dry Laws.

CINCINNATI, May 16—A jury in the United States District Court here tonight returned a verdict of guilty against George Remus, Chicago attorney, and thirteen co-defendants, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Sentences ranging from one year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary and $1,000 fine to two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine, were imposed by the court.

WOOD ASKS UNIVERSITY TO EXTEND HIS LEAVE

General Wishes to Stay in Philippines Until Jan. 1 to Complete His Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor-General of the Philippines, has asked that his leave from the University of Pennsylvania be extended four months, or until Jan. 1, in order that he may complete the program of reorganization he has undertaken in the Islands. Replying to the recent cablegram from Secretary of War Weeks informing him that the university trustees declined to extend his leave further, General Wood stated that he could not reach Philadelphia on Sept. 1 without leaving undone very vital features of the work in which he is now engaged.

Secretary Weeks forwarded copies of General Wood's cablegram to Provost Harrison, of the University of Pennsylvania, Senator Pepper and George W. Wickersham, trustees; J. Norman Henry, of Philadelphia, President of the University of Pennsylvania Alumni Association; and A. R. Brunker, of Chicago, also a member of the Alumni Association.

The text of the cablegram, which was dated at Manila, May 12, is:

"I am confident that the university and the alumni appreciate that the work here is of great importance, not only to the Philippine people, but to the United States and that I did not come either for pleasure or profit, but in compliance with the repeatedly expressed wishes of the President to do a certain work and in response to what I considered an imperative call for service which past experience has perhaps particularly fitted me to render.

"I have pushed forward this program here as rapidly as possible, but the situation was much more complicated and critical than was expected and there have been legislative and other delays entirely beyond my control. I cannot reach Philadelphia Sept. 1 without leaving undone very vital features of the program of reorganization, and I, therefore, bespeak of the university a brief extension of its co-operation. The delay requested will not be at most over four months, or to Jan. 1, and is of vital importance in completing the reorganization program here. I regret the necessity of asking this delay."

General Wood accepted the position of Governor-General after having received a year's leave of absence from the position of Provost of the University. It is understood that the trustees of the university had made plans for a drive for funds and that they had expected General Wood to take charge of that campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Action on the request of General Wood for an extension of his leave of absence by the University of Pennsylvania will probably be taken tomorrow by a special committee appointed by the trustees.

PINCHOT'S BIG VOTE IN RURAL DISTRICTS

also for the full term of six years from next March, is assured.

On the Democratic side John A. McSparran of Lancaster County, a widely known granger, had the field all to himself for the gubernatorial nomination. Judge Samuel E. Shull of Stroudsburg and Frederick B. Kerr of Clearfield were unopposed for the Democratic Senatorial nominations.

Heavy Machine Vote in Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 16.—With less than one-eighth of Allegheny County reported, chiefly city districts, Attorney General Alter has about two to one lead over Pinchot for Governor.

The returns available indicate that Allegheny County gave the Attorney General about 105,000 votes, while Pinchot received approximately 44,700 votes.

Representative William J. Burke, on returns from 107 out of 1,316 districts in Allegheny County, is leading Senator Pepper. The votes: Burke, 7,147; Pepper, 5,386.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, May 16.—With an exceptionally light vote, due to apathy among city Republicans and fine weather in rural districts, which kept farmers at work, indications here are that Pinchot, for Governor, has carried nearly all the rural districts in this county and many of those in the city.

Conditions in Schuylkill County point to a larger vote, because of the thousands of anthracite miners out on strike, who flocked to the polls.

Incomplete reports show that Pinchot is running close to Alter for Governor. Apparently Pepper has carried the county over Burke.

Special to The New York Times.

ERIE, Pa., May 16.—Erie city and county will give Pinchot a lead of about 1,000 votes in the race for the nomination for Governor if the present ratio is maintained.

Special to The New York Times.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 16.—In one of the lightest primaries known in Lehigh County, Pinchot is leading Alter 3 to 1 with only twenty-five of the eighty-five districts heard from. Pepper is distancing Burke, having 1,117 to 355 for his opponent. Pinchot's vote is 1,235 as against 321 for Alter.

In Northampton County Pinchot and Pepper are leading their opponents. It is reported Pinchot had a 3 to 2 lead, while Pepper's majority is even higher.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, May 16.—Returns from the counties of Lackawanna and Wayne are very slow.

In Lackawanna County returns from twenty districts of Scranton give Pinchot 2,179, Alter 1,205. There are more than fifty other districts in the city and as many more in the county outside.

For United States Senator Burke is leading Pepper by 200 votes in fifteen districts.

Despite ideal weather conditions, only 60 per cent. of the vote was cast. Thousands of miners on strike refused to vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSPORT, May 16.—In complete returns indicate that Pinchot will have a majority of 2,000 in Lycoming County. Every district heard from has given him a majority. In this city the vote was four to one for Pinchot.

Burke for Senator is running ahead of Pepper, and will have a plurality of about 1,000 in the county.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Dauphin County today gave Alter 1,800 majority over Pinchot. Pepper led Burke for the Senatorial nomination by a three-to-two vote and will have a lead over Burke of 3,000.

Cumberland County gave Pinchot a lead of 1,208 over Alter. Pepper carried the county by 1,000.

Franklin County gave Alter 2,000 and Pinchot 1,000; Pepper 2,000, Burke 200.

York County is estimated to have given: Alter, 1,800; Pinchot, 10,000; Pepper, 2,500; Burke, 3,000.

Northumberland County has been carried by Pinchot by 1,500, according to County Chairman Steele, an Alter worker.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, May 16.—Eighty districts of 352 in Luzerne County give Pinchot 103, Alter 818. Pepper on the early returns will carry the county over Burke.

UNTERMYER WOULD BUY BRICK ABROAD

10,000,000 READY, HE SAYS

Builders' Meeting Provides for a Committee to Investigate Shortage Here.

A threat to import foreign brick at $11 a thousand to break the so-called brick shortage and consequent high prices in this city was made last night by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood Committee, at a meeting held in the Hotel Pennsylvania under the auspices of the Builders' Association of Manhattan.

The meeting was called for discussion of remedies for the brick shortage, so that necessary housing construction would not be delayed, and brick manufacturers, dealers, and builders were invited. With only two manufacturers present, a resolution was adopted after three hours of discussion providing for a committee to study the situation and recommend remedies. It is probable that this committee will meet today with a representative of the Lockwood Committee, and the time and place probably will be announced by Henry Mayer, associate counsel for the Lockwood Committee.

"I can deliver 200,000,000 foreign brick here at $11 a thousand," said Mr. Untermyer. "About 10,000,000 are already at a foreign port ready for transportation, and we are negotiating for others. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company would need 20,000,000 alone for its $100,000,000."

Mr. Untermyer in part blamed the brick manufacturers here for the brick shortage, and added that "if the brick manufacturers think they can make up for their lean years by high prices in this emergency they are mistaken."

There was long, and sometimes somewhat acrimonious, discussion on brick prices, and Mr. Untermyer insisted that the dealers in this city should be limited to a profit of $3 a thousand. He set no sale price for manufacturers, except to say at one point that the price to builders in this city would be as low as $14. The price now is sometimes forced as high as $25, it was reported at the meeting.

"The present situation is artificial," said Mr. Untermyer, in denouncing the bidding of brick prices to "fabulous sums." "Brick will come in from abroad, and I don't believe the shortage here will be met this year by domestic manufacturers. If the dealers will come in we will get the brick at fair prices but not so low as to ruin those men's businesses, nor at exorbitant rates for our domestic manufacturers.

"We will agree with the manufacturers as to the amount of brick to be brought in from foreign countries, but if they won't come in we will flood this market with foreign brick. We won't permit them to hold up the people. If they can't meet the situation they can't play the dog in the manger.

"We have all our lines laid. We won't apologize or kow-tow, but just work.

"There is not going to be any famine of bricklayers or plasterers. The bricklayers are coming in from out of town by arrangement, and not by accident, at $19 a day, and not at $12 or $14."

"Did you say that these foreign brick were coming from French ports?" was a question put to Mr. Untermyer after the meeting.

"I didn't say French port," he replied. "I said foreign port—that's all."

He figured that the cost of the bricks overseas would be about 90 put aboard the boat, with $3.50 to $4 for transportation, and the remainder in duty, so that the cost would be around $11.20 here.

John Duffy, a Brooklyn dealer in building materials, said that if builders would stop dealing with "stump dealers" in bricks, paying as high as $25, the price would go down.

A representative of one manufacturer said that his plant was operating at full tilt, turning out 2,000,000 brick as compared to 485,000 in the same period a year ago, or 300 per cent. increase. A representative of a second manufacturer said that his plant was working twenty-four hours a day.

INQUIRES INTO HOUSING CO.

Bronx Grand Jury Acts on Complaints of Home Buyers.

The May Grand Jury in the Bronx began an investigation yesterday into the affairs of the Sunshine Homes and Concrete Products Company, of which Simon Lake, submarine inventor, is Vice President and Treasurer.

Complaints have been made to the Bronx District Attorney by firemen, policemen and others that money paid to the company for ready-cut houses have not resulted in the production of homes. Mr. Lake and a score of others were on hand ready to testify. Mr. Lake, Robert C. Lafferty, President, and Louis Lumagem, New York City sales agent, told Assistant District Attorney Alderman they would be glad to appear as witnesses, and signed waivers of immunity.

Mr. Lafferty, an architect, said he put $25,000 in the company and had implicit confidence in it. Mr. Lake said he had invested $85,000 in the concern. Inability to deliver houses because of lack of additional finances for development was the cause given for the delay in filling contracts.

East and return on the Henderson are Major Gen. Barnett, Brig. Gen. Haines, Colonel C. M. Perkins and Colonel W. W. White, all of the United States Marine Corps; Rear Admiral J. A. Hoogewerff, Commodore Lloyd Bankson, Commander Martin A. Anderson, Captain Joseph H. Linnard (retired), Commander Clarence E. Matthews (retired), Lieutenant Robert Stewart (retired) and Commander W. White (retired), all of the United States Navy; Senator O. H. Weller of Maryland, Major R. B. Vesco, United States Army, of Black Mountain, N. C.; James H. Peters of Boston, Robert J. Raine of Boston, Arthur C. Parsons of Oak Park, Ill.; F. W. Bruse of Cleveland, Charles W. Stewart of Washington, Eugene Carroll of Butte, Mont.; Daniel Morgan of Hillsboro, Ohio; Isaac B. Parsons of Haywood, Cal.; Dr. Joseph A. Williams of Baltimore, Thomas L. Bonfils of Denver and Harry C. Newcomb of Panama.

Some of the class will be accompanied by members of their families. The men named are the only members of the class going on the Henderson and they are the so-called "former midshipmen," whose passage to Japan on the naval transport is objected to by the McCormick resolution.

Secretary Denby ridiculed the suggestion that the Henderson was being used as a pretext so that the Government could save any money by barring the 1881 classmen from traveling, at their own expense, on the transport.

"The Henderson will sail on May 26, according to program," said Mr. Denby. "It will sail as planned with stores and men for naval stations and vessels in the Pacific and with her passenger list as made out. The Secretary of the Navy will make the trip to Japan on the Henderson. There is no intention to change the plans. I do not care to be put in the attitude of making any criticism of the Senate on account of the adoption of the resolution declaring its sense that the Henderson should not proceed to Japan with members of the class of 1881. The only thing that could interfere with the sailing of the Henderson as planned will be an order from the President or act of Congress by Congress. So far there has been no such prohibition from either quarter. Unless Congress should act in some manner by way of prohibition, the Henderson will sail according to plans.

"I am sorry that the Senate does not like the idea of each one of the Henderson, but I think that long before this trip is over the Senate will come to appreciate its value. The ship is fully loaded with naval stores and will carry a large number of enlisted men who are going to join Admiral Strauss's fleet. I see no real reason why members of the Naval Academy class of 1881 should not make the journey to Japan on an official vessel that is going there in any event on fleet service, so long as conveyance of members of the 1881 class involves no cost to the Government.

"The Henderson is not going on a diplomatic mission. The plans for the voyage have the approval of the President. I am going to Japan on the Henderson at the request of the President. Admiral Uriu of the Japanese Navy, who is a very distinguished officer, is a member of the Naval Academy class of 1881. He asked its members to hold their annual reunion at Tokio this year. They accepted, and the Japanese Government has invited the members of the class who are going to the Tokio reunion to be its guests, and a dinner will be given in their honor at the Imperial capital on July 4. The expense of conveying members of the 1881 class is being paid by themselves. It will cost the Government no extra expense."

ASTORS LEAVE CHICAGO FOR A TRIP IN CANADA

Lady Astor Talks to Salvation Army Students in Busy Day of Speech-Making.

CHICAGO, May 16.—After a whirlwind round of visiting and speechmaking, Lord and Lady Astor ended a two-day visit to Chicago today, departing for Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, to sail for England next week.

Her last public appearance was before students of the Salvation Army Training School, where she declared:

"Some of your countrymen are saying now that America has nothing to gain by going to the Genoa conference. I don't think that is the soul of a great country.

"Since I've been in Chicago the newspapers have described me as a middle-aged woman. When a woman gets to that age, she needn't be reminded of it. By Heck—"

Lady Astor made apology and then offered justification.

"I learned that in the five years I helped in an army hospital in England. I learned some stronger than that and once I nearly broke up a dinner with Lord Balfour by using one of them.

"For goodness sake, be cheerful," she advised. "God, mournful so-called Christians have done more to hold back the Kingdom of God than anything I know of.

"The Salvation Army is the best army to join if you want peace. I am interested in politics, but I'd far rather be on a street corner helping one man or one woman get rid of a bullet in evil than be sitting in all the Legislatures in the world. It's easy to love God when he's far away, but it's the very 'divil' to love your neighbor when he's a right next door."

"Don't mind if people laugh at you. I get laughed at, too. But anybody can stand being laughed at. And we are both struggling lobs on the side of the angels. But it's a hard job."

Then, suddenly remembering that she had but a few minutes to catch her train, she leaned far across the platform and waved a bouquet of sweet peas.

"Look out, she said. "You've got me on my favorite subject. I'm not much on making political speeches, but I'm a good preacher."

ADMIT BELGIAN GIRL SPY.

War Nurse and Chilean to Be Married Soon, She Says.

Laura Galle, a former Belgian war spy and nurse, was admitted into this country yesterday after being detained a week on Ellis Island following her arrival from Valparaiso, Chile, with Camilla Asp, her soldier fiancé. Miss Galle, who is 22 years old, was held because the quota for Belgians had been exceeded.

Asp, who did not run afoul of immigration restrictions, made daily visits to his fiancée while she was awaiting a disposal of her case. When she was released she announced that she and Asp would be married as quickly as possible.

Officials at Ellis Island said she was admitted under bond for three months. She is to be permanently admitted under the quota for the next fiscal year. Miss Galle was decorated for bravery under fire while serving as a nurse. She also received recognition for her work as a spy for the Belgians and French. She said she met Asp in a hospital, where he had been taken after being found seriously wounded on the battlefield.

"EGGPLANTS" WERE LIQUOR.

Seized Bootleg Product Also Billed as Red Peppers.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Acting on reports from Florida that a carload of "camouflaged bootleg liquor" was on its way to this city, prohibition agents today seized a freight car containing 842 crates billed as "eggplants" and "red peppers," and at a late hour tonight were still removing quart bottles of liquor from the crates. About 900 quarts had been taken from seventy-five crates.

The crates were lined with a small quantity of the vegetables but inside of each were found several bottles of Scotch whisky packed in burlap bags. The seized car came from Stuart, Fla., and was consigned to the Southern Fruit and Products Company, in care of the Eastern Warehouse Company. Suspicion was directed to the car when officials of the Eastern Warehouse Company refused to accept the shipment or to pay the freight and ice bill.

QUIT NEWFOUNDLAND CARS.

Crews Decline to Run When Company Refuses to Pay Wages Due.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 16.—No trains were operated on the Newfoundland Railway system today. As a result of the Reid-Newfoundland Company's notice to its employes yesterday that failure of the Colonial Government to pay to the company sums which it claimed were due under its contract had left it without funds to pay wages due, no train crews reported for work today.

Among the trains canceled was the Tri-Weekly Express connecting with mail and passenger steamers for United States and Canadian ports.

The Government considered the situation at an all-day meeting. It is expected that after further debate on the disputed contract in the Legislature tomorrow some definite action will be taken to bring about resumption of traffic.

AFIRE, RAN AROUND ARMORY IN BRONX

DIES IN FORDHAM HOSPITAL

National Guard Officers and District Attorney Start Investigations.

Charles Castellano, 15 years old, of 630 East 138th Street, the Bronx, died in Fordham Hospital yesterday from burns suffered in a peculiar manner the night before at the armory of the 258th Field Artillery, Jerome Avenue and Kingsbridge Road, the Bronx. Castellano formerly was a member of the battery. On Monday night, while in one of the battery rooms, he was watching some of his former comrades cleaning their equipment, preparatory to their encampment at Peekskill on June 2.

Frank Strittmater, a private, of 700 Union Avenue, accidentally ignited a match by rubbing it on his beath. He became excited and threw the flaming match into a pan of kerosene. As flames shot up from the pan Strittmater picked up the pan and started on a run with it for the concrete armory floor. Castellano was in his path. Strittmater fell and the burning fluid spattered over Castellano. He ran around the armory floor several times, members of the battery pursuing him. Eventually he fell unconscious, and the flames were extinguished with blankets. The young man was removed to Fordham Hospital by Dr. Goldstein.

Yesterday three investigations of the accident were instituted before the details became public. The investigations were conducted by Major John Webster for the National Guard, by District Attorney Edward Glennon and by Detective Sergeant Dominick Caso of the Bronx Park Station.

EXPERTS FOR ARMY CAMPS.

Service School Graduates to Direct Summer Training.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Under its announced policy of providing the best and most modern type of technical instruction for the Summer training camps the War Department today issued orders that all graduates of the Army Service School shall be assigned as instructors at these camps this year. Even officers slated for foreign service will not be assigned to their foreign posts until they have completed this temporary duty in the training schools.

These officers, who have just completed a year of intensive study in the science of warfare, as applied to their particular branches of the service, will thus be available for the duty of instructing the membership of the Reserve Officers' Training camps, the Citizens' Military Training Camps, the Organized Reserve camps and the National Guard camps. They rank from Colonel to First Lieutenant.

There will be the further advantage of seeing regular army units executing the movements described by the officers, for the War Department has ordered that the regular army be so distributed as to make available in each corps area at least a reinforced brigade, which will be used for demonstration purposes.

SCRATCHED BY DIAMONDS.

Passenger on Italian Liner Wore Them Next His Skin.

A skin irritation said to have been caused by diamonds he had sewn in his underwear brought Garbarino Bendetto of 12,210 Jamaica Avenue, Jamaica, into the jurisdiction of the customs department yesterday. He was a passengers on the Dante Alighieri from Italy and his discomfort attracted the attention of customs inspectors.

They searched Bendetto, and said they found a pair of diamond earrings, valued at $500, several gold rings, and some uncut diamonds. The gems were seized.

Extra Special! 165 Men's Fine Spring Suits at $42.50

Our $55 to $65 grades, made by one of America's finest clothing houses

Many give first place to the house that made these suits. Fabric, pattern, tailoring—there's nothing better outside of the best custom-made.

These suits are a part of a small surplus of suits—the pick of them. Many of the patterns are the same as patterns chosen by us for our regular stocks this season in suits priced $55 to $65.

22 patterns. Grays, blues, browns, plain gray flannel. 35 plain blue unfinished worsted suits included. Coats quarter or half lined with alpaca. Sizes 34 to 44, regulars, longs, shorts, stouts.

The quality we sell regularly for $1.50
Selling in some stores for more than $1.50 | 95c

These are fine plaid and fancy madras union suits with the famous three-piece balloon seat. Comfortable. Serviceable. Roomy. We have often had men come back and get large sizes of other union suits—but never the SEXTON. On the contrary, we have had one or two come-backs for smaller suits.

Athletic style. Sleeveless. Knee length

Tapering elastic waist-band reaching around to the front eliminates binding and tightness. Two kinds of plaid madras. Three kinds of fancy madras. Sizes 34 to 44, but not in every kind.

BETHLEHEM MERGER APPROVED; MILLIONS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

$10,000,000 to Be Expended Immediately on Steel Plant at Buffalo.

TOTAL MAY BE $25,000,000

BOTH BOARDS ACT ON TERMS

Deal Gives Lackawanna a Theoretical Valuation of $84.40 a Share at Market Prices.

Eugene R. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Moses Taylor, Chairman of the Board of the Lackawanna Steel Company, following meetings of the boards of both companies yesterday, announced the terms under which the Bethlehem takes over the smaller company. Bethlehem will give forty-one hundredths of a share of its 7 per cent. preferred stock and sixty-one hundredths of a share of its class B common stock for each share of Lackawanna.

The Bethlehem corporation contemplates the immediate expenditure of $10,000,000 for the further development of the Lackawanna plant at Buffalo, according to Mr. Grace, while eventually it is said such expenditures will range from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Under the terms of the consolidation and based upon the closing prices of both classes of Bethlehem stock yesterday, Lackawanna Steel theoretically is worth about $84.40 a share, or $5.65 a share more than the actual closing price for Lackawanna of $78.75. The difference in price, however, is partly explained by the fact that under the terms of consolidation the Bethlehem corporation has the option of reducing the par value of the 7 per cent. preferred stock and increasing the par value of the class B common stock to be delivered in exchange for Lackawanna by $1,543,400 upon the payment of approximately $300,000 in cash.

Approved by the Directors.

After the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation yesterday morning, President Grace issued a statement in which he said the "directors had unanimously approved of all terms and conditions agreed to in respect to the purchase of the properties and assets of the Lackawanna Steel Company and took the necessary steps for placing the matter before the stockholders for their consideration."

Mr. Grace further said: "The purchase price agreed to be paid by Bethlehem is an aggregate par amount of its 7 per cent. preferred stock and Class B common stock equal to the par amount of the stock of Lackawanna outstanding ($35,108,500), consisting of 40 per cent. in the 7 per cent. preferred stock and 60 per cent. in the Class B common stock of Bethlehem, with an option in Bethlehem to reduce the par amount of the preferred stock and increase the par amount of the Class B common stock thus to be delivered by $1,543,400 upon the payment of approximately $300,000 in cash. Bethlehem is also to assume the debts and obligations of Lackawanna.

"Bethlehem stockholders will be requested to authorize the additional stock required for the consummation of the purchase.

"No financing is required as a part of the transaction, but consideration is being given at this time to providing the moneys for the improvement and extension of the consolidated properties to the extent of $15,000,000 to $25,000,000. It is very likely that provisions will also be made simultaneously with this financing providing for the 1923 $11,000,000 Lackawanna bond maturity.

To Spend $10,000,000 at Once.

"Without reference to the consummation of any public financing it will be the policy at once to authorize the expenditure of $10,000,000 mainly for improving and developing the Lackawanna property which the present management in Lackawanna recognized should be done.

"Although the transaction takes the form of the outright purchase of the Lackawanna properties, it is most gratifying to Bethlehem to announce that Moses Taylor and other important interests associated with him in the control of Lackawanna will become closely associated with the direction of the consolidated properties and it is expected that they will be liberally represented on the Bethlehem board."

The statement issued by Moses Taylor, Chairman of the board of the Lackawanna Steel Company, after the Directors had approved the consolidation, was much the same as that of Mr. Grace. The committee that represented Lackawanna Steel in the negotiations with Bethlehem, was composed of Mr. Taylor, John Henry Hammond, Austin L. Mills, C. G. Jennings, H. G. Dalton and George S. Downs.

Questioned as to the reason for taking over the Lackawanna, Mr. Grace said that Bethlehem officials considered it a "wonderful property" with a great future before it if fully developed. He added that it has potential values that have never been brought out. The acquisition of the Lackawanna will give Bethlehem new properties and new markets, as the business of the New England and Lake States in the future will be handled principally by the Lackawanna from Buffalo, while Bethlehem will continue to supply the Middle Atlantic and Eastern and Southern States from its present plants.

The consolidated company will have an annual capacity of slightly more than five million ingot tons of which about 3,300,000 is credited to Bethlehem and 1,800,000 to Lackawanna. This is equal to slightly more than 10 per cent. of the capacity of the entire country. The United States Steel Corporation controls about 32,700,000 tons or 45 per cent. of the country's total, while the proposed "six company merger" of independent companies will control about 8,200,000 tons or approximately 16.4 per cent.

In addition to adding to Bethlehem's steel mill capacity, the taking over of Lackawanna gives the corporation additional capacity for the output of its structural base, a product which Bethlehem would have had to spend additional funds to develop, according to Mr. Grace. Production of steel rails was Lackawanna's specialty.

"SIX-COMPANY" CONFERENCES.

Schwab Will Not Be Permitted in Deal, Counsel Says.

While the officials of the independent steel companies interested in the proposed "six-company merger" were holding conferences yesterday at the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and of Thomas L. Chadbourne, counsel for the combination, Wall Street heard rumors that Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, had been or would be asked to enter the proposed six-company combination, with the view of becoming its head as Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Mr. Chadbourne said there was absolutely no foundation to the rumor. Asked if interests associated with him would be receptive if such a proposal came from Mr. Schwab or his associates, Mr. Chadbourne said: "Not by a damn sight."

Mr. Chadbourne said that considerable progress had been made at yesterday's meeting of company officials, but that no announcement of what had taken place could be given to the public. He said that probably by next week sufficient progress would have been made to permit the issuance of a statement. The meetings, he added, are solely for the purpose of considering terms. Upon his return from the inspection of the properties of the companies last week Mr. Chadbourne said the chances were two to one in favor of consummation of the merger, but now they are three to one in its favor.

Meetings probably will be held from day to day during the next two weeks, either at the offices of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. or those of Mr. Chadbourne, unless terms are agreed upon sooner than now expected.

Following the meetings yesterday Mr. Chadbourne entertained the officials of the six companies at his residence.

Regarding the proposed investigation of the merger by the Federal Trade Commission, as called for in the La Follette resolution adopted in the Senate, Mr. Chadbourne said that the desired information would be sent to Washington in the form of official statements. As to the Lockwood committee inquiry, Mr. Chadbourne said that although it was not yet decided who should attend the hearings, it was likely that A. C. Dinkey, President of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, would explain the position of the interests connected with the six-company merger.

Referring to a report that he had summoned Eugene G. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Moses Taylor, Chairman of the Lackawanna Steel Company, to appear before the Lockwood committee tomorrow, Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, said last night that he had not taken any such action.

FAVOR 3-DAY INTERIM AFTER LICENSE TO WED

Long Island Episcopalians Open Two-Day Session at Garden City.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 16.—The fifty-sixth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island was opened at the Cathedral of the Incarnation today under the chairmanship of the Right Rev. Frederick Burgess, Bishop of the diocese. More than 100 delegates were present.

A resolution favoring an interim of three days between the obtaining of a marriage license and the performance of the marriage ceremony was adopted. A proposal of W. J. Tully, former State Senator, to petition the new Legislature to make Good Friday a legal holiday was defeated by a vote of 66 to 64. The opposition, led by the Rev. Henry C. Swentzel, of St. Luke's Church, Brooklyn, argued that such a step would lessen rather than increase church observance of Good Friday, would throw open to the idle the motion pictures and theatres and take people away from their parishes on week-end holidays over Easter.

A motion to permit women to sit as delegates in future conventions, introduced by the Rev. John Howard Melish, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, was referred to the Committee on Canons and will be reported on tomorrow. A resolution to limit future conventions to one day instead of two was defeated, 123 to 56.

The convention will decide tomorrow whether it shall recommend the changes in the marriage service recently proposed by the governing body of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

BELGIUM PAYS FOR SHIPS.

Shipping Board Receives $10,500,000 on Account for 22 Vessels.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Announcement was made by the United States Shipping Board today that it had reached a satisfactory agreement with the Lloyd Royal Belge under which the Belgian shipping line will pay $13,149,905 for the vessels which were sold to it in 1920 by the board. The sale price averages $532,217 a vessel. The ships are of the so-called Lake type. The Shipping Board is now selling vessels of the same type to American purchasers for $72,000 a ton, and a much better price was obtained from the Belgians.

The Belgians had agreed to pay a higher price, Shipping Board officials explained, because they were living up to a contract made when the steamers were sold to the Lloyd Royal Belge in 1920, when the price of ships was higher than it is today.

"In 1920," said H. S. Kimball, Vice President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, "the Shipping Board sold to the Lloyd Royal Belge twenty-two vessels of about 26,000 tons register for approximately $18,500,000, with the understanding that certain adjustments would be made later as to deadweight and conditions. The board has been negotiating for a settlement of the mooted questions for the last nine months and has now reached an agreement by which the board will have received $12,149,905, of which $10,000,000 has been paid in cash. The sum of $6,500,000 was paid yesterday and $4,000,000 had been paid previously. The balance of $1,649,905 will be paid in five equal installments guaranteed by responsible Belgian banks. This was the first block of ships sold abroad of the small type."

CLEVELAND NEEDS WORKERS

Industrial Gain Shown in Lack of Skilled Men—Jobs Increase.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 16.—Business is improving so fast that industrial plants are having trouble in finding skilled workers for certain jobs. A number of employers expect to enlarge their forces in the next two weeks. The State-City Employment Bureau placed 1,200 men and 1,000 women in position in the first fifteen days of May, the largest in a similar period for two years.

According to today's report of the bi-weekly survey of conditions made by the employment manager group of the Manufacturers and Wholesale Merchants Board, eighteen out of fifty-one factories are expecting to increase their forces within the next two weeks.

Production hours, however, are only 40 per cent. of what they were at the peak of demand. Last February they were 31 per cent. The hiring rate for common labor is now 30, 35 and 40 cents an hour in fifty-one factories. The average has decreased a fraction of a cent in the last three months, according to the survey.

Harkness Will Appeal Heard.

Surrogate Foley reserved decision yesterday on an appeal by the executors under the will of William L. Harkness from the refusal of the transfer tax appraiser to allow as a deduction from the New York State tax the sum of $12,646,322 and $276,558 entered paid as a Federal inheritance tax. Because of the refusal to allow the deduction, the executors call the State tax excessive, improper and illegal.

Three Hundred Million Gallons of Ice Cream

According to the Confectioners Journal, America eats 300,000,000 gallons of ice cream every year. The wife of an American naval officer is credited with having invented the ice cream freezer. The American Ice Company is credited with being the first successful manufacturer of ice. And it is to artificial ice that credit should be given for making it possible to freeze the billions of gallons of ice cream in the mildest of Winters and the hottest of Summers.

Knickerbocker, in serving the Horton Ice Cream Company, hundreds of restaurants, hotels, soda fountains, clubs and homes, freezes many of the thousands upon thousands of gallons of ice cream that New York eats yearly.

At harvest time it was the custom of the Saracens to bring to some central point a small quantity of the best of everything they had been able to produce—fruit, vegetables, grain, sheep, goats—all of which were assembled and burned as a propitiation to the gods, to conciliate and pacify them. These sacrificial offerings were called SOROSIS. So the word came to mean a collection of The Most Perfect Parts Combined In Some One Whole. The manufacturers of "Sorosis" Shoes have faithfully observed the tradition of the word by which their Shoes are known throughout the civilized world. Every element entering into their construction is the best that can be had. The Shoes fit the name.

Sorosis for Sports Wear

Sorosis Shoes for Women
They not only immediately establish pleasant relations with your feet, but also with your mind. Soft and flexible—firm and faultless—so true in every detail—they instantly cause you to register satisfaction.

'HEARST OR HYLAN' IS CONNERS'S DICTUM

Buffalo Leader Issues Statement at Newly Opened Headquarters Here.

MAYOR STANDS BY HIS CHIEF

Report That Hearst Is Going Abroad to Meet King George Stirs Democratic Fears.

Only Hearst or Hylan can lead the Democrats to victory in the State campaign, according to William J. Conners of Buffalo, promoter of a Hearst gubernatorial boom and manager of his pre-convention campaign for the nomination.

Mr. Conners asserted this in a formal statement last night at his newly opened campaign headquarters in the Hotel McAlpin. Both before and after the convention—should Hearst be nominated—Mr. Conners revealed, a special bid for votes will be made in the big cities up State, Republican in ordinary times, where capital can be made for a candidate like Mr. Hearst or Mayor Hylan out of dissatisfaction resulting from increased carfare and higher rates for gas and electric light.

"The many good Democrats suggested by their friends as candidates do not fit conditions this year; no one has any real doubt about this," said Mr. Conners in his statement. "Only Mr. Hearst and Mayor Hylan have the record which will permit the appeal in the up-State cities which was made in New York City last year. They are the only ones who could possibly secure for the Democratic Party a 450,000 plurality in New York City."

While Mr. Conners was for the first time seriously suggesting that Mayor Hylan might be acceptable as a substitute for Mr. Hearst at the head of the Democratic ticket this Fall, the Mayor was making public a statement in which he came out strongly for Mr. Hearst and predicted that with him heading the ticket, party lines would vanish and a large proportion of the Republican vote be cast for the Democratic candidates.

Mayor Hylan's statement was made in response to a request for comment on the opening of the Hotel McAlpin headquarters.

Mayor Hylan's Statement.

"I haven't had time to consider it," said the Mayor, "but I wish to say this, that whenever the name of a man is mentioned for Governor or any other high office, such as that of Mr. Hearst, whose sympathies are with the people and who has character strong enough to stand behind his guns, you can see the public utilities corporation sympathizers in the Democratic and Republican parties and the controlled corporation press squirming. There are thousands of Republicans and Democrats all over the State who want the Government of the State run in the interest of the people and not the corporations.

"There are reactionary Republicans and reactionary Democrats who profit if a creature of the corporations is in control at Albany and they set up an awful howl if a man's name is mentioned who is not one of them.

"This year the people will cut away from party lines and stand with the candidate, whether he be a Democrat or Republican, who will serve their interests. Let those who wish to stand by the corporations, regardless of party, come out now so that they can be placed in the class where they belong, against the people's interests."

While Hearst sentiment is being "organized" up-State by Mr. Conners and his aides Mr. Hearst will take a trip abroad. It was learned last night that Mr. and Mrs. Hearst would sail on the Aquitania next Tuesday. A report that the trip was being made for the purpose of affording Mrs. Hearst the opportunity to be presented at the Court of St. James was not taken seriously in political circles. No confirmation of the report could be obtained last night through inquiries at the home of Mr. Hearst, 137 Riverside Drive.

Sees Peril to Hearst Chances.

One democratic politician of some prominence said that if the report was true it would kill Mr. Hearst's chances "to become the next Governor." Mr. Conners, while expressing the opinion that the report was untrue, said it would make no difference with the people even if it proved to be true. Mr. Conners said he had known all along that Mr. Hearst was going abroad. Arthur Brisbane, it was learned, also will sail for Europe on the Aquitania.

"What do you think would be the political effect in the event Mr. and Mrs. Hearst should be received at court?" Mr. Conners was asked.

"It would make no difference," was his reply. "Neither the King of England nor any other King could change the views of Mr. Hearst. He is the people's friend for keeps. There isn't anybody who doesn't know that. We've been over there and I had the chance. I wouldn't mind meeting the King myself. I think I would enjoy it, if he is a good fellow."

Somehow Mr. Hearst's going abroad at this time appears to have confirmed the opinion among politicians that he is an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It was pointed out yesterday after the report that he was going had been published that in thus absenting himself from the field of action he was merely adhering to his usual tactics. One astute Democratic politician who has been a close observer of Mr. Hearst's political methods even suggested that Mr. Hearst might be going abroad to get the reception that Mr. Conners undoubtedly would stage for him upon his return.

Visualizes Hearst Reception.

"I can see a pier full of up-State Democrats drummed together by Mr. Conners and his lieutenants, their traveling expenses paid out of a campaign fund that undoubtedly is ample," said this Democrat. "I can see them waving American flags and cheering their heads off for the man who in years past has left nothing undone to hurt the Democratic Party by besmirching its candidates both before and after election. Undoubtedly there will be bands, too. As Hearst may get the nomination, but if he does election will bring the usual result when he is running. There will be no bands, no waving of flags, no cheers for Hearst then—only gloom."

Mr. Conners said in his statement made public yesterday that Democrats who could not see the strength of Hearst must be blind.

"There are some," he said, "who have been Democrats whose interest in public service corporations would make them bolt Mr. Hearst. For every one of these, there would be fifty of their employes who would vote the Democratic ticket for the first time if Mr. Hearst were the candidate.

"In this city last year the Democratic Party gave the people a chance to strike at the public service corporate interests and in their vote for Hylan they responded most generously. This is the sentiment which has caused the State-wide movement to elect Mr. Hearst Governor."

ORANGE REVOLT REPORTED.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 16.—It is asserted that at least 150 Orange County Democrats have sent a letter to the State Chairman of the party objecting to any effort being made to give Hearst the gubernatorial or Senatorial nomination.

"If it is the intention of the officers of the party to let William Randolph Hearst have either the gubernatorial or Senatorial nomination you will save time and stationery by scratching Orange County from the list," the letter says.

"What few crazy persons are in Orange County are incarcerated and cannot vote," the letter continues, reciting the fact that Hearst was a candidate for Governor in 1906 and was not elected despite the fact that all the remainder of the Democratic ticket was approved.

"Give us a Democrat or give us a rest," the letter to the State Chairman concludes.

Herbert C. Peel Jr., Democratic State Chairman, said here last night that the letter mentioned in the foregoing dispatch had not reached him.

SENATE AUTHORIZES WAR FRAUD FUND

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The House bill providing $500,000 additional for the Department of Justice to prosecute fraudulent war contracts was passed today by the Senate and now goes to the President.

There was no opposition and little discussion of the bill, which had been urged by the President and Attorney General Daugherty. Upon its receipt from the House the Senate Appropriations Committee gave unanimous approval. It then was put through the Senate by unanimous consent.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, said that the Department of Justice had not brought prosecutions under the Anti-Trust law as vigorously as he would have desired. He hoped the additional appropriations would bring commensurate results.

Reorganization of the Department of Justice to provide a separate bureau for prosecution of war fraud cases is under way. The bureau probably will be established outside the department in order that its work may be expedited.

At the same time Attorney General Daugherty has ordered other administrative changes to speed the department's work. These include segregation of the business of the department under each of the Assistant Attorneys General, according to classification and the creation of a docket division. Under the latter an organization will be set up for the compilation of a complete record of lawsuits in which the Government is interested.

As rapidly as a move is made either by the United States Attorneys throughout the country or by the Assistant Attorneys General, it will be noted, so that at a moment's notice the exact status of a case will be available in Washington. The "general manager," Mr. Ely, will have this record in charge. He will arrange for the various officials actively conducting the Government's cases to report their every move as soon as it is made.

Every Federal Building in the country, Mr. Daugherty said, would be furnished with a card indicating the duties of the various Assistant Attorneys General and the classes of cases they handled, so that the public would be able to take up directly with the proper official any particular business.

STATE LAWS SOUGHT TO AID CHILD LABOR

Trustees of National Committee Consider Ruling That Invalidates Federal Legislation.

The trustees of the National Child Labor Committee discussed yesterday the decision of the Supreme Court invalidating the Federal Child Labor law. A sub-committee was appointed to consider the constitutional questions involved and the possibility and propriety of further Federal legislation on this subject.

The main effort of the organization for the present will be centred on affording State protection to those children who have lost Federal protection through the decision of the Supreme Court and to continue its efforts to bring the State child labor laws up to high standards in those particulars which were not covered by the defunct Federal law, it was announced. The Federal law did not protect the 1,000,000 working children in agriculture, nor did it impose any educational or physical requirements for entry into industry.

"The decision of the Supreme Court raises important questions regarding the ability of the people of America to express their will in legislation under the Constitution as it stands," said Owen R. Lovejoy, General Secretary of the National Child Labor Committee. "Twice the people of the United States have legislated against this nation-wide nation-weakening evil of child labor and now that they have lost their second law in the courts, as they did their first one, on the issue of constitutionality, they must seriously consider the advisability of changing the Constitution.

"However, the important thing for the American people today is to fix their attention not on Congress or the Supreme Court, but on the boys and girls who will be affected by the withdrawal of Federal protection and will now be dependent on State protection. When the act went into effect, 500,000 boys and girls received the benefit of its age, hour and night work standards. We may now expect that in the States with lower standards than those provided by the invalid Federal law, there will be an immediate increase of child employment for the maximum hours and at the minimum age the State law permits. This is just what happened in 1918 on the very day after the Supreme Court declared the first Federal Child Labor law invalid.

"The Supreme Court decision should forcibly remind the people of the United States that the battle for child protection has not yet been won."

WIDOW WHIPS SCHOOL HEAD

Ohio Mother Lashes Principal Who Had Paddled Her Son.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, May 16.—Armed with a heavy blacksnake whip, Mrs. Carrie Littrel, a widow, of this city marched to a local school building where she administered a flogging to the Principal, W. T. Thompson, because he had peddled her son, Howard, yesterday. The mother charged that Thompson had so cruelly treated the boy that he was now under the care of a physician.

School attaches secured the whip only after Mrs. Littrel had struck the Principal several blows. After an investigation school authorities said the matter was closed.

Thompson denied the mother's charges and said he had administered a light paddling after the boy had been disobedient before the other pupils.

Architects Optimistic on Housing.

Optimism regarding the housing situation in Greater New York was expressed last night at the annual dinner and elections of the New York Society of Architects. The speakers felt that building of suburban homes, which had been made easy by various building loan plans and has increased each month, would solve the housing problem. The officers elected were James Riely Gordon, President; A. A. H. Pinchot, First Vice President; Edward W. Loth, Second Vice President; Arland W. Johnson, Secretary; Henry Holder, Treasurer, and W. H. Yeichelling, Financial Secretary.

STATE FARM SCHOOL INQUIRY IS BEGUN

NO SURPLUS PAID TO STATE

Never Instructed to Turn It Over, Employe Testifies—Dean Denies He Has Resigned.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., May 16.—An investigation of the State Institute of Applied Agriculture was begun here today by Edward G. Zimmer, Deputy State Controller. Mr. Zimmer said the investigation would be principally concerned with the management of the institute, and that this would involve a careful scrutiny of the finances.

Ninety former service men, gassed or otherwise incapacitated in the World War, elected to take the agricultural course at the State institute, and the Government is accordingly interested in the investigation, Mr. Zimmer said. The institute covers thirty-three acres, and, with the buildings, the property is valued at $600,000.

Martin B. Dugan, bookkeeper, the first witness, gave testimony that indicated there may have been a failure of the school to comply with a State law requiring the institute to turn over to the State any money in the capital fund in excess of $5,000. Mr. Dugan said that on May 6, 1918, there was a surplus of $739, but that he had never been instructed that the amount should have been turned over to the State Treasury.

Dugan said that the excess of cash actually on hand on June 6, 1921, was $741, thus not exceeding the $5,000, in excess of which all money must, by law, be returned to the State Government.

Asked if any canceled checks were missing, he admitted that eighty-three of them were missing. He said he did not know it until he read of it in the newspapers. Then, he said, he checked up the stubs with the returned canceled checks and found eighty-three were missing.

Dugan told of a petty cash account of $150, from which he said he gave three employes about last Christmas advances on their salaries amounting to $75, taking vouchers in return. When State auditors visited the institute Dugan said, he concealed the fact of the advances from them.

"I figured that what they won't see won't bother them," Dugan explained. "I met Mr. Allan Roberts and he advanced me sufficient money to take up the vouchers."

Miss Rose Wickler, who said she was a maid in the home of Director A. A. Johnson, told of endorsing two checks each month for $41.50 each and receiving only $55 a month in cash, which was her salary by agreement. Miss Wickler said she believed the balance went to the other help.

Miss Grace Tabor, a landscape artist, testified that she has been listed as assistant to the Director since May 29 last, at $3,200 a year. She did not know, she said, until recently, that she was on the State payroll.

William W. Niles, Secretary to the Board of Trustees, declared no money had been spent without authorization of the Board of Trustees. In his opinion, there never would be a surplus at the institute or, if there was, it would be very small.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Just before the inquiry began today, Allan Roberts, Dean of the institute, emphatically denied that he had offered his resignation to the Board of Trustees.

Asked if he intended to reign, he replied:

MME. MOUROMSKY WAITS.

Won't Leave Paris Till Case Against Vonsiatsky Calls Her Here.

PARIS, May 16.—Mme. Liobouv Mouromsky today said she had decided to remain in Paris until she learned what action the American Attorney General would take on the documents she forwarded last week to the United States through the American Embassy here, in which she declared herself to be the first and only legal wife of Anastase Vonsiatsky, who was recently married in America to Mrs. Marian Buckingham Ream-Stephens of Chicago.

Last week Mme. Mouromsky said she intended to go to the United States in a few days, but she said today she would remain in Paris until her presence in the United States seemed necessary in order to press her claims.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Department of Justice officials were puzzled today by the action of Mme. Liobouv Mouromsky of Paris in sending to the Attorney General, through the American Embassy there, documents to support her claim as the legal wife of Anastase Vonsiatsky, a Russian engineer of Philadelphia, who recently married Mrs. Marian Buckingham Ream-Stephens of Chicago.

Bigamy is not a matter with which the Federal Government is concerned, action on such charges being left to the States, department officials explained. Without attempting to forecast the action of the State Department, to which Mme. Mouromsky's documents will come, officials at the Department of Justice said that the papers would probably be sent to the Attorney General of New York, the marriage of Vonsiatsky and Mrs. Ream-Stephens having been performed in that State.

WOULD CUT MEXICAN DEBTS.

Nieto Proposes to Cancel Back Interest on Bonds.

MEXICO CITY, May 16 (Associated Press)—Immediate adjustment of Mexico's foreign obligations, to pave the way for recognition by the United States, was urged in an address here yesterday by Rafael Nieto, Governor of the State of San Luis Potosi, who was Secretary of the Treasury under President Carranza.

Placing the nation's external debt, not including interest, at 267,000,000 pesos, Governor Nieto said he believed the interest on this debt to date should be annulled, and that payment should be arranged on the terms of 1 per cent. of interest during the next five years, 2 per cent. during the five years following, and after ten years the resumption of full interest payments.

The national railway debt, he pointed out, offers a problem more serious than the public debt, in that it totals 835,000,000 pesos, the interest on which amounts to 40,000,000 pesos annually, or more than the railroads ever earned, even during their most prosperous years.

Although Señor Nieto did not approve the scheme for complete cancellation of Mexico's foreign indebtedness, or for even 50 per cent. reduction of that sum, he believed that "all those who have invested their capital in the republic must bear a proportionate share of the losses caused by revolution, and that in fixing the interest on the debt the effective means which Mexico has for liquidating her obligations, rather than the strict stipulations of original agreement, must be taken as a basis."

DROPS ALL SEX BARS IN N. Y. U. HALL OF FAME

Senate Also Extends Period to 25 Years After Death Before Honoring a Person.

Abandonment of the separate Hall of Fame for Women and the abolition in future elections of all discrimination as to sex has been decided upon at a meeting of the Senate of New York University.

Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the Hall of Fame, in announcing yesterday the change in the constitution of the Hall of Fame, said:

"This new departure in the direction of just and liberal opinion was unanimously approved by the Senate and has also the approval of Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of the university and of the donor of the fund upon which this patriotic enterprise was originally established."

Another amendment agreed upon was the extension from ten to twenty-five years of the period that must elapse after the death of a distinguished person before his or her name may be inscribed in the corridor of the Hall of Fame.

The method of election also has been simplified, provision being made for a primary vote by twenty-one of the electors of the Hall of Fame, three from each of the seven c lasses composing the entire college, who are to consider the large number of names submitted to them by the Senate, those thus chosen to be voted on by the 100 or more electors who give the final verdict which now will require a three-fifths vote to elect instead of a majority as formerly.

Resolutions of regret and sympathy were passed by the Senate on the death since the last meeting of four Hall of Fame electors, Mrs. Helen N. Starrett of Oregon, Henry Watterson of Kentucky, General Horace Porter and John Burroughs of New York.

When the Hall of Fame was established at New York University in 1900 no provision was made for the election of women. In 1904, however, it was voted to set aside a separate hall for the women, and this division now contains the names of seven women—Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mary Lyon, Emma Willard, Alice Freeman Palmer, Frances Elisabeth Willard, Maria Mitchell and Charlotte Saunders Cushman.

RIOT AT MUNICH LECTURE.

Reactionaries Storm Platform When Steiner Discusses Theosophy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 16.—Munich enjoyed a riotous demonstration when Germany's high priest of Theosophy, Rudolf Steiner, delivered a lecture on "Vitalization of Thought," before an audience more than half composed of women. Organized reactionaries, Nationalists and anti-Semitics attended the lecture in force, and toward the end the electric lights were switched off and pandemonium broke loose. Lighted firecrackers and stink bombs were thrown at the long-haired Theosophist, and then Steiner's foes stormed the stage, and a free fight ensued until the police cleared the hall.

Then the demonstrators marched to Railroad Station Square with the intention of hauling down the Republican colors. But these are now taken in at dark and secreted in safe places. The chagrined demonstrators therefore contented themselves with singing the imperialistic "Flag Song" around the flagless flagpoles.

THOUGHT TREASURY ABLAZE

False Alarm Thrills Crowd as Engines Rush to Building Again.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A false alarm about noon today called fire apparatus to the United States Treasury. An employe in the architect's office directly under the roof, which is being raised to accommodate another story, had pushed a button by mistake, signaling fire in the office of the captain of the watch, who rang an alarm.

A big crowd followed as the engines rushed to the huge building with its vast stores of wealth. Excitement was heightened because there have been two recent fires on the roof.

When firemen rushed to the roof watchers in the street thought that another blaze had started in the place at which one occurred two weeks ago. Smoke from apparatus used by workmen strengthened the illusion that the roof was afire.

OPPOSE STATE RAIL RULE.

Elliott Upholds Transportation Act Before House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Opposing repeal of the Transportation act, so as to restore rate making powers to State Commissions, Howard Elliott, Chairman of the Northern Pacific Railway Board, told the House Interstate Commerce Committee today that "the health of the country as a whole means we must look at railroad questions from a national standpoint and not from the divergent and sometimes narrow view of States.

"The Federal power must be supreme in all questions of doubht," he said. "The railway executives have concluded that if you are to have a first-class adequate transportation service, a service for all parts of the United States, there must be somebody in supreme control, and that somebody must be the nation and not the forty-eight States."

RAILROAD DINNER ENLARGED

President Invites More Executives to Discuss Transportation Problems.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The number of railroad executives invited to the dinner conference at the White House Saturday night, originally fixed at fifteen, was said today to have been increased to include sixteen or twenty.

Nothing additional concerning the subjects to be taken up by the dinner group was forthcoming today from the White House. It has been indicated that President Harding intends to consider more particularly the situation as to railroad rates.

Sees Good in Meeting With Russians

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 16.—Foreign Minister Van Karnebeek, who has returned here from the Genoa conference, said today: "The conference has reached a stage of liquidation which will require some time. In the main questions decisions have been reached, although no agreement has been arrived at with Russia. However, it would be unjust to underrate the importance of the general meeting of Russia and the other European States."

Our New Envoy in Ecuador.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 16 (Associated Press)—Gerhard Adolph Badings, the new American Minister to Ecuador, presented his credentials to President Tamayo today. The reception took place in the Presidential mansion and short friendly addresses were exchanged.

DENBY URGES A SUBSIDY.

Navy Head Thinks Temporary Aid Essential to a Merchant Marine.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Subsidies must be paid by the Government to American ship owners if an adequate privately owned merchant marine is to be established, Secretary Denby declared today at the joint Congressional hearing on the Jones-Greene Ship Subsidy bill. He said he knew of no other way in which the American merchant fleet could be expanded.

"I do not regard a subsidy in any form as a sound basis for a permanent merchant marine," the Navy Department head asserted, "but I am convinced it is the only available structure for the birth of an American merchant marine."

Mr. Denby expressed confidence that "after a period of years" Government aid could cease, and the merchant marine, as a result of encouragement during its early stages, would be able to "stand on its own bottom."

HARDING REMAINS "ALOOF."

White House Holds Endorsement of Frelinghuysen No Change in Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Harding's interruption of his week-end of recreation at Absecon, N. J., to endorse Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, a candidate for renomination, is not an abandonment of his previously announced policy of remaining aloof from Republican Congressional primary fights, according to a statement made at the White House today.

The White House interpretation of the President's speech before the Women's Republican Clubs of New Jersey last Friday night at Atlantic City, in which he extolled Senator Frelinghuysen as a strong Administration supporter and urged New Jersey to continue him in office, is that Mr. Harding has no intention of taking active part in the Frelinghuysen primary campaign. His remarks on that occasion were described today by an Administration spokesman as "impromptu," and they were not held to be a departure from his expressed intention of keeping out of Republican contests.

WOMEN AGAINST DRY ACT.

Applaud Anserge, Who Attacks Passing of 18th Amendment.

Women members of the Republican County Committee applauded Congressman Martin C. Ansorge last night at a meeting at 38 West Thirty-ninth Street when he declared: "The American public has never had a proper say in regard to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law." Congressman Ansorge outlined measures he had introduced in Congress calling for a referendum on light wine and beer.

One of the measures explained by the Congressman calls for an intervening election between the time a constitutional amendment is proposed and the time it is acted upon by the State Legislatures. He attacked the "blco" system in Congress and referred to a bill that he had introduced which would make "blocs" unlawful and punishable by a $5,000 fine.

RAIN DROWNS BLAZE IN JERSEY FORESTS

DEER FLEE TO ASBURY PARK

Herd of Seven Refugees From Flames Seen in Town—Heavy Toll of Animal Lives.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., May 16.—Rain fell last night on the forest fire at Woodbine which has been burning for eight days and gave rest to the volunteers who have fought the flames since the strikers threw down their tools and walked off. County officials, it is understood, will demand an inquiry into the causes of the many fires which have cost nearly $2,000,000 in damage and have menaced several towns. It is understood also that Fire Warden Colle of Bridgeton will start prosecution against the fire strike leaders, who induced many paid fire fighters to quit, leaving the Fire Warden almost helpless but for the help of the volunteers.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., May 16.—Fifteen thousand acres of land have been burned over in the last week. Prosecution of the forest fire fighters who have gone on strike for increased pay is now threatened by the State authorities. The law specifically states that any able-bodied man called upon for service by the Fire Wardens must respond.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 16.—State Fire Warden C. P. Wilber has begun an investigation of the strike of forest fire fighters in the vicinity of Woodbine.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 16.—Driven northward by forest fires, a herd of seven wild deer appeared in the outskirts of Asbury Park yesterday. In attempting to leap a high fence, a doe was so badly injured that it had to be killed. The remaining six deer fled. The forest fires have taken a heavy toll of game, especially rabbit and woodcock.

BULGARS ARREST RUSSIANS.

Charge Wrangel Colonels With Conspiracy Against Soviets.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 16 (Associated Press).—Several officers who served under General Baron Wrangel in his anti-Bolshevist campaign in South Russia are charged by the Bulgarian Government with organizing an espionage service and preparing for a coup d'état in conjunction with Opposition elements.

The Russian General Shatilof has been ordered to leave Sofia, two Russian Colonels have been arrested, and three members of Wrangel's General Staff have been ordered to leave Bulgaria immediately. In addition the Russian refugees and former soldiers throughout the country have been placed under strict regulations.

A Sofia dispatch on May 10 said the police had discovered a widespread espionage organization, directed by members of General Wrangel's staff, for the surveillance of all the Russian Soviet Government agents in Bulgaria.

MEXICANS DUE NEXT WEEK.

De la Huerta and His Party Expect to Start North on Saturday.

MEXICO CITY, May 16.—General Eduardo Iturbide, former Mexican financial agent in New York, will leave for New York tomorrow night to make arrangements for the coming conferences between Minister of the Treasury de la Huerta and bankers.

Senor de la Huerta expects to leave Mexico City on next Saturday. He will allow himself a week's rest before meeting Thomas W. Lamont and the other members of the international bankers group. The Minister will be accompanied by Joaquin Santella, former head of the Petroleum Department, and Salvador Urbana, former sub-Secretary of the Treasury, who will act as advisers.

Augustine Legorreta, manager of the Banco Nacional and local representatives of the Speyer interests, will be in New York for the conference, but will not accompany Senor de la Huerta.

PATROLMAN RESCUES BOY.

Plunges Into River as Lad Who Fell From Pier Is Sinking.

Patrolman Edward Casey of the East Twenty-second Street Station plunged into the East River at Twenty-second Street last night and saved Joseph Scornick, 12 years old, of 617 East Fifteenth Street, from drowning. Joseph Gormley, watchman on the pier, threw the patrolman a rope, which was fastened around the unconscious boy, who was then drawn up on the pier.

The patrolman and the boy were taken to Bellevue Hospital, where Scornick was attended by Dr. Sutton. Casey, after drying his clothes, returned to duty.

Scornick and five other boys were leaping back and forth from the pier to a steam lighter, moored about four feet away from the stringpiece. In attempting to make a "standing leap" Scornick fell overboard. Patrolman Casey heard the cries of his companions and ran to the rescue. He reached the boy as he was sinking for the third time.

URGES RECOGNIZING SOVIET.

Demand for Trade Agreement Proposed to Railroad Workers.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 16.—A resolution demanding that the Government recognize Soviet Russia and negotiate a trade agreement was placed in the hands of a special commission today by the convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen here.

The resolution declares that "industrial conditions in this country are such that millions of working men and women are unemployed, causing great unrest in our social forms and distress to American workers; that these conditions enable the employing class to reduce the wages of toilers, lengthen the hours of service and suppress organized labor; that Russia needs all manufactured commodities and food and that the present industrial depression in the United States is due to an unnecessary economic blockade between this country and Russia."

IRELAND EXPECTS FINAL BREAK TODAY

Peace Negotiations Believed to Have Failed and Dublin Is Prepared for the Worst.

COLLINS TO ENFORCE ORDER

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 16.—The Committee of Ten concluded its deliberations this evening and will report to the Dail tomorrow. It has been an anxious day fraught with momentous issues. At noon the atmosphere was hopeful but later something unknown seemed to blacken the prospect and nothing was left at 6 o'clock but a hopeless outlook.

It is freely accepted in Dublin tonight that the peace conference failed to find a basis of agreement, and that the deliberations ended in a deadlock. This opinion is supported by confident and emphatic statements of persons in touch with members of the committee.

Tomorrow's Dail meeting at 3 o'clock is expected to be attended with momentous, if not sensational happenings.

The fact that created the early hopes was a conference of army chiefs. The two sides named Major Gen. MacKeon, General O'Duffy, Adjt. Gen. O'Sullivan, Commandants Mellowes, Lynch, Mowlan, Robinson and Roderick O'Connor, also Defence Minister Mulcahy and the Chairman and Secretary of the Provisional Government. These deliberated an hour when the Peace Committee resumed and concluded.

People seem prepared for the worst. Collins stated yesterday that if the effort failed strong action would be taken to restore order. He expressed willingness to agree to a coalition Government but on the basis of recognition of the treaty. Here is the stumbling block because the Republicans won't agree to any election with the treaty as the issue.

Should a failure be reported tomorrow, the country must look to Collins to save it from utter ruin. Failure is a new lease of life to brigand gangs whose savagery spares not even the sick and dying as evidenced by the taking of doctors' automobiles from patients' doors. In the words of William O'Brien, ex-M. P., the principles of Christian civilization are shaken to the foundation. It behooves Collins to get on with the Government immediately and resolutely no matter what the cost and let the people's voice be heard.

The significant concluding day of the peace conference synchronizes with the British garrison marching out of Curragh Camp, England's greatest military stronghold in Ireland, and the provisional Government entering into possession. The Cork barracks and the headquarters of the Northern British commandant, Portobello barracks, Dublin, are also being handed over.

While the outlook in the South is as gloomy as possible, the situation in the North is growing worse.

Break Expected Today.

DUBLIN, May 16. (Associated Press). —The impression prevalent in Dublin tonight, following the announcement that the Peace Committee of the Dail Eireann had concluded its deliberations and would report to the Dail on Wednesday, was that the conferees had failed to agree on any plan and that tomorrow's meeting would have to face a final breakdown of the attempts to reconcile the two factions.

After the report of the Peace Committee, the next item on the Dail agenda is resumption of discussion on the army report submitted by the Minister of Defense. The report embodies a strong indictment of the present disorders, and fixes the blame largely upon the council of the dissident army. This was bitterly resented by the Republican members at the last meeting of the Dail, and Cathal Brugha indicated he would have much to say concerning it.

Thus far Eamon de Valera has not interfered in the Dail Eireann on the controversial aspects of army differences, his attitude being that the dissident section of the army is acting under its own chiefs and independently of him. But, although he is believed to favor army units, de Valera has made it plain that his sympathies are with the dissidents as truly carrying on republican traditions. The secession from the dissidents of important army commanders, who, though they disagree with the treaty, were anxious to avoid civil war, gave the peace negotiations some element of reality.

The future action of the Dail Republicans and of others who were expected to follow their example will be influenced by the exact cause of the reported breakdown of the negotiations, but the Republicans do not anticipate any substantial weakening of the irregular military forces.

The Ard Fheis, or Sinn Fein, convention next week probably will make a still further attempt at compromise, and an effort certainly will be made to modify the existing determination of Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail, and Michael Collins, head of the Provisional Government, to hold the elections in June. The Irish constitution, although ready, is not expected to be published until just before the elections.

LONDON, May 16 (Associated Press). —Questioned in the House of Commons this afternoon concerning the British troops in Ireland, Sir Hamar Greenwood, the Secretary for Ireland, replied that there would be no British troops in Southern Ireland by the end of this week except those in Dublin and those used for coast defense.

The Staffordshire Regiment has embarked at Queenstown on a special steamer as further reinforcements for Belfast, says a Belfast dispatch this afternoon to The Evening Star.

CURFEW LAW IN BELFAST.

Funeral Procession Fired On in City's Principal Street.

BELFAST, May 16 (Associated Press). —Owing to the continuance of shooting affrays in Belfast, the Northern Government has decreed that all saloons and spirit shops in Belfast must close, except between noon and 7 o'clock in the evening. The decree imposes the curfew on the whole city from 10 o'clock in the evening until 5 o'clock in the morning.

A police notification has reached many Belfast merchants warning them of the danger of mines being exploded in their vicinity. The merchants are urged to maintain a close guard.

A funeral procession in Royal Avenue, the city's principal thoroughfare, was fired upon this afternoon from a side street. A military armored car and a police car, which rushed to the scene, returned the fire. The avenue was crowded with shoppers, who were thrown into a panic by the incident.

The firing lasted several minutes, during which John Smith was wounded in the chest, probably fatally.

Some time later William Madden, employed a fruit shop and was shot dead, the shooting apparently having been done as an act of reprisal.

The Sinn Fein Executive here has adopted a resolution, "in the name of the persecuted and terrorized minority in this city," calling upon the Dail Eireann in Dublin forthwith to establish a stable government.

"We are convinced that one of the best means to acquire peace in Belfast is to establish peace in the rest of Ireland," says the resolution. "Until the special police paid by the British Government are disbanded there can be no peace. We condemn and deplore the rule of the gun, and call upon the Dail to take whatever means necessary to substitute the rule of the people."

URGE BOYCOTT OF SOUTH.

Ulster Signers Appeal for Reprisals for Loss of Trade.

BELFAST, May 16 (Associated Press). —A new anti-boycott movement has been launched in Belfast by a body styled the "Ulster Trades Defence Association." The organization has issued a manifesto complaining that the Provisional Government in Ireland has failed to deal with "the wanton destruction and looting of Ulster goods" entering Southern Ireland. After reciting constant alleged acts of hostility toward Ulster, the manifesto says:

"Are we to stand with folded arms and make no attempt to defend our interests? The South is determined to ruin our trade. Show it you also can play that game. Refuse to buy Southern goods as the South refuses to buy yours."

PRINCE OF WALES OFF ON HOMEWARD VOYAGE

Leaving Manila He Recalls That on Three World Trips He Has Visited American Territory.

MANILA, P. I., May 15 (Associated Press).—The Prince of Wales departed homeward today aboard the cruiser Renown after a three-day visit in the Philippines. Nothing more strenuous than a set of tennis at Malacanan Palace was on his program for today, but only the advice of his physician kept him from adding to his list of activities a polo game this afternoon.

The Prince still is wearing bandages over his right eye, blackened Saturday by the impact of a polo ball. The morning was spent quietly aboard the Renown, and at noon the Prince was the guest at a luncheon given in his honor at Cavité by Captain William M. Crose, Commandant of the naval station.

The Renown sailed this evening for London via British North Borneo, Penang, Colombo and the Suez Canal. Just before his departure the Prince gave out the following statement:

"I am returning home from the third long voyage I have undertaken since the war, and in the course of each I have had the pleasure of setting foot on United States territory.

"At the conclusion of my visit to Canada in 1919 the President was good enough to invite me to the United States, and I never forget the welcome given me at New York and Washington. During my Australian trip the following year I paid two delightful visits to Honolulu, passed twice through the Panama Canal and called at San Diego. So my third trip, which is nearly ended, would not have been complete had I been unable to keep up my record.

"I consider it, therefore, a special pleasure that by the kindness of the United States Government it has been possible for me to include a visit to the Philippines in my homeward journey. It is a matter of considerable regret to me that the shortness of my stay has not enabled me to visit Baguio, but I need not say how much I have enjoyed my few days in Manila and have appreciated the welcome extended on all sides."

VETERANS' HOSPITALS APPROVED BY HARDING

Seven, Including Two in New York, to Be Started Soon—Four More Coming.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Director Forbes of the Veterans' Bureau announced today that President Harding had approved the bureau's plans to construct new hospitals for former service men. They are to be located as follows: One each at Northampton, Mass.; Livermore, Cal., and Camp Lewis, Wash.; two in New York State—one within fifty miles of New York City and another in the Adirondacks; one at Gulfport, Miss., and one in the tenth veterans' bureau district, which includes Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The President has also approved the purchase of the Methodist Hospital at Memphis, Tenn. The hospital to be built in the Tenth District must be built on Government land or on land acquired by gift. Locations for four other hospitals are before the President and probably will be decided shortly. The Federal Board of Hospitalization is understood to favor building a hospital in southern Indiana, one at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, one at Kansas City, Mo., and one in northern Texas.

Plans and specifications are being drawn for the twelve hospitals which are to be built under the Lankley act authorization of $17,000,000. The program affords facilities for 5,000 tubercular and mental patients. It is expected to be completed within a year.

Bids probably will be called for within ninety days. Preference will be given to ex-service men in the employment resulting from the construction, all of which will be done by private contractors.

INQUIRY ON HETZEL PAROLE.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 16.—Judge John J. White of Atlantic City, a member of the Court of Pardons, asked today that a special meeting of that body be called to investigate the granting of a parole to Kenneth I. Hetzel, and that counsel be asked to show cause why the parole should not be suspended or revoked. Judge White was not present when the parole was granted.

Hetzel, a son of Charles E. Hetzel of Newark, was sentenced to one year in the Essex Penitentiary and fined $1,000. He ran down and fatally injured George M. Voorhees of Newark, Oct. 15, 1921, and did not stop. He served 107 days. Hetzel's name did not appear on the list of applicants for parole and in consequence neither County Judge Stickel, who sentenced Hetzel, nor the county prosecutor's office knew anything about the petition until the Pardons Court had acted.

PUGILIST MUST PAY WIFE.

Mrs. "Lillie Jackson" Wins $125 a Week Alimony.

In a decision handed down yesterday Justice Edward J. Gavegan in the Supreme Court, the Bronx, awarded to Mrs. Faulyne Tobin, 1,006 Intervale Avenue, $2,500 counsel fees and $125 a week alimony in her separation suit against Oscar Tobin, featherweight prize fighter, known in the ring as "Willie Jackson." She charges cruelty extending over a period of five years.

Tobin, who lives at 1,575 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, opposed the alimony at a hearing last week and has a counter-suit pending for divorce. Mrs. Tobin in her complaint said her husband boasted bank deposits of $325,000.

The couple have one child, a daughter, aged 2 years. They were married Nov. 10, 1917.

Statistics and Stitches

Stitchery—considered by most men a mere frivolous diversion—in reality forms the basis of some of this country's greatest industries

THOUSANDS of factories are constantly going full blast to supply the nimble fingers of America's 35,177,515 women and girls with yarns, floss, thread, buttons, snap-fasteners, needles, trimmings—to say nothing of the billions of yards of cotton, linen and silk materials that form the basis of their handiwork.

Practically every woman and girl does some type of needlework, from the beaded bags and personal adornments of girlhood to the bridal trousseau and the decoration of the home.

But for this constant stitching, the bleakness of barns would characterize the 24,000,000 homes of this country. Imagine bare homes without the softening effect of draperies, daintily designed table linens and dresser scarfs, colorful pillows!

The true home maker

The greater the interest a woman takes in needlework and home decoration, the more intense her pride in the home and the appurtenances of home life. The needlework fan is the true home maker. Pride in her home prompts the embroidering of table-linen, the initialing of dainty napkins, designing of fanciful draperies, and other exquisite home decorations.

Of all needlework fans, the most ardent is the Modern Priscilla reader. Her interest prompts her to follow the magazine with the largest needlework department of all women's magazines. Modern Priscilla supplies her with the newest and most artistic designs in embroidering, crocheting, weaving, tatting and knitting. The 600,000 readers of Modern Priscilla are connoisseurs of the needlework art—the true home makers.

The greatest needlework department

A realization of the scope and importance of needlework in home life has actuated Modern Priscilla for years to devote a great share of its columns to the arts of the needle.

It would amaze any man to know what a wide field this matter of stitchery covers—a multitude of designs and a variety of stitches that send Modern Priscilla editors and needlework artists abroad and to the metropolis of America in a constant searching for new designs, new stitches, new tendencies.

In Modern Priscilla appears the largest and most comprehensive needlecraft department of all leading women's magazines.

The home laboratory

Supplementing the work of Modern Priscilla is a home laboratory—the Priscilla Proving Plant. Here every type of household article or food product is tested under typical home conditions. After passing a rigid technical analysis, each product is then tested by (1) an expert housewife with laboratory experience, (2) an expert housewife without scientific training, (3) a novice preparing for housecraft.

Articles that establish their reliability and home utility are awarded a certificate of merit by the Priscilla Proving Plant, and the right to use the PPP seal.

All manufacturers bearing the PPP seal and marked Home Tested and Approved—Priscilla Proving Plant, as a quality guarantee to women purchasers, are invited to write to the Home Testing Department, Modern Priscilla, Boston, Mass.

RUM SHIP CAPTURED 5 MILES OFF SHORE

FIVE OTHER CRAFT HALTED

But Convince Destroyer Hahn, Cruising Beyond 3-Mile Limit, That They Are Innocent.

The "hooch destroyer" Hahn of the Federal "prohibition navy" came into port early yesterday morning with her first prize rum-running vessel carrying a cargo of Scotch whiskies. The 73-foot sloop Grace and Edna was captured Monday night about five miles off Monmouth, N. J., and six members of the crew were arrested. The seventh escaped in a motor boat filled with liquor which drew rapidly away when the Hahn's searchlight was suddenly thrown on the sloop. A rooster on board the Hahn began to crow as the two boats came into the harbor.

Ralph A. Day, Federal Prohibition Director for this State, announced yesterday that he had slated for immediate removal twenty-five agents and that others would be dropped from the service soon because of inefficient service. The Director has estimated that he is getting only about 10 per cent. efficiency from his men.

Federal authorities appeared little interested in the rum-laden airplane from Montreal which crashed Monday night on a farm above Croton-on-the-Hudson, and no plans have been made for combatting this latest method of transporting liquors to New York. Airplane "rum running" has been going on for some time from across the Canadian border, as well as along the Mexican border and from the Bahama Islands to Florida, but so far as known by Federal officials only the one airplane has come into New York State laden with liquors.

Hahn on a Cruise for Smugglers.

The capture of the Grace and Edna was accomplished by Inspector Frank Throp of the Federal prohibition forces and a crew of seven on the Hahn. The Hahn, formerly a submarine chaser, put to sea Monday afternoon and scouted along the Jersey coast. Along about 11 o'clock it came upon the sloop Grace and Edna, anchored about five miles from Monmouth, and threw its powerful searchlight beam on the sailing craft. Three members of the crew threw up their hands in surrender, and one of the three on deck was so surprised that he fainted. Three other members of the crew were below deck, while the seventh man escaped in the motorboat, which, it was said, had just taken 600 cases of liquor from the sloop. The captured vessel is of 125 tons.

The Hahn did not undertake to capture the motorboat for fear the sloop would get away. Going aboard the sloop, the Hahn crew found 1,063 cases of Scotch whisky. Burlap bags containing bottles of whisky were found in every imaginable place, some being suspended from the mast and hangin gover the sides of the vessel. The liquor, it was said, was loaded at Nassau, Bahama Islands. One of two sets of clearing papers showed the vessel was bound for a Canadian port. The destination given in the other set was not announced.

It developed from questioning members of the crew of the Grace and Edna by Howard Barnes, Assistant Solicitor to the Collector of the Port, that dozens of vessels of foreign registry meet American boats and launches just off the coast and dispose of their liquor cargoes, then return to the Bahama Islands for more consignments. They told, also, of the sloop meeting another British boat, Isle of Luzon, at sea, off the Jersey coast, and buying at a bargain price 800 cases of liquor which had been brought up from the Bahama Islands. The Isle of Luzon then started on her return trip for another cargo, it was said.

Arriving off the Jersey coast a week ago, after being out eighteen days from Nassau, the Grace and Edna had disposed of about 600 cases of liquor to tugboats and small vessels, customs officials said.

Prisoners Taken to Newark.

The six members of the crew who were questioned described themselves as T. H. Densmore, 40 years old, of Nassau, pilot of the boat; Alfred A. Knowles, 57, engineer, of Miami, Fla.; John Wells, 57, of Miami, cook; Louis Destange, 25, of Nassau; Ellja C. Craig, 27, of Nassau, and Clinton Saunders, 19, of Miami. The other member of the crew, according to the manifest, was John O. Roney, 56 years old, of Nassau. He is supposed to have escaped in the motorboat. Densmore and Roney, according to the customs authorities, received $150 each for the trip, and Knowles was paid $250. The others received $75 each for the trip. The prisoners were taken to Newark, N. J., and the case will be handled by the Federal authorities there.

The commander of the Hahn stopped five other vessels before the sloop was encountered. The other vessels were able to convince the commander of the Hahn, however, that they were not engaged in the liquor traffic.

Back only a few hours from Albany, where he went to appear as a witness in a case, Dutch Schultz, with his inseparable partner, Moe Smith, in the new roles of furniture movers, yesterday afternoon invaded a garage at 23 East 115th Street and seized 384 cases of choice imported wines with a bootleg value of $35,000. They left summonses for Isidor and Charles Klein, owners of a drug store at 1,504 Madison Avenue, and for Rabbi Jerome Neulander, 915 Leggett Avenue, the Bronx. Izzy said last night that he had not been able tot get in touch with the rabbi.

General prohibition agents, headed by Lone Chief John D. Appleby, completed a raid on the Brooklyn water-front early yesterday morning that netted 72 cases and 321 sacks of Scotch whisky, each sack containing six bottles. The liquor was in a small house built over the water at the foot of Bay Forty-third Street, Brooklyn. The liquors had been shipped here from the Bahamas. The agents said they had negotiated for the purchase of 400 cases at $25 a case. Two men in the house fled as the agents and a police patrol arrived yesterday.

State troopers, who are trying to learn the identity of the pilot of the big biplane which crashed to earth with its cargo of liquor on Monday night, believe that a woman rode in the machine with the man who was killed in the crash after the accident. A powder puff was found in the machine. The plane was a Curtis "C-6" model and the motor number was 331. On the tail there had been painted out the Navy machine number "A 2520." The troopers think the machine was bought from the United States Government after the war. Nobody appeared to claim the airplane or the 150 bottles of Scotch and Irish whiskies.

The troopers announced last night that they had found an aviator's map with roadways marked off on it and secret marks supposed to represent landing places. The map was under the forward cockpit of the machine. It showed roads marked out in red ink leading to Glen Falls, down the east bank of the Hudson River from Albany, with cross roads to Croton, to Briar Cliff, White Plains and a road to Connecticut.

In Federal Court in Newark yesterday fifty-four violators of the liquor laws were sentenced by Judge Charles F. Lynch to pay fines aggregating $7,850. Five defendants were also given jail sentences, ranging from two or four months.

Ralph Monnitto, owner of the Maranaro Restaurant, 1,550 Mermaid Avenue, Coney Island, and a waiter, George Carlin, were given summonses by Agents Evans and Callahan. The latter was disguised as an Italian count. Liquor valued at $185 was seized yesterday in a dairy at 207 East 106th Street, the Bronx, in a saloon at 3,604 Jerome Avenue, the Bronx, in a cider establishment at 5,761 Broadway.

Detectives Solomon and Rosenthal, of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, yesterday seized two stills and arrested two women in a tenement at 715 Second Avenue. The women gave their names as Mrs. Mary Condon, 39, and Mrs. May Barber, 40.

Stephen Esap, of Rossville, Staten Island, was fined $250 by Judge Tiernan, in the Richmond County Court yesterday following his conviction by a jury of illegally possessing a still. In default of payment, Esap was sentenced to serve one day in jail for each $5 unpaid.

WANTS DRY LAW ENFORCED.

Bishop Lines Tells Newark Episcopalians It Is Binding.

Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment until it is changed was urged yesterday by Bishop Edwin S. Lines in his eighteenth annual address, at the opening session of the forty-eighth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark.

"The Eighteenth Amendment was adopted as other amendments have been adopted," the Bishop said, "and it is binding upon us until repealed, as the Constitution itself requires. We know that many officials tell us that the laws cannot be enforced, while they do not seriously endeavor to execute them.

"Much of the talk about the restrictions of personal liberty is unworthy of respectful consideration. The talk of many people living in luxury in great houses, with more than their share of the world's goods and about the wrong done the poor by prohibition is ridiculous."

NEW CHICAGO "DRY" HEAD.

Haynes Appoints Nutt With Power as Director Throughout State.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The appointment of L. G. Nutt, former chief of the narcotic section of the Internal Revenue Bureau, as Associate Federal Prohibition Director for the State of Illinois was announced today by Commissioner Haynes.

Mr. Nutt, who was recently in charge of the "dry" drive in Florida, is to report today at the Chicago office authorized to act "with all the power and authority of a director," Mr. Haynes said.

Commissioner Haynes's action in sending Mr. Nutt to Chicago as Associate Director for Illinois was interpreted in some quarters here as the first step in a reorganization of Illinois prohibition enforcement forces. The possibility that Mr. Nutt eventually would be made Federal prohibition director for the State was intimated.

"It has been the policy of the Washington office," Commissioner Haynes said in a statement, "to give assistance to any of the States directors whenever the progress of the work seemed to warrant it. While the prohibition enforcement work at Chicago has been of a complicated character, it is by no means an impossible task, and, in fact, very excellent progress in the work has been made by Director Gregory and his force, Mr. Gregory being held in very high esteem by the Washington officials.

"However, the character of the work at this particular stage seemed to make it wise to have a man associated with the office who has had long years of training in internal revenue matters. Mr. Nutt is a man of this type and will take with him to Chicago a very broad experience in all the problems which will present themselves in the Chicago office."

CATCH COAST RUM RUNNERS

Cargo Seized at Long Beach, Cal., Said to Be for Hollywood.

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 16.—One man was shot and is believed to be drowned, four men were arrested, and a launch and two trucks, together with 182 cases of liquor, were seized here today following a fight between police and liquor smugglers at the harbor.

The trucks are said by the police to have been engaged by a motion-picture company, and the police assert that the contraband liquor was intended for Hollywood.

SOCIETY WOMAN INVENTOR.

Mrs. George Thompson Commended for Devising a Garment for the Sick.

Mrs. George Thompson of 162 East Sixty-first Street, who is well known in society here and in Oyster Bay, L. I., has been highly commended by more than a hundred distinguished physicians and surgeons of this city for her invention of a garment to be worn by the sick and bed-ridden. These medical men say that it is the most practical garment ever devised for the purposes for which it was intended because it can be removed in part or altogether without disturbing a patient in the slightest degree, thereby facilitating examinations and operations. It will contribute to the recovery of many who are critically ill, they assert, when it is dangerous to attempt to move them, and will prove to be a great blessing to every hospital and sick room where it is used.

It also simplifies and saves time, according to the physicians, when a patient visits a doctor's office, for it is so constructed that it can be worn at all times.

The inspiration came to Mrs. Thompson when she was seriously ill in a hospital. More than anything she dreaded the annoyance and pain incident to the slightest motion. Her brain tackled the problem of how to circumvent the nurses in the matter of being moved about for examinations and changes of clothing, and the result was her "sick garment," as she calls it.

This is how it is done: The back and front of the garment (whether it be pajamas or the old-fashioned nightgown) are made in two parts and are fastened together with snappers. In examinations of the heart and lungs all that is necessary for the nurse to do is to detach the snappers at the neck and shoulders and turn down one half of the front of the garment.

The sleeves are also attached by snappers, and one pull will bring an entire sleeve away so that a hypodermic injection may be given, the examination of a fracture made, or a soiled sleeve may go to the laundry.

If the garment is equipped with leggings, it is in the pajama form, it is made of two parts and can be removed in the same manner.

HURT DOG SEEKS FIRST AID.

Hit by Auto, He Goes Limping Into Nearest Up-State Drug Store.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 16.—Edsall & Billings run a drug store here. Leslie Edsall takes care of the prescription end of the store. His end was vacant this afternoon and he was watching the line of customers at the soda counter and the novelty showcases when he saw a dog sneak in alongside a patron. "Queer dog," Leslie thought. "Doesn't seem to belong to the customer—seems to be by himself." Then he noticed that the dog was walking on three legs and holding up the fourth paw.

While Leslie watched, the dog hopped along on three legs, passing all the customers, until he came to the prescription department, where Leslie has prominently displayed a large "First Aid" sign. As Leslie leaned over his counter, the dog looked up wistfully and held his injured paw up a little higher. Leslie took in the situation at a glance and, taking up the dog, treated the injured paw and put it in splints. The dog wagged his tail and went out.

Leslie says he found out the dog had never seen the drug store before, but had sought it after trying to stop an automobile.

of Four Successive Generations

FOR eighty-five years, genuine Haviland China has been the choice of New Yorkers who by instinct, education and association, naturally prefer the best. To them, Haviland China is, and always has been, the correct thing to use—and to give. The recognized fine china ware—so, the recognized gift, the perfect gift. Today even persons who wrongly consider Haviland China too fine for their own use, would give nothing less fine as a Wedding present. Very properly, they maintain, nothing is too good for a Bride. And, of course, the best is the genuine Haviland China. Sold here—and only here—in New York.

one of the chief causes of constipation?

The question is taken from an important paper on the treatment of constipation by a well-known physician

DID it ever occur to you that the cathartic you take to relieve constipation, is the cause of your trouble?

Yet when a number of doctors were discussing this almost universal complaint one of them said: "Probably one of the most frequent causes of constipation is the indiscriminate use of cathartics." For years physicians have tried to persuade people to give up laxatives and to eat corrective foods instead.

It is now known that Fleischmann's Yeast is a food which makes the use of cathartics unnecessary. Because of its freshness it helps the intestines eliminate waste matter.

People who are adding Fleischmann's Yeast to their daily diet find that their body functions are kept normal and regular. Eat 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals every day. Place a standing order with your grocer. He will deliver Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily.

PEKING IS ALARMED FOR CHINESE UNITY

Diplomatic Corps Takes a Grave View of Chang's Moves to Cut Off Manchuria.

WU MAY RENEW THE WAR

PEKING, May 16 (Associated Press.)—A dispatch received from official sources in Mukden says that General Tso-Lin has ordered the Post Office receipts deposited in his treasury. The action is taken as an indication that Chang Tso-Lin has begun to exercise the functions of an independent sovereign.

The attitude of the Peking Government toward Chang Tso-Lin's seizure of the Manchurian branch of the Chinese Post Office system, which has been reported here, is that the act is one of usurpation. Officials profess lack of definite satisfaction of Chang Tso-Lin's declaration of independence, but say his intention to separate Manchuria and Mongolia from China proper has long been foreshadowed. They do not intend, they declare, to permit him to build up such an empire unmolested.

General Wu Pei-fu, who defeated Chang Tso-lin in the recent campaign about Peking, is concentrating his most available troops north of Tientsin for the purpose of driving the Manchurians northward as far as Mukden if Chang Tso-lin persists in exercising independent sovereignty.

The diplomatic corps at Peking regards the Manchurian situation as fraught with the gravest possibilities to the integrity of China. All the foreign powers are being kept fully advised of developments.

TOKIO, May 16 (Associated Press).—The declaration of independence issued by Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian leader, is viewed seriously by the Japanese newspapers owing to the possibility of his entering into agreements with the Soviet and Chita Governments, thus menacing Japanese interests in Manchuria. Foreign Minister Uchida said today, however:

"There is no reason to pre-suppose a change in the situation or the necessity for any change in the attitude or policy of Japan. So long as life and property are safeguarded there is no reason to anticipate trouble."

The Foreign Minister reiterates the previous declarations of Japan's neutrality and her hope for an early readjustment of the differences which are harming China and affecting her prestige abroad.

TIENTSIN, May 16 (Associated Press).—The Christian General's Eleventh Division, which won the victory near Peking, resulting in the Fengtiem retreat of Chang Tso-lin's forces, is now passing Tientsin in the direction of Tangshan.

General Chang Tso-lin is seizing all the postal, customs and salt revenues in Manchuria and has ordered a new flag to be designed for the new "Kai-Feng" State extending from Kaifeng to Manchuria. He has renamed the railway in this territory the Kaifeng Railway.

REPORT SOLDIER ALIVE; HALT GIRL'S WILL SUIT

Stenographer, Seeking Estate on Verbal Testament, Must Await an Investigation.

After hearing testimony yesterday that Ernest C. Mason, the Brooklyn soldier whose estate is being fought on a verbal will by Miss Lenore B. Knapp, had been seen in Brest, France, after the date of his supposed capture by the Germans and subsequent death, Surrogate George A. Wingate, in Brooklyn, reserved decision until rumors that the soldier was alive could be investigated.

Miss Knapp, a stenographer living at 2,920 Ryer Avenue, the Bronx, who says she was the fiance of Mason, bases her claim to his estate on the testimony of two ex-soldiers that Mason expressed a desire before capture by the Germans to leave all his property to her. Her counsel supports her suit with a letter alleged to have been written to her by Mason while at camp in this country, saying that he had insured his life and that in case anything happened to him she would be well provided for.

Miss Mary Eldridge of Flandome, Long Island, a cousin of Mason, testified that Ernest Brotherhood, another cousin, had told her of seeing Mason in Brest subsequent to the report of his death by the Government. Henry C. Mason of 658 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, an uncle of Mason, who is contesting Miss Knapp's action, testified that although his nephew and Miss Knapp had both been employed in his office, he had never heard of their being engaged. The hearing was postponed for a month.

VICTIM OF MEXICAN MOB.

But Miss Streeter, American Missionary, Is Expected to Recover.

EL PASO, Texas, May 16.—A mob of 400 persons in a Durango (Mexico) village who attacked Miss Elizabeth Streeter, a missionary, on the night of May 4, confiscated Bibles from Miss Streeter's party and used them for fuel for bonfires, according to the Rev. E. G. Sexton, one of the mob's victims, who made a sworn statement, an English translation of which was received today by Mrs. J. P. Lancaster of El Paso, wife of the Methodist presiding elder of the Torreon district.

Miss Streeter's condition is serious, according to reports received from Durango City today, but she will recover.

Miss Streeter has been in Mexico since before the revolution. She is an independent missionary. Her home is in Meridian, Miss.

LUNACY BOARD FOR SLAYER.

Commissioner to Be Named to Examine Negro Who Shot Policeman.

Judge Nott yesterday in General Sessions announced that he would appoint a commission in lunacy to examine Hugh Chambers, the negro, who on May 3 shot and killed Policeman Henry L. Poindexter of the West 135th Street Station, after he had shot Louis A. Lavelle, a negro lawyer, in the latter's office, at 28 Lenox Avenue. Assistant District Attorney Brothers joined Hilliard F. Eldridge, counsel for the negro, in the request for the appointment of the commission. Mr. Ellison said that when Judge Nott appointed him counsel for the negro on the preceding day he visited his client in the Tombs.

FIND DICE AND CARDS IN SLAIN MAN'S POCKETS

Westchester Sheriff and Coroner at Work on Early Morning Murder Mystery.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 16.—A pack of cards and a pair of dice found on the body of a young man shot through the chest in a lonely spot in the road in King Street at the head of the Kensico Reservoir, this morning, gives rise to theory that the murder was the outcome of a game. The body has not been identified. The Sheriff's office and Troop K, State Police, are working on several scant clues.

The body was found by Duncan Rose at 8 o'clock. He notified the State Police and Coroner Edward Fitzgerald, who went to the scene. The man had been dead about four hours.

On the inside pocket of the slain man's coat the number of a tailor or clothier was found. The numerals were 322, while on the collar band of his shirt the laundry mark "E. H." was found. Beside the cards and dice, $1.06 and a cheap cigarette case were in the pockets. That the murdered man served in the army is believed by Sheriff Werner, as he had on army underclothing and carried a khaki handkerchief.

There were no signs of a struggle. The single shot went clear through the body. As no footprints other than the victim's were found, it is believed he was killed by someone in an automobile from which he had just alighted.

He weighed about 130 pounds, was 5 feet 8 inches in height and wore a brown suit, dark necktie, black shoes and socks.

EX-KAISER A GARDENER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 16.—According to the latest reports from Doorn, the ex-Kaiser has tired of his woodsawing, of which other hobbies have taken the place. This Spring he has busied himself every morning with gardening, sowing the seeds of many flowers. He is especially interested in Japanese and English seeds and also in grafting. A new hothouse has been built in the garden where he works daily. Spading also appears to appeal to the ex-Kaiser, who on account of his withered arm has had a spade made for himself. His two adjutants are obliged to help him in his gardening. It was while he was using his spade recently that an American film operator tried to photograph him from an automobile.

William has talked lately with two German journalists who came especially from Germany to see him. These visits are supposed to be in conection with the publication of a book.

ACCUSE SAILSTAD OF PLOT.

Insurance Agents Say He Put Bones in Fire, Eloped With Stenographer.

SUPERIOR, Wis., May 16.—Special agents for insurance companies which have been sued for $65,000, the amount of life insurance carried by Edward J. Sailstad, Eau Claire manufacturer, whose wife alleged he lost his life in a cabin fire at Lake Nebagamon on the night of Aug. 27, 1920, announced today the beginning of a nation-wide search for Dorothy Anderson, Sailstad's stenographer.

The companies will contend when the damage suit comes to trial that Sailstad eloped with Miss Anderson after placing human bones in the cabin which was fired, the special agents announced.

A pathologist at the University of Wisconsin last week declared the charred bones to be those of a man of small stature. Sailstad was described as a "man of medium build."

The damage claim is being pressed by Mrs. Leona Sailstad-Richardson of Eau Claire. The case is scheduled to be tried during the September term of court here.

SEES LIBRARY AS FIRST AID.

Dr. Finley Says They Should Be Used by Adults in Difficulty.

The New York Special Libraries Association held its annual dinner last night at the New York State Chamber of Commerce, 65 Liberty Street. The speakers were Irving T. Bush, President of the New York State Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Luther Gulick, National Institute of Public Administration; Dr. John H. Finley, and Miss Rebecca B. Rankin, President of the Special Libraries Association.

Dr. Finley said that "the library ought to be the first aid station to all adults in difficulty." Dr. Gulick emphasized the need for more inclusive reports by public officials, "more history of experiences." "Without a scientific record of experience," he said, "public administration will remain inevitably on the same primitive level at which it now is."

EVANS'S EXECUTION PUT OFF

Appeal Prevents Slayer's Death Until Higher Court Acts.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, May 16.—Officials of Sing Sing announced today that an appeal had been taken from the death sentence imposed upon William J. Evans, now in the deathhouse, who was to have been executed on Thursday night.

The appeal, filed with Warden Lewis E. Lawes, automatically delays the electrocution until the Court of Appeals reviews his trial. Its decision is not expected before Fall.

Evans, who is 23 years old, was convicted of the murder of Paul Gillman, a druggist, of 162 Court Street, Brooklyn. His brother, F. N. Evans, is serving a twenty-year sentence for complicity in the same crime.

SPANISH IRONWORKERS OUT

28,000 Strike in Bilbao District—Coal Miners Refuse Reduction.

BILBAO, Spain, May 16.—Twenty-eight thousand iron workers, comprising practically all of those employed in this district, went on strike yesterday in protest against the reduction of their wages. No disorders have occurred, but the authorities have taken extensive precautions.

OVIEDO, Spain, May 16.—The Asturian coal miners have refused to accept the 20 per cent. wage reduction imposed by the proprietors of the Coal Federation. A special meeting of the miners' union has been called for May 20 at which it is expected a strike will be declared.

A NEW FISH STORY.

It Comes From Honolulu and Is Full of Romance.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 24 (Associated Press.)—(By Mail.)—Fish, like human beings, go on honeymoons immediately after marriage, but their trips are an annual affair, H. L. Kelly, Territorial Fish and Game Commissioner, told an audience here.

"Along in October and November fish in Hawaiian waters begin brightening up their scales and polishing their markings so that the spots stand out more distinctly and they take on extra weight until they have a much more graceful and symmetrical appearance," he said.

A Great Adventure For a Valiant Million!

Who Will Give the First Million to Save the Miners From Being Starved Into Submission?

The question is addressed to millionaires in the faith. (say of a "God's Fool" if you please) that there is among them at least one man or woman whose millions are being mobilized to march to the fraternal music now sounding in the ears of the awakening human spirit.

Whatever may be the rights of the coal strike, it is wrong and nothing but wrong—it is unfair, unsportsmanlike, un-American and unwise—to starve the miners into submission. "When you take your belt up two more holes, we'll get you," is not the right answer for America to make to the American miner—or to permit any group to make.

That would be to put the iron into the soul of our miners and poison into the blood of their wives and children. And that would be shameful and unwise.

Our mining population (men, women and children) numbers about three million souls—every one of them just as human as you or I. "Out of sight, out of mind" perhaps applies to no group of our fellows so much as to our miners. And yet they are in one important respect the most essential group in our modern society.

Upon the strange willingness of our miners to work in the dark, damp choky bowels of the earth, cheek by jowl with death, depends the well-being of well-nigh every home and school, every church and hospital, and the operation of every ship and railroad, every factory and furnace.

Underneath our civilization, energizing and sustaining it, are the everlasting arms of our brothers who live a buried life that we may have a place in the sun on God's green earth and breathe clean fresh air.

Our debt to our miners is immeasurable. In the case of the millionaire that is peculiarly true.

Nevertheless, there may be some who think the miners ought not to win this strike.

But there ought not to be anybody who wants to see the miners lose by sheer starvation. There ought not to be anybody who desires to see the miners hounded back to the mines by hunger to eat with a rankling heart what to them is the bitter bread of injustice.

That would be discreditable to us all. That would be unfair. . . . Unsportsmanlike. Mean. . . . downright mean. Yes, socially saffron . . . economically yellow.

If the Era of Good Feeling is to return, is it not time for us to put our feet down hard and firm on that sort of thing?

Whatever happens—let us serve notice on those who enter into a covenant with hunger to break the spirit of the American worker that the American spirit will not tolerate such social tactics.

Just at this moment there is a Splendid Chance for a Valiant Million to stand forth and say: "However this strike is settled, it shall not be settled by starving the miners into submission. Some better way must be found, either in Washington or outside Washington. It must be settled on its merits."

The gift of a cool million to feed the miners and their families at this juncture would make the whole country sit up and take notice and cast about for some fair and honorable method of settling this great strike before the ugly possibilities involved in it become tragic actualities.

ARE THE MINERS STARVING THEMSELVES BY STRIKING?

"Estimates of the cost of living, prepared for the United Mine Workers and presented by them to the Bituminous Coal Commission, showed that in January, 1920, $1,603 was required for a budget to provide a 'minimum of subsistence' for a family of five. The cost of a 'minimum of health and comfort' for families living in mining communities was estimated as requiring an annual income of $2,244. Even in the prosperous year of 1918 the miners' average annual earnings were not equal to the minimum of subsistence, except for the annual income of a comparatively small group of machine miners employed 'full opportunity,' as estimated from the operators' figures, and their earnings were nearly $500 less in a year than the miners' 'minimum of comfort' budget."—The Coal Miners' Insecurity, p. 49, published by the Russell Sage Foundation, 1922. The average annual earnings for bituminous miners for the year 1921, as given by W. Jett Lauck and quoted in this same study (as the only figures so far available) are: Pittsburgh District, $736; Ohio, $550; West Virginia (New River), $500; Tennessee, $420. P. 46.

FIND SLAYER HIDING AS NAVY DESERTER

Detectives Trace E. L. Mayo, Who Killed Taxi Driver in Jersey.

BLAMES BAD WHISKY SALE

Prisoner Says He Shot Fox Because His Victim Had Sold Him Impure Liquor.

After a two-day hunt Ernest L. Mayo, a deserter from Camp Dix, wanted for the murder of Jonas A. Fox, taxi driver, at Hainesport, N. J., on May 3, was located yesterday in the New York Navy Yard in Brooklyn by Detectives Martin and Oswald of the homicide squad. Mayo was awaiting trial for deserting from the navy in 1919.

Mayo confessed to the detectives he had shot Fox because the taxi driver had sold him some "bum hooch."

"I told him I would get him," Mayo told the detectives, "and he said to go ahead and get him. I told him that I was always good at keeping my word, and I did."

According to the story Mayo told in Captain Carey's office, he and two other soldiers hired Fox at Camp Dix to take them to Philadelphia on May 3. They met two other soldiers in the city, and after spending the day drinking the five started for Camp Dix. At Hainesport, about five miles from the camp, Mayo, who was sitting beside the driver, quarrelled with him about the whisky, he related. After his threat to "get" Fox, Mayo told the police that he quietly drew his revolver and reached around behind the driver, the pistol in his left hand. Then he ordered Fox to slow down. The driver complied and Mayo pulled the trigger. Fox collapsed over the wheel and Mayo pulled him out from the driver's seat and took the wheel himself, pushing Fox into his own seat.

The wounded driver, according to Mayo's confession, attempted to reach for the steering wheel, whereupon the soldier fired two more shots into Fox's body. He then turned the car off the main road to Camp Dix into a heavily wooded lane and threw the body into some underbrush, after removing Fox's wallet, which contained $4.16 and a driver's license. Then with his companions he drove to Philadelphia. There the other soldiers left him and Mayo brought the car to New York, leaving it at a garage in West Forty-ninth Street. On May 6, according to the confession, Mayo went to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and surrendered under the name of Perry Stewart, saying that he deserted from the navy in February, 1919.

Mayo said that his home was Camilla, Ga., and that his father, Joseph M. Mayo, was a Baptist pastor there. He said a brother was a member of the Georgia Legislature.

Mayo was taken to Mount Holly, N. J., last night by Detective Cain.

INSULL URGES ADVERTISING.

Electric Light Men's Convention Is Told Big Year Lies Ahead.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 16.—At the forty-fifth annual convention of the National Electric Light Association today Martin J. Insull of Chicago urged all electric light and power company executives to devote more attention to the customer and besides utilizing the newspapers and other publications for advertising to make use also of motion pictures and direct mail advertising material—to follow the example of other business and advertise wherever possible.

Forecasts for a tremendous business boom during the next year were made by M. H. Aylesworth, Executive Manager of the association.

"Never before in the history of the companies have electric light and power securities been so avidly purchased by the public as at present," he said. "Although the staggering sum of $750,000,000 will be required annually for the next two or three years, there is no question that it will be readily obtained at fair rates of interest."

HARDINGS TO FETE DISABLED

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President and Mrs. Harding are planning to repeat on June 7 the garden party for wounded soldiers held in the White House grounds last year, it was learned today. Arrangements are being made through the Veterans' Bureau for the attendance of about 100 veterans who are undergoing treatment in hospitals here and in near-by States, and it is understood that forty-nine girls, one from each State in the Union and the District of Columbia, may be asked to assist at the reception.

BERLIN, May 16.—The most secret documents of the Foreign Office archives, including documents accessible only to the Foreign Ministers during their incumbency and never seen by other Foreign Office officials, even by the Wirklichgeheimräter [really secret privy councillors] will soon be published.

Three years ago the Foreign Office decided on the unprecedented step of publishing all documents and other secret material in the archives having a bearing on historical events from the Franco-Prussian War to the outbreak of the World War. Three professors, Albrecht Mendelssohn Bartholdi, Johannes Lepsius and Friedrich Thimme, were engaged for the task of research, compilation and editing to produce what will be a monumental source-work in twenty folio volumes.

The first six volumes, which will be published soon, cover the entire Bismarkian era to the Chancellor's fall. The material will include confidential instructions to and confidential reports from Ambassadors, Ministers and military and naval attachés.

THREE KILLED BY AUTOS.

Seven Hurt When Wheel Flies Off in Jersey.

Running after a ball thrown into the street, Murad Shalems, 12, of 2,122 Sixty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, darted in front of an auto driven by Max Zaita, an importer of 1,962 Sixty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, and was killed. A wheel went over his head.

Running to join his chum on the opposite side of the street, Irving Mochin, 6, of 173 Madison Street, was killed by a motor truck last night in front of his home. Morris Noles of 270 Monroe Street, driver of the truck, was arrested on a technical charge of homicide and taken to the Clinton Street Station.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., May 15.—Lewis Crowder, 37, of this place, was killed here today and seven others were injured when the wheel of an automobile flew off. The injured are: Almer F. Buckley of Westville, fractured arm; John Ewert, Mrs. Anna Gilmore and Frank Gilmore, all of Gloucester, injuries on the head; John Osinki, Camden, injuries of hands and legs; F. J. Tegan, Brooklawn, cuts on the head, and David Reisch, Brooklawn, left arm fractured. All were taken to Cooper's Hospital, Camden.

WANTS TO IMITATE CRIME.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—The theory that feeble-minded persons with criminal tendencies often are actuated by a desire to imitate a crime they have heard or read about received a striking illustration today in Paris. The attention of a policeman on the Quai d'Orsay was attracted by the bizarre appearance and behavior of a young woman. Hailing her, he received the extraordinary reply: "Don't disturb me. I am seeking for a piece of firewood with which to kill my mistress."

Taken to the police station, she was found to be a servant girl, Marie Laferre, who had been eight years with the same family. Previously she was a temporary inmate of an asylum, but she has been apparently normal since and an excellent domestic. During the cross-examination she became very violent, insisting she must beat the mistress to death with a piece of firewood and then drown herself. Having announced this intention, she handed the magistrate 10,000 francs, saying it was all her savings and somebody might as well profit by the sum. The struggling girl was then removed to the police infirmary.

There seems every reason to believe Marie Laferre's weak mind was influenced by the crime of Zenobie Oliver, who a couple of days ago beat her mistress to death at the piano with a piece of firewood, while Zenobie herself had been influenced by the crime of a crazy workman who killed a journalist in the middle of a boulevard, also with a piece of wood.

GEORGIA PEACHES HERE.

Season's First Trainload Arrives—Few on the Market Now.

The first train load of this season's Georgia peaches will be offered for sale on the New York City market this morning, having arrived last night. At present there are virtually no peaches on the local markets. A few shipments have been received recently from Chile.

It was said at the office of Herschal H. Jones, Director of the New York office of the State Department of Foods and Markets, that the first train load of Georgia peaches would doubtless be grabbed up by the dealers, owing to the scarcity of peaches on the market now.

Dealers were much interested in the Government report sent out yesterday that the fruit and truck crops in Maryland, Delaware and adjacent States suffered severely from the heavy frost in the last part of April. The Lake Erie peach district and Southeastern Ohio apple region were also severely affected. Elsewhere in the upper Mississippi Valley, only scattered unimportant areas are reported to be injured.

LABOR TERROR SEEN IN CHICAGO FIRE

struction Company, which did the mason work on the apartment building, were said to have made the same admission.

Acting on this information Chief Fitzmorris, who for the first time in ten days had planned to spend the night at home, returned to his office. All reserves which, on the night of the murders of Patrolman Clark and Acting Lieutenant Lyons were called out to round up all labor agents, again were directed to be on call.

Two new arrests, one that of a woman; extensive raids by rifle squads on homes in Chicago Heights and Kankakee, Ill., and search for two additional men whom officials state positively actually shared in the slaying of two policemen last Wednesday, were the chief developments today in the drive against labor terrorists.

The woman in custody is Mrs. Margaret Miller, 32 years old, wife of a bartender against whom a murder indictment has been returned as the driver of the car from which the policemen were shot. She was examined by State's Attorney Crowe and Chief of Police Fitzmorris.

Crowe admitted that Mrs. Miller is a most important witness, and intimated an intention of eventually preferring charges against her. She, it is understood, was closely examined as to her knowledge of a large quantity of dynamite, caps and fuses found secreted at the Miller home. The officials also hoped through continued examination of the woman to glean much information as to the inside operations of the gang whose rendezvous was the Miller saloon at Van Buren and South Wood Streets.

While the State's Attorney, Chief Fitzmorris and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, continued their investigation two detective squads, commanded by Lieutenants Norton and Murphy, swooped down on suburban towns whence, according to tips, men implicated in the bombings and slayings had fled.

One suspected person, whose identity was concealed, was arrested while he was driving his car at the rate of fifty miles an hour on the highway between Chicago Heights and Kankakee.

Mr. Crowe admitted tonight that the arrest of two more men was necessary before the State could complete its case. "I will say positively that Miller was will attend the driver of the automobile from which Acting Lieutenant Terrance Lyons and Thomas Clarke were shot," said the State's Attorney, "It is certain, too, that we will, at least for the time being, hold Miller's wife.

"I will also say positively that we have the names of two additional men who were in the death car, and whom we know beyond the question of a doubt fired shots which killed the police officers. Chief Fitzmorris's men are trying desperately hard now to pick these two men up and I believe they'll be successful in doing so before morning."

All law enforcement officials seeking to link murder evidence against the actual executors of the crimes and the conspiracy cases against the "Big Three" of the labor world, "Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader and Cornelius Shea, continued their conferences far into the night. One of the principals in the conferences, Edwin Sims, President of the Chicago Crime Commission, asserted that he had evidence linking Murphy beyond doubt with at least two mail thefts, for which he is under Federal conviction, as well as with the labor outrages.

Mr. Sims said his chain of circumstantial evidence showed "Big Tim" robbed the mails to get money with which to tyrannize over the labor world. About $250,000 was obtained in the Pullman and Polk Street robberies it was recalled.

The alleged threatening by Murphy of William Muszynski was cited by Mr. Sims as indication that Murphy feared the boy's identification of him. It seems clear this lad was persistently pursued from place to place by Murphy and his agents because it was feared he would provide evidence linking Murphy with the shootings and bombings as well as with the mail robberies, declared Mr. Sims.

Detectives are seeking to learn the significance of a trip to South Chicago Monday night by the wives of Murphy and Mader. A car in which they were driving was overtaken by a motor cycle policeman who arrested the two women and their companions for speeding. Mrs. Murphy declared the trip was on behalf of "Big Tim."

ROBBERS GET $1,944 IN 10TH STORE RAID

FLEE IN FAST AUTOMOBILE

Victim Gives Chase, but Loses Trail —Police Suspect Aid by Former Employe.

Three armed men held up a collector for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company yesterday afternoon in one of the company's grocery stores at 1,636 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, robbed him of $1,944 in cash and checks and escaped in an automobile.

The police said the robbers constituted one of the most daring of the bands of hold-up men that have been preying upon chain stores in all parts of the metropolitan district recently. The hold-up was the tenth time an Atlantic and Pacific store in or near New York had been robbed since Jan. 1, 1922. Nine Beck-Hazzard shoe stores have been robbed in the same period, and several of the Thomas Rouiston chain grocery stores have also fallen victims to these bands.

The collector robbed yesterday was Albert Madden of 951 Ninety-third Street, Brooklyn. Madden made collections from fourteen different stores of the company, riding in an automobile. At the store on Eastern Parkway he obtained $75 from the manager, Samuel Leventhal, and turned to go back to his car, when the robbers attacked him.

With pistols in their hands, the three men pressed around him at the door and forced him back into the store. Then they ordered the collector, the manager and two customers, a man and a woman, who happened to be in the store, to put up their hands. Seizing the money bag from Madden, the robbers backed the woman and the three men into a rear room, locking them in. Then they ran into the street and jumped into an automobile they had left with the engine running several doors away.

Madden and Leventhal broke down the door of the back room and dashed into the street in pursuit of the robbers, yelling for help. The collector got into his car and tried to follow the robbers, but they had got such a start that he lost the trail.

The police say the robbers had "inside information," because, when they first demanded the money from Madden and he gave them only the $75 envelope he had collected from Leventhal, they told him they knew he had lots more and made him hand over all of it. It appeared that somebody formerly employed by the company had given the robbers such information that they were able to follow Madden and rob him after he had taken in an amount worth while. Detective William Cohen of the Brownsville Police Station was assigned to investigate the case.

In one of the recent hold-ups of Atlantic & Pacific stores, at Third Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, on March 23, Richard J. O'Shea, the manager of the store, was shot and killed by the robbers, who escaped in an automobile without getting any loot because of the battle put up by the manager.

Other A. & P. stores robbed since the first of the year and the amount stolen in each case are:

Jan. 9—87 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, $420.
Jan. 31—7,105 Eighteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, $90.
Feb. 6—338 Ninth Avenue, $135.
Feb. 27—338 Ninth Avenue, $10.
March 4—5,321 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, $450.
March 11—East Orange, N. J., $35.

THREE SEIZED IN HOLD-UP.

Prisoners Accused of Robbing Man on Way to Synagogue.

Three men accused of having held up and robbed Isaac Brockman, 62 years old, of 34 Attorney Street yesterday morning, were held in $25,000 bail each by Magistrate Oberwager in the Tombs Court yesterday afternoon. The men said they were Frank Parent of Cliffwood, N. J.; Edward Nolan of the Palace Hotel, the Bowery, and Joseph Grasso, 159 Mulberry Street.

Brockman was on his way to a synagogue when four men attacked him in Norfolk Street, near Grand. They knocked him down and while one was choking him the others took jewelry and money valued at $747.

Patrolman Patrick Madigan heard Brockman's cries for help. The robbers saw Madigan and ran. The policeman fired his revolver and gave chase, arresting three men.

3 HOLD UP CIGAR STORE.

Revolver Pointed at Woman While Till Is Robbed of $107.

Three well dressed young men walked into the cigar and stationery store kept by Adolph Cook, at 1,328 Third Avenue, early last evening and holding up the proprietor's wife at the point of a gun, robbed the till of $107. Mr. Cook had stepped out of the store, leaving it in charge of his wife just before the three men walked in. One asked for a package of cigarettes and when the woman handed it over the counter she looked into a revolver, held by one of the men.

"Walk quietly into the back room or you're head will be blown off," the young man with the gun remarked. Mrs. Cook obeyed with alacrity and two men stood guard over her while the other took all the money that was in the till. They then left the store, jumped into a waiting automobile and drove away. Detectives from the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station were looking for them last night.

THIEF CHASE IN SUBWAY.

Prisoner Held on Charge of Picking Woman's Pocket.

After a chase on the downtown platform of the Broadway subway at the Ninety-sixth Street station yesterday, David Goldstein, a plumber, of 2,034 Third Avenue, was arrested. In the West Side Court he was held by Magistrate George W. Simpson on a charge of grand larceny.

Detective Louis Glasser was in a crowd at the station when he heard a woman scream, "Stop thief!" Goldstein was seen to jump down to the tracks on the downtown side. Glasser pursued him, and after a short struggle took Goldstein back to the crowd. The detective said he found a pocketbook in the prisoner's pocket containing $83, which Mrs. Florence Holden of 208 West 105th Street identified as her property. She also identified Goldstein, the detective said, as the man who had taken it from her when she made the outcry.

LOOT HAT STORES OF $2,700

Burglars Time Raids After Heavy Sales.

In two carefully timed burglaries of hat stores looters obtained $2,700 early Monday. In both stores the contents of the safes were swollen because of the big sale of hats for the opening of the straw hat season.

Entering from the rear, burglars drilled open the safe of the Sarnoff-Irving store, at 1,390 Fifth Avenue, near 115th Street, and obtained approximately $1,000. A drawer, some burglar's tools and a tweed hat were found on the roof, where the burglars evidently had divided the spoils. The other burglary, in which $1,700 was taken, occurred at 100 Delancey Street.

JERSEY PISTOL LAW URGED BY MAYORS

Hylan, Hague and Others Attend Conference Here to Check Crime.

CITY ORDINANCES PROPOSED

Ban Asked on City Sales and on Handling of Small Arms by Pawnbrokers.

A Sullivan law for New Jersey, an anti-pistol ordinance for Jersey City and an ordinance for this city preventing the traffic in pistols by pawnbrokers were advocated yesterday at a conference at City Hall of officials of New York City and Jersey City, attended by Mayor Hylan, Police Commissioner Enright, Chief of Police Long of Jersey City and many others.

Mayor Hague said he had been fighting for six years to get through the New Jersey legislature a statute like the Sullivan law, but that it had always been blocked by an opposition led by Senator Clarence Case of Somerset County, who had the bill killed in the interests of the pistol makers.

"Isn't there some way the Senator could be recalled?" asked Mayor Hylan.

"No, we have no recall in New Jersey," said Mayor Hague. "I have told him repeatedly of murders caused by this protection. I told him of the murder of three of our citizens. He answered that we proposed too stringent a law. Then I told him that he was partly responsible for the crimes in New York. He replied, 'Oh, let New York look after itself.'"

Mayor Hague said 90 per cent. of the criminals who operated in New York were armed with pistols obtained in New Jersey. The Mayor said he would try to have an ordinance passed prohibiting the sale of small arms in Jersey City.

Police Commissioner Enright said there was no basis for the argument that pistol selling should be permitted in order that householders might be armed.

"Having a gun in the house is no protection," said the Commissioner. "A man is awakened in the middle of the night and even though he had a gun it is probably in a closet or a drawer. Even if he had it by his side the crook has got the drop on him and he has no chance to use it. If he could use it, he probably couldn't shoot straight enough to hit the side of a barn door."

Assistant Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson offered a draft of an ordinance which will be presented to the Board of Aldermen by President Murray Hulbert, and which in part follows:

"Section 128-A—Firearms—No pawnbroker shall loan any money on any pistol, revolver or other firearm of any size which may be concealed upon the person. No pawnbroker shall sell, give or transfer any such firearm, which may be in his lawful possession at the time when this ordinance takes effect, except to a person expressly authorized under the provision of Section 1897 of the penal law to possess such firearm and possessor of a license then validly existing, pursuant to the provisions of that section, to the body of which license shall be attached a coupon as therein provided, which coupon shall be removed and retained by the pawnbroker. The pawnbroker shall immediately deliver to the Police Department a transcripe of his register, showing . . . the date of sale, name, age, occupation and residence of the purchaser, together with the calibre, make, model and manufacturer's number or other mark of identification on such firearm."

District Attorney Banton said he would take up with the publishers of certain New York newspapers the question of banning the advertisements of pistol manufacturers which now appear in some Sunday editions.

SURE GIRL WAS MURDERED.

Attorney for Family of Lillian White Drops Habeas Corpus Action.

At the conclusion of the hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings brought by the relatives of Lillian White against the Superintendents of the Letchworth Village Home for Girls and the Bedford Reformatory, Anna W. Hochfelder, attorney for the family, told Justice Leander B. Faber in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn that the authorities had agreed to co-operate with the family, and that she wished to withdraw the writ of habeas corpus.

Dr. Charles S. Little, head of the Letchworth Village Home at Thiells, N. Y., told the Court that Lillian White disappeared from there last September, and that he had no knowledge of her present whereabouts.

John White, a brother of Lillian White, was positive that the body found on the mountain in Rockland County was that of his sister. He said that the family was anxious to bury the body in their family plot. Lawyer Hochfelder said: "We have proof which we believe is indisputable that the woman who was murdered in Rockland County was Lillian White."

STOLEN GEMS SOLD HERE.

Chicago Jeweler Who Had $6,000 in Loot Blames New York Broker.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16. The police of this city today recovered $4,000 worth of unset diamonds, believed to be part of the robbery of $100,000 in gems from Mrs. Mitchell Harrison, wife of a Philadelphia sugar refiner, when she arrived on a train at the Pennsylvania Station in New York on April 30, last. The diamonds were found by Detective Sergeants Burch and O'Brien in the offices of A. Quint & Co., jewelers, in the Mailers Building here. Mr. Quint told them that he bought the stones from a New York jewelry broker.

It was said that the gems were traced through the recent arrest of Ruth Hayden, Luman Beebe, David Busnell and John Gavin of 4,816 Wentworth Avenue, Chicago, in Harrisburg, Pa. They are now being detained in New York pending further investigation of the robbery.

Garment Workers Aid Strikers.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers also have contributed toward the aid of the West Virginia strikers.

MILLER TELLS OF RECORD.

Governor Says Business Methods Have Ruled His Administration.

UTICA, N. Y., May 16.—Declaring that he has applied business methods to the administration of State affairs, Governor Nathan L. Miller, addressing the Utica Chamber of Commerce tonight, analyzed the achievements of his Administration, laying especial stress on steps toward retrenchment in government expenditures.

The revision of the budget system by scientific means, cutting of salaries, positions and appropriations, the introduction of a standardized purchasing department for State supplies, efforts to distribute the burden of taxation equitably and the program of development of natural resources and the barge canal were cited as the outstanding accomplishments.

FOR GRAIN FUTURES CHANGE

Farm Bloc Members Study Measures to Meet Court Decision.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Members of the Senate agricultural bloc today began study of measures to meet the Supreme Court decision yesterday virtually nullifying the Grain Futures act. Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, Chairman of the farm grou, and Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon, had an informal conference and predicted that new legislation would be developed to meet at least in part the court's ruling.

Under consideration, it was said, was a bill to license grain traders and provide penalties for violation of regulations to be prescribed by the Department of Agriculture restricting future grain trades. Senators said they believed that a smaller penalty than that of 20 cents a bushel, provided in the law before the court, might be as effective.

WON'T EXTRADITE VIRGINIANS.

Miller Refuses Demand of Governor of Virginia on Legal Grounds.

ALBANY, May 16.—Governor Miller declined today on legal grounds to grant the demand of the Governor of Virginia for the extradition of R. H. McMasters and James A. Cochran, indicted in that State for grand larceny.

It was admitted at the hearing before Governor Miller, according to his written opinion, that the men were not actually in Virginia at the time of the commission of the alleged offense.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has held, Governor Miller wrote, that presence in the demanding State at the time of the commission of an offense is indispensable to constitute one a fugitive from justice.

"I have no alternative," Governor Miller said, "but to refuse extradition."

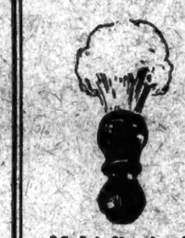
At all Dealers in Greater New York



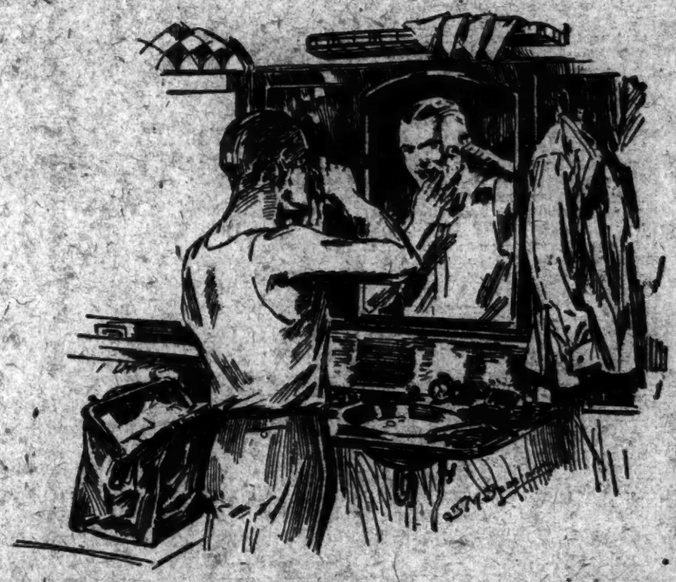
Multiplies itself

Maintains itself

Acts quickly

Soothes the skin

Standard tube, good for over a hundred shaves



Quick, Easy, Pleasant Shaves

And these other advantages

To give men what they wanted

Before making Palmolive Shaving Cream we asked 1,000 men what they desired most in a shaving cream. Also, all other known creams were tested to learn their virtues and faults. And, step by step, we improved the formula until perfection in each quality was reached.

Formula 130 was right

In this combination of soothing palm and olive oils we found the ideal shaving cream. We had been making the ideal toilet soap with these ingredients. Now we applied the blend to a shaving cream. It proved superior on these tests:

It multiplies itself in lather 250 times. Just one-half inch—a bit of cream—proves plenty for a luxurious shave.

The oil coating on the beard is removed almost instantly. Within one minute the beard absorbs 15% of water—enough to soften the toughest beard. Such quick efficiency is astonishing.

The lather maintains its rich, creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face. Plenty of time to shave.

The palm and olive oils are the supreme lubricant, soft and soothing to the skin. So the need for lotions is ended.

Now test it yourself at our expense

Millions have already adopted Palmolive Shaving Cream because of these superiorities.

The coupon will give you a trial tube without cost. You will be delighted with what it will accomplish for you.

HARDING RESTORES LEVIATHAN'S NAME

In Letter to Lasker He Declines the Board's Honor in Renaming Giant Transport for Him.

SHIP A NATIONAL SYMBOL

Board Accedes to His Request and Revises Its List of Vessels in the President Series.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Harding has refused to permit the former transport Leviathan, which carried so many thousands troops to and from France in the World War, to be named after himself.

In a letter to Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board, written yesterday and made public today, the President declines to accept the suggestion of the board that the Leviathan be renamed the President Harding. The President desires the Leviathan to stand as named and the Shipping Board today so ordered. The declination on the part of the President enforced the changing of the name of the steamer Hawkeye State from the President Cleveland to the President Harding. It also resulted in changing the name of the steamer Golden State from the President Taylor to the President Cleveland.

The White House,
Washington, May 16, 1922.

My Dear Mr. Lasker:

I have given careful consideration to your letter in which you advise me concerning the action of the Shipping Board respecting the renaming of the steamship Leviathan and calling it the President Harding.

As I understand it, the board has decided to change the names of twenty-two vessels and name them after Presidents of the Republic. Let me express to the board my hearty concurrence in the action, except as it relates to one ship.

It was very considerate on the part of the board to propose naming the reconditioned Leviathan after me; it is a fine compliment, and I admit finding the thought most agreeable. But mature judgment confirms the reaction I had when you first mentioned the matter to me.

At that time, you will recall, I stated to you that, while I did not want to seem insensible to the proffered compliment, I did feel that the board made a mistake in changing the name of the Leviathan—a name that has an overpowering national sentiment, a sentiment that symbolizes the participation of this great vessel in the World War and during that time in which she was engaged in returning our forces from European battlefields. In deference, however, to your wishes and the kindly action of the board in passing its resolution after my conversation with you, I felt I owed it to you and your associates to give the matter maturer deliberation before finally letting you hear from me.

I would be insensible to the spirit of the board if I did not make acknowledgment of the very grateful response in me to their action, which, as you write me, is in recognition by the board of my great interest in the merchant marine. The board is correct in their measure of that interest, and because of that very interest I must ask the board understandingly to sympathize with my declination of the proffered honor and request that the name of the Leviathan remain unchanged.

The Leviathan stands, in name and in fact, not only as a national sentiment but a national symbol. And so, with all gratitude to you and your associates for the compliment you pay me, let me ask you to turn that compliment into an acceptance of my suggestion to let the Leviathan remain the Leviathan.

Cordially yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

In reply to this letter Chairman Lasker today sent the following to the President:

May 16, 1922.

Dear Mr. President:

The board, of course, will follow the wishes expressed in your yesterday's letter and will not change the name of the Leviathan.

The board is only fair to itself to reiterate its regret that you could not see your way clear to lend your name to the merchant marine's mother ship—for the board deeply feels that your actions in behalf of the problems before it will, more than any other factor, result in the re-establishment of America on the seas. In attest of this the board felt it meet that its capital ship be known by your name. In respect to your wishes, the board rescinds its action.

Respectfully, A. D. LASKER.

The revised list of names for the so-called State boats, as approved today by the Shipping Board as a result of President Harding's letter, is as follows:

New Name.	Old Name.
Pres. Van Buren	Old North State
Pres. Hayes	Creole State
Pres. Polk	Granite State
Pres. Monroe	Pan Handle State
Pres. Harrison	Wolverine State
Pres. Adams	Centennial State
Pres. Garfield	Blue Hen State
Pres. Madison	Bay State
Pres. Pierce	Peninsula State
Pres. McKinley	Keystone State
Pres. Wilson	Empire State
Pres. Taft	Lone Star State
Pres. Lincoln	Hoosier State
Pres. Harding	Hawkeye State
Pres. Roosevelt	Buckeye State
Pres. Grant	Pine Tree State
Pan America	Palmetto State
Western World	Nutmeg State
American Legion	Badger State
Southern Cross	Gopher State
Pres. Jefferson	Beaver State
Pres. Cleveland	Golden State
Pres. Jackson	Silver State

The name Zachary Taylor has now been eliminated from the list.

HALT ANNUAL MEETING OF BOSTON & MAINE

Injunction Petition to Restrain Counting of Ballots Causes Two Weeks' Adjournment.

BOSTON, May 16.—The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine stockholders came to an abrupt halt today, when it was announced that an injunction petition had been filed in the Supreme Court, the effect of which would be to restrain the counting of ballots for the election of directors, five of whom, according to a Federal court decree given in New York, were to be representatives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

The petitioner was Edmund J. Codman, a stockholder, who said that as an individual he had asked the Court to enjoin the New Haven shares from voting. His bill in equity alleges that the proposed action by the New Haven company is in violation of Section 71 of Chapter 109 of the General Laws of Massachusetts, which prohibits a railroad corporation getting control of another not lawfully leased, owned or operated by it prior to May 1, 1907. The New Haven company through its subsidiary, the Boston Holding Company, owns 226,000 shares of the Boston & Maine stock.

The stockholders' meeting was adjourned for two weeks. It was announced that Judge De Courcy of the Supreme Court had issued an order of notice, returnable May 23, on the petition of Mr. Codman.

Augustus Loring of New York, appearing at the meeting for the trustees of the Boston Railroad Holding Company, placed in nomination as representatives for the New Haven the names of Frederick C. Cummings of Concord, Charles F. Choate of Southboro, R. G. Hutchings of New York, Frank J. Carpenter of Manchester, N. H., and Henry E. Day of West Newton. The management of the Boston & Maine presented the present board for re-election.

Conrad W. Crooker, representing the Boston & Maine Stockholders' Protective Association, asserted that "the genesis of Mr. Hutchings ought to be traced" inasmuch as he was connected with "Pennsylvania Railroad financial interests, the largest holders of New Haven stock." The stockholders, Mr. Crooker said, should be as much opposed to a Pennsylvania man as to a New York Central man.

Mr. Codman presented a resolution by which the stockholders would direct their board to accord no representation to "New York or Canadian Trunk lines," and declaring for independent management of the Boston & Maine. The resolution was defeated.

SILK MAKERS TO APPEAL.

J. H. & C. K. Eagle Protests $33,800 Verdict by Court.

Bondy & Schloss, attorneys for J. H. & C. K. Eagle, silk manufacturers, in the suit brought against them by the Normandie Shirt Company, in which Supreme Court Justice Davis directed a verdict of $33,800 for failure to deliver silk ordered, announced yesterday that an immediate appeal would be taken from the court's ruling that a clause in the contract excusing delivery in case of strike in the plant did not justify the manufacturer's action in cancelling the contract, but merely permitted an extension of time in which to make deliveries.

It was also stated in behalf of J. H. & C. K. Eagle that the Court found, and Isidor Gainsburg, attorney for the Normandie Shirt Company, admitted, that after the contract for the delivery of the silk was executed a strike that lasted three months took place in the defendant's plant at Shamokin, Pa., and during this time no goods could be manufactured for the plaintiff or any other customer. It was asserted that silk sold by the defendant at $3 a yard to customers other than the plaintiff, which had a contract for delivery at $1.60, was made after the Normandie contract period had expired.

Bondy & Schloss denied that J. H. & C. K. Eagle had on hand 1,000 pieces of silk from which delivery to the Normandie Shirt Company could have been made, or that the manufacturer profited to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars by inducing 95 per cent. of the customers who had contracted for silk at $1.60 to settle on the basis of the delivery of half the goods ordered.

"On the contrary," said the attorneys, "on account of the great increase in the cost of raw material and labor, Eagle delivered 50 per cent. of the contract quantity which it was unable to deliver during the strike, at a great loss to itself. This delivery of 50 per cent. at the old cheap price was based upon the Eagle's view of the contract that it was not obliged to deliver what it was prevented from delivering by the strike."

The attorneys said it was not even contended by the plaintiff at the trial that the Eagles had sufficient goods on hand to complete the Normandie Shirt Company's order, but refrained from doing so to make a profit.

Seek Girl Who Started for This City

Miss Rose Petrik, 18 years old, of 24 Twenty-fourth Street, Guttenberg, N. J., has been reported to the police of that place as missing from her home since last Tuesday. On that day, according to her relatives, she went, ostensibly to New York, to seek a position. She had received a letter asking her to call. She left the house with a valise and had $20 with her.

HOYT SHUTS OUT INDIANS IN OPENER

Holds Tribe to Five Scattered Hits—Yanks Win First Game of Series, 3 to 0.

HUGMEN CLING TO LEAD

New Yorkers Still Have Advantage of Half a Game Over St. Louis Browns in League Race.

The Cleveland Indians came to town yesterday and almost immediately ran into Waite Hoyt when the Child Wonder was feeling at his best. When Waite is himself the opposing faction is in danger of being nearly a total stranger to runs of any sort. The Giants found it that way last Fall, and the Indians had the same experience yesterday. They had to hustle around briskly to get as many as five hits, and out of these they coined not a run.

So the Yanks won by 3 to 0, making it a pleasant afternoon all around, and once more foiling the designs of the St. Louis Browns, who won but found themselves no closer to first place. The race is still a ding-dong affair, with the Hugmen a half game in front and trying their best to hang on until Babe and Bob return on Saturday with the heavy seige guns.

Yesterday they beat Stanley Coveleskie, Speaker's pitching ace, but it was not so much a matter of hitting as of Hoyt's pitching. Covey allowed only six safe blows, but Hoyt went him one better and held the Indians to five hits, scattered through as many innings. After the first frame, when the Yanks scored two of their three runs, the Child Wonder merely toyed with the Tribe. Only one Indian got to third base, and he was killed off at the plate on an easy force play. This was as near as Speaker's men got to scoring.

Hoyt seemed to have reached the peak at last after a very trying time of it. A few weeks ago he is alleged to have taken a swing at Miller Huggins, and ever since Waite has been trying to explain that he merely jostled him with an awkward elbow. Later on he was twice knocked out of the box in the middle of an inning. A lot of the folks thought that Waite was taking this second Christy Mathewson stuff too seriously.

Speaker Goes Hitless.

But it certainly was Waite's day yesterday. He had his slow ball working, which was an important item, and his fast pitch had a crooked bend on it which completely fooled Speaker's heavy hitters. The great Tris himself didn't get a hit, and Sewell, Gardner and Wood were in the same state. The five hits, in fact, were divided between two men. The bulky Steve O'Neill got three singles, and Stuffy McInnis, the new Cleveland first baseman, had the two others.

After the Detroit Tigers the Indians proved very refreshing. They seem to miss Elmer Smith's home-run clouts in right field, and the rest of the Tribe is not hitting, especially against the sort of pitching that Hoyt served up yesterday. In four innings they went out in one-two-three order, and the remainder of the afternoon they were threatening but never landed the knockout punch.

An error by Smith's successor, Smoky Joe Wood, gave the Yanks one of their two runs in the opening inning. Coveleskie started well, getting the nimble Whitey Witt on a pop fly and fanning Pewster, but Old Man Baker walked. Elmo Miller pulled the unexpected and singled to left, allowing the Trappe farmer to pause at second. Then Pipp whistled a drive to right, and when Wood let the ball trickle between his ankles both runners scored and Pipp raced to third, where he tarried while Ward was being tossed out at first.

Just previous to this pleasing outburst the Indians had put on a little trouble that sputtered out without anybody being hurt. With two out Speaker got a pass and Stuffy McInnis laid against the ball for a single to left, Pewster cutting down a potential two-bagger with a fast piece of work. Joey Sewell, however, hit to Scott, and McInnis was forced at second.

Back-hand Stop by McInnis.

Scottie started the second with a hard base hit to midfield and went to third by slow stages on two infield outs. When Witt slashed toward first the agile Mr. McInnis pushed his glove over his right ankle and made a back-hand stop. Then he tossed to Coveleskie, and Whitey was cooked at first.

Another Yankee rally in the seventh turned out to be only a dud, but the Hugmen scored a third run in the eighth, just about clinching the argument. Witt collected his second walk and was sacrificed to second by Pewster. Baker came out of his hitless trance long enough to spin a crisp single to right field, Witt scurrying in from second with yards to spare. Miller's second single carried Baker to third, but the veteran agriculturist was run down by O'Neill between third and home when Pipp hit to Wambsganss.

The Indians filled the sacks in the seventh on Wood's walk. O'Neill's single and a pass to Coveleskie, but Jamieson tapped to Hoyt and Wood was forced at home. Wamby lifted a foul, which Pipp captured near the Yankee bench after a run.

TIGERS BUNCH HITS AND BEAT SENATORS

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Oldham was master of the situation at all stages today, while Detroit bunched hits on both Phillips and Erickson and easily won the opening game of the series from Washington, 4 to 2. Cobb and Veach drove in all of the runs for the Tigers, who are now in a tie with the Athletics for third place as a result of having won eight of their last nine games.

The Senators made a triple play in the ninth. Oldham was on second and Blue on first when Haney lined to Harris. Blue was doubled up when Harris tossed to Judge and the latter's throw reached Peckinpaugh at second before Oldham could get back to the bag.

BROWNS WIN IN ELEVENTH.

Williams's Double Starts Rally That Beats Red Sox by 6 to 5.

BOSTON, May 16.—Williams's double, Severeid's single, a bad throw to the plate by Menosky and Ellerbe's sacrifice fly gave the St. Louis Browns two runs in the eleventh inning and victory over Boston today, 6 to 5. The Red Sox had tied the game in the ninth on Leibold's double and Pratt's single, and they scored one run in the eleventh on Menosky's double, Pratt's infield out and Smith's single.

Curves and Bingles.

The Indians lacked pep, as Ban Johnson would have phrased it. However, developing pep on five hits is something like raising turnips on a rock.

Ewan Tris Speaker, the dashing, showed signs of decrepitude. The general opinion anent the Cleveland outfit is that it was a good old wagon, but it's done broke down.

Ten thousand came out to see the Hugmen's old enemy.

Little Joey Sewell turned in the best piece of fielding. He chased clear over from shortstop, bumped into a third base box and grasped Baker's foul with one finger and a thumb. Larry Gardner would have been under it in his palmy days.

Some of the fans thought Speaker had dropped a fly in the third, which would have been about as rare as an unassisted triple play. But it turned out that Tris had let the ball slip from his hand while trying to toss it to Jamieson after the catch.

Guisto, the first base understudy, was sent up to bat for Coveleskie in the ninth after O'Neil had got his third single. The pinch hitter looked on casually as Erick Owens called him out on strikes.

Wally Pipp was going on all four cylinders when he got Wamby's foul in the seventh. As two were out at the time, Wally kept going into the bench, leaving three Speakerites stranded on the base lines.

The Tigers, late foes, won another yesterday, making it eight out of nine on the Eastern jaunt. With the kind aid of the Yanks, Cobb's men passed the Indians and are now ensconced in third place, only a few steps behind the Browns.

Babe Ruth will resume tuning up his batting eye at morning practice today. After Friday the Bambino will be able to bat in the afternoon, too, unless Judge Landis delays the reinstatement proceeding.

Joe Bush or Bob Shawkey will twirl this afternoon.

CUBS DOWN GIANTS IN FINAL OF SERIES

FRED TONEY IS HIT HARD

Big Righthander Is Pounded for Eight Safeties in His First Game of the Season.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Virgil Cheeves, Chicago's star right-handed pitcher, has become a Giant jinx. The Cub twirler followed his victory of last Saturday over the world's champions with another triumph over McGraw's clan here this afternoon and thus gave the Cubs an even break on the four-game series. The score was 3 to 2.

Cheeves's performance today was an improvement on his work in the opening game last Saturday. The Cub hurler let the world's champions down with six hits in his latest triumph, and with the exception of one long inning, the sixth, was never in danger. In the sixth session Cheeves temporarily lost his effectiveness and was clouted for four safeties, which produced the Giants' two runs. Prior to the sixth, however, and through the closing three sessions, Cheeves was as generous as a miser, and not one of the Giants advanced as far as second base. The Cub twirler gave his most impressive demonstration of complete mastery over the Giants in the fourth inning, when he fanned Groh, Young and Meusel in succession.

Captain Dave Bancroft was the only Giant to make an impression on the Cub twirler. The McGraw field leader gathered two of his team's hits, both blows being singles. Frisch, Groh and Kelly each got a single and Ross Young made a double.

Grimes Leads Cubs' Attack.

Fred Toney made the game the occasion for his season's debut, and the ponderous Tennessean experienced the humiliation of having his offerings knocked to various parts of the field in a savage attack which was not to be denied. Toney yielded eight hits, of which four were doubles. Ray Grimes hammered out two of these extra-base blows, which drove home as many Chicago runs.

Toney was in difficulty from the very start of the contest. The Tennessean issued a pass to Kelleher with two out in the first inning, and when Grimes drove his first double against the scoreboard in centre, Kelleher raced home with the first Chicago run. In the second inning Terry singled and advanced on a wild pitch, but was run down when O'Farrell rapped to Groh.

The Cubs clinched the game in the third. Statz beat out a sizzling grounder to Frisch. Hollocher skied out to Young, and then Kelleher doubled over third, scoring Statz. Grimes here got his second double of the afternoon, a solid smash over Meusel's head in deep left, which scored Kelleher. After this outburst Toney tightened and held the Cubs in check. A spectacular catch by Young in the fifth deprived Hollocher of an extra-base blow. In the three closing innings Toney was his safely, and in each inning the Cubs got a man as far as second, but there was no more scoring.

Giants Make Belated Rally.

The Giant attack was conspicuous by its absence in the first three innings. Young was the first Giant to reach base. He walked in the second, and was left stranded. In the third Bancroft got the first Giant hit off Cheeves, and he advanced no further, as Statz made a sensational catch of Frisch's fly. Cheeves fanned the Giants in order in the fourth, and went safely through the fifth, when a snappy double play discounted a pass to Kelly. In the sixth, he had issued to Kelly. In the sixth, however, the Giants concentrated their hits and caused the Cubs some apprehension.

After Toney had fanned, Bancroft got his second hit, a single to centre. The Giant captain stopped at second on Frisch's blow to centre. Groh drove a single past Terry, which scored Bancroft and sent Frisch to third. Young followed with a double to the right field wall which chased Frisch home and put Groh on third. A wonderful one-hand catch by Grimes on Meusel's line drive halted the rally, and when Kelly fanned the Giants' outburst subsided entirely.

BRAVES WIN FROM PIRATES.

Stage 12th-Inning Rally to Defeat Pittsburgh, 7 to 5.

PITTSBURGH, May 16.—The Boston Braves defeated Pittsburgh today in a twelve-inning game, 7 to 5. Cruise started the winning rally in the twelfth after one was out. Boeckel was passed and Holke singled to left, scoring Cruise. The other runners advanced on the throw to the plate, and Boeckel scored on Ford's fly to Carey. Shortstop Maranville of the Pirates was spiked by O'Neill in the ninth and had to be carried off the field. He was not seriously hurt.

SINGLETON BESTS ZELLARS IN DUEL

Toronto Defeats Jersey City Through Two Timely Hits in Fifth—Score Is 3-1.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—Singleton beats Zellars in a pitching duel here today, thanks to two timely hits by the locals. The final score was 3 to 1 in favor of Toronto. Four double plays turned the Jersey City Skeeters back when they had good chances to win their second straight game here.

Wingo lifted the ball into the right field bleachers in the fourth inning, while Orme's single following a walk to Onslow and a single by Jones, drove in two more in the fifth. The Skeeters secured their lone tally in the fourth on a single by Damrau, an error by Vick and a double by Freitag.

Freitag was the only batsman to get more than one hit, his count being two, both doubles. Orme, the local right fielder, has hit safely in his last fourteen games.

BEARS DEFEAT STARS.

Treat Five Pitchers Harshly and Win by Score of 13-10.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 16.—Bill Clymer's Newark Bears hammered five pitchers hard here today and took the second game of the series from the Syracuse Stars in a sand-lot exhibition, 13 to 10.

Lester Sell started on the mound for the locals, but was knocked out in the first inning. Dean Barnhardt went along well for the Bears until the eighth, when, with one run already in and two men on bases, he was yanked. L. Barnes, who replaced him, pitched good ball and held the Stars in check.

Joe Benes hit a home run, and Jake Wimer, the Stars' third sacker, also lifted the ball over the fence.

PRESIDENT SEES HIS CHARGER WIN

GENERAL PERSHING SCORES

Gets Red Ribbons With Dandy Duke and Jeff—Second Triumph for Miss Michelle Newberg.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The President and Mrs. Harding occupied the Executive box at the National Capital Horse Show this afternoon. The White House motor came to the edge of the grand stand promptly at 4:30, where Rear Admiral Grayson, Colonel Robert M. Thompson and Horace Westcott met their guests, whom they escorted to the box, which was hung in bunting with American flags crossed in front. The President dispensed with his usual military aid, but was attended by an officer of the Secret Service.

When the fact of the President's arrival became known the spectators arose and the military band from Fort Myer broke into "The Star-Spangled Banner." Mrs. Harding wore a simply made gown of blue and white foulard and chiffon, a round, dark blue straw hat and long white gloves. General Pershing also attended the show yesterday for the first time, having been in Canada receiving a degree from McGill University while his horses were taking ribbons in Washington.

The day's program was modified following the triple bar jump to introduce Harbell, President Harding's charger, which made his initial appearance as a horse merely as an exhibit. Today he qualified in a special saddle class of twelve entries, in which he took the blue ribbon and a piece of silver.

Ribbons for General Pershing.

General Pershing, with several aids, arrived late, but in time to see Dandy Dude take the red ribbon in the jumping class over five-foot fences. The first prize in this class went to Captain J. T. Cole, on Morgan. General Harbord's Gay Lark won the yellow ribbon in this class, which was one of the best contested of the day.

The Peter Voorhees De Graw cup for local hunters brought out a field of twenty-six. Jessie Bear, the nine-year-old favorite, taking the trophy from General Pershing's Jeff, the latter winning the red ribbon.

New York won in lightweight hunters with Miss Newborg's Woodcock, taking her second blue ribbon in two days. General James A. Buchaus's Jessie Dear and June Tolliver were second and third.

Miss Marion Du Pont captured the blue ribbon for novice hunters with Shenandoah, Major Stanley Koch's Mine Sweeper taking second and E. L. Redman's All Gold third.

Twelve women rode their own mounts in the ladies' saddle class. Mrs. Allen Potts again taking first honors with her Favonius. Miss Lillian Sangel's Black Beauty took the red, with Miss Julia Whiting on Pep following.

The Galt Cup, which Mrs. Woodrow Wilson gives, for heavy white polo mounts, was taken by General H. K. Bethell on Mystery. William Ziegler Jr. of New York took second and third in this class with Major G. S. Patton in fourth place.

Children's Ponies Featured.

The cup presented by Miss Evelyn Preston for saddle ponies ridden by children was captured by Master Lodge Bowles, on Starlight, with Miss Katrina McCormick, on Fire Fly owned by Arthur C. Moses, second; the Misses Alice and Ruth Tuckermann won the yellow and white ribbons.

In addition to the President and Mrs. Harding and the officers of the association, the afternoon's patrons included the Secretary of the Treasury, Senator and Mrs. James Wadsworth Jr., Senator and Mrs. McCormick, the Cuban Minister and Mme. Cespedes, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, Colonel Archibald Hopkins, Mrs. Upsher Moorehead with her cousin, Mrs. Mark Brooks; Mrs. Reginald Foster and Miss Hoar, Mrs. George Marye, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davidge, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. P. Johnson, General and Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Arthur Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Ard Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer, Colonel and Mrs. Morris E. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. James Parkinelee, Miss Maury, Miss Gilmore, Miss Clover, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison McLintock, Mrs. Harry Leonard, Mrs. George E. Hope, Mrs. Joseph H. De Freez, Miss Flora K. Wilson, Mrs. Max Kauffmann, Mrs. Loran Johnson, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. James McDonald, Miss Anne Squire and Miss Anna Hamlin.

HORSE SHOW IS GIVEN UP.

Hollywood Exhibition Abandoned Because of Financial Losses.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 16.—The Hollywood Horse Show, for many years a fashionable sporting event here, will not be repeated this year or hereafter, it was learned today. Harry Content of Red Bank and Long Branch, President of the Hollywood Horse Show Association, in response to a request of Mayor Clarence J. Housman for the use of the grounds of the association for a school exhibition, replied that the grounds were permanently closed and locked, and refused to sell. The reason given for the abandonment of the horse show is that it has lost money for several years past.

WILL NOT ALTER PROGRAM.

Hammer Throwers Will Again Perform Outside Harvard Stadium.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—The hammer throwers and discus hurlers will not receive the plaudits of the crowd at the intercollegiate track and field championships in the Harvard Stadium May 26 and 27. After considering the advisability of transferring within the horseshoe the final efforts of the athletes in these events, so that they like the others might perform within sight of the spectators, the management of the meeting today decided that the possibility of accident was too great.

Accordingly, hammer and discus throwers will be relegated again to an open field in the distant background, although the points which they produce may decide the championship. Those who throw the javelin, which, with the discus, is an event new this year to the I. C. A. A. A. A., games will be seen in action, however, decision having been made to have the finals held inside the large oval.

Morvich Home in Fine Fettle; Will Not Be Sent to Toronto

Morvich, victor in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs on Saturday, returned to his home in the Block Barn at Jamaica yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. He was welcomed when he disembarked from his special car on a side track by Mr. Block, his owner, and Trainer Burlew, as well as by a cluster of moving picture camera men and a small crowd of interested bystanders. He faced the cameras with the air assumed by public characters under such circumstances and then turned with apparent pleasure to enter his stall in stable No. 22. He was in perfect health and spirits and took to his hay with avidity. Benjamin Block denied last evening a report from Toronto that Morvich would be sent there to compete in a match race or exhibition for charitable purposes, saying that, much as he would like to aid in such a cause, the risk involved in shipping the animal about was too great.

DR. CLARK IS FIRST IN THE WATTERSON

Captures Churchill Downs Feature From Centimeter—Fair Phantom Also Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, May 16.—The Watterson Hotel Handicap was the principal magnet at Churchill Downs this afternoon. Dr. Clark won it by a length from Centimeter, with the latter a length in front of Neddam. Dr. Clark was hustled along from the start and shook Courtship off in the first half of the test at six and one-half furlongs. He had to be urged hard to last through the final eighth, but managed to hang on well. Centimeter looked threatening in the stretch, but faltered near the end. Neddam was well up the entire distance.

Fair Phantom won the Golden Maxim Purse for three-year-olds at one mile, finishing a length and a half ahead of Precious Lula. Fair Phantom led all the way, but was ridden out at the end. Precious Lula, under restraint in the first half, moved up strongly thereafter and finished well, after being slightly interfered with in the stretch. The West Point Purse for two-year-olds went to Miss Cerina, which responded gamely to hard urging in the last eighth of the four and one-half furlong dash and outstayed Larchmont.

Valger and Reisler Matched.

A junior lightweight tournament is planned by Matchmaker Simon Flaherty for the Queensboro A. C., Long Island City, Saturday night. Benny Valger, the "French Flash," and Johnny Reisler of Harlem, have been signed for the principal bout of twelve pounds. Two other contests between 130-pounders are planned.

ON WATCH WINNER IN JAMAICA FEATURE

The maroon and gold stripes of George W. Loft were carried to victory yesterday at Jamaica in the featured race of the card, the Rainbow Handicap, by On Watch, the five-year-old son of Colin. In performing the feat the bay horse disposed with considerable ease of a field which contained some racers of high merit.

S. C. Hildreth started his Thunderclap and Krewer and the stable was a receding favorite, opening at 6 to 5 and closing at 5 to 2, on even terms with H. P. Whitney's fast filly, Calamity Jane. So open was the race considered that two others were grouped closely with the public choices, G. A. Cochran's Smoke Screen closing at 13 to 2 and On Watch at 7 to 2. The only real outsider was Bud Fisher's Muskallonge, which opened at twenties and was backed at 15 to 1.

Smoke Screen broke well and showed the way for a furlong of the six-furlong trip, yielding the pace-making task to the lightly weighted Muskallonge at that point. Morris brought Calamity Jane along as the contenders swept around the far turn and hooked it up with the two leaders. On Watch, which was off with his wonted sluggishness, but picked the field up steadily once he got under way, came around the trio in front at the head of the stretch and then drew out to win handily by a length and a half.

Behind the winner Calamity Jane, Muskallonge and Thunderclap staged a vigorous and close contest for the remaining places of the money. Calamity Jane lasted to save the place by a head from Muskallonge, which was in close quarters in the stretch but was coming again at the close and beat Thunderclap a nose for third place. The latter closed from the rear with a great burst of speed in the final stages.

Lang Has Notable Record.

Chick Lang, who rode the outsider into the money in this race, made his first complete day of riding at Jamaica rather notable and pleased his faithful followers by winning with two of his four mounts and corralling third place with each of the others. He began proceedings in the opening race, a five-furlong scamper for maiden two-year-olds, which he won with the Alterman filly Egg, a 6 to 1 shot.

In the fifth event of the program, a mile-and-seventy-yard affair, Lang rode Rose Hill, the Oak Ridge Stable's entrant. His mount was a slight favorite over W. R. Coe's Master Hand and the former defeated the latter by three lengths. Rounding the first turn in this contest Rose Hill crossed in front of Master Hand, causing Fairbrother, riding the latter, to pull up. Philosopher, running next, tripped over Master Hand and fell, without injury to either young Kummer or the horse. Fairbrother based a protest on this episode after the race, but it was not allowed.

Old Jock Scot was in a soft spot in the third race. He made the most of it, taking the lead rounding the first turn and holding the opposition safe thereafter. His margin at the finish was four lengths, with Drummond nipping the place from Armistice by a nose.

The final number of the afternoon was another one-horse entered exhibition, G. A. Cochran's Bersagliere having all the speed of a quartet of inferior horses and winning in a canter by five lengths. Bersagliere, Jock Scot and Rose Hill were the victorious favorites of the occasion.

Hertz Fined by Stewards

It was announced that the stewards had imposed a fine of $200 on J. J. Hertz in connection with the aftermath of a claiming race run on Saturday. Hertz claimed the winner, Scottish Chief, but the stewards discovered evidence that it was a friendly claim, instead of a business recovery. They awarded the horse to the maker of the second highest bid, J. Shaughnessy. It is the intention to eradicate this sort of thing.

WITTMER TO HELP COACH.

Tiger Football Star Will Assist Roper Next Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 16.—Albert Wittmer Jr. of Pittsburgh, centre on the Princeton football eleven last Fall and Walter Camp's choice for the third All-American team, will return to Princeton next Fall to assist Roper in coaching the Tiger varsity, according to a recent announcement. In addition to playing football, Wittmer captained the championship Princeton basket ball quintet this Winter.

Chick Lang, Premier Jockey Of 1921, to Ride for Cosden

J. S. Cosden, the wealthy oil man and turfman, yesterday purchased from James Arthur the latter's contract for the services of Chick Lang, the jockey. The deal, which is said to have cost Mr. Cosden a sum approximating $25,000, gives that sportsman a strong pair for work in the saddle, as Clarence Kummer was already riding for him. Lang was a premier jockey of the American turf last year. He accepted 762 mounts, won with 192 of them, placed 177 more and ran third 129 times. His winning percentage was .19. In New Orleans during the Winter and this Spring in Maryland the boy's work was sensational, and Mr. Arthur had refused several high offers for the young Canadian.

MLLE. LENGLEN WINS IN TWO LOVE SETS

French Tennis Star Not Extended in Hard Court Tourney—Miss Ryan Advances.

BRUSSELS, May 16 (Associated Press).—Both Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California and Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the world's woman tennis champion, survived today's rounds of the international hard-court championship tournament here, the French star sweeping through two love sets against her opponent, Mrs. du Pont.

Miss Ryan defeated Mrs. Peacock of India, 1—6, 8—6, 6—2, thus reaching the semi-finals. Manuel Alonso of Spain defeated van Lennep of Holland, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2, and Mrs. Satterthwaite of England won over Mlle. Bourgeois of France, 6—1, 6—0. Miahu of Rumania eliminated the 17-year-old French schoolboy, Lacoste, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

Mlle. Lenglen and Manuel Alonso were favorites and both won their games with ease, and while Alonso's score was not so impressive as the French champion's he defeated Van Lennep as effectively as the French woman disposed of Mme. Dupont, the Belgian champion.

Mlle. Lenglen's service was so puzzling that her opponent for the most part returned it into the net or outside. She played for the back lines and her placements were so closely drawn that several times even the umpires were puzzled. Alonso's game has greatly improved since he was seen at St. Cloud. He ranks among the first ten in the tennis world.

Miss Ryan was slow to get started against Mrs. Peacock. She lost the first set overwhelmingly and was within a point of losing the second set and the match. Mrs. Peacock, coming from India, seemed to revel in the intense heat, which bothered the American player, but the former tired in the last set and had a long series of netting, practically defeating herself.

Mrs. Satterthwaite had no trouble in defeating Mlle. Bourgeois. She had recovered from the annoyance of being officially marked on the scoreboard Sunday as losing to Princess Lobkowicz-nova.

Alonso (Spanish), Cochet (French), Aeschlimann (Swiss), Van Den Bemden (Belgian) and Miahi (Rumanian) have qualified for the semi-finals in the men's singles.

TOURNEY FOR SCHOOLBOYS.

Tennis Test Under Columbia Auspices Will Start Today.

Nine schools from New York and New Jersey will start play today in Columbia University's interscholastic tennis tournament, which will probably be finished tomorrow, although it was originally intended to be a three-day affair. This will be the first tourney of its kind held under Columbia auspices since before the war, when it annually attracted a big field.

Matches will be played in singles only, and the winner will receive a silver cup. Of the eighteen players entered Stuyvesant High School has the largest number, five. Other schools are: Dwight, three; McBinney, three; Carteret, two; High School of Commerce, Townsend Harris, Berkeley Irving, Commercial and Curtis, one each.

EMERSON CHOSEN CAPTAIN.

Jersey Boy Will Lead Columbia Tennis Team Next Year.

Gerald Emerson of Elizabeth, N. J., was yesterday elected captain of the Columbia University tennis team for next year. Emerson, who is playing his second year on the Blue and White net team, is considered one of the stars of Eastern intercollegiate circles. He possesses an excellent forehand stroke, and has been a strong factor in metropolitan tennis circles for the last three or four years. He is a junior in college.

WILLIAMS WINS ONLY ONE.

Purple Tennis Team Is Decisively Defeated by Dartmouth.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 16.—Williams succumbed to Dartmouth at tennis here today, the score being 5 to 1. The Green players made a clean sweep, except for one of the matches in the singles, in which Captain Roper of the home team defeated Smith. Most of the matches were hard fought, several deuce sets resulting.

WILL SUCCEED KERR.

Dr. Carlson and Frank Shea Appointed to Coach at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 16.—The positions of coaching for varsity basketball and track at the University of Pittsburgh, made vacant by the resignation of Andrew Kerr, who goes to Leland Stanford University, have been filled by the Athletic Council. Dr. H. C. Carlson, 1920, has been appointed basketball coach and Frank J. Shea, 1921, track coach. Dr. Carlson had previously been made freshman football coach and will combine the two positions.

PICKS PENN TRACK TEAM.

Coach Robertson to Start Only 12 Men in Intercollegiates.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Coach Lawson Robertson announced today that he had decided to start only twelve men in the intercollegiates on May 26 and 27 at Cambridge.

They are Laver in the sprints, Temple in the pole vault, Captain Brown, George Meredith and McMullen in the middle distances; Powers in the hurdles, and Needs, Frank, Bronderhamer, Rose and Chow in the field events.

Robertson has not yet made up his mind about his long-distance runners.

ARGENTINE POLOISTS LOSE.

English Team Defeats Invaders by a Score of 7 to 4.

LONDON, May 16.—The Argentine polo team, in England for a series of matches, suffered its second defeat today at the hands of the Bucks Club team, which scored a 7 to 4 victory on the Hurlingham grounds.

The South American team consisted of Jack Nelson, Paul Lacey and Traill. The Marquis of Villabragima, Major Miles, Major Barrett and Captain Guest composed the Bucks Club team.

HAMMETT VICTOR IN CLOSE MATCH

Cupholder Narrowly Escapes Defeat by Bodkin in Harlem Tennis Tourney.

One near-upset and one complete upset marked the continuation of play yesterday afternoon in the tournament for the Harlem Tennis Club's challenge cup in singles. Alfred D. Hammett of the University Heights Club, who won the Harlem Cup last year, was the player who escaped defeat so narrowly. Though he won two straight sets from Philip O. Bodkin, champion of the Harlem Club, he came extremely close to losing both of them. Ingo Hartmann, one of the players whose position in the draw were seeded, was the victim of the upset, when he lost his third-round match to H. C. Tremaine by scores of 2—6, 6—2, 6—1.

The Hammett-Bodkin match was easily the feature of an afternoon of excellent performances. Hammett won by scores of 6—4, 7—5, but Bodkin was no less than four times within a point of taking the first set, and he led Hammett by 4—1 in the second. Bodkin's trouble was in softening his game, through an overemphasis upon caution, while he was in the lead. Had he maintained consistently the speed and aggressiveness which he displayed at several stages of the match, he would have won. Many experts on tennis insist that the time to take chances is when a player is behind and the time to play safe is when one has established a good lead. But the latter policy can easily be overworked.

Bodkin Shows Skill.

Bodkin's remarkable skill and thoroughness in covering court enabled him to make his brilliant showing against Hammett. The latter's usually elusive chop strokes bothered the Harlem Club ace not at all. He handled them splendidly both off his forehand and backhand. Hammett's other main asset, his ability to lob the ball close to the baseline, was also offset to a large extent by Bodkin's accuracy and severity overhead. Bodkin sent a number of these deep lobs back with well angled smashes that Hammett had no chance in the world of returning.

Against this excellent play by Bodkin, Hammett opposed his own indefatigable ability to get covering, trying for everything possible and nearly always getting the ball back safely. He was quick to take advantage of his opportunity when Bodkin let down the pace and, by placing the ball from one sideline to the other with seldom-failing accuracy, lured the Harlem Club man into errors. Hammett's sideline shots off the ground were beautifully executed. He was at his best when trailing almost hopelessly and his refusal to admit discouragement finally gained him his well-earned triumph.

The veteran, Hartmann, played such fast and aggressive tennis in the opening set of his match with Tremaine that he looked like a certain winner. But Tremaine's play became safety and he stood the pace better as the match wore on. Both did a good deal of hard hitting and the contest was interesting at all stages.

Knox Is Eliminated.

Elliot H. Binsen, former Fordham star and present north side champion, eliminated Leonard W. Knox of Montclair in another well-played match. Binsen's sharp-breaking, twist service troubled Knox all through the encounter, and the Jerseyman was not once able to break through it. In other departments, he made a good match of it, Knox handling Binsen's speedy volleys well. The scores were 6—3, 6—4.

Paul Martin of the University Heights Club avenged the defeat of his clubmate, L. V. Johnson, in an earlier round, when he defeated Robinson's conqueror, I. Bilicki, New York University star, by 7—3, 6—2. Martin knew too much tennis for his clever young opponent. Percy K. Kynaston, New England and Queens County-Nassau champion, outsteadied Hugh Oakley of Montclair in two close 6—4 sets, while Anton F. Von Bernuth defeated Fred D. Powers, the Montclair A. C.'s baseline specialist, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2. Bernuth was expected to win, but by no such one-sided scores as were recorded. Henry H. Bassford, Edgar F. Dawson and E. O. Desnoes won their third-round matches easily. In the second round, E. Clapp had a hard time eliminating S. Onda. The scores were 6—3, 6—4.

All but one of the second-round matches, and eleven of the sixteen third-round contests, have now been completed.

The summaries:

Harlem Challenge Cup Singles, Second Round—R. D. Golden defeated R. Neuberger, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1; E. J. Clapp defeated S. Onda, 6—3, 6—4.

Third Round—Elliot H. Binsen defeated Leonard W. Knox, 6—3, 6—4; E. O. Desnoes defeated J. Lavino, 6—3, 6—1; Alfred D. Hammett defeated Philip O. Bodkin, 7—5, 6—4; Anton F. Von Bernuth defeated Fred D. Powers, 6—4, 6—3; Paul Martin defeated I. Bulchik, 7—5, 6—2; A. P. Smith defeated R. Wignall, 6—0, 6—1; Henry H. Bassford defeated H. W. Edwards, 6—3, 6—1; Edgar F. Dawson defeated W. S. Pearce, 6—4, 6—0; Percy K. Kynaston defeated Hugh Oakley, 6—4, 6—4; H. C. Tremaine defeated Ingo Hartmann, 2—6, 6—1, 6—1.

SOPHOMORES WIN MEET.

Defeat Seniors by Ten Points in Fordham Interclass Games.

In an interclass track meet, the first held in a good many years, the Sophomore class of Fordham University carried off first honors by amassing a total of 34 points, an even ten points more than the Seniors, whose score for yesterday's affair was 24. Close behind the Seniors were the Juniors, with 21 points to their credit. The Freshmen and the Premedics were tied for fourth place at 10 points each.

EXPECT RECORD TO STAND.

Penn State Officials Confirm Time for Distance Medley Relay.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 16.—With five official timers agreeing on 10:16 1-5 for the distance medley relay race on Saturday and with official measurement of the Penn State track, showing that it is standard in every respect, it is believed here that A. A. U. officials will accept the new world's record made by the Penn State team in a special race over the New Beaver track. The former record of 10:20 is held by Yale.

MANY SCHOOLS IN MEET.

New York and New Jersey Athletes to Compete at South Field Saturday.

More than twenty-two schools have entered teams in the annual Columbia interscholastic track and field meet at South Field next Saturday according to the official list of entries. This meet will be one of two under Columbia auspices. It will be only for schools in New Jersey and New York States, and the other, on June 3, will be exclusively for New York City institutions.

The point trophy for the winning school will be donated again by the Columbia Alumni of New Jersey, which provided the cup last year. The same body will give a cup to be awarded to the athlete from New Jersey who wins the greatest number of points for his school.

Included in the list of entries are more than 250 names, a large increase over last year's figures. Some of the schools which competed last season and have again entered teams are Central High School of Newark, the 1921 team winner; Clifton, Clinton, Leonia, Lincoln, New Rochelle, Mount Vernon, Rutherford and West New York. New schools in the meet are Pelham, South Orange, St. Benedict's, Princeton Prep, Memaroneck, Kearney, Irving, Hackensack, Englewood, East Orange, Dickinson, Chatile, Bloomfield and Barringer.

TRACEY IS KNOCKED OUT IN THE EIGHTH

Bill Brennan Puts Damper on Australian Heavyweight's Championship Hopes.

ANTIPODEAN DISAPPOINTING

Not Lacking in Courage, Has Limited Knowledge of Boxing—Worn Down by Body Punches.

The heavyweight aspirations of Jim Tracey, Australian heavyweight champion, vanished in thin smoke at Madison Square Garden last night, where the rangy lad from the Antipodes was knocked out in the eighth round by Bill Brennan, veteran Chicago heavyweight. A succession of left hooks to the jaw, followed by one crushing right to the jaw, sent Tracey crashing to the canvas where he was counted out by Referee Jack Appel. The eighth round had progressed exactly 1 minute and 38 seconds when the finish came.

The knockout ended about which was lacking entirely in competitive features. Tracey failed to justify the glowing advance notices he had received since his arrival here. The Australian was clearly excelled by his more experienced rival, so that from the time the starting gong sent the men on their way it appeared only a question of time when one of Brennan's punches would stretch Tracey on the canvas. The fact that Tracey lasted more than seven rounds against Brennan was a feather in the Australian's cap and earned him many friends among the slim crowd which witnessed the bout.

Tracey showed nothing which would recommend him as a serious factor in the hunt for a man to face Jack Dempsey. The Australian, weighing 187 pounds, was comparatively light on his feet, but his knowledge of boxing is extremely limited.

Tracey Timid and Wild.

The Australian sought to keep Brennan off with a left jab, but because of his timidity Tracey was erratic and wild with the punch. When he essayed a punch with his right, either a hook, swing or uppercut, Tracey invariably missed. More often than not Tracey hooked with the right, and as often as he hooked this fist just just so often did it curl harmlessly around Brennan's neck. In courage, Tracey is not lacking. The Australian stood up doggedly under a body attack from his rival, which gradually wore Tracey down to the point where he was a fit subject for a finishing right.

The contest did not satisfy the small gathering. As a consequence there was a steady stream of humanity pouring out of the Garden after the fourth round.

Tracey was floored in the sixth round for a count of nine when Brennan nailed him on the jaw with a left hook, during the last minute of fighting. Brennan sought to follow the advantage but was ineffective. Through the seventh round Tracey earned the admiration of the crowd when, after assimilating a succession of left hooks and rights to the jaw, he suddenly broke loose in an assault which made Brennan retreat.

Australian's Best Showing.

It was the best exhibition of the Australian during the bout, but it did not last long. With Tracey the spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. The Australian tired badly as a result of the steady body battering to which he was subjected in the first five rounds, and reverted to the defensive.

Tracey was retreating before Brennan's rush in the eighth round when, after backing his man in a neutral corner, Brennan shot over a succession of left hooks and then a right to the jaw, and the battle was over.

Tracey clipped Brennan's jaw with a right in the second session and followed soon after with two rights to the stomach, which made Brennan gasp. In the fourth Tracey caught Brennan with a grazing right on the ja was the latter came in head down. These were the cleanest punches landed by Tracey, with the exception of his spirited seventh round recovery, when he rained harmless rights and lefts on Brennan's face and head.

Small Crowd Attends.

The bouts attracted a crowd of about 6,000 by a liberal estimate. It was one of the poorest professional fight crowds in the history of the Garden. Vacant seats yawned from various parts of the big arena.

Yussel Peristein, Brooklyn light-heavyweight, gained the decision over Gunner Arnold, Canadian Army heavyweight champion, in the opening contest of four rounds. The bell saved Arnold from a knockout in the first round and the Canadian fought defensively thereafter.

In the second battle, scheduled for six rounds, Joe Vidas, Philadelphia heavyweight, knocked out Frank Johns of Brooklyn, the bout being stopped after thirty-five seconds in the second round. Johns started like a winner, flooring his rival three times in the first round. Before the ball, however, Vidas floored Johns. Vidas lost no time in following his advantage in the second round. He floored Johns twice and the contest was stopped.

Ratner and Malone Draw.

In the semifinal bout of fifteen rounds Augie Ratner, Bronx middleweight, and Joey Malone of St. Paul battled to a draw. The decision was eminently fair, although a disgruntled minority voiced disapproval. The boxers furnished a lively, interesting exhibition of fast, clever fighting.

Ratner appeared to advantage in the early rounds. In the face of his rival's steady offensive the Bronx middleweight jabbed cleverly with his left and, with an accompaniment from the right, upset Malone's assault. The St. Paul boxer, however, was not discouraged with the accurate jabbing of Ratner. Malone carried the fighting steadily and at times reached Ratner's face with blows which caused swellings under the local boxer's eyes.

In the later rounds Malone rallied strongly when Ratner tired, and battered Ratner before him in a whirlwind attack, which had the crowd yelling wildly. Ratner met his opponent's assault through the closing three rounds, when the boxer's traded blows in spirited rallies without either having a pronounced advantage. Ratner weighed 165¾ pounds and Malone 151.

TEN BOUTS ARE CARDED.

Leonard and Partfield Headliners of Garden Program Friday.

Some of the leading boxers of the country are scheduled for title in the carnival which will be conducted under the auspices of the National Sports Alliance at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Ten four-round matches to official decisions are scheduled. Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, and Soldier Bartfield, rugged Brooklyn welterweight, will be rivals in the main bout. The other contests will be between Midget Smith and Pinkey O'Reilly, Joe Leonold and Kid Sullivan, Willie Jackson and Jimmy Hanlon, Dave Rosenberg and Tommy Robson, Pete Hobin and Moe Herscovitch, Harry Lodge and Sammy Noble, Dave Shade and Jimmy Kelly, Abe Goldstein and Frankie Genaro, Mike Morigeo and Young Nelson.

Sabrina, Amherst's Goddess, Nearly Disrupts Ball Game

AMHERST, Mass., May 16.—Sabrina, the famous goddess of the even-year classes at Amherst, made her appearance at Pratt Field today while the Amherst-Cornell baseball game was in progress. Guarded by F. R. Clark of Boston and P. M. Long of Lancaster, Pa., the statue stood in state in the open doorway of a baggage car drawn by a locomotive on the Boston and Main tracks skirting the field. Members of the odd classes forgot all about the game and made a dash for the car. The engineer put on more speed and before the attacking forces could get near the train it had whirled out of sight. Sabrina was held in the possession of the even classes for twenty-four years until captured by the odd-year men at Boston in 1920. Last Summer the even classes recaptured her at Litchfield, Conn.

MISS CECIL LEITCH DEFEATS MRS. CRAIG

Titleholder Wins Her Match by Wide Margin in British Championship Tourney.

SANDWICH, Eng., May 16 (Associated Press).—Miss Cecil Leitch, British woman's golf champion, defeated Mrs. Norman Craig, 9 and 8, in today's play in the ladies' open golf championship tournament here.

Miss Molly McBride, who was runner-up to Miss Leitch in last year's Canadian championship, was defeated by Mrs. A. C. Johnston, 4 and 3.

Miss Janet Jackson, an Irish player, defeated Miss Kidway, 5 and 2, and Miss M. B. Brown defeated Miss Molly Griffiths at the nineteenth hole.

Miss Edith Leitch, sister to the champion, defeated Miss Robinson, 5 and 4, and Miss Joyce Wethered won over Mrs. Duncan, 8 and 7.

GOLFERS WILL HOLD PRELIMINARY TODAY

Practically all the talent in the metropolitan district will be assembled at the Morris County Golf Club, Convent, N. J., today engaging in an informal tournament which will precede the intersectional team match among the New Jersey, Westchester and Long Island associations scheduled for tomorrow. Just as this will be the first time that the three districts have been represented, the recent formation of the Long Island Golf Association making possible the change from the dual to the triangular status, so will the event be the first "get-together" meeting ever staged in the metropolitan district. Today's event will serve to give the visiting teams a chance to familiarize themselves with the Morris County lay-out and also to get acquainted. It will be followed by a complimentary dinner given to the competitors by the Morris County Club.

The three teams have been selected by the various captains, H. Y. Barrow, New Jersey; Gardiner W. White, Long Island, and Lee W. Maxwell of Westchester, the last-named acting in place of John G. Anderson of Siwanoy, who has gone abroad to compete in the British amateur championship. None of the captains were able to state in just what sequence their men would play, but it is expected that either Jesse W. Sweetser of Ardsley or Thomas D. Armour of the Westchester-Biltmore Club, former Scottish amateur champion, will act as lead-off player for Westchester and Oswald Kirkby of Knickerbocker, former metropolitan and New Jersey champion, for New Jersey. Gardiner White of Nassau, holder of the metropolitan title at the present time, may set the pace for the Long Islanders or he may shift the burden onto the shoulders of Grant A. Peacock of Cherry Valley, who ran second in the met classic a year ago.

The teams were announced yesterday as follows:

Long Island—Gardiner W. White, Nassau, captain; Gerald Kirby, Knickerbocker; W. de Reske, Upper Montclair; F. W. Dyer, Upper Montclair; A. F. Kammer, Baltusrol; E. M. Wild, Baltusrol; F. F. Tyrrell, Morris County; F. M. Richardson, Morris County; C. T. Lansing, Knickerbocker; W. E. Donohue, Shackamaxon; Maurice Riley, Atlantic City; Schuyler Van Vechten, Baltusrol; A. H. Edwards, Morris County; David McAlpin, Morris County; J. E. Hale, Upper Montclair; H. C. Buchanan, Shackamaxon; H. B. Fenn, Ridgewood; R. H. Gwaltney, Baltusrol; Grantland Rice, Englewood; H. P. Nash, Baltusrol.

Long Island—Gardiner W. White, Nassau, captain; J. N. Stearns Jr., Nassau; Grant J. Peacock, Cherry Valley; John M. Ward, Garden City Golf; Richard A. Haight, Lido; Frank Hoyt, Engineers; H. F. Bingham, National; E. M. Barnes, Pipe Line Rock; Alfred S. Bourne, Garden City Golf; W. F. Ladd, Rockaway Hunt; Findlay S. Douglas, Nassau; Hamilton Kerr, Garden City Golf; E. W. Nash, Rockaway Hunt; C. H. Mall, Garden City Golf; Dr. A. T. Haight, Lido; Archie McElvain, National Links; M. L. Peary, Garden City Golf; G. A. Dunning, Nassau; H. C. Richard, Engineers; A. Fraser, Donald McKellar, North Hempstead; J. B. Parriet, National Links; A. W. Brass, Garden City Golf; Wesley M. Oler Jr., South Shore.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT.

Intercity Bouts Will Be Held in Garden Under A. A. U. Auspices.

One of the most important amateur boxing tournaments of the season will be conducted tonight and tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, when the Metropolitan A. A. U. will hold an intercity tourney. Some of the best boxers of the country have been attracted to the different cases in which bouts are scheduled.

The flyweight division promises to produce lively competition in the struggle for supremacy. Louis Furfetti, New York State champion, and Nat Pinsoni, winner of the recent Seventy-seventh Division tournament, are Father Knickerbocker's entries in this division. Martin J. Smith, State lightweight champion, and Sam Rosen, of the Pastime Athletic Club, Street 7, M. H. A., are the local entries in the 135-pound division.

One of the feature bouts will be a clash between Gordon Muir, former national heavyweight champion, and Jim Murphy, Penn State College boxer.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., May 16.—The University of Southern California defeated Swarthmore today in tennis, three matches to none.

MISS STIRLING IS DEFEATED ON LINKS

Ex-Champion Is 3 Down to Mrs. Courtland Bishop in W. M. G. A. Tourney at Glen Ridge.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., May 16.—Miss Alexa Stirling, former women's national golf champion, today suffered her first defeat since joining the metropolitan forces and one of the few since she began her career as a super-golf woman.

Playing on the links of the Country Club of Glen Ridge, in the one-day tournament of the Woman's Metropolitan Golf Association, Miss Stirling went down before the prowess of Mrs. Courtland Smith, a member of the home club, by the margin of 3 down.

Mrs. Smith's gross score was an 84, which was five strokes lower than the card turned in by her seeded rival, who was forced into third position as a result of an 88 by Mrs. J. L. Anderson of Cherry Valley. Mrs. Smith broke Miss Stirling's record for gross score winnings, the runner-up in the last women's championships at Hollywood having hitherto annexed the low gross prize in every tournament in which she has played since establishing her habitat in the metropolitan district.

The low net prizes were all annexed by women who hold high rating in the handicap list. Mrs. W. H. Baker of Montclair was the winner with 100, 18—82. With her handicap of 4, Mrs. Smith was the real winner in the low net class, but, as a result of the ruling of the M. W. G. A., she was eligible for only one prize. The putting honors went to Mrs. J. H. Drake of Morris County.

The contest between Mrs. Smith and Miss Stirling was closely contested for the first nine holes, each being cut in the same number of strokes, 42, seven more than par. After passing the turn, however, the Glen Ridge woman played brilliantly, finishing with a 42, only six over par, whereas Miss Stirling's game went awry. The little Southerner took exactly forty strokes to complete the journey, losing four holes and winning only one.

Only four times during the eighteen holes was Mrs. Smith more than a stroke away from par, these two occasions being at the fifth, sixth, eleventh and thirteenth holes. She was par on exactly half of the route, scoring five pars on the final nine and four on the first. Especially brilliant was her game on the last three holes of the round, for she traded strokes for stroke with par for even fours.

Miss Stirling became 2 up by winning the first two holes, her last one-half of her advantage at the next, which Mrs. Smith won with a 5. After halving the fourth, the former champion won the next two in order, but Mrs. Smith squared the match by playing the seventh, eighth and ninth in one over par. They halved the tenth in threes, but Mrs. Smith's 7 was good enough to put her 1 up at the eleventh. Miss Stirling evened matters by taking the thirteenth with a 5, but she lost the next, 6 and 7. The fifteenth and eighteenth were halved in fives and Mrs. Smith won the sixteenth and seventeenth.

The cards with par:

GOLF DATES SELECTED.

Shawnee C. C. Will Hold Annual Fall Tourney on Oct. 5-7.

The Shawnee Country Club, Shawnee-on-Delaware, announced yesterday the selection of Oct. 5, 6 and 7 as dates for its annual Fall tournament, completing the schedule for the year. The club will stage a women's tournament on June 20-23; the annual Shawnee open on July 26-27; the Buckwood invitation on Aug. 3-5. The reconstructed course will be opened on Friday.

MISS RIGGIN TO COMPETE.

Diving Star Will Enter Swimming Meet at Brighton Beach.

Miss Aileen Riggin, holder of the Olympic fancy diving championship for women, has announced her entry in the opening swimming meet of the season, which will be held on Memorial Day at Brighton Beach. She will compete in both swimming and diving events and is the first of the metropolitan stars to enter.

A number of other aquatic stars from the New York Women's Swimming Association are expected to compete, however, and it is probable that all the events will be well filled. An effort is being made to have Miss McGraw, the latest swimming sensation, take part in one or two races. The meet is not exclusively for women. There will be several races for men on the program.

WARD IN RING TONIGHT.

Will Meet Jimmy Kelly in Feature Bout at Pioneer Club.

Georgie Ward, Elizabeth welterweight, and Jimmy Kelly, rugged Bronx boxer, are scheduled to furnish the action tonight in the principal bout of twelve rounds at the Pioneer A. C. A. semi-final bout of eight rounds will be staged between Larry Regan of West Hoboken and Sammy Stone. In another eight-round encounter, Al West of the west side and Jimmy Murphy, an east side boxer, will clash. Six-round battle and a four-round match completes the card.

WILL OPEN FOR SEASON.

New Rochelle Yacht Club Will Go Into Commission Saturday.

The New Rochelle Yacht Club of New Rochelle, N. Y., will go into commission on Saturday, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. General Orders No. 1 were sent out yesterday by Fleet Captain R. M. Cooper, by order of the Commodore, Oswald J. Karech, commanding yachts in commission to assemble at the anchorage, and on signal from the flagship Wu-Fetiet to comply with colors and to dress ship. Yacht captains are invited to a reception aboard the flagship between 5 and 6:30 P. M.

Swimming Meet Memorial Day.

A swimming meet in which events for men and women will be contested will usher in the outdoor swimming season at the Brighton Beach Baths on the afternoon of May 30. Official A. A. U. sanction for the meet was granted yesterday. Officials of the Brighton Beach A. A. now are engaged in drawing up a programme of events in which a number of leading men and women swimmers will be invited to compete.

To Compete in Sprints.

Sol Butler, former Dubuque College broad jumping star and sprinter, who is now making his home here, will be a competitor in the special sprint series at the annual Spring games of the Loughlin Lyceum, McGolrick Field, Brooklyn, next Sunday afternoon. Announcement of Butler's entry was made yesterday. Bob McAllister of the New York A. C. has been invited to participate in the sprint feature.

NAVY LOSES LUSH AS BASEBALL COACH

Officials Agree to Termination of His Contract on Eve of Army Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 16.—Naval Academy baseball prospects have been dealt a blow by the termination of relations with William L. Lush, head coach, less than two weeks before the final game against the nine of the Military Academy. Lush has also been basketball coach here. He signed a three-year contract in the Summer of 1920.

For some time there has been friction between Lush and the Naval Academy athletic officials. Matters came to a head yesterday, when Lush stated that he would have no further connection with academy athletics, and the situation was accepted by the academy officials.

Commander D. L. Howard, athletic officer at the academy, today confirmed the fact that the academy and Lush had parted company, but would make no statement as to the cause.

The nine will be coached during the remainder of the season by Ensigns Blakeslee and Miller, old navy players, and John Wilson.

ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN CARD.

Dyckman Oval Officials Complete Program for Opening Show.

A force of carpenters, painters, electricians and laborers is now engaged on the task of finishing the boxing arena at Dyckman Oval in preparation for the initial show of the Academy A. C. The work will be completed some time this week, so that the arena will be available for inspection prior to Monday night, when the club officials will conduct their inaugural card. A change was announced in the program yesterday. The scheduled ten-round bout between Al Norton and Jimmy Kelly, welterweights, has been cancelled. A clash between Red Cap Wilson, west side lightweight, and Gene Delmont of Memphis, has been substituted.

Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City and Joe Burmen, Chicago bantamweight, will be opponents in the principal bout of ten rounds. In another ten-round contest Eddie Fitzsimmons, Yorkville southpaw, will exchange blows with Jimmy Hanlon, rugged Denver lightweight. Jimmy Carroll of the west side will engage Georgie Eagle for six rounds and Willie O'Connell and Georgie Fitzsimmons are slated for the opening four-round preliminary.

MOUNT KISCO DOG WINS.

Fernbrook Cleopatra Adjudged Best at Bulldog Show.

Fernbrook Cleopatra, an unusually fine specimen of the American-bred English bulldog, was accorded the honor of best dog in the match show of the American Bulldog Club, held last night at the Hotel Gregorian. This match show, which was held under sanction of the American Kennel Club, was more of a reunion of old-time fanciers of the English breed than a formal bench event.

Fernbrook Cleopatra, which is owned by the Fernbrook Kennels of Mount Kisco, did not have a very large field against her, but she would probably have won against a more formidable array of competitors, as her massive skull and tremendous upturn of the underjaw stamped her as an exceptional dog.

Walter Murray, owner of Thornbury Rajah, which was famous eight years ago, acted as judge, and Charles G. Hopton, who bred the first American-bred English bulldog, was Steward. A delegation of fanciers attended from Philadelphia, headed by Edwin L. Boger.

VILLANOVA RALLIES AND BEATS C. C. N. Y.

Pennsylvania Nine Takes Lead With Three Runs in Seventh and Wins by 8-6.

Villanova avenged its early season baseball defeat by City College when it triumphed over the Lavender yesterday at Lewisohn Stadium by the score of 8 to 6. Two Lavender pitchers and one Villanova moundsman were knocked out of the box. The Pennsylvania lads trailed until the seventh, when they fell on Anderson, who had relieved Sair in the sixth, for three runs, taking the lead.

McDonald captured the highest batting honors with three clean singles out of four times up, while Rasken came close behind, walloping out a triple and a brace of singles out of five times at bat.

CORNELL NINE TRIUMPHS.

Defeats Amherst Team by 7 to 4 Through Timely Hitting.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., May 16.—Timely hitting gave Cornell a 7 to 4 victory over Amherst here this afternoon. Cornell overcame Amherst's two-run lead in the fourth with four runs. The visitors added three more in the seventh after two were out on some loose playing by the Amherst nine.

Douglas accounted for the first home run on Pratt Field this season in the ninth, scoring Hunter ahead of him.

BACK TO FACT AND PRINCIPLE.

European statesmen confess their astonishment at the rapid and sure decision announced by Secretary HUGHES not to join the adjourned Genoa conference at The Hague. Scarcely had the invitation reached Washington before the answer to it was sent. But if a man has mature and strong convictions it does not take him much time to say whether he will act in accordance with them. A weather-vane mind may delay in order to discover which way the wind blows, but a Secretary of State who has a sure grasp of both the facts and the principles involved in any question is able to give his opinion on demand. And the position now taken by our Government is precisely that assumed by President WILSON, adopted by President HARDING a year ago, and since maintained in every note and speech on the matter of recognizing the Soviet Government. The policy has been firm and consistent throughout.

At the very moment when Secretary HUGHES was declining to meet the Russians at The Hague, so long as they refused to abandon the political theories which they have just freshly avowed, Mr. HOOVER was making an address at Washington before the International Chamber of Commerce, which was a destructive analysis of most of the claims put forward in behalf of Soviet Russia. No one in this country has more accurate information about actual conditions in Russia than Secretary HOOVER. Upon the basis of ascertained fact he gave his hearers and the public a wholesome dose of what he called "cold economics." Against optimistic and misleading pretenses he appealed to the testimony of statistics.

The ruin which has befallen Russia was not wrought by enemies on the outside, but was the work of her own misguided and ruthless military oligarchy. Russia has been dying economically and is now far over the edge of bankruptcy, as the result of a perversion of government and of the carrying out of mad economic theories. All the glib assertions that Soviet Russia merely needs admission into the family of nations in order at once to attain prosperity and to enrich the world by a great outflow of Russian products were swept away by Secretary HOOVER'S calm statement of the truth, with an enumeration of the shocking details of the steady degeneration in Russia of all the instrumentalities of modern civilization. Her production of raw materials is reduced to a pitiful minimum. Her railways are down to 7 per cent. of prewar capacity. Instead of an agricultural surplus, as in other days, she has an alarming scarcity. For four years she has been, as Mr. HOOVER asserts, eating up her entire fat. And it will be a long time before she has anything to exchange for the labor of foreign workmen or the savings of foreign investors. In the painful but truthful words of Mr. HOOVER: "Russia is slowly dying because the dynamic forces of production and foreign confidence have not been restored."

It is not a heartless attitude which Secretary HUGHES and Mr. HOOVER take in showing why the United States can have nothing to do with a Government that denies the right of private property and the sacredness of contracts. These are not merely abstract dogmas. They are far from being solely a capitalist fetish. They are rather the fundamentals of international intercourse and of commerce between nations. The Soviet Government complains that other countries will not trust it or trade with it. But it has itself destroyed, so far as it could, the indispensable instrumentalities of confidence and of commerce. All this was clearly laid down by Secretary HUGHES last year, and he now repeats it. To bring it up to date, he has merely to point to the Russian memorandum presented at Genoa last week, in which the old impossible theories of government were once more reasserted. So long as they remain unchanged or are not abandoned, this Government, concludes Secretary HUGHES, does not believe that it can "helpfully participate in the meeting at The Hague."

One door is left open by the reply of our State Department. The Washington Government is not at all hostile to an inquiry by experts into the economic situation in Russia and the necessary remedies. Even now if the inviting nations, moved thereto by the clear declaration of American policy and purpose, were to agree to rule out all other matters, and concentrate exclusively upon questions of finance and credit and trade, they might hope for our co-operation. On the right basis, and with the limitations that are necessary, Secretary HUGHES explains that the United States has "always been ready to join with the Governments extending the present invitation." But first the facts must be set straight and the underlying principles kept sound. This is the one great inference for Europe to draw from the swift and masterly statement sent to the President of the Genoa conference by Secretary HUGHES.

THE GOVERNORSHIP NO TEMPTATION.

It is not surprising that Mr. HEARST listens cynically to the talk of his running for Governor. He has the best of reasons to suspect the enthusiasm of politicians booming a very rich man like himself. They are always keen for a campaign which they think that it would be easy to finance lavishly. As the cost of living politically has risen greatly since 1906, they would look to Mr. HEARST to double his quarter of a million contribution of that year. Their present warm admiration of him is a pretty transparent expectation of pecuniary favors to come.

Such money demands of the local bosses Mr. HEARST could readily meet, if he chose. But it is hard to imagine him giving up the care of his vast business interests merely to become Governor of New York. Let no one imagine that his publications could go on successfully without his constant personal supervision. No one but himself could put upon them their well-known intellectual and moral stamp. To ask him to drop his peculiar work and neglect his large private concerns, even for a term as Governor, would be asking him to make too great a sacrifice. So we fear that Mr. HEARST will refuse to yield to the immense popular demand of which Mr. CONNERS of Buffalo is sole custodian.

AN IMPERTINENT RESOLUTION.

Senator BORAH'S resolution that "the Senate of the United States "favors the recognition of the present "Soviet Government of Russia" is an impertinence. It may do harm in encouraging the megalomaniac delusions of the masters of the Soviet, but, constitutionally and in effect, it would be nothing but a wasted gesture, even if it were passed unanimously by the Senate. The recognition of new Governments is an Executive function. In every case of a new Government, and of belligerency, writes JOHN BASSETT MOORE, "the "question of recognition was determined solely by the Executive. In "the case of the Spanish-American "republics, of Texas, of Haiti and of "Liberia, the President, before recognising the new State, invoked the "judgment and co-operation of Congress; and in each of these cases "provision was made for the appointment of a Minister, which, when "made in due form, constitutes, according to the rules of international "law, a formal recognition. In numerous other cases, the recognition "was given by the Executive solely "on his own responsibility."

HENRY CLAY, as a member of the House, was active in moving resolutions either for an appropriation for salaries of Ministers to the then unrecognized Governments or of sympathy with the Spanish provinces in revolt. In 1818 his motion for a salary for Minister to the Government of Rio de la Plata was defeated. One of the objections to it, wrote JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, Secretary of State, was that "it had the appearance of "dictating to the Executive with regard to the execution of his own "duties." In 1820 a motion by Mr. CLAY for an appropriation for outfit and salary "for such Minister or "Ministers as the President might, "with the concurrence of the Senate, "send to any of the South American "Governments," maintaining their independence against Spain, was passed by the House. Nothing happened. In the next session, his renewed motion for an appropriation was beaten, but a resolution of sympathy was passed. Nothing happened till 1822, after President MONROE'S message.

In 1836 Mr. CLAY, then a Senator, reporting from the Committee of Foreign Relations a resolution to recognize the independence of Texas, said:

"The President of the United States, by the Constitution, has the charge of their foreign intercourse. Regularly he ought to take the initiative in the acknowledgment of the independence of any new Power, but in this case he has not yet done it, for reasons which he, without doubt, deems sufficient. If in any instance the President should be tardy, he may be quickened in the exercise of his power by the expression of the opinion, or by other act, of one or both branches of Congress, as was done in relation to the republics formed out of Spanish America.

He may be "quickened" if he chooses to be. He may refuse to be quickened. In the Spring of 1896 Congress passed a concurrent resolution declaring its opinion that in Cuba a state of public war existed, requiring or justifying the recognition of Cuban belligerent rights. Secretary of State OLNEY remarked, ironically, that this was an "interesting expression of opinion" by Congress. It made not the slightest impression on him or on Mr. CLEVELAND. Congress was simply not minding its own business. The Senate discharges badly enough its constitutional function in regard to foreign affairs, yet it is continually trying, or some members of it are trying, to encroach upon or usurp the President's constitutional functions in regard to those affairs. No wonder foreign nations are bewildered and intelligent Americans disgusted by these corporate or individual pretensions, vagaries and meddlings.

THE FLYING CONTRABANDIST.

The forced landing near Croton-on-Hudson of an airplane carrying whisky from Canada, with the escape of the pilot in a waiting automobile, makes a story of unusual interest. A bootlegging airship has not been reported before, but it doesn't follow that it is a novelty to the illicit trade in rum. Fiction has surrounded the smuggler with an atmosphere of romance, mainly because he must be daring and his occupation involves him in bodily risk. There would be a gap in literature if the contrabandist were left out. Such was the unknown from Montreal, who seems to have arrived at the rendezvous too late to transfer his prize to the "agents," and had to plane down to an inhospitable hill, where he came to grief with a crash that involved most of his consignment.

This fashion of scorning the Mullan-Gage law of the State of New York is not likely to be a success at present. The exhaust of an airplane and the whir of the propellers make too much noise, and everybody follows the flight of a strange ship with curious eye. The airplane is still a spectacle. In this case mounted troopers of the State came in hot haste to the wreck to seize the contraband and nab the lawbreaker. It might have been hard to empanel a jury to convict him if he had been apprehended. In course of time there must be a State police driving airplanes as well as riding horses. Then suspicious planes will be "held up" or followed by "traffic cops" lying along aerial routes connecting such cities as Montreal and New York.

In that day there will be an air code as thick as a volume of the Supreme Court reports. Flying will be strictly regulated, and there will be airdromes every few miles, with lighthouses at night. Planes will carry numbers to identify them, and they will be darting in all directions, carrying passengers and perishable freight. Rogues, as well as honest men, will be in the air, and the flying police will often have difficulty in distinguishing them. The automobile long ago became a vehicle useful in crime, and the airplane will also be. All kinds of portable, ill-gotten goods will be coursing through the air, and thief-taking will become more of a problem than ever.

Flying cannot be regulated too soon for the protection of the public. Commercial aviation is developing rapidly. With better safeguards for passengers, more of them are traveling through the sky. Air limousines now fly thousands of miles without accident. Merchants who want a new market are patronizing the air-carriers. Spring fruits and vegetables can be delivered fresh hundreds of miles away. Mullica, down in sandy South New Jersey, is planning to ship asparagus by plane to Boston every afternoon. But the bootlegger will certainly use the plane to carry his outlawed goods.

CHILD LABOR LEGISLATION.

The Supreme Court's annulment of the Federal tax on profits made by the employment of children is not to be mistaken for a sentence of children to labor. There is no taint of exploitation of children in the decision of a Chief Justice whose Administration as President was marked by the establishment of the Children's Bureau under a woman Chief of Department. The Supreme Court merely declares invalid unsound legislation, and refers the subject of child labor to the States, where it properly belongs. The real question was preventing conflict between State and Federal regulation of the same subject.

The case reached the Supreme Court on appeal from a State which has its own child labor laws, and whose regulations carry a note that rulings under it "do not in any way affect the national Child Labor law." The decision is that the national Child Labor law in no way affects any State child labor laws. The Federal inspectors told employers of children that their compliance with the North Carolina law in no way exempted them from regulation under the Federal law. Thus there was a conflict. The Supreme Court says that if this were allowed the constitutional division between the powers of the States and the nation would be wiped out. The Court praised the motive of the legislation, but condemned the seeking of a good object in unconstitutional ways.

There is nothing either sectional or partisan in child labor legislation. Federal laws have been passed by votes of both parties. Forty-five States have established minimum age laws. Forty-two States have regulated night labor by children. Thirty-four States, with intent to prevent child labor, enacted minimum educational standards or compulsory school attendance laws. No doubt Federal regulation would be more uniform, but it would not necessarily be better. In any case, our political Constitution should not be subordinated to partisan uses, even if they should be popular. This has occurred twice regarding child labor. It may be supposed that the subject will now be allowed to rest in the control of the States. They are nearer to the children than is the nation.

It will be a further gain if Congress should heed the hint not to load general legislation on revenue bills. A formidable list might be made of such indirect legislation under threat of stopping Government functions. As a result of the Court's decision, backward States should now be impelled to extend their child labor laws. On child labor day it was stated that each year a million children leave school too soon, in order to go to work. The Federal law now annulled covered only 15 per cent. of the children, and left many occupations uncontrolled. Farm hands, domestic servants, street trades, tenement workers and many others were not protected. Here is a field for the States, and public opinion should quicken their efficiency, while supporting the Court in its province, which is to keep both nation and States within their due spheres of influence.

EQUAL RIGHTS.

Not too large, but busy as a bee, is the National Woman's Party; and it has plenty of money. Seeking the abolition of all legal discriminations against or in favor of women, it has had this proposed amendment to the Constitution introduced into Congress:

> No political, civil or legal disabilities or inequalities on account of sex, or on account of marriage unless applying alike to both sexes, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction.
> Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Such an amendment, could it be ratified, would open a boundless field of litigation. What would become of all the State statutes for the protection of working women, mothers' pension acts, for instance, acts prohibiting work by women in factories immediately before and after the birth of a child? Woman industrial workers need to be protected. The legal inequalities which it is proposed to destroy give them that protection. Working women and their friends oppose this well-meant but dangerous equalization. FLORENCE KELLEY, Secretary of the Consumers' League and a recognized authority, has asked twenty questions, some subdivided, hard nuts to crack most of them, about the amendment. Are women to lose the benefit of the statutory eight-hour day? How can they get an eight-hour law in a State where workingmen don't want one, preferring to use the power of their organization to negotiate with employers? Ought women to be forced to give up protective laws for their benefit because workmen don't want such laws for themselves?

Lower wages and longer hours are the usual lot of women in competition with men. What safeguard will they have under "blanket equal rights" to counterbalance these disadvantages? The number of woman wage earners is increasing remarkably. Occupational poisoning is increasing; and, as Dr. ALICE HAMILTON of the Harvard Medical School says, its effect on women is greater than upon men. Overwork by mothers is a known cause of high infant mortality. For their health and welfare and that of their unborn children, women need protective laws, the continuance and enlargement of "inequality."

In regard to the "inequalities" of married women, the questions are particularly acute. Under the new dispensation, will husbands have to support their wives? On our own hook, we venture to ask if, under the reign of equality, wives will have to support their husbands? "Can deserting husbands be brought back and compelled to support wife and child," continues the Secretary of the Consumers' League, as is now the case in many States? Can mothers be forced to work for the maintenance of their children? What becomes of widowed mothers' pensions, or shall there be widowed fathers' pensions? What becomes of dower rights? Even granting the contention of the straddlers that regulatory statutes under the State police power would not be affected, years of doubt and litigation would ensue and new laws for the benefit of working women would not be passed in the interim.

Professor COOK of the Columbia University Law School hits the nail on the head when he says that the equalisers are going to work in the wrong way. "The right way is to make a "careful survey in each State, and "remedy the wrongs that exist against "women in each of them. It is better "to abolish the bad and preserve the "good than to chop down the whole "tree and then try to reconstruct its "branches."

NEW STYLE ATROCITIES.

No doubt the moral indignation of the British Government at the latest Turkish atrocities is reinforced by the fact that they furnish an argument in support of British Near Eastern policy. That policy is sound if it can be carried out. The Greeks have their faults, but culturally they are several thousand years ahead of the Turks. England now asks America, France and Italy to join in an investigation of the evidence on recent Turkish atrocities—an investigation which the Angora Government can hardly oppose without confessing guilt. Our own Government's reluctance to take part in the inquiry is presumably due to the fact that we had no share in the dealings of the Allies with Turkey; but France or Italy can hardly refuse the invitation without admitting that massacres of the Anatolian Christians are of no concern to them.

The methods employed in the latest killing-off of Christians are those found most effective in the great butchery of Armenians in 1915. They are now used on the Greeks, who are too numerous, or too plainly visible, to be entirely exterminated by outright slaughter. Solvitur ambulando; the problem of national minorities is solved by walking them to death. Christian populations are deported and driven on roundabout routes through mountain and desert. For the original deportation it is sometimes possible to assign an excuse which, if not plausible, is at any rate more decent than the old method of murder; but the march is continued, under pressure from armed guards, until most of the expelled population succumbs.

It is true that the Greeks have massacred Turks in parts of Asia Minor. But their killings have been on a much smaller scale, and apparently have not been inspired by anything but blind, passing rage. Morally, this is perhaps no great palliation. But the difference in the motive, and the extent, of Greek and Turkish atrocities is important because it points directly at the fundamental difficulty in the Turkish problem. These latest deportation massacres are important as showing the Turkish idea of the only practical solution for the question of national minorities. The Turks, living with and ruling over races which are economically superior, can find no way to deal with them except by killing them off. The Armenian problem and the Ottoman Greek problem are to be settled by the "removal" of as many as possible of the Armenians and Ottoman Greeks.

This is better evidence as to the actual capacities of the new Turkish Government than all the social reform programs that ever came out of Angora, however much those programs may argue the good intentions of some prominent Turks. National minorities are a problem everywhere in Eastern Europe, and no nation has yet found a wholly satisfactory solution. But no European nation has gone back, as the Turks are doing, to the old policy of extermination. It may be maintained that so long as the army of MUSTAPHA KEMAL keeps the field, so long as no European Power is able or willing to suppress him, a satisfactory settlement of the Turkish question is impossible. But it will not now be argued that the question can be settled by the reform of the Turks. They seem to be the same Turks the world knew in 1876, 1895 and 1915.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

History as End and Means.

Strange as it may seem, instead of waiting to hear from that universal genius and arbiter, Mr. HEARST-FIELD, the committee appointed by the Department of Education, with Dr. EDWARD MEEDEL as Chairman, to examine and judge the American histories studied in our public schools, has made a report which Dr. ETTINGER, the Superintendent of Schools, has summarized and given out. The summary is interesting, but there is more than a little doubt if all its conclusions will be accepted by everybody as final or sound.

With its declaration that none of the text-book historians has been intentionally unpatriotic the queer people who have been charging most of them with just that crime will, of course, disagree. They, however, though so noisy, are a small group, with only one qualification as critics—hatred of England—and to argue with them is useless. The case is different with some of the other assertions in the report, and notably with the one which is to the effect that in the elementary schools history should be taught not as an end, but as a means to the teaching of such things as love for law and order, respect for constituted authority, appreciation of the country's institutions and ideals.

That sounds like, and would be more than likely to work out into, the contention that history, at any rate for the young, should be propaganda rather than truth. And suppose the facts of a country's history at a certain period should teach the very opposite of the things mentioned? Russia supplies a modern instance, and while, from the standpoint of Messrs. LENIN and TROTZKY, the ruling as to ends and means would be a fine one, its application to the Russian children would not tend to their ultimate edification.

That it is dangerous or even undesirable to tell the truth about anything, to anybody, old or young, cannot be admitted, and if the effect of telling it is troublesome to "constituted authority," if it raises questions as to the perfection of a country's institutions and ideals, it only shows that there is something seriously wrong with the authority, the institutions and the ideals.

No Reason to Fear the Truth.

Every good American believes that the history of his country can be told accurately and fully without injury to his pride, with no diminution of his patriotism. He may be a good American, but certainly he is not a wise one, if he believes that at any period all of his countrymen were paragons of all the virtues, including courage, honesty and devotion. He should not be afraid to hear, or to have his children hear, that in the past, as now, we were a very human lot, and he should be content to learn—as he can—that, on balance, Americans safely can risk comparison with other peoples, even the best of them.

Their achievements speak loudly for themselves—so loudly that we can trust our neighbors to hear without any frequent efforts to attract their attention—and it is unnecessary to proclaim, in our histories or out of them, that we never made any mistakes. We, too, have had a few heroes as nearly without blemish as the human race produces, and we have had—others. To teach children anything more than that is to expose them to sad awakenings in later life—to endanger the pride in their country which they ought to feel.

What War Did to the Mark.

Germany's financial condition undoubtedly is serious, but that it is not quite desperate is evidenced, among other ways, by the fact that, in describing and illustrating the depreciation of their currency, there are Germans who can see its humorous aspects and laugh at them. Observe, for instance, some of the comparisons recently made by the Tägliche Correspondenz between the purchasing power of the mark in 1914, the year of magnificent expectations, and 1922, that of disappointing realizations.

One mark, seven years ago, would buy a good plain dinner; in 1922 it pays for two rolls. For 3 marks one could get the best seat at a philharmonic concert; a program costs that now. Dinner at the Adlon Hotel was 5 marks; it has come to be the price of a sausage roll at a cabman's luncheon place. The other drops mentioned include:

Ten marks, an elegant dress shirt, a collar; 25-30 marks, a student's lodging and breakfast for a month, a tip for the landlady who prepares the breakfast; 50 marks, a Winter overcoat, a new velvet collar for it; 100 marks, month's board and lodging in a small seaside town, bed for a night in a Berlin inn; 5,000 marks, yearly income of a middle-class man in comfortable circumstances, price of an ordinary carpet; 10,000 marks, cost of a country villa with orchard, cost of small repair to the villa's roof.

As for 1,000,000 marks, the possession of that sum was considered possible only in fairy stories, but today it is merely pocket money for the daughter of a high-class profiteer in Berlin. Last to be mentioned is 1,000,000,000 marks as the amount collected with difficulty in 1914 for the construction of fortresses, but it now is the ordinary annual deficit in any Government department.

He Should Prevent the Accidents.

Commissioner ENRIGHT, the other day, in addressing a great crowd of Harlemites who had gathered to rejoice over the opening of a new hospital, told them that New York was in dire need of such additions to its facilities. As one explanation of the need he gave them some figures.

Of the city's inhabitants, he said, 950 were killed in motor accidents last year, and a much greater number injured. This year, judging by the past and allowing for increase of population and cars, he prophesied that the record would be 1,100 killed and 30,000 more or less severely injured.

But is the lesson of that, or the only lesson of it, the multiplication of hospitals? Some of the Commissioner's hearers, naturally, were doctors and to some of the doctors it occurred that he would have been better employed if, instead of pleading for more hospitals, he had been able to announce effective plans for cutting down the number of street accidents by a better enforcement of the present laws or by getting better laws if those are inadequate for the control of automobiles. That is distinctly his business, and he will attend to it if he wants to justify the claim of his great and good friend, the Mayor, that he is the best Police Commissioner New York ever had.

Power of Representative.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I must have read scores of letters contending pro or con as to whether prohibition was "put over." Why such difference of opinion about the matter? It seems to me an answer to the following plain question would settle it:

Has a Congressman or an Assemblyman conferred upon him the power to vote for anything, whether or no it was mooted in his electoral campaign, affecting the rights or liberties of his constituents?

Motorcycle Noise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All day and most of the night, motorcycles run all over the city, with wide-open, shrieking cut-outs. It is against the law—morning it is a real menace to the health of thousands of us. Is there no moral or legal way to stop it? The police don't see them and the Health Board don't hear them, but let your reporter ask some of us who lie awake all night listening to them and we will tell him.

CONVALESCENCE.

When something fell has snatched at you, and missed,
The coming back from skirting the unknown
Has to my mind a rather piquant twist,
An impish sort of humor quite its own.

The first attempt to reach the easy chair
That seems inclined to dodge and slide away;
The feeling that you'd better have a care,

And food! When you have liked the hearty stuff—
For dainties never had the slightest use—
Or wait expectantly for orange juice.

There's writing, too! You learn to hold a pen,
You have some long, imposing verse in view,
You plan to start at noon and work to ten,
But find that sixteen shaky lines must do.

POOR, IGNORANT CHICAGO!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Did Lady Astor really say "I don't give a 'tuck-a-dunt' for the unintelligent woman?" I think not, for as an intelligent woman Lady Astor knows that "tuck-of-drum" is the idiom. It means a tap or beat of a drum.

The Standard Dictionary tells us that a "tuck" is a beat, tap, blow, or stroke, and that the word is used "commonly in the phrase tuck of drum." As an illustration of usage it quotes the following lines from Whittier's "Panorama" (st. 18), written in 1855:

Give me the heroes who, at tuck of drum,
Salute thy staff, immortal Quattlebum!

Dr. Murray shows that the idiom dates from 1500 and is given in the "Select Collection of Scottish Ballads," published in 1790—

With trumpets and with tucks of drum—
Battle of Harlaw.

But the same lines are cited as in use in Scotland by David Herd in his "Collection of Ancient and Modern Scottish Songs," published in Edinburgh in 1776.

Formerly in Scotland proclamations were published by "tuck or touck of drum," and Scott in "The Heart of Midlothian" refers to the practice of opening a convocation by this means (see Chapter 12). From Spalding's "History of Scotland" (1792) one learns that many years ago "Aberdeen carefully caused tuck of drums through the town, charging all men to be in readiness with their best arms!"

This idiom serves to show that

* * * words shall presume
To hold their honors and immortal bloom!
Many shall rise, that now forgotten lie,
Others, in present credit, soon shall die.

Yours very truly,

THE VIRGINIA LANGHORNES.

Revised Data on Lady Astor's Family History.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read in your paper of the 23d of April a note relative to the Langhorne family, to which belongs Lady Nancy Astor. I have known the family all my life, and beg to correct a few "facts" concerning them, in which "A Virginian" must have been sadly mistaken.

Lady Astor's mother, Nancy Witcher Keen, was born and raised in a handsome country home near Danville, Va. She married C. D. Langhorne and lived in Danville on the most prominent residential street, in a house of two stories, with pretty front porch and yard, and there Nancy Langhorne Astor, fourth child of her parents, "first saw the light."

Mrs. Langhorne's people were always of good means and prominent in both the social and political life of Virginia, the old Keen home being still in the family, having never been sold. I never heard of any one of a decent family lunching on "baked potatoes only" and I am sure there was never a time Mr. Langhorne could not have provided proper food for his family, and, if he could not, his wife's people would soon have come to the rescue, or his friends, who were legion. Virginia has ever been a land of plenty where food was concerned.

The Langhornes never needed food! Mr. Langhorne never owned a foot of land outside of town until he bought Mirador, an elegant home "cuddled in the Valley of the Roanoke"; then he was rich!

Lady Astor's mother did not die until all of her daughters were grown and Lady Astor had been married several years. Mrs. Langhorne spent a year in Europe, in Southern France and other countries, with her daughter Nancy, not long before her death. Mrs. Langhorne was a lady of great gentleness, amiability of character, with tact, mingled with good common sense and frugality, and much brightness and wit. She was undoubtedly the guiding spirit in the life of her young daughters, ever smoothing the rough places, ever instilling truth, honesty of nature and refinement into their youthful development. She was beautiful in person and figure herself. For her children she had an unbounded ambition, as she early recognized their own personal and many attractions. Nancy Witcher Langhorne Astor inherited from her mother's people a taste and love for politics which she cannot resist. Her grandfather Keen, being a Colonel in the Confederate Army, was called home to take a place in the State Senate to help uphold "Virginia's honor" in those trying times.

Her ancestor, Captain Vincent Witcher, the most influential politician of his day, was the pioneer and great wheel horse of Democracy in Virginia, steering his ship through many rough seas, to see it at last safely anchored. He was also a member of the convention when Virginia seceded from the Union, believing, in his wonderful wisdom, in State rights. Thus, this child, Nancy Astor, flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone, can hardly fail to try to uphold "the good of the people, for the people."

The Law of 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg to call attention to an editorial which appeared in this morning's issue of THE TIMES under the caption of "Short Cuts to Justice," and particularly to the second paragraph thereof, beginning "By virtue of a law quietly passed in 1920 at the instance of the Arbitration Society of America * * *"

The Arbitration Society of America, but very recently launched, stands for a most commendable object and it has my best wishes for success, but it must be obvious that an organization of but a few weeks' growth could not be responsible for a law passed back in 1920. As a matter of fact, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, of whose Arbitration Committee I have the honor to be Chairman, with the assistance of the New York State Bar Association and the co-operation of some forty or more prominent business men's institutions and trade organizations throughout the State of New York, is responsible for this very favorable legislation. I am taking the liberty of sending you a copy of the annual report of the Chamber's Committee on Arbitration of May 6, 1920, which I have blue-penciled.

Realizing the great necessity for a Federal arbitration law, as well as uniform State arbitration laws, modeled on our New York State law, our chamber has assiduously conducted an educational campaign along these lines. In this we have been co-operating with the American Bar Association and Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce. The American Bar Association, in collaboration with our chamber, is now working on a draft not only for a Federal arbitration law, but also on a draft for uniform State arbitration laws.

I also enclose the report unanimously adopted by the chamber on Jan. 6, 1922, as well as a copy of the program of the chamber's meeting of May 4, 1922, beginning on Page 3 of which you will find the last annual report of our Committee on Arbitration to the chamber.

BEGINS SUIT TO TEST TAX EXEMPTION LAW

MAY AFFECT BUILDING BOOM

The long-awaited real estate offensive against the State tax exemption law and the municipal tax exemption ordinance was begun yesterday by the Hermitage Company of 2 Rector Street, which, through Taylor Moore and John Brooks Leavitt, lawyers, filed suit in the Supreme Court against Commissioner Henry M. Goldfogle and the members of the Board of Taxes and Assessments to restrain them from exempting new housing construction from taxation.

As exemption on property worth $83,450,000 has already been allowed in the last year, successful prosecution of the suit would mean the payment to the city of $2,294,000 in taxes by property owners for the last year, and the tax lists would be increased by a total of approximately $23,000,000, since the ordinance exempts new construction for ten years.

It was pointed out, however, that a victory for the plaintiff would mean a much greater loss to owners of new property, for the Board of Aldermen recently extended the tax exemption ordinance, so that any one filing plans by next April would be exempt from taxation for nine years. Using the last year as a basis for computation, Mr. Goldfogle estimated that the total loss to owners of new property if the Hermitage Company won its suit would be about $45,000,000.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood Committee, said last night on learning of the suit that the committee would ask to intervene in the suit with the Corporation Counsel for the purpose of upholding the constitutionality of the two measures. He did not regard the suit seriously, he said, as the law and the ordinance seemed to him unassailable.

May Affect Building Boom.

In real estate circles it was said that the suit would have a tendency to discourage new building construction, and taken with the high cost of materials and other factors it might put an end to the building boom now in progress.

The saving accruing to new builders through the tax exemption ordinance was a big factor in the decision of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's plan to spend $10,000,000 on a model block of houses to rent at $9 a room.

Commissioner Goldfogle said that papers were served on him yesterday in the suit which aims to test the validity of the permissive measures passed by the Legislature enabling municipalities to exempt taxes on new construction for ten years, and also the ordinance adopted by the Board of Aldermen in pursuance of the statute.

The Hermitage Company, in the papers filed, assert that since the passage of the ordinance many new houses have been erected and if such ordinance is permitted to be followed by the Tax Commissioners, $100,000,000 in new construction will be exempt from taxation soon, "thereby increasing very substantially the amount of taxes which this plaintiff will be obliged to pay on its property."

The complaint further sets forth that the "Board of Aldermen had no power or jurisdiction to pass said ordinance," the same is wholly null and void, and the proposed act of the defendants in exempting said new buildings from taxation in accordance with the provisions thereof, will be an illegal official act."

The plaintiff therefore asks that "the said illegal official act of said defendants as such Commissioners in exempting such new buildings from assessment for purposes of taxation be prevented by the judgment of this court, and that this plaintiff have such other relief as may be proper."

According to figures given out by Commissioner Goldfogle, the amount of exemptions allowed by the board for the first year total $83,450,000. The exemptions allowed are as follows:

On one and two family houses, $38,105,840.

These figures are for all boroughs.

The total tax, if the exemptions are not provided for, would be $2,294,581.60. In other words, the city's concession for the first year of the operation of the law cost the city that much in taxes which it might have collected. Commissioner Goldfogle pointed out that since the exemption lasts for ten years, the amount which the city will lose in taxes is $22,945,816, and if the same amount of property is exempted during the second year, that figure will be doubled.

In the Borough of Manhattan the largest single exemption allowed, according to Commissioner Goldfogle, is on an apartment house at Broadway and Ninety-seventh to Ninety-eighth Street. This exemption amounted to $719,000.

In the Bronx, the largest exemption was $400,000 on property on Mt. Eden Avenue; in Brooklyn, $340,000 on property on Ocean Avenue; in Queens, $270,000 on property at Forest Hills, and in Richmond, $10,000.

In Manhattan but one exemption was allowed on a one-family house, while exemptions were allowed on 45 multi-family houses.

Figures of Other Boroughs.

Brooklyn, 3,124 one-family houses, 1,352 two-family houses and 168 multi-family houses; Bronx, 718 one-family houses, 185 two-family houses and 67 multi-family houses; Queens showed remarkable home building, with 5,235 one-family houses, 1,411 two-family houses and 29 multi-family houses, and Richmond 1,122 one-family houses, 61 two-family houses and only three multi-family houses.

As an illustration of the difficulties which the Tax Commissioners meet with, Commissioner Goldfogle told of a claim for exemption which he has under consideration, made by the owners of a large apartment hotel. These owners, he said, got into trouble over the rent of an apartment held by a tenant under a lease. In rent litigation the owners of the building made a claim that it was a hotel and did not fall under the rent laws. The Court, however, held, and the Appellate Division later upheld the lower court, that the building was amenable to the emergency rent laws and therefore it was to be classed as an apartment house.

Then the owners, who had asserted that the building was a hotel, came before the Board of Taxes and Assessments and urged that in view of the fact that the court held that the building was an apartment house and consequently a dwelling house, they were entitled to exemption. The rent case, Commissioner Goldfogle said, has gone up to the Court of Appeals and, pending the outcome of that decision, he is holding his decision on the application for tax exemption.

The papers in the suit of the Hermitage Company, Commissioner Goldfogle said, have been forwarded to the Corporation Counsel, who will defend the suit for the board.

MISS DURHAM WED TO WM. B. POTTS JR.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Durham Married in Chantry of St. Thomas's.

MISS ROSITA JURICK, BRIDE

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

Mrs. Biddle Duke entertained at luncheon at Pierr's yesterday, and among her guests were Mrs. Sydney J. Colford Jr., Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle Jr., Mrs. Julian M. Gerard and Miss Elizabeth Sands.

Mrs. Charles I. Hudson has come in from Syosset, L. I., and is at the St. Regis for a few days. Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson entertained at a luncheon there yesterday.

Mrs. Charles G. Ayres of 55 West Fifty-fifth Street gave an at home yesterday for her sister-in-law, Mrs. John W. Fairfax of Virginia, and her daughter, Mrs. George Emlen Starr. Mrs. Hamilton R. Fairfax was at the tea table.

Miss Gertrude Tower entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Ritz-Carlton, her guests including Mrs. Laurence H. Armour, Mrs. H. O. Barker and Mrs. Spencer Eddy.

Richard F. Howe, who resides at Carlton House, sailed on the Mauretania for Europe to spend the Summer abroad.

Mrs. Harriet S. Clark of 360 Park Avenue has opened her place at Southampton, L. I., for the Summer.

Miss Antoinette Wood Eno Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Graves of 399 Park Avenue and Paris, will be married today to Major Robert Charles Frederick Goetz, U. S. A., in Washington, D. C.

W. K. Vanderbilt had his two daughters, the Misses Muriel and Consuelo Vanderbilt, and James D. Barnes, as his guests at luncheon at Sherry's yesterday. George B. Post gave a dinner there last night for Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Kountze, Mr. and Mrs. W. Goadby Loew, Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Ford Huntington and Coleman Drayton also entertained at dinner.

Newport.

Mrs. C. I. Miller yesterday afternoon had about seventy guests at a tea dance which she gave at Laforge Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Colt Josephs have opened their Easton's Point home for the Summer.

Wayside, the Summer home of Mrs. Elisha Dyer on Bellevue Avenue, has been opened.

Mrs. Daniel B. Fearing arrived from Philadelphia yesterday and is at the Muenscher-Kinsley for a month. Captain and Mrs. E. W. Robinson have also arrived at the same place.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Easton are arriving from Washington on Friday.

Mrs. T. Shaw Safe is arriving at Ocean Lawn next week for the remainder of the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Allen Poe, who have been at Jamestown, have left for San Diego, Cal., for a stay of several months, and they will not open their Jamestown home this Summer.

Washington.

Mrs. Harding has accepted a box for the performance of "As You Like It" to be given Thursday afternoon at the Woman's Foundation in aid of the Valley Forge endowment. This will probably be the last entertainment in these grounds under the present ownership, as even the most optimistic of the "founders" admit the expense of their undertaking is too great to be carried out. The property is now for sale and will probably pass into the hands of the Masonic order, which is negotiating for its purchase.

Mrs. Harding will follow a custom of many years and receive several hundred young women from all parts of the United States this afternoon. The callers will be the seniors of the many girls' schools in Washington, who have the opportunity of meeting the first lady of the land on the eve of their graduation.

Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Denby and Mrs. Mayhew Wainwright gave their names and patronage to the sale and tea given yesterday afternoon at the Woman's Foundation in aid of the Army and Navy Exchange. Mrs. Merritte W. Ireland and Mrs. M. A. De Laney poured tea, with Mrs. Nedham Jones in charge of the Tea Committee.

Mrs. James S. Sherman of Utica, N. Y., widow of the former Vice President, was a guest at the weekly luncheon of the ladies of the Senate yesterday.

The Spanish Ambassador and Mme. Riano will entertain at breakfast today for the members of the Embassy staff and some Spanish visitors in celebration of the birthday of King Alfonso.

Frederick Nano, the newly arrived Secretary of the Rumanian Legation, has taken an apartment at Wardman Park Inn. He is accompanied by his wife and, on the departure of the Minister, Prince Bibesco, for Europe, will assume the duties of Chargé d'Affaires.

Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees entertained a luncheon company of twenty covers at the Shoreham yesterday. The company was in compliment to the wives of delegates in attendance on the session of the National Chamber of Commerce, of which Mr. Defrees is President.

Baron Leopold Plessen of the German Embassy and Durham Rogers were hosts at a small company at dinner last evening at Wardman Park Inn.

Representative and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Ryan of New York, who have been occupying a residence in S Street throughout the Winter, relinquished the same yesterday when they went to Virginia Hot Springs, where Mrs. Ryan will spend the early Summer.

General and Mrs. Wilbur E. Wilder have relinquished the residence, 1,601 R Street, which they leased for the past season, and have gone to Mrs. Wilder's Newport estate for the Summer.

Mrs. Walter S. Crosley is making a short visit to Mrs. Horace MacFarland at Chevy Chase before going to Key West to join Captain Crosley, who is in command of the naval station at that port.

BACKS SCIENCE CHURCH.

Supreme Court Upholds the Ousting of Stetson Follower.

Supreme Court Justice McAvoy decided yesterday in favor of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in the suit brought against it by Walter Fairchild, who has been dropped from membership pursuant to a recent by-law authorizing such action against followers and students of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, to test the power of the church to enforce such by-law.

The attorney who has acted for Mrs. Stetson in her litigation with the church trustees asserted that he was loyal to Mrs. Stetson because she cured him of disease, and that such loyalty has nothing to do with his membership in the church.

In his decision Justice McAvoy said:

"I think that the by-law under consideration is fully authorized by the defendant's corporate powers and is adapted to a proper exercise of restraint of the members' orthodoxy; and, while the plaintiff can insist that his civil and property rights as an individual or citizen shall be determined according to the law of the land, his relations, rights and obligations arising from his position as a member of this religous body may only be determined according to the laws and procedure of that body.

"A person joining any legally organized body with powers to make laws and rules for its own government and for the regulation of the conduct of its members becomes bound by those laws and rules. The proper church judicatory of an ecclesiastical body in which one holds membership, and under whose tutelage one exercises religious functions, is the proper forum for determination of questions affecting the objects and interests of the moral and spiritual side of ecclesiastical discipline."

OPPOSES COURTHOUSE PLAN

Brady Says It Would Be Unwise to Add Story to Building.

Charles Brady, Superintendent of Public Buildings, yesterday notified the Judges of General Sessions that it would be "decidedly unwise" to add another story to the Criminal Courts Building, as recently suggested by them. The court was increased to eight parts by recent legislation, creating two new Judges. It was found, however, that there was no available space in the building for the new courts.

The Justices of Special Sessions consented to the use of two parts of that court until provisions could be made for the new parts of General Sessions. The letter to Superintendent Brady was sent with a view to having an additional story or two added to the building for the accommodation of the new parts.

In his letter Superintendent Brady said: "In view of the present condition of the building, and in view of the foundation being defective and incapable of sustaining the weight of the present structure without settlement, it would be decidedly unwise to add another story or two as suggested."

The court house was erected in 1903. In 1910 the structure settled in quicksand to such an extent that the courts were evicted until the foundations were bolstered.

METHODISTS ELECT BISHOPS

Report to Hot Springs Conference Condemns Increase in Divorce.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 16 (Associated Press).—Four of the five new Bishops to be elected at the nineteenth quadriennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, here were named late today when results of four ballots were announced.

The new prelates are: H. M. Dobbs of Anniston, Ala.; J. E. Dickey of Griffin, Ga.; W. B. Beauchamp and Sam R. Hay of Houston, Texas. Mr. Dobbs was elected on the fourth ballot, Dr. Hay on the third and Drs. Beauchamp and Dickey on the second.

The conference then began its fifth ballot with the understanding that the results would not be announced until tomorrow.

The Committee on Temperance and Special Service announced completion today of a report condemning what is regarded as an "abnormal and unwarranted increase in the amount of divorce" and specifying, among other things, that before officiating at a wedding where one of the parties is divorced the minister shall obtain a written statement as to the reason for the decree.

The Church, it was stated, will continue to recognize only one ground for divorce—unfaithfulness on the part of either husband or wife—and no minister may perform the ceremony where either of the contracting parties has been divorced for any other cause.

BRINGS AID TO BLIND BABIES

Sunshine Society, in Convention Here, Pushing Bills.

The International Sunshine Society, in convention this week at the Pennsylvania Hotel, is specializing this year on legislation for the blind babies. The society was organized twenty-six years ago by a few newspaper workers under the leadership of Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, and it now numbers between 200,000 and 300,000 members. Delegates are present from all parts of the United States, Cuba, Canada and England.

About $2,500 was raised at the concert Sunday evening at the Little Theatre which opened the convention, and the money has been turned over to the Arthur Sunshine Home for Blind Babies at Summit, N. J. A feature of the society is a branch composed of 800 persons more than 80 years old; another section is made up of 700 invalids compelled to use wheel chairs, and there are 3,000 others who are bedridden.

The annual dinner tomorrow evening will be presided over by Mrs. Alden, the President General of the society. Thaddeus C. Sweet, former Speaker of the State Assembly, and Dr. Al C. Hill will speak.

SCHOOL NEEDS DISCUSSED.

Women's City Club Gives Dinner to Psychologists Aiding Teachers.

The Women's City Club last evening gave a complimentary dinner to the scientists cooperating with the local public school officials in psychological examination of children who are three or more years retarded in their school work in the districts under the administration of Superintendent John E. Wade.

Mrs. Martha P. Falconer of the City Club presided. Miss Elizabeth E. Farrell, director of the Division of Ungraded Classes, Department of Education, emphasized the great need of placing in classes with work they are capable of doing and of prevailing truancy and juvenile delinquency.

Other speakers were Felix Warburg, Prof. R. Pintner, Teacher's College; Dr. Van Denburg, Board of Examiners, Department of Education; Associate Superintendent of Schools William McAndrew and Miss Martha L. Draper.

Gardner School Alumnae Luncheon.

The annual luncheon of the Gardner School Alumnae Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Palm Room at the Lorraine. Some fifty guests were present, including Mrs. Frances Laimbeer, Mrs. Bashford Dean, Mrs. Henry Moran, Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. Francis Dale and the Misses Maud Ellinger, Muriel Ellis, Catherine Bull, Lucia Moran, Henrietta Lovejoy and Mary Lawlor.

SOCIETY FAIR OPENS FOR TINY CRIPPLES

STAGE FOLK LEND A HAND

With gay lanterns and banners flying, the lively notes of a handorgan, with a real monkey, the appetising oder of "hot dogs," the squeals of joy from the children and the chatter of older people, the big Park Avenue Fair for the benefit of the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children opened yesterday afternoon and will continue through Wednesday. It extends from Forty-sixth to Fiftieth Street.

The fair is the work of 1,000 well-known women of the city with Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin the organizer and Chairman, Mrs. Edgard S. Auchincloss Jr., President of the Association, and Miss Elsie Schefer, Vice Chairman. The 1,000 women are organized into forty committees, all of them working, appearing in relays. There is everything at this fair that ever was at any other fair and then some. There is a circus, a theatre, a dancing floor and an art gallery with beautiful pictures by real artists. There is a wonderful tea garden surrounding the dance hall, where good things to eat are served at a continuous performance. There is a tobacco booth with everything that men or women smokers could demand and pretty girls are everywhere selling cigarettes. The flower booth is attractive and so are the girls who sell flowers. Miss Muriel Vanderbilt was pushing a cart around yesterday on which were real flowers in baskets and artificial flowers on hats for sale. But there is a regular millinery booth with not a hat over $10.

The animal booth did a wonderful business. A nice lively lot of kittens sold like hot cakes, $1 apiece, three kittens for $2.50. One woman in the children's playground, who was parking a tiny, scratching little white kitten in her arms while her little daughter for whom it was purchased was enjoying herself, literally had her hands full. They sold fifteen kittens during the afternoon, a police dog for $150 and a Sealyham for $50. Many of these animals come from private kennels, where they could not be purchased. A bright little two-months-old wire-haired fox terrier was being carried around wrapped in an apron that he might not take cold. He was a pedigreed little chap, by Champion Wire Boy Paignton, out of Conjeo Enterprise. His price was $150, a bargain from the kennel of Mrs. Roy Rainey, Huntington, L. I. There was a fine cocker spaniel from the Mepol kennels, Mrs. Mary Willetta. A young ram also was offered for sale and a handsome raccoon was priced at $100.

The art gallery was doing well, having sold three paintings and more than a dozen etchings, and the portrait booth kept the artists busy continually at $20 a portrait in crayon.

Mrs. Lydig Hoyt led her artists for the performance at the Grand Giggle Theatre in a procession around the grounds. Eddie Cantor, DeWolf Hopper and Raymond Hitchcock did the megaphoning. At the dance mart, from 9 to 4, Florence Walton gave exhibition dancing to strains of music by radio.

There were many kinds of grab bags, including the wonderful pirate ship, for the children. On the ship one sits on smooth boards and slides down into the grab bag. There is an Alice in Wonderland shop, and at the circus the best kind of a game is throwing a ball, which, done successfully, makes a little pig come out and slide down a board with funny little grunts.

Along the sides of the street fair are comfortable green benches in charge of Boy Scouts where one may sit for 25 cents a seat.

LAWYER SUES PARTNER.

Charges Leslie, Indicted as Wire-tapper, Failed to Divide Fees.

Two suits filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against Warren Leslie, lawyer, by his former partner, Byram L. Winters, allege that Leslie got a fee of $20,000 from his client, Mrs. Olga Allers, when she won a separation from Dr. Charles Augustus Allers of St. George, S. I. Leslie was indicted on May 1 last by the Richmond County Grand Jury with John Sutter, former Police Detective Sergeant, James T. Shaw, a taxi driver, who is Sutter's brother-in-law and Walter Schmidt, a shipping man of White Plains, Mrs. Allers's brother, for tapping Dr. Allers's telephone wire in obtaining evidence to defend his case.

The revelations in this case came to light before the Meyer committee, before which Winters was a witness. In one suit for an accounting, Winters alleges that he was partner of Leslie in 1920 and is entitled to half the profits from the law business of Leslie & Winters. The second suit is for $10,000, or half the alleged fee received by Mr. Leslie in the Allers case.

William G. Markham.

AVON, N. Y., May 16.—William G. Markham, a pioneer breeder and exporter of registered cattle and sheep, and a Rochester business man, died suddenly at his home, Elm Place Farm, here today, aged 85 years. Mr. Markham was the author of the New York American Merino Register, the first to give individual pedigrees of sheep, and of the American Merino Flock Record. In 1879 he personally delivered 200 sheep to the Japanese Government, and in 1888 he visited China, Mongolia, Tasmania, Australia, New Zealand, Italy, France and Germany in the interest of improved sheep.

JUDGE CHARLES P. ORR DIES.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 16.—Judge Charles P. Orr, senior Judge of the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, died of heart disease tonight in his home at 870 South Highland Avenue. He was appointed Judge of the United States District Court April 7, 1909, in Pittsburgh.

Judge Orr handed down many important decisions in his thirteen years on the bench. From the time the war-time prohibition act went into effect, Judge Orr's decisions often brought upon him the censure of prohibition leaders.

He was among the first Federal Judges in the country to insist that Federal prohibition agents be armed with search warrants before they entered any store or residence where the sale of liquor was made.

Recently he attracted national attention when he refused to naturalize two striking coal miners who sought citizenship papers in his court, because he did not believe that aliens, engaged in an economic dispute which affected the people of this country, should apply for citizenship.

PRINCESS DE TOLNA DEAD.

BUDAPEST, May 16.—The Princess Festetics de Tolna, divorced wife of the Prince of Monaco, died here yesterday, aged 71, following an operation for appendicitis.

She was Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, the daughter of the English Duke of Hamilton and Brandon, and married the Prince of Monaco in 1869. Their marriage was annulled by the Vatican in 1880, and she became the wife of Prince Festetics de Tolna later in the same year.

Gen. C. L. Anderson Dies of Injuries.

Charles L. Anderson, who was a veteran of the Civil War and a Major-General in the National Guard of South Carolina, died yesterday in Metropolitan Hospital from injuries resulting from a fall. He commanded Battery A, First New York Light Artillery from the first day of the Civil War until Lee's surrender.

General Anderson was detailed by the Governor of South Carolina to quell reconstruction riots. Florida bestowed upon him a charter for a canal across the state of Florida. He was a life long Democrat. His body will be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington.

NEW GERMAN ENVOY TALKS ON GENOA

Says European Affairs Cannot Be Settled at One Meeting of Delegates.

TO PRESENT CREDENTIALS

Will Meet President Harding After the Preliminaries Are Arranged.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the newly appointed German Ambassador to the United States, who reached Washington late last night, after a two days' visit to New York, will present his credentials to President Harding as soon as it can be arranged to the convenience of the President and Secretary Hughes. While not willing to comment at length for publication on European affairs, the Ambassador said that, in his opinion, the problems of Europe could never be settled in a single conference and that many more conferences after Genoa would be necessary for the restoration of normal conditions.

Dr. Wiedfeldt, who is affable and talks with an air of frankness, said that Germany was most anxious to co-operate with the United States in every way for the improvement of commercial relations between the two countries at the earliest possible day.

"Germany needs your cotton, your copper and your tobacco," he said, "as well as nearly every other product and commodity. She has depended upon these staples in the past, and America has always been her main source of supply."

The vast majority of the people of Germany are perfectly satisfied with the present form of gorvernment there, he said. So far as he was aware, neither the former Kaiser nor his followers were attempting in any way to interfere with the present régime.

"There will, of course, always be a few in Germany who believe they would be better off under the Hohenzollern régime than at present," he said. "The great majority of the people of my country, however, are perfectly contented with conditions as they exist at the present time."

The new Ambassador speaks English almost perfectly.

"I was in the United States only a few months before the World War broke out," he said. "At that time I was on an inspection trip of some of your largeatsteel mills, acting in the interest of a number of private concerns in Germany."

With the advent of Ambassador Wiedfeldt, the German Embassy has a fully accredited representative of the Berlin Government for the first time since Count von Bernstorff received his passports early in 1917. The new Ambassador arrived without any elaborate entourage, being accompanied by one servant, who had made the sea voyage with him. He plans to have only three assistants in his Ambassadorial duties.

WORKING TO GET KEMAL TO LET AMERICANS GO

Major Arnold Begins His Efforts to Get Fifty Families Out of Anatolia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 16 (Associated Press).—Negotiations with the Turkish Nationalist Government on behalf of the Americans in Anatolia have been opened by Major D. G. Arnold, formerly Director of the American Committee for Relief in the Near East. He represents fifty Americans whose wives and families are unable to leave Anatolia owing to Mustapha Kemal Pasha's restrictions against persons of Armenian or Greek descent.

Major Arnold's task is complicated by the fact that the United States has no diplomatic relations with the Nationalists, and he expects to go to Angora to plead the cause of the Americans with Mustapha Kemal Pasha personally. He interviewed the American High Commissioner and the Consul General yesterday, obtaining promise of their fullest unofficial support. Major Arnold's home is in Providence, R. I.

$200,000 Lumber Fire in Hoboken.

The entire Hoboken Fire Department was called out yesterday afternoon to fight a fire which destroyed the saw and planing mills of the Lewson & MacMurray Lumber Company, at Sixteenth and Seventeenth Streets, between Clinton and Jefferson Streets. The damage was estimated at more than $200,000. The blaze is believed to have started near a shaving bin.

POPE COMMENDS SPORTS.

He Greets E. L. Hearn of Knights of Columbus in English.

ROME, May 16.—Edward L. Hearn, General Commissioner for Europe of the Knights of Columbus, was received today by Pope Pius. Mr. Hearn was greeted by the Pontiff, speaking in English, with "How do you do? Very glad to see you."

Pope Pius said he was deeply impressed with the large number of letters and telegrams received from sports organizations in the United States on his election to the Papal Chair. He spoke of the good results he had derived from sports, especially alpine climbing, and said he was particularly interested in the work of the Knights of Columbus.

Kahn Loans Painting to Museum.

A valuable painting to be placed on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art during the Summer months, it was announced by the Museum yesterday, is a fine Carpaccio, a full-length figure of a young man in armor standing in a picturesque landscape. It is loaned by Otto H. Kahn and was acquired by him in England two years ago. The figure in the painting is life size and the picture, though not widely known, is one of the most important examples of the artist outside Italy. It has never before been publicly shown in this country.

NEW LEVEE BREAK MENACES 8 TOWNS

Bayou and Red River Waters Sweeping Into Louisiana's Sugar Cane Belt.

HAMBURG, La., May 16.—A break in the protection levee on Bayou de Glaises, near here, which occurred early today, had widened to 300 feet tonight and backwaters from the Bayou and the Red River were sweeping southward through the break into Louisiana's sugar cane belt in Avoyelles, Point Coupee, St. Landry, St. Martin and Iberville parishes.

At least eight towns are expected to be inundated as a result of the break, Melville, Plaucheville, Big Cane, Rosa, Palmetto, Odenburg, Elbe and Krotz Springs being in the path of the escaping waters.

Stages above all previous records for the Atchafalaya River between Simmesport and Melville were predicted today by the Weather Bureau, which caused the Government and levee officials to take increased precautionary steps.

Great damage is expected to result from today's break in the back Teche country in Assumption, Iberia and St. Mary parishes through unseasonable floods and deposits of silt in the rice plantations.

Sleep soundly with this roof over your head

No matter how hard it rains or how fiercely the wind blows, if you have a copper roof over your head you may sleep knowing that you are secure. There will be no leaks to soak the plaster through and discolor the ceilings or make them fall.

An Anaconda copper roof will shield you from the dreaded lightning, which, if it struck the roof, would be diverted into the ground, where it could do no harm. A copper roof could not strike fire in an electrical storm.

An Anaconda copper roof resists all the extremes of weather, summer heat or winter cold, rain or snow. It is weather-proof, and even time-proof, for pure copper is indestructible.

A cushion of air between metal and sheathing insures cool rooms in summer and comfortable warmth in winter; furthermore, the objection to metal roofs because of the noise caused by rain and hail has been overcome.

And you can have copper roofings now

In the past the cost of installation made copper roofing too expensive for the average home-owner. The laying of the sheets took much time and the special knowledge of men who knew how to work copper.

All this is changed. Anaconda Roofings are made in a standardized form that any roofer can lay as simply as he lays any other roof. This form permits manufacture in quantities. This, too, brings down the cost so that it is now possible for you to have copper roofing.

Copper roofing is permanent. It needs no paint, never needs repairing, and once installed may be forgotten forever.

Copper is beautiful

Anaconda Copper Roofings are colored by a process which is possible only with copper. No painted surface has this dull, rich, velvety texture.

The colors—reds, browns, greens, and blues—lend themselves to blends that harmonize with any architectural design and with natural environment.

Write for this booklet

If you are planning a new home or the repairing of an old roof, come in and see us or write for further information.

INTERBORO DEFENDS VALUE SET ON LEASE

ADMITS POSSIBLE CHANGE

Auditor Says Calculations Were Made Before Recent Service Order.

BRINDELL SCALE QUOTED

Transit Counsel Objects to Building Council Wages as Immaterial.

Testimony to support the claim of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of $68,848,000 as the value of its subway leases was submitted at the hearing before the Transit commission yesterday by Henry T. Berry, assistant auditor of the company. Mr. Berry contended that the unencumbered part of the annual preferential of $6,335,000, to which the company is entitled for the forty-nine years of the lease period under the terms of the dual subway contracts, was worth $68,848,000, capitalized into present value. Upon cross-examination by ex-Justice Clarence J. Shearn, special counsel for the commission, Mr. Berry admitted that his estimates were based upon service expenses before the commission's recent service improvement order, and that with the improved service his results might be "somewhat different."

The other outstanding feature of the hearing was the attempt made by J. C. Edwards of counsel for the Interborough to show by the wage scale of the Building Trades Council, of which Robert P. Brindell, now in Sing Sing prison, was formerly President, that the company's estimates of $4.80 a day for common labor in March, 1922, which were used to calculate the reproduction value of the company's properties, were correct, and that witnesses for the commission had been wrong in testifying that the rate in March was actually $3.60 a day. Witnesses were also called by the Interborough in attempts to prove the correctness of its estimates for the prices of steel, cement and other materials necessary in subway construction.

Explains the Calculations.

Mr. Berry testified that the Interborough's claim of $68,848,000 as the value of its lease consisted of two items, "the amount which the lessee is entitled to deduct from the revenue derived from the operation of the property under the contract, and the obligation that the lessee is to meet upon the amount so collected and the remaining balance thereof after such obligations have been met."

Mr. Berry testified that the sinking fund provision of the company's first and refunding mortgage on which bonds have been issued contemplated complete refunding in 1956 or in thirty-five years, and that for the remaining eleven years of the lease, or until 1967, the company would not have to meet these obligations out of its "preferential" of $6,335,000.

Interest and sinking fund on $52,615,000 of the company's bonds, issued for the original subway projects before the dual subway contracts, amounted to $3,157,000 a year, to be met out of the preferential, Mr. Berry said, leaving $3,178,000 a year of the preferential unencumbered.

"We have then," Mr. Berry continued, "a condition that the lessee receives from Jan. 1, 1922, to Jan. 1, 1957, $3,178,000 per annum without any obligation on its part to disburse it in connection with its bond issue or in connection with contract No. 3. The amount which it would be necessary to invest on Jan. 1, 1922, to insure a semi-annual payment of $1,589,000, one-half of the $3,178,000 just referred to, would be $52,275,000."

This $52,275,000 was claimed by Mr. Berry as the larger item in the claim of $68,848,000 as the value of its lease. He obtained the remaining $16,573,000 by a complicated calculation to determine the present value, capitalized, of the money the Interborough expected to receive from its preferential in the last eleven years of its lease, after all the bonds, payment for which have been provided for by the preferential, have been amortized.

Objects to Wage Figures.

Testimony concerning the wage scale of the Building Trades Council was given by Samuel B. Donnelly, Secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association. Mr. Donnelly testified that a verbal agreement providing for a wage scale between the Employers' Association and the Building Trades Council was still in effect. At the request of Mr. Edwards he presented a schedule of the scale.

"I object to this as entirely immaterial and throwing no light on anything that this commission is investigating," said Judge Shearn. "This appears to be the schedule, ordered by Robert P. Brindell and his organization, applying to the building trades for 1920, and it has nothing to do with the work we are investigating."

Commissioner Le Roy T. Harkness said he did not believe the work was the same, and that the building trade rates did not apply to subway workers. Judge Shearn said there was a "General Contractors' Association," made up of contractors who did subway construction work, and that the figure for wages should be what its members actually paid. He declared that he had shown by witnesses that the prevailing rate was $3.60 a day.

"Knowing that," he added, "they fail to produce the evidence of what is actually paid in subway work and bring here this Brindell union record and attempt to foist that on you as a prevailing rate of wages. I submit that you ought not to lumber up the record by receiving any such information as this. It has no application whatever to prices prevailing for subway work in March, 1922."

Clarence L. Smith and Jules R. Breuchaud, contractors, testified that $4.80 a day had been the prevailing March price for "pick and shovel men." Alden W. Welch, business editor of the Engineering News-Record, corroborated them and said this rate was being paid today by the contractors for the new baseball park of the New York American League team. Mr. Welch also testified that the March quotations for cement, as published in the News-Record, were $2.30 a barrel, instead of the $2.10 price which Judge Shearn said was charged at that time by the Alpha Portland Cement Company.

"Well, they tried for five weeks to find out what the cement companies were doing at the Court House," Mr. Welch replied, referring to the trial of cement manufacturers in the United States Court, "and no individual can say whether they will cut their standard prices."

Several other contractors were called to testify to prices of materials in dispute. The hearing was adjourned until Thursday.

HYLAN HAILED AS GOVERNOR.

He Tells Brooklyn Audience He Will Fight Elevated Extension.

Addressing a mass meeting of 1,500 in the Bushwick High School in Brooklyn last night, Mayor Hylan, Controller Charles Craig and other city officials pledged their aid in blocking an elevated extension to the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District route. They declared that they stood "with the people" in demanding that the contract be changed to a subway.

The audience, which represented more than a score of civic organizations in the Bushwick, Ridgewood and Eastern District sections, called together by the Associated Subway Committees, cheered Controller Craig, who challenged the Transit Commission "or any one active behind the commission to mandamus the Board of Estimate to compel it to appropriate any money to meet this contract."

Hailed as the "next Governor of New York," Mayor Hylan said that he was ready to back up the statements of Controller Craig. Denouncing George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, Mayor Hylan said that he had no fear of the "threats made by the traction crowd." When the Mayor left the hall many in the audience went out with him and cheered him as he stepped in his automobile.

Chairman McAneny of the Transit Commission, unable to attend the meeting, sent a letter explaining the commission position and declaring that Mayor Hylan's approval of the elevated structure was one of the reasons why the Brooklyn Rapid Transit refused to consider a subway now.

"The company's argument is, I understand," said McAneny's letter, "that while abundant time might have been allowed for subway substitution, had such a substitution been agreed upon in 1919 or 1920, they cannot now accept a further delay of from two to two and one-half years before they gain the use of the completed railroad.

"Under the circumstances and in view of the position taken by the company, the commission itself is entirely without power to do anything more than to proceed, as the law requires, in accordance with the terms of the contract it has inherited."

TUBE RESOLUTION HELD UP.

Republican Aldermen Block Action on Staten Island Tunnel.

Immediate concurrence by the Board of Aldermen in the Board of Estimate's appropriation of $780,000 for preliminary work on the proposed Staten Island tunnel was blocked yesterday by the twelve Republican members, who attacked the project. Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, asked immediate consideration of the appropriation.

"Again comes the question," said Alderman Jacob W. Friedman, the Republican leader, "as to whether the Board of Aldermen must concur in everything the Board of Estimate does. We have been concurring in everything, and I think we should stop it. There are two controlling bodies in the city. If one body makes a mistake, the other may be able to rectify it."

Alderman Bruce M. Falconer, another Republican, said the matter should be referred to the Finance Committee and public hearings held. He said that three tunnels had been suggested, one by the Board of Estimate, one by the Transit Commission and one by the Port Authority and that the whole matter should be threshed out. The resolution for concurrence in the appropriation was referred to the Finance Committee.

TUNNEL BOARD SNUBS JERSEY CITY MAYOR

Attempt to Block Seizure of Plaza Lands Ignored—Eleventh Street Act Upheld.

No official notice was taken yesterday at the regular weekly meeting of the New York and New Jersey Vehicular Tunnel Commissions of the letter of Mayor Hague of Jersey City asking Mayor Hylan to assist in preventing the New Jersey Commission from seizing public land needed for the tunnel plaza. Mayor Hague, in his letter, stated that the commissions were receding from an agreement made in 1920 calling for the widening of several streets in Jersey City. After the meeting of the commissions it was said that there was no such agreement, and that if Mayor Hague didn't know it he was less familiar with the tunnel plans than any other man officially interested in them.

Mayor Hague in his letter intimated that more land was taken on the Manhattan shore for the tunnel exit and entrance than in Jersey City. This was answered by two drawings showing that nearly twice as much land has been taken for tunnel purposes in Jersey City than in Manhattan.

A statement by officials of Jersey City that the law authorizing the New Jersey Commission to condemn the public land needed in Eleventh Street was unconstitutional brought from Emerson L. Richards, counsel for the New Jersey Commission, the statement that the act was prepared in the Attorney General's office and in his opinion was constitutional.

The agreement between the New Jersey Commission and the Erie Railroad Company providing that part of Eleventh Street should be turned over by the Jersey City Commission to the company in exchange for needed easements in the company's yard, was modified on Monday so that the property can be turned over by the New Jersey Tunnel Commission. It is expected that the work of driving the shafts for the tunnel on the Jersey side will begin within a few weeks.

Policewoman, Not Scared, Says 'Rest Easy, I Pack a Gun'

Alice Clement Faubel, policewoman of Chicago, who is a grandmother, was here yesterday with extradition papers for Miss Laura Reed, 27 years old, wanted in Chicago on a charge of stealing a bolt of silk valued at $180 from Marshall Field & Co.

Miss Reed, according to the police, was arrested May 1 at Fifty-eighth Street and Eighth Avenue, charged with violation of the Narcotic law. Dr. Carleton Simon, Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Narcotic Division, and detectives who made the arrest were in court to agree to a dismissal of the local charges against the Reed woman so she could be taken away.

"Aren't you afraid you'll have trouble taking this woman all the way to Chicago without assistance, with the record she has?" Assistant District Attorney Henry Goodman asked Mrs. Faubel.

"You may think so," replied Mrs. Faubel. "I'm a grandmother, and proud to be able to say so. But I'm also a first grade detective of the Chicago Police Department, and I pack a gun. Just rest easy about me."

HYLAN CALLS LOSS ON BIDS 'HUMBUG'

McANENY MAKES REPLY

Mayor Hylan declared yesterday that the Transit Commission's assertion that there had been a loss instead of a saving on the readvertisement of eight bids for the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line was "a characteristic piece of dishonesty." The Mayor disputed the claim that there was a loss of $2,000 a day for interest on money spent for the construction of the completed tunnel of the Fourteenth Street line, operation of which has been delayed by the Board of Estimate's failure to approve contracts for track material, and said the interest charge would continue whether or not the subway was in operation.

George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, in reply to the Mayor's statement said that the Mayor was "again mistaken." Mr. McAneny said that there was a continuing interest loss of $2,430 a day on the Fourteenth Street line, and that the Mayor and his advisers knew that, until the beginning of operation, this interest money was charged to the cost of construction.

It was said at the offices of the commission that the opposition of the Board of Estimate would not delay the commission in going forward with its plans for the construction of seven new subways at an estimated cost of $216,000,000. Hearings on the plan, both on the general program and on the separate proposed routes, will be held within two weeks.

Mayor Hylan's statement follows:

The Mayor's Statement.

"The McAneny commission's statement on the new bids on subway contracts is a characteristic piece of dishonesty. On the eight contracts which the commission was forced by the Board of Estimate to readvertise the saving is $34,350. Evidently the commission is indifferent to these savings because it is city money and not their own. Was the commission interested in favoring particular contractors in persisting in not readvertising? Any person or body with even a slight degree of business judgment would have readvertised for bids without waiting to be forced to do so. The McAneny commission refused to do this until compelled by us. Their attempt in public print to nullify the saving thus obtained by setting off against it alleged interest items on the total investment in the entire subway is sheer nonsense and humbug.

"These interest charges would run whether the contracts were advertised six months ago, today or at any time in the future, and they have no relation to the price proposed to be paid for the work involved in the contracts readvertised. No one knows this better than McAneny himself. He knows, for instance, that the readvertising of a six weeks' delivery tie plate contract occasions no delay when there is an outstanding and uncompleted three months' delivery timber contract, to which timber the tie plates must be attached. Such delay as accrues, if any, as a matter of final completion of the entire job, is due solely to the stupidity of the commission in not acting upon what was common knowledge—that prices had fallen and that new bids were therefore in order.

"The McAneny Commission statement furnishes a true index of the degree of candor and honesty that may be expected from it in its dealings with the transit situation. The true inwardness of their unfriendly opposition and of their suggestion for subways was made known by us. The degree of honesty of their comment on our proposed new construction and transit operation program may be judged accordingly. Our new plan, as the McAneny Commission well knows, insures a 5-cent fare on all subways and will not involve any double fare. This will become even more apparent when details are formally announced. Likewise, it will terminate in part at least the consequences of the McAneny folly and improvidence of 1913 embodied in the dual contracts and which the McAneny 'unification' scheme and suggested new construction is designed to extend and perpetuate in even more gross form. The city will be sawed by the Board of Estimate from another such costly McAneny blunder and fraud affairs. If Mr. McAneny thinks otherwise he can come before the Board of Estimate and give his views on the city's plan when it is announced.

The Chairman's Reply.

In reply to the Mayor's statement Mr. McAneny said:

"The Mayor is again mistaken. On the eight contracts for truck work for the Fourteenth Street-Eastern subway, on which the Transit Commission took new bids after they had been returned to it by the Board of Estimate on April 24, the saving is $3,904 out of a total of $83,793, or less than 5 per cent.

"The commission has made no statement to the effect that the delay upon these minor contracts, taken singly, has resulted in interest losses on the carrying of the subway. They are part, however, of a batch of contracts affecting this work that the Board of Estimate had held without warrant or explanation for eleven months, with the natural result that the completion and operation of the subway has been held a corresponding eleven months. Upon this there has been a continuing interest loss estimated by the commission's accountants at $2,430 per day. Until the subway is open for operation, as the Mayor's advisers well know, this interest money is charged to the cost of construction. After operation, it is charged to revenue, and the increase in the cost of construction of the Fourteenth Street line that these delays have caused is dead loss.

"One other contract for which the commission opened new bids yesterday—for certain shed work in the 180th Street Interborough yard—showed a decrease of $20,401, or 10 per cent. of the bid received and sent to the Board of Estimate a year ago. The Mayor has evidently gotten his total by adding this to the trifling reduction in the cost of the truckage contracts. All of these figures the commission gave out yesterday, and all of them were published in the papers this morning. There were no 'dishonest' omissions.

"The Mayor's statement that business judgment would have suggested the readvertisement of these contracts some time ago has a distinctly humorous side. At the time that each was originally sent to the Board of Estimate the figures at which they had been bid were the lowest that the then market afforded. If the Board of Estimate really means that it stopped the work to which they related, and withheld action upon them for the best part of a year in order to get lower bids in the market of 1922, a rich field is suggested for students of economics. As a matter of fact, no mention of readvertising was made for many months. Nothing, in short, occurred, except a continuing hold-up as part of a consistent policy of obstruction."

Prospect Black Bear Dies at 19

There was another funeral at Prospect Park yesterday. The zoo's most popular American black bear, Rose, was buried at the side of the late Captain Jack, Bonavita's lion, who departed this life a few weeks ago. The death of Rose caused regret but not surprise, for she was 19 years old. The average bruin has run his or her course at between twelve and fifteen years.

Mrs. Wills, Who Shot Her Husband, Freed; Whole Trial Takes Only Five Hours

Special to The New York Times.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., May 16.—Eighteen minutes after Justice Charles C. Black had delivered his charge here today in the trial of Marcella Hurley Wills, 29, accused of killing her husband, Lewis A. Wills Jr., a Philadelphia construction engineer, at their home in Atlantic City early on the morning of March 18, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Twenty minutes after court opened this morning a jury had been impaneled and five hours later Mrs. Wills, a free woman, left the County Jail, where she had been confined for the past six weeks.

The intelligence and sincerity of Mrs. Wills's two children, Beatrice, 11, and Helen, 9, was a powerful influence in their mother's favor. So direct and truthful were their statements that Prosecutor Edmund C. Gaskill made no effort at lessening the weight of their evidence by cross-examination. Mrs. Wills also made an excellent impression. She recited briefly and in detail the events leading up to the shooting of her husband and made no attempt to conceal facts vital to the case. Four women were in the jury and Mrs. Hannah C. Garwood, who runs a hotel in Atlantic City, was foreman.

Mrs. Wills wept while her daughters told how their father had beaten their mother before the shooting, and when Prosecutor Gaskill said that she had been prompted by insane jealousy. He asked for a verdict of second degree murder.

Mrs. Wills, who will soon become a mother, said in her testimony:

"My husband returned home from work intoxicated on the evening of March 17," she declared, "and went to bed after dinner. I was suffering from a toothache and also went to bed. He awakened me at 9:30 o'clock and asked me if I wanted to go to the beach front. I consented, knowing that if I did not go the 'other woman' would."

She related how he had beaten her with a shoe, cutting her forehead and breaking her nose, and finally, convinced that Wills was going to kill her, how she had shot him with a revolver.

Prosecutor Suggests an Injunction Suit to Stop the Double-Fare Charge.

Slaughter W. Huff and Robert C. Lee, receivers for the Steinway lines in Queens, were sent to the Queens County Jail by Magistrate Harry Miller yesterday after they refused to furnish $500 bail each to appeal before the Court of Special Sessions on a charge of violating the Public Service Commission law.

Mr. Huff and Mr. Lee were technical prisoners in the Warden's office until Alfred E. Davison and William E. Stewart, their attorneys, applied for a writ of habeas corpus from Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, who paroled them in the custody of the attorneys until tomorrow (Thursday), when they are to appear before him for argument on the writ.

The step taken by the receivers in refusing to furnish bail was not unexpected and had the effect of making possible a decision from the Supreme Court or an Appellate Court, if that should become necessary, without the necessity of a trial in the Court of Special Sessions. The receivers are charged with having failed to give thirty days' notice before putting into effect a separate fare, after the Steinway lines were separated by the receivership from the New York & Queens County Railway Company's system.

When arraigned before Magistrate Miller the receivers announced through their attorneys that they would refuse to give bail. Mr. Davison contended that no evidence had been submitted to show that the receivers had committed any offense or infraction of the law, that there were no reasonable grounds for holding them guilty of any offense and that the Magistrate had no power to direct their commitment.

Magistrate Miller said he would hold to his decision of the preceding evening. "I direct the commitment of the defendants to the custody of the Warden of the Queens County Jail," he added, "and place them in charge of Captain Frank Mohan of the Magistrate's Court to execute the order."

The receivers with the counsel accompanied Captain Mohan in an automobile to the jail, and were permitted by Warden Frank W. Fox to remin in his office while Mr. Davison and Mr. Stewart applied for a writ of habeas corpus and presented it to Justice Cropsey, who was sitting in Long Islanad City.

District Attorney Dana Wallace opposed the granting of the writ and urged an immediate hearing. Upon request of Mr. Davison, who said he wished to obtain the minutes of the proceedings before Magistrate Miller, Justice Cropsey postponed the argument until tomorrow.

Mr. Huff said after his release that the receivers would go to their offices and try to operate the lines if they did not get into further legal tangles. "We are making definite plans for the betterment of the service," he said, "but we are not ready to announce yet what they will be. We feel sure they will benefit the people who use our lines and the company."

District Attorney Wallace sent a letter last night to the Transit Commission, suggesting that the commission apply for an injunction to restrain the receivers from charging a separate fare, pending final determination of the criminal charges against them by the courts. Mr. Wallace said he had acted promptly in matters under his jurisdiction but could not undertake a civil action against the receivers. "The receivers of the Steinway lines," he said, "were not committed in vindictiveness but in an effort on the part of Magistrate Miller and the District Attorney's office to uphold the law."

JERSEY CLUB ENDORSES RUNYON FOR GOVERNOR

State Senator Predicts a Republican Year and Asks for Frelinghuysen's Re-election.

The candidacy of State Senator William N. Runyon for the Republican nomination for Governor of New Jersey was endorsed last night by the Standrast Club of Jersey City. The resolution which put the club behind Runyon for Governor also endorsed United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen for re-election this Fall.

Senator Runyon asked for unity in the Republican ranks for the coming campaign, declaring that prospects for success have never been brighter, provided the needed harmony prevails among Republicans in Hudson County.

"This is the year for Republican success," he said. "If Republicans can but view it aright. In regard to my own candidacy, I can't pledge you miracles. I can't pledge you a super-government. I can only strive for a fair and honest government. I had rather be told when I am through that I have been fair than that I had been brilliant; that I had been honest than that I had been a real statesman."

Senator Runyon made a plea for the re-election of Senator Frelinghuysen, who he said preferred to stay in Washington from a high sense of duty rather than to come home and campaign for himself.

Senator Frelinghuysen was not present, and Attorney General Daugherty, who had been announced to speak, was unable to leave Washington.

ARMY OF SWALLOWS INVADES DWELLING

WINGS COVERED WITH SOOT

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 16.—"Out of a city of 25,000 chimneys, why did they pick on mine?" mused Frank V. Rice, Kingston shipbuilder, sadly, as he surveyed the damage wrought to his newly decorated residence by the invasion of an army of chimney swallows.

The Rices had been to the movies. As they entered the house they were greeted with what sounded like a continuous explosion, and as they stepped inside the portal were almost knocked from their feet by thousands of dark objects that fluttered against their persons. As they pressed the electric light button they were astounded to find that the house was occupied by thousands of chimney swallows that had gained entrance through the big open fireplace in one of the rooms.

Swallows hung from the chandeliers and draperies and roosted on the backs of chairs and other articles of furniture, while other thousands fluttered about the rooms and as their soot-covered wings came in contact with the walls and furniture smudge marks that could not be erased were left. After throwing open every door and window in an effort to rid the house of the unwelcome guests the Rices picked up whatever articles came handy and started to exterminate the swallows. They kept count until several hundred dead birds covered the floors, and then, too tired to keep up the count, continued the work of destruction. Several thousand dollars' worth of damage was the result of the invasion.

"Never again," said Mr. Rice today as he placed a steel screen grating on top of the big chimney to prevent any further entry in that direction.

Neighbors who had seen the swallows flying in that vicinity said that as they flew down the chimney it looked as though a huge dark cloud of smoke was arising from it.

WAR ON PARIS FRAUDS IN SELLING ANTIQUES

Test Case to Be Made Against So-Called Experts Employed by Auctioneers.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—A vigorous effort has been started here by the President of the Association of Antique and Beaux Arts Dealers to stop the auction sale frauds which are tending to drive foreign, particularly American, collectors from Paris.

For some time protests have been made against the so-called experts employed by auctioneers in sales of antiques. A number of these persons are declared to be incompetent to fill the positions and instances have been shown where they have even failed to recognize valuable antiques—though the fault is usually in the other direction.

Recently M. Edouard Jonas, President of the association, attended the sale of the collection of the Marquise de Ganay, the receipts of which totaled 4,300,000 francs. When a Louis XV. table was offered at the sale and the bidding reached 3,000 francs M. Jonas questioned the auctioneer as to the authenticity of the object. The auctioneer referred the question to experts, who affirmed that it was genuine. As the bidding neared 5,000 francs M. Jonas interrupted again and asked the auctioneer if he would guarantee the table. The experts consulted for some time, and then the auctioneer stated that they did not have to guarantee the object.

Jonas then stated that it was a modern copy and bought it for 5,000 francs. He put seals on it and stated that he would make a test case in court to ascertain if relief from incompetent and false judgments by auctioneer experts could not be gained for purchasers and the business of his association be saved from stigma.

ANSONIA WORTH $6,500,000.

Realty Expert Testifies at Hearing of Mrs. Stokes's Alimony Application

Evidence before Supreme Court Justice Finch yesterday on the application by Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes to increase her alimony, under her separation decree, from $18,000 to $75,000 a year included reading into the minutes Mr. Stokes's testimony in the recent trial of his wife's suit to set aside her release of dower, and of new testimony by Robert Huntley, a realty expert.

Mr. Huntley testified that the Hotel Ansonia property covers forty-two city lots fronting on Broadway, Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth Streets, and is valued at $6,500,000, of which $2,650,000 is for the land and $3,850,000 for the building. The hotel pays as rent 20 per cent. of the gross receipts, but the amount of the receipts was not submitted. The witness estimated that a fair rent for the hotel would be $365,000 net.

Leslie Petrie, Treasurer of holding corporations for Mr. Stokes's realty, was questioned concerning testimony he gave at the previous trial concerning this property. The trial will continue today.

CHARGES TRICK BID ON VOTING MACHINES

Jamestown Company Wanted to Deal With State, Not City, Says Hirshfield.

DECLARES RIVALS SHUT OUT

Competitor Testifies That Specifications Incorporated Features of the Automatic Machine.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield charged yesterday at the voting machine inquiry which he is conducting that the Automatic Registering Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y., had deliberately entered an improper bid for the purpose of having it rejected, so that the corporation could deal directly with Secretary of State John J. Lyons rather than with the Board of Elections of this city.

He charged that the specifications had been so dictated at Albany that no firm but the Automatic could bid and that the Automatic had then deliberately sent in an unlawful bid in order that the contract should be entered into by the Secretary of State, who is authorized by the State law to do so if the local board fails to contract for voting machines by May 15.

Deputy Chief Clerk Thomas J. Kenney of this city testified that he had heard the Vice President of the Automatic Company say that the company was not bothered because the Board of Elections in New York was deadlocked and that he had heard the Vice President say: "The Secretary of State will take care of us."

Did Not Use Prescribed Forms.

The bid of the company was rejected on Monday because it was made out on an improper form and because it failed to comply with standing requirements for such bids. In order to prove that the Automatic Company was not inexperienced in making out bids and that the error was not one of ignorance, Commissioner Hirshfield placed on the stand William Conant, an investigator, who said that his inquiry as to the business of the Automatic company had shown that it had sold voting machines to at least fifty municipalities.

"Judging from that," asked Commissioner Hirshfield, "it doesn't appear to you that this corporation was quite familiar with the method of submitting bids to cities and municipalities!"

"Yes," replied Conant.

The Automatic concern failed to put in a bid on the regular form furnished for such bids. This was not because the firm had no such forms, inasmuch as their representative had applied for and obtained four of such forms, according to Deputy Chief Clerk Thomas J. Kenney.

Banked on Secretary of State.

"Why did you give him four copies?" asked Commissioner Hirshfield, referring to the representative of the Automatic Company.

"He asked if he might have another. He was promised three by our Chief Clerk and he asked if he might have one more."

"Did you see the bid that Mr. Hamilton brought yesterday in person to the board for voting machines?"

"I saw Mr. Cohen, reading what was supposed to be his bid, but it was a proposal more than a bid, and it wasn't on our paper," replied Mr. Kenney.

"It was not made on any one of the four blanks furnished by you to Mr. Hamilton?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Kenney. "It was a typewritten document prepared by themselves."

Mr. Kenney testified as follows regarding the alleged boast of the Vice President of the Automatic company:

"About the third of April of this year I was sitting in the pool room of the Hotel Samuels (in Jamestown, N. Y.) watching a game of pool. There were a number of other men also watching the game and young Lausterer, Vice President of the Automatic Registering Machine Corporation, was also there and the conversation turned toward the voting machine proposition and one of the young men remarked to young Lausterer: 'I see that the Board of Elections of the City of New York are deadlocked on which machine to use.' and Lausterer said: 'We don't care anything about that. The Secretary of State will take care of us.'"

Competitor Describes Specification.

The alleged drawing of specifications so as to describe the automatic voting machine and to make it impossible for the manufacturers of others to bid as all was explained on the witness stand by Frederick E. Nickels of the American Voting Machine Company, who said:

"It appears that under Paragraph 3 a manufacturer of voting machines in order to bid for the furnishing and delivering of voting machines is required to conform to the characteristics and the methods of recording as well as the functions contained and employed by the Automatic Registering Machine Corporation in their particular type of machine, which would seem that a competitor of that company would have to build a machine on similar lines of that machine."

The witness also described features called for in the specifications that were embodied in the Automatic product but which he said were unnecessary in rival machines.

"Dave" Sends Message to "Jack."

During the hearing Commissioner Hirshfield said:

"It would seem as if this Jamestown voting machine corporation for some reason or other deliberately submitted a bid which had to be thrown out by the Board of Elections, and, since yesterday was May 15, the last day upon which the New York Board of Elections could let the contract for voting machines, this corporation will do its business with the Secretary of State. Under the law passed by the Republican Legislature and signed by Governor Miller last March the Secretary of State is authorized to purchase for the City of New York such voting machines as he has designated, if the Board of Elections of the City of New York do not make a contract for voting machines by May 15.

"Several days ago Secretary of State John J. Lyons, from New York, is reported to have said, in referring to me: 'Dave, you show that you are game,' or words to that effect, apparently meaning for me to drop this investigation. As a return for that compliment, I now say to my friend Lyons: 'Jack, now is your time to show how much interested you are in the tax and rent payers of the City of New York and refuse to make a contract which will involve an unnecessary expenditure of nearly $3,000,000 for unreliable or perhaps useless voting machines, and which, according to witnesses, will yield about $1,500,000 profit to the manufacturers and their friends.'"

SEIZE DIAMONDS AT BORDER

Customs Men Get $15,000 in Gems at Rouses Point and Arrest Two.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., May 16.—Israel E. Zeiger and Louis Liever of Philadelphia are locked in the Clinton County jail here awaiting a hearing before a United States Commissioner tomorrow on a charge of diamond smuggling. Zeiger is believed to be a Philadelphia diamond merchant.

The men occupied a compartment on the Montreal-New York night train over the Rutland Railroad last night. When the customs officers boarded the train at Rouses Point the pair aroused their suspicions, so a thorough search of the compartment was made. The searchers found diamonds valued at approximately $15,000 concealed in a berth. Customs officials arrested the two men.

Wife to Plead for Life Of Rosenwasser Today

Final efforts will be made today to save the life of Julius Rosenwasser, who is to go to the chair at Sing Sing tomorrow for the murder of Jacob Mazzura in this city. A petition containing 1,000 signatures, including eleven of the jurors who convicted him, will be submitted to Governor Miller at Albany. Leonard S. Snitkin, counsel for the condemned man, said yesterday the petition would be given to the Governor by Rosenwasser's wife.

Judge Tailey, in General Sessions, refused on Monday to grant Rosenwasser a new trial. Governor Miller on the same today told Snitkin that Rosenwasser would be put to death unless a new trial was granted. The Court of Appeals has confirmed the jury's verdict.

Rosenwasser and two others were robbing Mazzura of $2,400 in a Stanton Street tenement when one of the robbers, who escaped, shot and killed him.

CAPITAL DISLIKES TIME EXPERIMENT

Washington Trying to Change Its Time Without Changing Its Clocks.

LOUD OBJECTIONS RAISED

After Two Days' Trial Several Large Stores Prepare to Resume the Old Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The unpopularity of the District of Columbia's daylight saving experiment, whereby Washingtonians are called upon to readjust their personal habits without setting their clocks an hour ahead, is growing. After two days' trial of beginning and ending business an hour earlier, several large stores are preparing to resume the old hours next week.

While a movement is growing to bring a resolution before Congress to change the clocks—a procedure it was said at the White House this morning President Harding regards as a "beautiful little deception"—Washingtonians are amusing themselves thinking up names for the experiment that went into effect yesterday. "Ragtime" is one of the terms, "near daylight saving," "2.75 daylight saving" and "daylight slaving" are others.

Objections to the present system are based mainly on the belief that setting clocks one hour ahead until next October would be one operation and would be an end to it, while, without taking liberties with the clocks, virtually every activity from morning rising to bedtime means a perpetual readjustment of one's daily habits.

Under "ragtime" a Federal employe reports for work at 8 o'clock. If he is in the State, War, Treasury, Justice, Labor or Interior Departments, his lunch hour is from 11 o'clock until noon, but if he is employed in the Post Office, Navy, Agriculture or Commerce Department, his luncheon hour is unchanged. If he has money to deposit or checks to cash, the banks are open until the usual 3 o'clock closing hour, but the bankers are complaining over the fact that the clearing house operates under "daylight saving" and ceases its functions an hour earlier.

If the departmental employe wishes to spend the evening at the theatre, he arrives an hour ahead of time, for the theatres are running under standard time. If he lives in outlying sections of the city, he has to leave before the villain is confounded and the lovers reunited, for under the "ragtime" schedule the 11:15 last car now leaves at 10:15. If he elects to remain at home, he is likely to find a "left-over" dinner awaiting him because the market closed an hour earlier. And, as the final act of the day and one that calls for the greatest moral courage of all, he has to make up his mind to go to bed an hour before his accustomed time.

BOMED MINERS' ARMY, AVIATOR TESTIFIES

Witness at Treason Trial Says His Plane Was Under Constant Rifle Fire.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., May 16 (Associated Press).—The end of the evidence on the basis of which the State will ask a jury to convict William Blizzard of treason as one of the leaders of the miners' armed march into Logan County was in sight today when court took an early adjournment to await the arrival of the last three witnesses the prosecution counsel said they expected to produce.

Aviators who made observation trips from Huntington and Logan and newspaper men who were with the marchers furnished the bulk of today's testimony. Horace Haines of Columbus, Ohio, told of dropping bombs. He followed orders to drop them, he said, where he found large numbers congregating against the defenders or in cases where his plane was fired on from the ground.

W. F. Dennin of Logan said he observed hundreds of men marching toward Blair, which became one of the principal bases of the miners' fighting forces.

Earl Holloran, another aviator, testified to observing the advancing forces at Marmet, Racine, Danville and around the coal river side of the mountain ridges where the fighting took place, and said his machine was a target for rifle fire on every trip but one, although it was never hit.

Charles Frampton, a newspaper man, told of seeing Blizzard at Blair when the Federal troops went there. Frampton said he heard the union official advise the men to go home quickly and quietly. The men obeyed Blizzard's commands and he seemed to be a leader.

RESUME COAL DISCUSSION.

Full Scale Committee of Anthracite Workers to Attend Conference.

Anthracite wage negotiations will be resumed today at the Union League Club, it was announced last night. The full scale committee of the anthracite mine workers has been summoned to New York to be present during the conferences. The coal operators may submit this week counter proposals to the miners' nineteen demands.

Prices of bituminous coal were reported to have advanced $1.50 a ton in the last week, and coal to be sailing for West Virginia shipments, at $7.50 per ton alongside the pier. A price of $8 per ton on the same basis for non-union West Virginia coal was predicted in local coal trade circles.

Local coal dealers also reported that steady consumption of bituminous coal at a rate indicating the drawing of approximately 4,000,000 tons weekly from the reserve supply was attracting speculators to the market.

TEACHERS SECRETLY QUIZZED ON LOYALTY

Dr. Linville Calls Advisory Council on Qualifications New Lusk Committee.

OPEN MEETING PLEA DENIED

VETERAN IS QUESTIONED

Man Who Enlisted and Became Officer Already Rated A1 by Education Board.

Charging that the Advisory Council on the Qualification of Teachers was a "secret tribunal" with power to recommend the dismissal of teachers whose views were "not wholly reactionary," Dr. Henry R. Linville, President of the Teachers' Union, appeared at the Bar Association yesterday where four teachers had been summoned before the council, and announced that he would fight to open the doors of the tribunal to the public. Gilbert E. Roe, counsel to the Teachers' Union, was permitted to represent a teacher before the council, but his plea to have the doors of the council chamber opened to the public was denied by the committee, which is headed by Archibald Stevenson, formerly counsel to the Lusk Committee.

Dr. Linville objected to the personnel of the committee, which he called "a new Lusk Committee." Its other members are Conde Pallen, editor of The Catholic Encyclopedia; Olivia Lavenritt, a former member of the Board of Education; Hugh Frayne, New York representative of the American Federation of Labor, and Finley J. Shepard.

The council, appointed recently by Dr. Frank Graves, State Commissioner of Education, is acting under Chapter 936 of the Laws of 1921, which provides that no certificates shall be issued to any teacher who has not been examined and qualified as to loyalty to American institutions.

Those Who Were Examined.

The teachers examined yesterday were Garibaldi Lapolla, teacher of English at De Witt Clinton High School since 1910; Simon Goldblum, teacher of history at the same institution since 1914; Charles Ham, teacher of history at Stuyvesant High School, and a Miss Horowitz. Miss Sarah Hyams, cooking teacher, of Public School 68, was summoned to appear, but was not reached, so her case was put over until 3:30 P. M. next Tuesday.

Lapolla, who enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps during the war and became an artillery officer, was asked if he, together with Ham and others, signed a letter concerning conscientious objectors, published in The New Republic in 1918. The signers of the letter suggested that men with conscientious scruples against killing be permitted to serve in non-combatant corps. Lapolla and Ham, it is understood, admitted that they had signed the letter.

Lapolla attempted to learn from the council the origin of the charges against him, but was unable to obtain the information, it was said.

Members of the Teachers Union said it was unfair in the council to call a man who had received a No. 1 rating for loyalty from Principal Francis H. Paul

ISLAND REFUGES TO SAVE EGRETS

LAW IS WIDELY VIOLATED

T. Gilbert Pearson, President of the Audubon Societies, Describes Trip to Their Haunts.

Three egret sanctuaries, two in islands off Georgia and one near the mouth of the Santee River in South Carolina, have been surveyed by T. Gilbert Pearson, President of the National Association of Audubon Societies, who has returned from a trip for the preservation of these birds, which are still threatened with extinction, in spite of the laws against killing them and against selling their feathers.

"Market hunters are killing them at every chance they get," said Mr. Pearson. "There is a great illegal sale of these plumes to tourists in Florida. In this city, there are many small millinery shops which undertake to furnish egret plumes at the order of a customer. The great majority of American women are behind this law and would not wear an egret, but there is enough of a market left to insure the complete destruction of this beautiful bird, unless it is energetically protected in bird sanctuaries. Thirty years ago egrets nested as far north as New Jersey. Now they have been slaughtered until they survive only in small numbers at a few places far South along the Coast.

"Oregon has a law which makes it unlawful for a woman to wear an egret, and a prominent actress was arrested between the acts of a play not long ago for appearing in one scene with an egret feather in her hat.

"It is practically a certainty that any egret feather now worn has been killed unlawfully and purchased in violation of the law, because few feathers purchased before the law forbidding the killing of egrets are still in existence. Personally, however, I do not believe in a law which would render the individual subject to arrest, because it would be too much like an invasion of personal liberty and like petty persecution. We must rely upon increasing the sentiment against this sort of thing and making it unfashionable and in bad taste to wear plumes of wild birds."

Sanctuary On an Island.

Mr. Pearson took over informally on behalf of the Audubon societies about 400 acres on the Santee River, where keepers will be placed for the protection of the egrets now nesting there. He found one of the greatest egret colonies on Assabaw Island, a 20,000-acre island, off the coast of Georgia. Arrangements may be made later to put the egrets on this island under the protection of the Audubon Societies, but Mr. Pearson found the birds here well guarded by the private owners, and it will be continued as a private egret sanctuary for the time being.

"For its size," said Mr. Pearson, "Assabaw Island is one of the richest places in the United States in game. The deer were too thick for their own good, as there was hardly feed for them all. The island is thickly populated with wild turkeys. One mile south of Assabaw is St. Catherine's Island. Just south of it is the well-known Jekyll Island and just south of that is Cumberland Island, owned by the nephews of Andrew Carnegie.

"All of them have an abundance of wild life. On Cumberland Island I was able to identify ninety-six species of birds in four days. Alligators are thick and are often killed—usually unnecessarily. One of the chief ways to track them into leaving the water in order to shoot them is to twist the tail of a dog. Alligators go after dogs as cats go after fish. They hear the howling under water and hurry in the direction of it. When they come on shore they are shot.

Whangdoodles In War Place Wedge.

"On Assabaw Island I saw fourteen specimens of the Southern dragon bird, the anhinga, which is sometimes called the water turkey and sometimes the whangdoodle. We were in a small boat in the marsh when I saw a flock of these in the figure of a wedge, perfectly imitating battleplanes in squadron formation with their wings and broad tails rigid as planes.

"They sit in trees over the water and when they are alarmed they drop head first into the water. They hit the water like a spear plunged into it horizontally. Their long necks are straightened out like a ramrod, their wings held tight to their bodies and their legs and tails extended behind, so that when they dive like this, they present a perfect stream line from the bill to the last feather. A big one can hit the water near you, and the sound will go unnoticed unless the war is very acute. This is the whangdoodle of the famous line of the darkey preacher who promised the faithful of his congregation that they would go to a place where the woodbine twineth and the whangdoodle mourneth for her first-born.' I don't know why it is called the whangdoodle, or why it is said to mourn. It is a silent bird, which makes no mourning or whanging sound. Its silence may be interpreted as mournfulness.

"There is a splendid egret colony on this island, and their white feathers make a magnificent picture in the trees which they make their homes. Their worst enemy here seems to be an unintentional one. This is the white ibis, a heavy and awkward bird, which move about in armies, sometimes a thousand pair at a time. They hit a clump of trees as football players hit a line. They crash their way through, break down limbs and leave a grove of trees completely smashed. Egret rookeries are often ruined this way. The white ibis doesn't seem to act in malice, but altogether is clumsiness."

LAST BALLOONIST LANDS.

Lieutenant de Muyter of Belgium Is Believed Winner of Grand Prix.

BRUSSELS, May 16 (Associated Press).—Lieutenant E. de Muyter of Belgium, winner of the James Gordon Bennett balloon race in the United States in 1920, is reported to have landed at Musillac, Department of Morbihan, in Northern France, at 4:26 o'clock yesterday afternoon, having left the Tuileries Gardens in Paris shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with eleven other balloons in the annual race for the Grand Prix of the Aero Club of France.

With this report from de Muyter, all of Sunday's starters, representing England, France, Belgium and Italy, have now landed. His twenty-three hours in the air is the longest voyage for time so far reported, and probably represents the longest distance covered, but all the necessary details to judge the winner are not lacking.

ADOPTS PEGGY MARSH'S BOY

Actress's Husband Takes Child of Late Henry M. Field.

Surrogate Foley signed papers yesterday by which Albert L. Johnson, nephew of the late Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, adopted Henry Anthony Field, son of the late Henry M. Field, who was a grandson of Marshall Field, and Peggy Marsh, an English actress. Johnson and Peggy Marsh were married on Jan. 5 last and are now appearing at a local dance club.

The boy, 5 years old, who has been known as Tony Marsh and who now takes the name of Anthony Field Johnson, was barred by the Supreme Court of Illinois a year ago from sharing in the Marshall Field estate on the ground that the will exempted illegitimate offspring.

PRESTON GIBSON SEEKS REUNION WITH WIFE

Playwright's Effort to Effect Reconciliation Revealed When He Is Sued for $12,150.

When Preston Gibson, playwright, failed to appear before Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan yesterday on an order for examination in connection with suit brought against him by the Marine Magazine Company, it developed that he had gone abroad in an effort to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Mrs. Beatrice M. Benjamin Pratt Gibson, who has been in Europe since last Fall.

Daniel W. Blumenthal, attorney for the Marine Magazine Company, of which Gibson formerly was Treasurer, reported that a process server, a young woman of unusual skill in serving papers, had failed to find Mr. Gibson. Jerome Wilkie, attorney for Gibson, declined to discuss the reconciliation report. Mrs. Gibson was reported last Fall as seeking a divorce following a reconciliation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Evarts Benjamin, whom she sued for an accounting when her father reduced her allowance from $80,000 to $20,000 a year.

Justice Cohalan's order directed Gibson to submit to examination on the allegations in the complaint of the Marine Magazine Company—that the plaintiff had on deposit in the Harriman National Bank a sum in excess of $13,000; that between Jan. 7, 1919, and Sept. 29, " the defendant wrongfully and unlawfully took from the possession of the plaintiff herein the sum of $13,000 by wrongfully and unlawfully withdrawing the same from the amount of the plaintiff's deposit and had wrongfully converted the same to his own use without the consent of the plaintiff." It was further alleged that before the action was begun the Marine Magazine Company demanded repayment of the sum involved but that Gibson only paid $850 on account.

Wayne French, President of the Marine Magazine Company, who is a seriously wounded war veteran, sets forth in a supporting affidavit that the action was brought to recover $12,150 with interest from Sept. 29, 1919. The company publishes a magazine for sailors.

SMALL'S DRAFTS IN COURT.

Defense Shows State of Illinois Got Principal and 2 Per Cent. Interest.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Counsel for Governor Len Small at the resumption of the Governor's trial today brought out testimony in support of the defense's contention that the State received approximately 2 per cent. interest, besides the principal in full, from the public funds deposited in the "Grant Park Bank" during the State Treasurership terms of Small and Fred E. Sterling.

The indictment and the bill of particulars in the case recite that $28,000,000 was placed in this alleged fictitious institution within a period of four years; that this was invested in securities paying from 6 to 8½ per cent. interest, and that not more than 2 per cent. interest was turned over to the State.

In answer the defense this afternoon produced evidence that all the principal placed in the "Grant Park Bank" was returned to the State Treasurer; that approximately 2 per cent. interest was received on this money, and that this was the rate paid by about 200 banks holding State deposits during the same period.

These statements were made by Assistant State Treasurer Harry C. Luehrs during cross-examination:

"The Assistant Treasurer, who yesterday testified he "thought" and "presumed" he had sent to Small five different kinds of records that are missing from the Treasurer's office, said he did not remember shipping these books and papers.

He testified that Sterling paid in $896,121 as the interest collected during his term, and that of this sum $482,071 was shown by the records as having been paid by 250 banks which had funds from that vault account, and also testified that the interest turned in by Small for his term amounted to $450,010. Over the repeated objections of counsel for Governor Small, the prosecution earlier in the day developed its case, charging conspiracy to embezzle State funds by introducing as exhibits twenty drafts totaling more than $16,000,000 which form the first links in a chain of evidence.

All the drafts were on the Treasury of Illinois and payable to the Grant Park Bank, the institution in a town of 600 which the prosecution alleges was the "dummy" used by Vernon Curtis, Lieutenant Governor Sterling and Governor Small in an attempt to put public funds to private use.

KEYS WILL IGNORE EX-WIFE.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 16.—The will of John Baker ("Romeo") Keys, whose sensational marital affairs occupied the attention of the courts here and in Cincinnati before his death last April, was filed for probate at Dedham today. It disposes of about $90,000, and ignores the existence of the former Mrs. Keys, who was Miss Florence Girardin, an elevator girl at the Harvard Club, when she married Keys.

The will was drawn Sept. 15, 1921, and conveys the bulk of the estate in the form of a trust fund for the benefit of a nephew, Howard Keys of Hollister, N. Y. It also contains a number of bequests to former servants and friends of the testator. Among these are $1,000 to Dr. H. H. Colburn, $500 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Buckley, $1,000 to Robert E. Lee of Cincinnati, $500 to John C. Schmidt, former chauffeur of Mr. Keys, and $350 each to Maggie Jones and Anna Potter, formerly maid and housekeeper in the Keys establishment. Any income left over after $35,000 is paid annually from the trust fund created for the nephew is to be paid to Miss Mary B. Keys of Cincinnati, a sister.

Keys's marriage was annulled on the ground that he was insane at the time he married. The final step in the Keys-Girardin romance came when he paid his former wife $10,000 in settlement of all her claims against his estate.

SIX BANDITS SENTENCED.

Pleas Guilty of Manslaughter in Stamford Hold-Up Case.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 16.—Pleas of guilty of manslaughter were entered in the Superior Court today by the six men held in connection with the killing of Bernard Kilkelly in August, 1921, at the Dewey Club here.

Sentences were imposed by Judge Maltbie as follows: Alexander Martin, alias "Gold Tooth" Martin, and Henry King, 12 to 15 years; William Richmond, 7 to 15 years; Henry Cavanna, 3 to 10 years; John Bruno, 1 to 3 years, in State's Prison, and George Wichnight, six months in the County Jail. All except Cavanna live in Jersey City.

The men were originally held on charges of murder, to which they had pleaded not guilty. Kilkelly, a street railroad conductor, was killed when he resented being searched by the gang of hold-up men who entered a gambling house early on a Sunday morning and robbed the players after lining them against the wall. One of the men believed to have been "Yellow" Dietz, who is still at large, kicked Kilkelly, who died within an hour.

Chooses Elliott to Head Purdue.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 16.—Edward Charles Elliott, Chancellor of the University of Montana at Missoula, has been selected as the new President of Purdue University, in this city, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. W. E. Stone, who was killed last Summer while mountain climbing in Canada.

ACTORS SELL CHEAP ON BERLIN'S BOERSE

BLIGHT HANGS OVER STAGE

Players the Hardest Hit of All Classes, Says Returned American Woman.

An actors' boerse, where the services of Germany's best talent of the legitimate stage can be bought for 100 marks (about 30 cents) a night, has been established in Berlin, according to Mrs. John D. Hazall, widow of the late Cincinnati publisher, who returned to this country recently from Hamburg.

Not only has the plight of the Teuton actors driven hundreds of them to congregate at this boerse, where their services for a night are on sale for a sum barely sufficient to buy a square meal, but actresses, when the last of their possessions are gone, are taking to suicide as the easiest way out, Mrs. Hazall said. She cited the case of Elsa Sauer, a well-known German opera singer, who destroyed herself after pawning the last chip of a diamond between her and starvation.

"Of course, there is work for actors among the cabarets, which are doing a booming business, thanks to the influx of foreigners with money," Mrs. Hazall said, "but the better class of the German theatrical profession considers performing for these carousing parties beneath them, and are starving rather that submit to it. No line of endeavor has been so hard hit in Germany as that of the actors."

When everybody else is working, but for the lowest of wages, there is poverty in the homes of the better class of Germans, said Mrs. Hazall, who has been to Milan to visit her daughter, Valeska Bigg-Hazall, wife of a well-to-do silk manufacturer.

"By the better class of Germans, I mean those employed in official capacities in big corporations," Mrs. Hazall said. "With coffee 120 marks a pound and butter 100 marks a pound, families are sending their breadwinners to work fortified with only a few slices of black bread and rye coffee."

Mrs. Hazall told of the plight of Charles Johnson, General Consul at Hamburg until his death eight years ago, struggling in Berlin to make ends meet. "Arthur, Mrs. Johnson's son, is supporting his mother by the bare existence he eks out as an artist," said Mrs. Hazall.

"While everybody is working," she added, "they are working for Russia, making agricultural machinery. A young engineer I met during my two weeks' stay in Berlin told me that American firms had sent some plows to Russia, but they crumpled when farmers tried to furrow fields with them. American manufacturers filled their contracts by shipping trashy material and for that reason the Soviets are turning to the Germans for their goods. The Germans look to Russia as their economic salvation, but they like Americans and the English.

Early marriages are now the thing in Germany, said Mrs. Hazall.

"The boys and girls are marrying in their teens and there is no government urging in the matter, as might be expected," she said. "The German youth has no spare money to entertain sweethearts and they have just drifted into short courtships and prompt weddings without the usual period of candies and flowers as of yore."

NEGROES AGREE TO END STRIKE IN BRICKYARDS

But White Workers in Haverstraw Arbitration Conference Refuse Proposed Terms.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., May 16.—Seven negroes and four white men, representing the 1,200 negro and 600 white brickyard strikers who have been out since Thursday, sat down in conference in the United States Hotel here today with four of the brickyard owners.

The employers present at the meeting were Everett Fowler, the leading brickyard owner here and also President of the People's Bank f Haverstraw; Denton Fowler, Frank de Noyelles and George Renn. Everett Fowler was the spokesman for the employers.

The conference was arranged by Colonel Michael J. Regan and John J. Bealin, arbitrators from the Department of Labor at Washington, who attended the meeting. The strikers' representatives presented their demands—an increase of $1 a day in wages and the addition of one extra man to each shift. At first the employers refused to make any concession, but finally agreed to pay 50 cents a day more in wages to every man in the brickyards. The men have been averaging $3.50. The highest paid received $4.10. The lowest made $55 a month.

After a debate lasting an hour and a half, the seven negro representatives agreed to accept the 50-cent offer and to waive the demand for an extra man per shift. The four white men, however, all voted against acceptance of employers' offer. The meting ended with the seven negroes promising to get the 1,200 negro strikers back at work tomorrow, and the four white men protesting that the Polish and Irish workers, in addition to several hundred negroes, would stay out on strike.

The employers made arrangements for reopening their yards tomorrow morning and asked the State police to have mounted men on guard to prevent the irreconcilables from trying to keep the negroes from going back to work.

To House Johnson's Tailor Shop.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 16.—Contract for the erection of a building to house the tailor shop at Greeneville, Tenn., where former President Andrew Johnson once worked, was awarded to a construction firm there today by the Andrew Johnson Memorial Commission. The last Tennessee Legislature appropriated $85,000 to purchase the lot and erect a marble and brick structure which will house the old shop.

Allan Pollock In "A Pinch Hitter."

An English comedy entitled "A Pinch Hitter," by H. M. Marwood, will be presented at Henry Miller's Theatre on Monday, May 29, by Allan Pollock. Mr. Pollock, who was recently seen here in "A Bill of Divorcement," will also play the leading role.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Walker Whiteside will end his engagement in "The Hindu" at the Comedy this week.

"The Hotel Mouse" will conclude its run at the Shubert next week and will go to Chicago for the Summer.

"The Night Call" will be withdrawn from the Frazee on Saturday, and "Billeted" will be transferred to that house from the Greenwich Village next Monday.

The authors of "Shuffle Along" have completed a successor to that piece, entitled "Shuffle Along of 1922." It will be presented at the Sixty-third Street Music Hall in the Fall.

"Behind Hair," by Laura B. Alden, will be produced in New York in September by Max Martin.

"The Gorilla," recently tried out in Stamford, will be brought to New York in September.

MRS. STILLMAN TO PAY COST OF CANADA TRIP

Court Rejects Her Claim for $6,960 for Expenses in Gathering Her Evidence.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, May 16.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today denied a motion by attorneys for Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman for an additional $6,960 to defray the expense of obtaining the testimony recently taken in Canada. This motion, upon which Justice Morschauser had reserved decision, was separate from the request for the creation of the commission, which he granted. The decision merely stated, "Motion denied, but without costs."

This means that Mrs. Stillman will have to pay the expense of the recent rounding up of witnesses in Canada, an expedition which she supervised herself.

John F. Brennan, Mrs. Stillman's chief counsel, said last night that a conference of attorneys for the defense, including John M. Mack, guardian ad litem for Guy Stillman, would be held at his office this morning to determine whether additional evidence would be submitted to Referee Daniel J. Gleason. Mrs. Stillman will attend this conference, and it was said last night that she would abide by her decision to send the case to the referee upon the evidence already submitted. At Poughkeepsie last Friday, after attorneys for the banker had introduced the four new letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Stillman to Fred K. Beauvais, and according to testimony sold by him to Edmund Leigh, a detective, for $15,000, Mrs. Stillman expressed herself as satisfied and directed her attorneys to close the case.

Mr. Brennan said last night that he had promised to notify Mr. Stillman's attorneys before noon today whether the hearing would be held on Thursday. Both sides will submit elaborate briefs covering the evidence and questions of law surrounding Mr. Stillman's divorce suit, the counter-charges of Mrs. Stillman and the paternity of Guy Stillman.

HASKELL PARTNER A SUICIDE

John A. Dixon, Boston Broker, Kills Himself by Taking Gas.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 16.—Worrying over recent financial losses so upset the mental balance of John A. Dixon, broker and business partner of the late George A. Haskell, that he committed suicide today by gas at his lodgings in Roxbury. Haskell hanged himself last Sunday.

Dixon left a farewell note for his landlady, Mrs. Margaret Jordan, asking forgiveness for his act. It read: "Good-bye. I am sorry for the trouble I have put you to, but it had to be. I hope God will forgive me for my act."

Dixon was about 60 and a widower. His wife was a former Miss Fiske of Worcester. At the time of their marriage Dixon was reputed as well-to-do. When he met with reverses in the market his wife left him and ended her days in a sanitarium. Dixon later got back on his feet financially and is said to have had considerable property tied up in the financial operations of Haskell when the latter went to the wall on May 13.

HIS THIRD ACCIDENT FATAL.

Rifle Kills Man Who Previously Had Lost an Arm and an Eye.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 16.—Floyd Hall, 28, a teacher in the West Centre School at West Stockbridge, accidentally killed himself with a rifle while hunting woodchucks this afternoon. The cartridge exploded while he was climbing a fence, and the bullet severed the jugular vein. George Wambach, with whom he boarded, found his body on his farm after missing him at supper tonight.

Several years ago Hall lost his left arm in a shooting accident, and a year or two later the sight of his left eye was destroyed by an arrow while he was practicing archery. He was an expert swimmer, diver and tennis player despite his handicaps. His parents live in Plymouth, Conn.

RUSSIAN OPERA NOVELTY.

Tchaikovsky's "Christmas Eve" to Have Its Premiere Here May 28.

Tchaikovsky's opera, "Christmas Eve," from a story of robust and racy wit by Gogol, adapted in a charming libretto by Polonsky, is announced for its first performance here by the Russian Opera Company at the New Amsterdam on Friday and Saturday evenings of next week. This unfamiliar work, which preceded the composer's more famous operas, bears a musical kinship with the whimsical humor of his orchestral "Nutcracker" suite. It is variously known in Russian as "Cherevichek" or "Cherevicky," and was even produced abroad in light opera form as "Oxana's Caprice." The company's third week here will also include repetitions on Monday next of "The Czar's Bride" Tuesday, "The Snow Maid" Wednesday, "The Demon" Thursday evening, "Eugene Onegin," and Saturday matinée, May 27, "Pique Dame."

Anton Rubinstein's fine opera, "The Demon," a sort of Russian "Faust," and "Mefistofele" combined, was heard for the second time in New York by a large audience at the Federoff company's performance at the New Amsterdam last evening. Marie Mashir succeeded Miss Koshets as the Caucasian prince's daughter while Mr. Rubinstein was again the father, not Mr. Tolchinoff, named in the bill. A newcomer in the title rôle of the Demon, however, was Max Panteleeff, whose vigorous bass-baritone had given distinction to the monk Pimenn in "Boris" last week.

The amazingly deep-voiced Russian basses of the chorus were applauded in the soldiers' night song of Act I., conducted by Mr. Pevelsky like a chant in a cathedral, and the house again showed its delight in Rubinstein's dance music of the Caucasus mountaineers.

"The Drums of Jeopardy" Coming.

"The Drums of Jeopardy," a dramatization of Harold MacGrath's story of the same name, will be presented at the Gaiety Theatre a week from Monday by Alfred E. Aarons. The cast will include William Courtleigh, Marion Coakley, Paul Everton, Reginald Barlow, C. Henry Gordon, and Bernard Reinold. The play has been written by Howard Herrick and Mr. MacGrath.

MOTION PICTURES

A Statement:

It is indeed a great pleasure to present a picture dealing with life in the ideal American home—not a distorted, far-fetched conception—but the home that you and I know. "Silver Wings" tells of the love of a wife for her husband and of a mother for her children—a love that will not deny even if it calls for the sacrifice of all else she holds dear.

I have watched the development of the picture with deep feeling and believe that in it I have realized my great ambition—to provide clean, upbuilding entertainment for every American family. I wish to acknowledge my appreciation of Mary Carr as the mother, which in my opinion is the supreme portrayal in cinema emotion.

"Silver Wings" has a message for everyone—has laughs, thrills and many heart throbs that refresh the soul. If it is as inspiring to you as it is to me it will do the world much good.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Movement of Stocks, Closing Generally Higher—Foreign Exchange Strong.

The four interesting events on yesterday's markets were the strength of foreign exchange despite our Government's refusal to take part in a second conference on Russia, the announcement of a considerable shipment of our gold to India, the further violent advance in cotton prices, and the greatly confused fluctuations of steel shares belonging to the "merger group." That the movement of these stocks should have become far more bewildered when the market learned the terms of the Bethlehem-Lackawanna merger than it was while the terms were being withheld, was quite in character. In a market of this kind, fact is a much less stimulating influence than fancy.

The amount of new Bethlehem Steel stock which is to be exchanged for old Lackawanna Steel shares would indicate a higher valuation for Lackawanna than the market had previously given, always supposing the new Bethlehem stock to be worth what the present outstanding stock has been bringing on the market. Unfortunately, this sort of calculation is measuring with a variable yard-stick. Increase in the amount of a given stock outstanding has been known to affect its value, even on the Stock Exchange. As a whole, yesterday's stock market moved uncertainly, with highly irregular changes for the day, but with net advances predominating.

Yesterday's strength in European exchange rates certainly suggested that the market has cut loose from Lloyd George's political experiments as a governing influence. Wall Street's interest in the foreign exchange movement took a somewhat new turn, however, on the unexpected announcement that $1,000,000 gold had been taken from the American market for India. It was not clear whether this consignment was to go directly from our own West Coast or indirectly by way of London. Even last week, London received some $600,000 gold from the United States, which was added to the already large English shipments going to Bombay. If the movement were to continue on an extensive scale (as it did in 1919) the turn of affairs would in some ways be unfortunate. That would not be because the United States could not spare the gold; but because, instead of going to European countries which could put it to effective use, it was being drawn again into that bottomless pit of the Far East which has absorbed in the past so great a part of the world's money metal.

Except for two days last Autumn, on each of which last year's high mark of 21.55 cents per pound was touched, yesterday's price of 21.50 for spot cotton was the highest since November, 1920. When that price was momentarily reached, on Sept. 27 and 28 last year, the Agricultural Department's sweeping underestimate of 6,537,000 bales for the probable crop of 1921 was about to be published. Since its publication, on Oct. 3, the cotton market never again got as high as yesterday's price. Meantime, the Department itself has raised its estimate to 8,340,000 bales and, although even that figure was nearly 30 per cent. below the average yield of other recent years, the price, in immediate sequel to the revision, went as low as 16.45.

The present advance has undoubtedly resulted mainly from the very unfavorable start of the crop of 1922. But this circumstance has also served to emphasize another fact. The best Southern experts have calculated that the very substantial increase in home and foreign purchases since last Summer would not only use up all of the smaller yield of 1921, but would bring down the lately enormous unsold surplus to a "carry-over" no greater than normal. This is the curious situation presented in the problem of another possible short yield.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, MAY 16, 1922.

Call money ruled easy throughout the Stock Exchange session at 3½ per cent., unchanged from Monday's prevailing quotation. Street loans were arranged at 3¾. Time money also tended easier, loans up to 45 days going at 4 per cent., with this bid for funds up to 90 days, lenders holding at 4¼; four to six months' lending and trading at 4¼. Merchants' paper is discounting firmly at 4¼@4½ per cent., prime eligible bills 3¼ per cent. the bid, 3½ the offering. Both commercial credit markets were only moderately active, choice name paper being in rather limited supply.

London Market.

Monday on London market unchanged at 1⅛ per cent.; short bills unchanged at 2 5-16@2⅜ per cent., and three months unchanged at 2 5-16@2⅜ per cent.

Gold bullion 1d lower at 93s 2d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounces as par, the market quotation for gold would represent a price of 109⅜ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 115⅝ on Jan. 5. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 113⅝, on Feb. 2, 1920; the lowest 105⅞ on April 25, 1922.

Clearing House Exchanges.

Exchange of checks at the New York Clearing House, $964,200,000; balances, $81,600,000; Federal Reserve Bank credit balance, $42,100,000; clearings this day a year ago, $965,226,979.

SILVER BULLION.

ANOTHER $1,000,000 GOLD BARS FOR INDIA

Most of $2,000,000 Withdrawn for Shipment in Ten Days Sent Via London.

Announcement was made yesterday that $1,000,000 in gold bars had been withdrawn for shipment to India. This makes a total of $2,000,000 withdrawn in the last ten days for India, most of which has been forwarded via London. The shipments abroad from the gold stock of the United States are the largest in recent months, and, dealers say, are designed to augment India's purchases of gold in the London market. Shipments from the Transvaal, which of late have been moderate because of the strike, have not proved sufficient to meet India's needs, so the quest has turned to the United States.

The Rand output is increasing monthly. The April production was 511,000 ounces, compared with 227,728 in March, 335,000 in February, 77,000 in January. The full first-quarter production was 639,728 ounces, compared with 1,580,853 ounces for the corresponding quarter of 1921. The production peak in 1921 was reached in September, when 711,526 ounces were brought out. In February last year the output was 681,381 ounces.

Lead Advances to 5.35 Cents.

The American Smelting and Refining Company yesterday announced an advance of 10 points in the price of lead to 5.35 cents a pound.

MINING DIVIDEND INCREASED

Federal Company Declares 1¼ Per Cent., Payable on June 15.

The Federal Mining and Smelting Company, Directors yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent., payable June 15 to stock of record May 26. This is an increase of one-quarter of 1 per cent. over the previous dividend.

Officials of the corporation say the increase is due in large measure to the increase in prices of lead, of which the company is a large producer. The Federal also produces zinc and silver, both of which have recently advanced in price.

Atlantic Coast Line Election.

MATHIESON ALKALI PROFITS.

Company Nets $151,667 for First Quarter of 1922.

The Mathieson Alkali reports net profits of $151,667 for the first three months of 1922, as compared with a loss of $61,571 for the corresponding period of 1921. These figures allow for setting up depreciation reserves of $133,500 and all charges, and are at the rate of $600,000 per annum. The statement shows that bank loans now amount to $750,000, but according to the report another reduction of $100,000 is expected to be made before the end of this month. The value of sales for the first quarter this year was $1,418,291, as against $668,858 for the first three months of 1921, while cost of sales stood at $1,132,288, as against $625,529 last year.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Motor Stocks Lead Late Advance.

The stock market during the greater part of the early trading yesterday moved with great irregularity. This was due in the main to profit-taking in the steel stocks, following the official announcement of the terms under which Bethlehem Steel will take over Lackawanna steel. Just before the announcement of the terms Lackawanna sold up to 81¾, a new high record for the year. After publication of the statement there was a drop below 79, but later the stock again sold above 80, only to react again. It ended the day at 79¾, a net gain of ⅝ for the day. The fluctuations in this stock caused unsettlement in all the other steel issues. In the early afternoon the market as a whole was dull and irregular, with Pierce-Arrow common and preferred particularly weak. For a time the reaction in this stock gave evidence of unsettling the entire list, but the speculative element took Studebaker in hand and bid it up from a low of 114½ to 118⅝ at which level it had scored a gain of 3⅝ points over the previous day's closing. The advance in Studebaker bolstered up the entire industrial list.

Bethlehem-Lackawanna Terms.

The offer of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of 40 per cent. in preferred stock and 60 per cent. in Class B, common stock in exchange for each share of Lackawanna, at the closing prices of the two former stocks, makes Lackawanna worth, theoretically, about $84.40 a share. Lackawanna last night, however, closed at $78.75, or $5.65 a share below the worth calculated from the agreed terms. The reason for the difference is partly explained by the fact that the Bethlehem Corporation retains the option of reducing the par value of the 7 per cent. preferred stock and increasing the par value of the Class B stock by $1,543,000 upon payment of approximately $300,000 in cash.

Shipping Gold to India.

Announcement that $1,000,000 gold was going from here to India, coupled with the statement that as much more, lately sent out, had the same destination, was taken in exchange market circles as a reflection of the heavy Indian demands on London. During April England shipped about $6,300,000 gold to India, and nearly the same amount was sent in March and in February. Attention was called yesterday to the coincidence of this movement with the rise of silver in London from 32¼ pence per ounce in February to 36⅝ this week. It was during the rise of silver bullion from 49 pence in May, 1910, to 89¼ in February, 1920, that both England and the United States shipped gold heavily to India, our own shipments for the period being $35,000,000.

Waiting for the Rate Decision.

Railroad and industrial leaders who have been waiting patiently for the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision on rates displayed lively interest yesterday in the report that the decision would be forthcoming sometime this week, probably before Saturday. If this were true, however, it would present an interesting contradiction to the general trend of belief surrounding this important development, for railway executives have been firmly of the opinion that the rate question was to form the basis of President Harding's informal conference at the White House this Saturday. Because of this assumption it was reasonable to conclude that the commission would make no declaration until next week. At least President Harding's reputation as a clever poker-player is indisputable among the railway executives by his obviously planned lack of facts as to what is to be discussed at Saturday's clinic.

The Break in Pierce Arrow.

Although it had been known for several days that the proposed merger of the Pierce Arrow Motor Car Company and the Lafayette Motors had fallen through, the common and preferred stocks of the former company did not display any real signs of weakness until yesterday. The common stock broke from 19¼ to 17½ on fairly heavy selling, but at the closing price of 18 a net loss of only ⅝ was recorded. The preferred dropped from a high of 39 to 36⅝ and closed with a net loss of 1¼. The break was considered significant in view of the fact that the shares were weak, while Studebaker, Chandler and the other motors were strong. According to gossip, the merger hinged on an issue of $10,000,000 notes by Pierce Arrow to pay off bank loans and provide working capital. It is said that one bank opposed the plan, because of the low interest rate which these notes were expected to bear.

***

Stormy Burns Bros. Meeting Expected.

The financial district looks for considerable excitement at the annual meeting of Burns Bros. stockholders to be held later in the month, because of the recent announcement that control of the company had passed to new interests. According to statements made yesterday the present management and the new interests are scouring the financial district in the hope of obtaining proxies to be voted at the meeting. The two leading officers of the company recently presented their resignations because of the reported change in control. The resignations, however, were refused by the Directors, but the officers say that if they cannot muster sufficient proxies other than the proxies of the "opposition" they will not continue to manage the affairs of the company which they founded.

The Dutch Buying of Guilders.

Recent Netherlands financing in the New York market is having the double effect of providing funds for the country and, in the process of getting the funds home, strengthening the guilder market. This exchange yesterday touched 38.72 cents per guilder, a new record for the year. Three Dutch East Indies loans have been sold here this year; the first in January for $40,000,000, the second of $40,000,000 in March and the third of $20,000,000 in April, a total of $100,000,000. The bulk of the funds have remained on deposit here until the present time. Now they are being transferred home through the sale of dollars and the purchase of guilders in this as well as other markets.

As to Restoring Dividends.

One of the things that is keeping the market in non-dividend paying stocks stirred up at the present time is the cloud of rumors that, in view of the turn in the business situation for the better, some of the corporations that eliminated or reduced dividends entirely to conserve their cash in the period of depression are commencing to plan a resumption of payments. This is what has occurred in United Retail Stores, and has had the effect of galvanizing into action a stock that has been dormant for many weeks. Yesterday it touched a new high record for the year at 64¾ on reports that some very powerful interests in the affairs of the corporation are clamoring for a return to the 16 annual rate, and that their contention that the corporation is sufficiently prosperous to return to a dividend-paying basis probably will be sustained before midsummer is passed.

HUGHES'S AID ASKED ON OLD RUSSIAN LOAN

Bankers' Committee to Insist on Provision for Payment if Soviet is Recognized.

$50,000,000 LENT IN 1916

Protective Agreement is Expected to Be Extended Two More Years.

Plans of the bankers' committee representing participants in the $50,000,000 6½ per cent. three-year credit loan of the Imperial Russian Government, floated in this country in 1916, for taking definite action through the State Department at Washington to protect the interests involved as a result of the default of this loan, were disclosed yesterday in a notice by the committee that it is asking for an eighteen-months extension of the deposit agreement, which expires June 30, 1922.

The committee has been in communication with the State Department, and it is considered probable that if Russia should be recognized, some provision for the payment of American losses in Russian securities would be insisted upon. Holders of about three-quarters of all of the participation certificates in the 6½ per cent. Russian credit loan have deposited their certificates with the committee under the protective agreement of July 1, 1918, the period of which, it is expected, will be extended to Jan. 1, 1924.

The members of the committee are John H. Fulton of the National City Bank, Thomas Cochran of J. P. Morgan & Co., Harold Stanley, Guaranty Trust Company; Lloyd W. Smith, Harris, Forbes & Co.; Charles S. Sargent Jr., Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Frederic W. Allen, Lee, Higginson & Co., and Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank and ex-officio member as Vice Chairman Foreign Securities Committee of Investment Bankers Association of America. All communications for the committee should be addressed to A. W. Dunham, Secretary, 55 Wall Street, New York City.

"The committee," it was stated yesterday, "believes it is very important that the agreement be extended because it is about to file information with the State Department at Washington as a basis for action to protect the interests of holders whose certificates are deposited with the committee, and the committee feels that the utmost co-operation is needed at this time.

"The committee also believes it is essential that the committee represent as large a number of holders as possible in order to make its claim more effective and because better results can be obtained through united action than for each individual holder to attempt to file separately his information or proof of loss. An opportunity is therefore given to holders who have not deposited their certificates to do so up to June 1, 1922. The committee already represents 70 per cent. of the holders."

MUNICIPAL ISSUES TO TOTAL $3,500,000

$1,000,000 BY CEMENT CO.

Hudson Valley Corporation Bonds to Yield About 8.30%—$74,500 for Croton Roads.

New bond offerings today are virtually all municipal issues and aggregate approximately $3,500,000. Several new foreign and domestic issues are expected within the next few days, but are not ready for announcement. One of these is the Prague loan, to be offered jointly in New York and London. It is expected that the offering price will be about 92¼, instead of 96, as heretofore reported. This issue probably will be publicly offered before the end of the week. Another piece of nearby business is approximately $30,000,000 Virginia-Carolina Chemical bonds, to be offered before the end of the week by a banking syndicate headed by Blair & Co., Inc.

Redmond & Co., Paine, Webber & Co. and B. J. Van Ingen are offering a new issue of $1,400,000 Mecklenburg County, N. C., 4¾ per cent. road bonds, dated June 1, 1921, and with maturities as follows: $60,000 annually from 1937 to 1941, to yield 4.50 per cent.; $80,000 annually from 1942 to 1946, to yield 4.50 per cent., and $140,000 annually from 1947 to 1951 inclusive, to yield 4.40 per cent.

R. M. Grant & Co. are offering $500,000 City of Seattle, Wash., Municipal Light and Power Plant and Municipal Water Works System 6 per cent. gold bonds, due serially from Dec. 1, 1927, to 1941. The $150,000 water works bonds are being offered at 104¾, to yield about 5 per cent. to optional date and 6 per cent. thereafter, and $350,000 Municipal Light and Power bonds are offered, to yield 5 per cent.

A. E. Pitkins & Co. are offering an issue of $1,000,000 Hudson Valley Portland Cement Corporation 8 per cent. first mortgage, 15-year sinking fund gold bonds at 97½ and interest, to yield about 8.30 per cent. An issue of $372,000 State of Florida (Everglades Drainage District) 6 per cent. non-callable coupon gold bonds is being offered by Clark Williams & Co. and C. W. Whittle & Co., at a price to yield 5 per cent. The bonds are due serially from July, 1932 to 1940. They are issued by the Board of Commissioners of the Everglades Drainage District, and are part of an issue to complete and construct canals, locks, reservoirs, &c., for the drainage of the district.

Watkins & Co. are offering a new issue of $74,500 Croton-on-Hudson, New York, 4½ per cent. highway and sewer bonds. The highway bonds are due each July, 1924 to 1943, at prices to yield 4.30 per cent. to 4.15 per cent. The sewer bonds are due each October, 1922 to 1944, at prices to yield 4.20 per cent. to 4.15 per cent.

Jelke, Hood & Co. are offering $100,000 City of El Paso, Texas, gold 5 per cent. bonds, due Nov. 15, 1958, optional 1939. They are offered at 100 and interest, to yield 4½ per cent. The Lawyers Mortgage Company is offering $125,000 guaranteed first mortgage certificates, to net 6½ per cent., secured by a new apartment at Creston Avenue and West 180th Street, the Bronx. Blair & Co., Inc., announced yesterday that the issue of $4,000,000 Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank bonds had been sold.

Morrow on Bankers Trust Board.

Dwight W. Morrow, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., yesterday was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the Bankers Trust Company to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry P. Davison. Mr. Morrow has also been appointed a member of the Executive Committee, on which Mr. Davison served as Chairman since the organization of the Bankers Trust Company in 1903.

Turners Falls Bonds Sold.

An issue of Turners Falls Power and Electric Company $3,000,000 thirty-year mortgage 5 per cent. bonds was awarded yesterday to Lee, Higginson, Coffin & Burr and Edmunds Bros., at a price of 101.652.

GENERAL ELECTRIC'S CHAIRMAN RESIGNS

OTHER CHANGES ANNOUNCED

E. W. Rice Jr., Associate of Coffin for Forty Years, Is Made Honorary Chairman.

Charles A. Coffin, founder of the General Electric Company and the Thomson-Houston Company, one of its predecessors, and for forty years the leading influence in the development of the corporation, resigned as Chairman of the board yesterday. Owen D. Young, long associated with the company as its Vice President, succeeded Mr. Coffin as Chairman, and Gerard Swope, President of the International General Electric Company, an affiliated organization, was elected President.

The Directors accepted Mr. Coffin's resignation with "deep regret." It was stated after the meeting of the board.

Mr. Coffin will continue as Director and devote his attention to the policies of the corporation as heretofore, but will be relieved of the many details which the active Chairmanship assumed. This was his wish in asking for the change, it is understood.

Anson W. Burchard, a Vice President of the company and long identified with its interests, particularly in the field of public utilities and foreign investments, was chosen Vice Chairman of the board.

Other changes in the personnel included the creation of an honorary Chairmanship for E. W. Rice Jr., a step taken at his own wish. Mr. Rice has been for more than forty years the associate of Mr. Coffin and was President of the concern for eight years. He will devote his time particularly to the supervision of the scientific, engineering and technical work of the company in this country and abroad.

In recognising Mr. Rice's services the board commented on the great advance in engineering work which had been accomplished under his direction, as well as the establishment of the research laboratory, directly responsible for many of the fundamental inventions concerning the use of electricity in recent years.

The board was further increased by the election of J. R. Lovejoy and George F. Morrison, both long associated with the company as Vice Presidents.

COAST LINE'S PROFITS FALL.

The annual report of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad for 1921 shows net corporate income of $1,790,569 after taxes and charges, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.63 a share on the $67,586,200 common stock. In 1920 the company showed net income of $7,684,156, or $11.30 a share, on the common stock.

BUYS BRANCH OF M., K. & T.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—William Edenborn, owner of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation Company, announced today that he had concluded arrangements to purchase a branch of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad in Texas and Louisiana. This was described in local railroad and financial circles as the largest railroad deal in the South in twenty-five years.

Mr. Edenborn will acquire the Missouri, Kansas & Texas lines extending about 220 miles from McKinney, Texas, to Shreveport, La. The purchase price was not announced, but it was said to be close to $30,000,000. The Texas Railroad Commission has approved the sale.

New Oil Wells Brought In.

Recent advances in gasoline prices, forecasting higher prices for crude oil during the Summer, have resulted in increased activity at the oil fields. New wells are reported to have been brought in in the last two days by the Middle States Oil Company, the White Eagle Oil Company and the Pennland Oil Company.

KRONE'S NEW LOW RECORD.

Austrian Unit of Currency Now Stands at 10,000 to the Dollar.

VIENNA, May 16 (Associated Press).—The Austrian krone made a new low record yesterday, when it fell to 10,000 to the dollar. At this level manufacturers and merchants bought freely, which augurs further depreciation in the currency.

The drop is ascribed to the action of the Government in agreeing to pay all the civil servants a bonus of triple their army salary, and adding other allowances, the whole entailing the expenditure of many billions of krones and threatening further to increase the cost of living.

Free of Pennsylvania State Tax

MORTGAGE AND PROPERTY These bonds are secured by a Purchase Money Mortgage on 19/96ths of the Cornwall Ore Banks and Mine Hills properties which have been acquired entirely through various purchases by the Bethlehem Steel Company, subject to the right to ore for one furnace and certain minor easements.

VALUES The Cornwall Ore Banks and Mine Hills are in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, and contain probably the greatest known iron ore deposits in the East. They have been in operation for over 150 years and afford the Bethlehem Steel Company one of the most economical ore supplies in the entire country. Their life is estimated at many years beyond the maturity of these bonds.

SINKING FUND The Bethlehem Steel Company has covenanted to redeem annually beginning in 1925 at least 1/17th of the largest amount of bonds at any time outstanding. Thus the redemption of 16/17ths of the entire issue before maturity is stipulated.

THE COMPANY The Bethlehem Steel Company is the principal subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation which is ranked as the second largest steel producer in the country. Its annual report for 1921 shows net income after interest, depreciation, etc., of $10,332,804, or substantially more than all the outstanding bonds against the Cornwall Ore Banks and Mine Hills. The Balance Sheet shows a total surplus of $32,418,928.

CHINA—
Knowing Her Customs and Methods

It is especially important for business men who deal in Chinese markets to obtain accurate and authoritative information from original sources.

As a native institution, the Bank of Canton, Ltd., is under the management of native Chinese—men well versed in the manners, customs and methods of their vast country. Its head office is in Hongkong, with branches in other important commercial centers. Its New York Agency is in charge of native Chinese, and provides American business men with a service which is both distinctive and comprehensive.

FRANCE INCREASES HER WAR BUDGET

Total of 5,144,000,000 Francs Is Allowed for Army and Navy for Year 1923.

DEFICIT OF 3,900,000,000

Tax Estimates Lower, but No New Taxes Are Proposed—Two-Thirds of Budget for Interest.

PARIS, May 16 (Associated Press).—The French budget for 1923, submitted to Parliament today by the Government, provides for expenditures amounting to 23,188,800,000f., with receipts amounting to only 19,285,000,000f., of which 1,250,000,000f. would be derived from the sale of war stocks taxes on war profits and other temporary resources.

The budget provides that the deficit of 3,900,000,000f. shall be raised through loans. This deficit represents approximately the interest paid on money advanced by France for reparations expenses chargeable to Germany.

Both the war and navy provisions are increased over this year's budget, the former by 234,000,000f. and the latter by 323,900,000f.

This makes the 1923 war appropriations amount to 5,144,000,000 francs. The 1923 receipts are estimated at 4,000,000,000 francs, less than those of 1922, chiefly because of the diminishing income from the sale of war materials and the war profits taxes.

Next year's business turnover tax is estimated at 500,000,000 francs less than the 1922 estimate, which was not realized, and the customs estimate is reduced by 800,000,000 francs.

No new taxes are suggested in the budget, but better collection through the present system is contemplated.

The Minister of Finance, in the budget's preamble, emphasizes that France cannot accept the present budget as a basis for permanent and normal finance, as two-thirds of the budget is devoted to paying interest on debts. He says the Government considers that the time has not come to plan amortization loans. He adds:

"Such a policy may be taken up when Germany's payments balance the reparation budget expenditures, so that borrowing may cease when adjustment of the interallied debts improve exchange, and then the ordinary budget can be finally balanced."

Expenses for reparations will continue to be placed in a separate budget chargeable to Germany, and will be met by issues of securities and by what money is available from Germany.

STOCK PURCHASE APPROVED

Mountain Producers Gets More Oil Properties.

Stockholders of the Moutain Producers' Corporation at the annual meeting held in Wilmington, Del., approved the purchase of 168,000 shares of the capital stock of the Wyoming Associated Oil Corporation for $1,200,000 and 700,000 shares of stock of the Mountain Producers' Corporation. The stock purchased represents 48 per cent. of the total which is not already owned by Mountain producers. Full ownership of the Wyoming Associated, according to statements of company officials, gives Mountain Producers the largest ownership of lands in the Salt Creek field, Wyoming, all of its holdings being inside acreage. The developed production held by the company is in excess of 30,000 barrels.

In addition to the authorization of the foregoing deal, the stockholders voted to increase the capital stock of the Mountain Producers from 1,000,000 shares of $10 par value to 1,750,000 shares, the 750,000 shares being those used for the purpose of taking over Wyoming Associated.

P. R. T. APRIL EARNINGS.

The gross operating revenues of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company in April were $3,584,733, compared with $3,635,283 in April, 1921. The company's statement, issued yesterday, shows a decrease in operating expenses, the April, 1922, figure being $2,613,572, compared with $2,675,608 for the same month last year. The balance, after all charges, was $191,511, an increase of $15,949.

The report showed that gross revenues in the first four months of 1922 decreased, but the balance available for dividends increased from $540,109 in 1921 to $806,342 this year. The number of passengers carried in the four months ended April 30 was 273,717,748, the March and April records showing substantial increases over January and February, although still under the corresponding months of 1921.

Sugar Advances 5 to 10 Points.

The American, Warner and National sugar refining companies yesterday announced an advance of 10 points in the wholesale price of hard refined sugar to 5.50 cents a pound. Arbuckle Brothers announced an advance of 5 points to 5.40 cents a pound. Arbuckle Brothers and the Warner Sugar Refining Company are quoting 5.25 cents for soft grades.

DIER CREDITORS MAY RECOVER THOUSANDS

Books of Other Firms to Be Examined Before Next Bankruptcy Hearing.

EXPERT TELLS OF LOSSES

Says Concern With Net Income for 1921 of Only $20,000 Had Expenses of $2,500,000.

Bernard J. Reis, an accountant for the trustee in bankruptcy of E. D. Dier & Co., which failed last January, with liabilities of more than $3,000,000, testified at a hearing before Referee Seaman Miller yesterday taht his examination of the Dier books convinced him that hundreds of thousands of dollars could be recovered for the creditors besides the money already raised.

The books of certain Stock Exchange firms will be examined by Mr. Reis before the next hearing, and members of the firms are expected to testify as to commissions paid them by Dier & Co. on purchases of listed securities for Dier's customers. Stock Exchange firms had been subpoenaed with their books to yesterday's hearings, but an adjournment was made to permit the accountant to study their books. The next hearing will be held on May 25 at 2 P. M.

Mr. Reis testified the gross income of Dier & Co. from January, 1921, to January, 1922, from commissions and interest totaled $402,824, and that more than $470,000 was paid out by Dier & Co. in commissions to other houses for the purchase of stocks and bonds for Dier's clients. Thus there was a net income of only $20,000.

During the same period, according to the testimony, the administration expenses were more than $1,600,000. Other general expenses amounted to almost $500,000. Further items of accounting errors, &c., increased the total an additional $400,000. Thus, although the net income was only $20,000, it was pointed out, the firm spent $2,500,000 during the year before the crash.

Arthur Garfield Hayes, attorney for the receiver and trustee, Manfred W. Ehrich, said the difference between $20,000 and $2,500,000 was the money supplied by customers for the purchase of stocks and bonds on margin and represented more than half of the money owed by Dier & Co. when it failed.

The accountant went into detailed testimony on administrative expenses, showing that almost $700,000 was spent for branch offices, that $465,000 was spent for salaries in addition to $310,000 which Dier drew and that lump sum of $125,000 was charged to general administrative expenses.

In the item were included lunches, $35,000; advertising, $7,109; postage, $3,800; leased telegraph wires, $9,460; traveling expenses and entertainment, $11,000; stationery, $4,800, and statistical service, $18,000, besides an additional petty cash account.

Another account showing a large loss was errors and defalcations of $210,237. "It would appear," Mr. Reis testified, "that many stocks and bonds were charged into this account and then disappeared." The firms also operated a put and call account which lost $4,395 during the year, according to the testimony.

EXPORTERS OF WHEAT HIT BY PRICE DROPS

Eight Cents a Bushel Profits in 1920, Third of One Cent in 1921, Senate Is Told.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The average profit of wheat exporters dropped in 1921 to one-third of one cent a bushel from an average of nearly 8 cents a bushel in 1920, according to a statement submitted to the Senate today by the Federal Trade Commission, as part one of its report on Senator Ladd's resolution asking data on the operations and methods of grain exporters. Section two of the report will be completed in a few days, the commission's letters to the Senate announced.

The commission noted that the American grain market was again free from the dominating influence of foreign Government buying. The "decontrolling" begun in 1921, the commission found, has continued until its influence is little felt.

The report explained that the profits set forth for the two compared years excluded transactions in "futures," in which were shown in 1920 but an average profit of 2.5 cents a bushel gained last year. By way of comparison, the report said that, "while not organized for profit, the United States Grain Corporation had about 4 cents a bushel profit in what handled prior to July, 1919, and 2 cents a bushel the following year."

While the commission says a large quantity of the export grain is handled by foreign houses with branches in this country, the bulk of the grain exported is controlled by "a comparatively small number of concerns."

"In 1921, for example," its letter notes, "eight concerns (combining closely affiliated companies) exported more than 50 per cent. of the total of 345,000,000 bushels."

The commission examined the books of thirty-two companies which exported a total of 275,000,000 bushels last year, and there are several others to be examined, the report said. This investigation, however, was opposed by the companies, and "legal steps have been taken to obtain access to the books."

Three "groups" were cited as being "especially important" in the exporting business. Those were the Gray-Rosenbaum interests, the Rosenbaum-Armour group and Barnes-Ames group. The first two groups, the commission said, exported about 12 per cent. of the 1921 exports while the latter handled about 5 per cent.

TALES FROM A BANK VAULT is an interesting and original story that is unique in the annals of financial literature. Engaging in its style, yet technically correct in its treatment, it intrigues the attention and instructs while it entertains. "Grandfather Municipal," "Mazy Miningstock—the Vampire," "The Simple-Minded Mortgage," "The Temperamental Industrial," "Stocks—Alias Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and other clever little "Gnomes of the Vault," symbolize various investments and portray their virtues and their vices in a most quaint and compelling fashion.

Twenty thousand "Tales," already distributed to Bond Owners throughout the United States, have brought us countless letters of appreciation. A copy of this remarkable volume will be mailed free to you if you will merely mention your business or occupation on the accompanying coupon.

HARDING ORDERS BAN ON COAL PRICE RISE

Tells Hoover to Act — Daugherty Announces He Will Co-operate.

WILL SUMMON OPERATORS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Reports of rising bituminous coal prices have been received by the Administration, and President Harding has directed Secretary of Commerce Hoover to take what steps may be necessary to remedy the situation. It was said at the White House today, following a meeting of the Cabinet, that the Administration will use all means at its disposal to prevent unjustified increases in coal prices. Conferences to meet the situation will be held this week at the Department of Commerce, and Attorney General Daugherty said his department would be advised of developments.

"The first thing that will be done," Mr. Daugherty said, "will be to get at the facts and ascertain whether higher prices are warranted."

According to the information reached Federal authorities bituminous coal prices at the mines in a number of localities have gone up from 50 to 100 per cent. Secretary Hoover denied that there was a coal shortage and attributed such reports to wholesale coal dealers.

"The tendency of coal prices to rise at the mine in certain districts will be checked," Mr. Hoover said. "In order to devise measures for the protection of consumers I have called a meeting of the representative operators from the different producing fields for consultation, and I have been assured that they will co-operate to prevent speculation and rising prices.

"I have also requested the American Railway Association to consider the creation of a buying committee for railway coal and have made the same request of the public utilities associations. I shall ask that certain other large consuming industries undertake the same measure in order that we may stop bidding against each other and against the general consumer.

"At the present time the price of coal has risen unduly in certain districts, while in other districts there is an insufficiency of orders to employ the mines full time. There are very large stocks of coal in the country in the possession of the consumers, and the problem is one of co-ordination and co-operation. The reports of certain wholesalers that there is a shortage of coal is untrue and designed to further their personal ends."

WASHINGTON, May 16 (Associated Press).—Some outlines of the tentative policy adopted by the Administration toward the general coal strike are becoming visible. It is probable that within six weeks, or some such period after satisfactory indications are given by the union leaders and coal mine operators that such a step would meet success, a conference will be called.

Either President Harding or some Cabinet member will issue the invitation, possibly without publicity, and to a limited group in the first instance, but later to representative numbers and ask the parties to the controversy when assembled to negotiate for a settlement. A tendency for isolated districts to reach a settlement by themselves on the basis of new wage scales is said to have been evinced lately in West Virginia, Texas and Kentucky.

After more of such settlements have been made officials believe that both the miners' union and the employers will have completed a test of strength and it will then become possible for the men concerned in districts still striking to work out wage scales for themselves in the light of knowledge concerning their possible competitive production costs.

$1,500,000 FIRE SWEEPS UNITED LEAD PLANT

Firemen Lay Nearly Half Mile of Hose — Cartridge Loading Building Saved.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., May 16.—Damage of about $1,500,000 was done early today by a fire which destroyed the white lead building of the plant of the United Lead Company here. The fire started at 2 A. M.

The flames are believed to have started in the southeast part of the building, which had 100 rooms, where were stored containers filled with the mixed white lead. The flames spread from one to another of the rooms before the fire was discovered. When the firemen arrived the whole building was blazing and the heat prevented them from going close.

The firemen could not reach nearby hydrants and had to lay their first hose from a point nearly half a mile away. Fire Chief Harry Tooker directed his men to save adjoining structures.

Several streams were kept playing on the three-story concrete cartridge loading building of the United States Cartridge Company, 150 feet from the burning structure. This building contained a large number of filled cartridges and considerable powder. From a adjoining frame shanty lead company employes carried a quantity of powder stored for use in the cartridge loading plant.

The company officials ascribed the fire to defective wiring. The night watchman went through the building at 1:15 A. M. and the fire was discovered about a half hour later.

MEAT DOLLAR WORTH 83C.

Retail Value Has Risen From Low of 52 Cents in July, 1920.

August F. Grimm, Chairman of the Meat Council of New York, said yesterday that the pre-war dollar, which had shrunk until in July, 1920, it was worth only 52 cents in a retail meat market, is worth 83 cents now when spent for meats. This is shown, he said, by a Meat Council analysis of figures published by the Department of Labor. The figures cover nine meat products, including lard, and thirteen other articles of food.

"In the last year," Mr. Grimm said, "the retail price of round steak has dropped 12 per cent., chuck roast 14 per cent., and plate beef 18 per cent. Chuck and plate are selling in retail stores in New York at or near pre-war levels.

FAIL TO FIX DATE FOR TARIFF VOTE

Democrats Reject Republicans' Plea to Bar Debate After June 1.

DEBATE FILLS ANOTHER DAY

But the Senate Finally Disposes of the Rate on Court and Healing Plasters.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—An effort by Republican Senate leaders to get the Democrats to enter into a unanimous agreement to begin voting on the Fordney-McCumber Tariff bill on June 1 next failed this afternoon when objections to this program were made by Senators Williams of Mississippi and Watson of Georgia. Senator Spencer of Missouri suggested the agreement, under the terms of which debate would be barred after June 1 and the voting would continue until all amendments were disposed of and the final vote on the bill itself was reached.

Had the agreement prevailed, it would have meant that the bill might have been passed during the first two weeks in August, this estimate being based on the supposition that the minority would demand a rollcall on each important amendment proposed. There are 2,059 committee amendments, and about 400 more will be offered from the floor. Allowing ten minutes for a rollcall, this would mean 400 hours, or about forty working days of eleven hours each. The Senate is now meeting at 11 A. M. and adjourning at about 10 P. M.

Five hours of debate passed today before the Senate voted on any amendment, a fact which brought Chairman McCumber to his feet with his daily protest. Senator Gooding of Idaho, leader of the Republican tariff farm bloc, inspired most of the talking. Mr. Gooding was so positive in his assertions as to the benefits agriculture would derive from the passage of the pending bill that Senator Underwood, the minority leader and author of the existing tariff law, took him sharply to task. Mr. Underwood said the "farm duties" in the bill were largely "bunco" duties that would cost the farmer in increased living expenses a great deal more than he would realize as a result of increased prices on long staple cotton, corn, wheat, wool and other products.

"In Touch With the Times."

"The Senator from Alabama," said Mr. Gooding, "has been in public life a long time and has not gone back to the people often enough to be in touch with the spirit of the times. We are facing a new era."

"Of course," replied the Democratic leader, "I realize that the Senator from Idaho has been for twenty-five years, as he states, on the farms, in the forests and in the mountains of Idaho, and for that reason has probably had more opportunity to keep in touch with the spirit of the times than has been my lot during a service of more than a quarter of a century in the Congress of the United States."

Senator Underwood declared that but for the support of Senators from agricultural States the Fordney-McCumber bill would meet defeat in the Senate. "I believe," said he, "that the great powers of the Government are intended to be used only for the benefit of all of the people, and not for the promotion of special interests, and I care not whether those special interests come out of the fields of agriculture or from the smokestacks of industry.

"I belong to that school of thought which believes that the Congress has no constitutional right—I might go further and say no moral right—to use the taxing power of this Government for the purpose of building up fortunes or tearing them down. I am just as much opposed to the idea of levying a tax, under the guise of protecting American industry, that the great mass of the people must contribute out of their pockets to build up a special interest and make a few rich, as I am of extending the power of taxation so far that it confiscates the property of the individual and accomplishes by the power and force of taxation what the communism of Russia has accomplished under the red flag."

The Senator from Idaho, Mr. Gooding, does not believe in that principle. He says that the power of taxation in the Government can and should be legitimately used for the purpose, primarily, of building up agriculture, from his standpoint, and secondarily for the purpose of building up industry, not for the purpose of raising revenue and allowing the incidental benefits which arise from it to help somebody, but the main purpose of taxation should be to develop the business of some individual or corporation.

Sees Old Theory in New Guise.

"It is an old theory and we are facing it in a new guise today. If it were not for the support which those who represent agricultural constituencies on this floor carry to the protective interests of America it would be impossible to pass such a bill as is now pending before the Senate. Under the guise of doing something to help the agricultural interests in some particular item, you ask their support for a bill which means that for every dollar of benefit they may derive out of the bill they must pay $100 in taxes to benefit some one else, for the 1 per cent. protection they get under this bill they must pay 99 per cent. of protection which is afforded to other people. I do not think there is any question about that proposition.

"For some years, as a smoke cloud to make the farmers think they were getting something, a tax of 20 cents per bushel has been levied on corn. That is the rate in the pending bill. In existing law corn is on the free list. Why? Because there was no appreciable revenue to be raised from such a tax, for this country is the great producer of corn. To tax corn, as it is taxed in this bill, is only for the purpose of fooling the farmer, and it means nothing except that it gives the local orator at the cross-roads an opportunity to say that the Republican Party protects the farmer along with other people. It is the desire to engage in subterfuge for the sake of votes. Political parties may do that here and there, but it cannot be justified from the standpoint of high morals or sound reasoning.

"I do not deny that a few farmers will be benefited by this bill. On the other hand, I do not deny that the farmer as a general rule is not a dirt farmer. He is very often a very substantial business man, who may, for instance, raise sugar in Louisiana. I am free to admit that the proposed tax of 33 per cent. on wool will raise the price of wool in the American market and will raise some revenue, but it will be a small revenue in proportion to the taxes on the people. I also admit that the very large number of farmers who raise wool who will be benefited by this tax are men who are in an industrial business called farming, but who are in reality very large owners of sheep and employers of labor. It is no poor farmer who is to be benefited.

Declares the Farmers Will Pay.

"But, taking them all in all, even down to the farmer who has only a few head of sheep on a small farm, you make him pay until he bleeds in taxation for what you pretend to give him. The farmers wear woolen clothes, as do the city people, and the farmer will pay the tax along with his city brother.

"The tax of 33 per cent. on scoured wool at the Custom House will result in a cost to the public of about $195,000,000 a year, of which those engaged in raising the wool will get $79,000,000, and against that the farmers as a body will pay $99,000,000, the remainder of the public who are not farmers will pay an amount in proportion, while the government of the United States will only realize out of this enormous tax the sum of about $20,000,000.

"The farmers who raise wheat in the West and those who raise cotton in the South are also going to get a duty, but it is a subterfuge, a bunco duty."

"I am sure," interrupted Senator Gooding, "that every Western Senator who lives in a sheep or wool growing State will agree with me that that industry cannot live without protection. I wish to say to the Senator also that, as far as the corn grower is concerned, his whole market depends on the livestock industry."

"That is," replied Senator Underwood, "another bunco game, in my judgment, but, of course, I am not reflecting on the Senator. It is one of the subterfuges thrown out to fool the American people into believing they are getting something for nothing."

"I hope the Senator and his colleagues," said Mr. Gooding, "will define their position before the people so we may go out and discuss it before them and let them settle it."

"I shall be delighted," Senator Underwood replied, "if what the Senator says may come about, because I know that then the question will be settled. I think one of the great faults of the Democratic Party has been that we have too many who compromise with the evil of protection. They do not stand for it as a whole, or as a system, but they stand for it as to those things their individual constituencies demand. This compromise with the question instead of denouncing it as a false theory and telling the people the truth, that when ever a dollar of protection is levied they pay it every time from five to ten fold in the increased cost of living."

Gets the Galleries Laughing.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi kept the galleries laughing when he read into the Record excerpts from a speech made during the Bull Moose campaign of 1912 by Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, who recently defeated Senator New for the Republican nomination for the Senate. Mr. Beveridge in that speech denounced the Payne-Aldrich law and said it was a harbinger of Republican defeat.

"Let's see what the people are to get tax-free under your bill," said Mr. Harrison to the Republicans. "First, you are going to let bones come in free and Brazilian pebbles. Then bristles, if they are crude, cuttlefish bone, dry insects, stems of vegetables and flowers—I don't understand how they escaped. Birds' eggs and fish eggs, free. Fish skins, fossils, dragon's blood, horse hair, hoops, old junk. If it's new junk it can't come in free.

"I don't know whether you let loaded dice in free, but you are giving the American people loaded dice in this bill.

"And seaweed—that just drifts in. Nux vomica, rags, shavings, old paper, rope ends, waste ropes, waste baggings, old sausage casings and bladders, skeletons and spunk, teeth. If you pass this bill the American people won't need any teeth, as they won't be able to purchase the necessities to use them on.

"Josh sticks and turtles and worn gut. "So that's the free list the American people are going to get."

"The funny man of the Senate has given us an address on the free list which he apparently enjoyed making as much as the galleries enjoyed hearing," said Senator McCumber. "The trouble was that the Senator got hold of the wrong bill and was reading the Democratic free list of the present law. Yes—dragon's blood, whetstones, joss sticks, old junk, lava and half a thousand other things are on the free list."

Mr. McCumber dwelt especially on "old junk" in the Democratic free list, put in, he remarked, "because you seem married to it, just want it, and can't get along without it."

Says Bill May Cost $17,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—An estimate that the ultimate cost to the American consumer of the tariff bill might exist $17,000,000,000 was presented by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts today. He explained that Senator Shortridge of California had estimated the cost to each person in the country of the duty on olive oil to be 4 cents, and, taking this as the average cost for each of the 4,000 items in the bill, the total would be as given.

Senator Smoot said this was unfair, as only 2 per cent. of the olive oil consumed here was produced in this country, adding that he could see no reason for quoting the figure except to attempt to "impress the American people with something or other."

Calling attention to that the total income of the wage earners of the country was only $8,000,000,000 a year, Senator McCumber said the public could not spend more than it made. He added that, according to the argument of the Democrats, "if there's no tariff we could all live for nothing."

When the Senate got its first vote today, after several hours of talk, it rejected, 17 to 34, an amendment by Senator King to make the duty on court and healing and curative plasters 10 per cent. instead of 25 per cent., as proposed by the committee. The 25 per cent. rate then was approved.

Senators King and Hitchcock opposed the increase over the present 10 per cent. rate. They said importations were nil, and Senator King charged that the sole purpose was to enable manufacturers to increase prices.

Senator McCumber replied that the duty would amount to one mill for each plaster and argued that this would not be passed on.

Senator Hitchcock said this was illustrative of the whole bill. The Republican Party in its platform was committed to a reduction in the cost of living, but in this bill it was making it "absolutely certain" that living costs would be increased.

The next item taken up was a rate of $5 a ton on barytes, Senator King moving to make the rate 15 per cent. ad valorem. He said barytes was used in whitening rubber tires, playing cards, paint and paper, and that the duty proposed was too high.

Senator McCumber said the German product was being laid down at New York for $5.25 a ton, while the cost of production in Georgia was $6.31, with a freight rate of $5.50 to New York.

While Senator Capper was denouncing American valuation in the Senate as a system desired by some manufacturers because they believed by it they could "conceal from the American people the extent to which they desire to raise rates," Chairman Fordney, of the Ways and Means Committee, urged that systems in the House. Mr. Fordney had a table piled high with imported articles on which he said the Government was defrauded by undervaluation through the foreign valuation system.

Topping the Chairman's list was a German clock which runs 400 days on one winding. Its invoice value, as shown by papers transmitted to Secretary Mellon, was $1.10, but on demand for revaluation it was raised to $1.08. Before the war, Mr. Fordney said, he bought one exactly like it for $38, and he found them on sale in Washington the other day for $40.

"Its manufacturing cost was around $15," said Mr. Fordney, "and the Secretary of the Treasury has delegated a man to go to Germany, where it was made, and run down the value."

Mr. Fordney exhibited, among other things, a knife purchased for him in a Chicago department store for $8.50. Getting the name of the German manufacturer from the blade, and locating his agent in New York, the Chairman said, he bought a dozen for $7.62.

From his pocket the Chairman then showed a German safety razor invoiced at 72 cents a dozen, and a dozen other things on which he claimed the Government was defrauded by undervaluation.

A flat iron—like those kept in the home where the wife sometimes finds it necessary to "to say it with flat irons"—was invoiced at 19 cents and sold retail, he said, at $6.75.

"It's just clear-cut fraud," Mr. Fordney shouted, holding the iron as if he were ready to fling it.

FOR FEDERAL TAX LIMIT.

New League Urges a Constitutional Convention to Restrict Levies.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—(Associated Press)—The Anti-Centralization League, in a resolution adopted here, asks governors and state legislatures to request Congress to call a constitutional convention to prepare amendments restricting federal taxes to those necessary to prosecute war or discharge the nation's debts. The organization, recently founded, declares its purpose is to curb congressional power to levy taxes indiscriminately.

The resolution charges the Federal Government with waste, with levying intolerable tax burdens, and with the constant absorption of the most elemental functions of local self-government by remote Federal bureaus.

"The vast sums raised by direct federal taxes historically belongs to the states," the resolution says, "to be collected and expended by their own immediate representatives for their own improvement."

Huntington Elected Rail President.

SETS NEW HIGH RECORD.

Commonwealth Edison Co. Leads in Electrical Power Output.

CHICAGO, May 16.—The business of the Commonwealth Edison Company showed a substantial increase for the first quarter of this year over last year, with every indication of setting a new high record during the year, according to a special report issued by the company today.

With the addition of a new generating station, it was said, the Chicago company outdistanced all other electric companies in capacity, with more than 800,000 horse power available.

Last year the Commonwealth Company led the United States in the production and distribution of electrical energy, surpassing for the first time the great hydroelectric development of the Niagara Falls Power Company, the company figures indicated.

Figures given in the report showed the Commonwealth's output for the year was 1,028,271,943 kilowatt hours, while that of the Niagara Company was 1,855,120,000 kilowatt hours.

TO THE HOLDERS OF BONDS OF DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Four Year Eight Per Cent. Customs Administration Sinking Fund Bond Issue of 1921 and to the Holders of Interim Certificates, exchangeable for Bonds of said Issue:

The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Fiscal Agent under Agreement of Fiscal Agency dated as of June 1, 1921, made on behalf of the Republic of Santo Domingo, hereby gives notice that there has been deposited with it a sum sufficient to redeem at One Hundred and Five Per Cent. (105%) of the principal amount, plus accrued interest to June 1, 1922, all of the outstanding Dominican Republic Four Year Eight Per Cent. Customs Administration Sinking Fund Bond Issue of 1921, issued under the above Agreement of Fiscal Agency, and that all of said Issue is hereby called for redemption on June 1, 1922, at One Hundred and Five Per Cent. (105%) of the principal amount, plus accrued interest to June 1, 1922.

Upon presentation and surrender of said bonds (with all unmatured coupons) and said Interim Certificates, on or after June 1, 1922, at the principal office of the undersigned, No. 37 Wall Street, New York City, the amount so received on account of the outstanding bonds and the amount received on account of the bonds for which said Interim Certificates are exchangeable will be paid respectively to the holders of the outstanding bonds and to the holders of said Interim Certificates.

Interest on said outstanding bonds and on bonds for which Interim Certificates are exchangeable will cease to accrue on June 1, 1922.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK,
By LYMAN RHOADES, Vice-President.

If you had left your wife a block of these bonds, would she understand the significance of this announcement, published in small type on the financial page of a newspaper?

Would she know that the bonds called would cease to earn interest after the redemption date? Would she know how to reinvest the money safely and profitably, if she owned some of the called bonds?

Lack of experience in business and investment, and unfamiliarity with the language and customs of finance are costing security owners dearly. The man who merely bequeaths a comfortable inheritance to his wife and children has not necessarily protected them from want or worry.

There is only one way to make certain that your provisions for your wife's comfort are carried out. That is by creating a trust which will secure for her the help and counsel of the officers of a trust company—men whose business it is to manage and conserve property for the benefit of the inexperienced.

The trust officers of The Equitable will welcome an opportunity to discuss this with you.

What One Surrogate Said:

In a recent case before a Surrogate's Court, involving the continuance of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company as Guardian for certain children, the Surrogate took occasion to say:

"In my opinion, the New York Life Insurance & Trust Company has lived up to every obligation, legal, ethical or moral, in its relationship to these children. It is an old established institution, well managed, solvent, making a specialty of trust business, careful in the management of estates, and its officers have had long and wide experience in trust investments. If this were an application de novo, in view of the situation, I rather think the respondent better qualified to be appointed than any other person or institution."

Opportunity in Bonds!

This week 16,000 clients will receive a special Barometer Letter outlining an unusual opportunity in the Bond Market.

Babson's REPORTS

In spite of the fact that most bonds have risen out of the bargain class this particular group can still be bought below their true values.

Report on Request

This Barometer Letter and Booklet—"Getting the Most From Your Money"—is available for distribution to interested investors, gratis.

Tear out the Memo—now—and hand it to your secretary when you dictate the morning's mail.

NEW HIGH LEVELS FOR COTTON PRICES

Trade Demand Heavy on Crop Outlook — Contracts Easily Absorbed on All Recessions.

Several cross-currents developed in cotton yesterday, but new high records were made and final prices showed a gain of 8 to 27 points. An opening advance was followed by a sharp break of 42 a bale on realizing which attracted a degree of support that finally swept active positions into new territory above 20½ cents. There was still too much rain and too little sunshine in the cotton belt to effect any change in sentiment. Conditions are not such as to encourage confidence in a good crop, so that demand for domestic and export needs continues on a scale to influence values. Hedges are being removed daily on actual cotton sold, with general speculative buying on the probability of a low Bureau from Washington on June 1.

Combination of a sharp rise in Liverpool and reports of further rainfall in Western and Central districts opened all positions at high prices of the movement. May sold at 21.20, a level not touched since the Fall rise, when that month sold over 22¼ cents. December touched 20½ cents during excited buying that occurred immediately after the call. But around 20¼ cents the market ran into a supply of July that proved too heavy for buying power. Several houses with Wall Street and Southern connections poured out blocks of October and December above 20.40 and realizing soon began on an extensive scale. Cotton came out on the early advance both here and in New Orleans, accompanied by a sharp setback in Liverpool.

Prices broke 40 points before midday but encountered scale buying that prevented weakness. The character of private advices from both East and West tended to bring new buying into the market and cotton passed into hands of those anxious to obtain contracts on declined. May sold 75 points over July, while the demand for July tended to produce frequent recoveries.

It became evident during the morning reaction that it would require heavier selling pressure to supply the quantity of contracts wanted in the region of 20 cents. As the day wore on, trade and speculative buying took an increasing volume of contracts until room operators concluded to replace cotton sold on the opening advance. This strengthened the general list, making possible a sharp upward movement in the last hour. New Orleans started an active demand when July there rose sharply 30 points to new high prices of the day and 30 points over the previous session. This was accompanied by Southern buying orders here that swept all positions to new high levels.

The moment new crops sold at opening figures, a rush of orders appeared from Wall Street and Western wire houses. All July for sale at 20.40 was taken and October sold up 30 points in ten minutes. A large quantity of cotton changed hands on this rush, buying of July proving aggressive. Fear of a poor weekly report today kept the market in a highly excited condition. Just before the close the sale of a quantity of October ran quotations off nearly 30 points, but still left the list higher than on the previous day.

Steadily advancing prices for the last few weeks have occurred as a result of abnormal weather conditions, making the whole crop outlook disturbing. Visible supplies are being reduced rapidly, leaving trade needs for the coming year to be met by current production. With a poor start the size of the yield is not only problematical, but no general feeling now prevails that the growth of sufficient cotton to provide for world consumption is extremely doubtful. In order to counteract ravages of the boll weevil during the Summer, an early good start was desirable. But, instead, the middle of May finds much planting still to be done, with the start behind the average and conditions over a large area poor. Under these circumstances a wave of apprehension has swept over the cotton trade, but domestic and foreign, bringing enormous mill buying of contracts to provide for future needs. As fast as one group of speculative holders sell out and take profits this cotton is taken by new buyers, since weather conditions show no radical improvement. There now exists a well-defined fear that June and July estimates from Washington will indicate the prospect of a yield smaller than known requirements.

About 4,000 bales were received in New York again yesterday, increasing the running stock to 179,000 bales. In the last twenty-four hours the Inspection Bureau has passed on 8,000 bales.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Yesterday's Gains in Local Cash Markets Bring New High Levels.

Several striking price changes in yesterday's cash markets, in which high levels for the year to date were reached, were the centre of interest. Spot cotton moved up to 21.50 cents, from 21.25 on Monday; wheat, corn and oats each advanced one-half cent a bushel, the latter two topping previous highs; sugar moved up 20 cents the 100 pounds, to $5.50, a new high, lead and copper also joining in the upward swing. There was a minor recession in tin, with other articles which included the dairy products, provisions and other metals firm.

WHEAT AT CHICAGO LOOKING UP AGAIN

Mild Gain Marks Struggle Over the May, and September at Season's Highest.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—The wheat market got out of the rut today, and, with an increase in the outside trade, prices advanced readily and closed within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 2⅝@2¾ cents, the latter on the May. September, at the top, was $1.22½, a new high for the season to date—and there was no material pressure on the market even on the advance.

The sentimental effect of the Supreme Court decision on the Capper-Tincher bill—taken in connection with the fact that the Board of Directors took no action on the request of Julius H. Barnes—a sharp advance in Liverpool and less favorable crop reports from Kansas were the bullish factors, and the upturn was easily attained.

Bullish confidence has been restored and sentiment after the close was favorable to a further upturn, especially if exporters follow the advice. A liberal trade was on in the May, and, while there was selling attributed to the leading longs, the offerings were quickly taken. Some selling was attributed to foreigners, who reinstated by purchases of new crop deliveries.

The fight in the May continued without interruption with purchases of 400,000 bushels made to come here from outside markets, and St. Louis is expected to ship 200,000 to 250,000 bushels of red Winter, in addition, for delivery. The disposition on the part of the bulls is to sell sufficient May to prevent any material advance at the present time, and the Supreme Court decision removes one stumbling block from their path.

Julius H. Barnes today addressed another message to the board in which he again requested that steps be taken to protect the interests who have to use the futures for hedging purposes and who cannot deliver the grain except at great expense. He recommends a conference of the grain exchanges.

Crop Expert P. S. Goodman, with Clement Curtis & Co., after an investigation of Sumner County, Kansas, reported that the condition was going backward and that hot weather would cause rapid deterioration, due to the watery conditions. Other messages of a similar nature were received from other points, and, in some quarters, it was believed that a crop scare was not far off.

Available grain stocks decreased 7,795,000 bushels last week and are 141,500,000 bushels, or about 20,000,000 bushels in excess of last year.

Purchases of around 500,000 bushels corn were made to arrive by Chicago handlers today, and the hedging of this grain with a light outside trade prevented any material upturn, the finish being 1@2¾ cents higher.

July and September rye sold at a new high on the crop and considerable export was regarded as having been done, although the trade here was light.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,014,000 bushels; week ago, 970,000; last year, 614,000. Shipments were 893,000 bushels; week ago, 1,417,000; last year, 405,000.

Corn receipts were 828,000 bushels; week ago, 993,000; last year, 245,000. Shipments were 1,374,000 bushels; week ago, 796,000; last year, 501,000.

IMPERIAL RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT

$50,000,000 6½% Three Year Credit

Dated July 10, 1916 Due June 15, 1919

This Committee has continuously been in close touch with the State Department in connection with the claim of depositors of the above issue of Russian Government securities. It is probable that our Government, in formally recognizing a Government in Russia, will insist that some provision be made for the payment of American losses in that country.

The Protective Committee is arranging to file with the Department of State information regarding the holdings of depositors under the Protective Agreement for use when an opportunity occurs for the Government of the United States to lend its assistance.

Holders of about three-fourths of all the Participation Certificates in the 6½% Three Year Credit have deposited their Participation Certificates with this Committee, under the Protective Agreement of July 1, 1919, the period of which it is expected will be extended to January 1, 1924.

No information can be filed by the Committee on behalf of holders of Participation Certificates who have not deposited their Certificates. The Committee has, therefore, decided to extend the opportunity to those who have not deposited their Participation Certificates, to make such deposit now under the terms of the original Agreement, as extended to January 1, 1924. Deposits may be made at any time prior to June 1, 1922, after which date the Committee expects to file its proofs of loss.

The holders of Participation Certificates who do not file information with the State Department at Washington may be seriously prejudiced by their failure to do so, as it is believed that any adjustment can be made to the best advantage through this Committee. To file proofs separately will subject the holders to needless expense and inconvenience; and it is obviously to their interest to avail themselves of the opportunity to cooperate with the other Certificate holders under the Protective Agreement.

As the Committee has heretofore announced, the members are serving without compensation; and the total expenses of the Committee to date are nominal.

Deposits may be made by sending Certificates to one of the Depositories, either The National City Bank of New York, 55 Wall Street, New York City, or the Old Colony Trust Company, 17 Court Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Certificates must be endorsed in blank by the registered holders and the signature guaranteed by a bank with a correspondent in New York City, or by a member of the New York or Boston Stock Exchange, or acknowledged before a Notary Public with a County Clerk's certificate attached, showing the authority of the Notary. The Certificates must also be accompanied by an Income Tax Ownership Certificate, form 1001-A, executed with the amount left in blank.

Communications for the Committee should be addressed to its Secretary.

SALES IN RETAIL STORES.

Business Improved and Stabilized During Last Four Months.

Retail business throughout the United States improved and stabilized during the Spring months, according to the monthly review of retail trade just issued by the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Notable among the contributive factors toward improvement were price reductions which, it is declared, served to maintain the national volume of sales; the reduction of unemployment attending the increase of industrial activity and the marked increase in sales initiative. Business failures, it is stated, were fewer in April than in any one of the four preceding months.

Retail trade for March last was 14½ per cent. less in money value than in March 1921, according to the figures received from 446 representative stores. However, it is declared, the merchandise volume offset this, because prices of last March were lower than those of the same month last year by from 10 to 20 per cent. The largest decreases in money sales volume fell on the smaller stores. In actual sales volume of merchandise the largest gains were registered by department stores, which averaged 24.9 per cent. for March of the current year above the same month in 1921.

During April, it is reported, manufacturers were more numerously occupied with advance orders and employment was increasing. A national questionnaire of manufacturers, of which the returns were compiled as late as May 9, showed the majority of the basic industries reporting their condition fair, while in some instances it was declared excellent.

In the textile field, according to this questionnaire, only 20 per cent. reported business as being poor, while 50 per cent. stated they were employing more people than last year. Twenty per cent. were employing the same number.

PLAN BIG BRONX HOUSE.

Thirteen-Story Concourse Tenement Will Cost $1,500,000.

Plans have been filed with the Bronx Bureau of Buildings for the erection of a thirteen-story brick tenement to cost $1,500,000.

The building will occupy a plot 204.42 by 200 feet on the north side of Clifford Place from Grand Concourse to Walton Avenue. The Clif Wall Realties, Inc., Albert J. Schweitzer, President, are the owners of record. Edward Raidiris is the architect for the project.

Business Properties.

Snowber & Co. sold for E. Davis the property at 338 West Fourth Street, southeast corner of Horatio Street, which is a six-story elevatored loft building. J. Yatess is the new purchaser and he has arranged to remodel the property extensively for his own occupancy.

The same brokers sold this property recently for O. W. Cammann, trustee for Cammann estate, to E. Davis.

The Leberman Corporation (Morris Borsodi) sold to Magdalen C. Schuyler 136 and 138 Beekman Street, adjoining the northwest corner of Front Street, two four-story buildings with stores, 37 by 25, valued at $50,000.

Hewlett Estate Sale Today.

The Hewlett place at Huntington, L. I., a residence with eighteen acres of land and 575 feet of waterfront, will be sold at auction today at noon by Bryan L. Kennelly in the Real Estate Exchange, 14 West Forty-second Street. Included in the sale will be several Manhattan and Bronx properties.

Vedanta Society Buys House.

The Vedanta Society of the City of New York, which occupies the four-story dwelling, 20 by 100.5, at 34 West Seventy-first Street, purchased that property from Georgiana Wimmer.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

WILLS KNITTING MILLS, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the Wills Knitting Mills, Inc., of 110 East 128th Street, by three creditors: Fox Fenwarch, $4,600; Ruby Benjamin, $4,076; Louis Silver, claim not stated. The liabilities are about $60,000 and assets about $45,000. Judge Mack appointed Maurice P. Davidson receiver under $10,000 bonds.

BURNSIDE BAKERY, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the Burnside Bakery, Inc., of 2,013 Jerome Avenue, by three creditors: Standrdrift Flour Corp., $914; Max Weisberg, $475; P

Fall Line of Shirts Opened.

Fall lines of the Manhattan Shirt Company were opened yesterday afternoon. The general retail price range, according to Vice President L. B. Tim, is the same as that which prevailed last Spring, namely from $2 to $12. The lines are extensive and cover printed batistes, Solway woven madras, Solway silk stripes, Solway silken madras mixture, pure silks, English broadcloths and French novelty bosoms, both plain and pleated. The tendency throughout the lines is toward pastel colors. The production schedule, according to Mr. Tim, exceeds that for last year.

Retailers as Associate Members.

Preliminary plans toward bringing men's wear wholesalers and retailers closer together are being developed by the National Wholesale Men's Furnishings Association. Secretary Willard B. Stevens of this body states that the question of bringing the retailers in as associate members will be taken up at the annual meeting to be held June 1. While the wholesalers maintain close relations with the National Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' Association, this is more indirect than is desired. In a joint associated membership, it is believed, both wholesalers and retailers can be amalgamated into a unit which should prove mutually beneficial.

Percales Prices Well Received.

Reports emanating from the downtown dry goods district yesterday were to the effect that buyers of the percales and other printed cottons priced on Monday were tiher placing business well at the new levels or confirming orders previously placed with the understanding that the new prices would not exceed those last previously made and that due allowance would be made for any reductions. One thing which was said to be pleasing to buyers was the narrowing of the "spreads" between light percales and darks, they having felt for some time that a difference of 1½ cents a yard between the two types of grounds was no longer justified by color and other costs.

Fall Cleaks and Suits.

Salesmen's lines in cloaks and suits are being rapidly made up, and it is expected that early showings for Fall will be made on the road beginning June 1. While the tendency in some instances is to show a range of lower priced garments, many houses, it is understood, will exhibit some rather elaborate garments. According to one manufacturer, the facts that fabric prices are about the the same as a year ago and that labor charges show no change indicate that materially lower prices are not to be expected.

He declared that if there was an insistent demand for lower prices, it will necessitate the production and distribution of inferior grades. So far as intrinsic values go, he added, there will be no change.

Clearing House Plan Developing.

Developments in the establishment of a knit goods clearing house for members of the National Knitted Outerwear Association have now reached the point where the committee in charge of the project is negotiating for a manager for it. The purpose of the clearing house, as is indicated by its name, is to help the manufacturers clear from their stocks merchandise that for some reason or other has reached the "stricker" stage. It will also afford a convenient purchasing point for buyers who are looking for goods at a price. One of its principal effects, however, will be to stabilize trade conditions by removing from direct competition with fresh merchandise the kind of goods that should be disposed of through a common outlet.

Present Neckwear Tendencies.

In current neckwear, a noteworthy demand is reported for the new English foulard ties in hand-blocked patterns. These cover a wide range of colors and designs, fifty-two in number, according to a leading retailer. Ties in two and three-toned college stripes also continue to enjoy popularity. A falling off in the sales of knitted ties is reported by some retailers. However, this is confined to the less novel effects. Knitted grenadines of the open work type are in demand, with the so-called cathedral stitch being featured by a group of the more prominent jobbing houses. Wash ties have not come in for any marked increase as yet but, in view of their cheapness, it is thought a considerable volume of these may be turned over.

Situation in Woolens.

To the interested observer the current woolen situation affords notable contrasts. The recent rise in prices, with the promise of more to come, has created a situation in which all hands are waiting for something to develop. The opening of the American Woolen Company lines for Spring, 1923, is scheduled for the early part of July. The trade is concerned with what will be done as to prices. President Wood has declared unreservedly that an advance must take place, in view of the rising costs of raw material, with the proposed new tariff in the foreground. Meanwhile, clothing salesmen are on the road, their results being watched by the manufacturers, who in turn are being watched by the retailer. Finally, the retailer has his eye on the consumer, in whose hands the ultimate solution lies.

Gray Goods Prices Stronger.

Stronger prices for gray goods were reported in this market yesterday and although business was hampered by the unwillingness of many buyers to meet the advances, there was a fair volume of trading in the staple constructions of printcloths and sheetings. In the printcloths the sales were based on 3¼ and 9¼ cents, respectively, for 36½-inch 64-60s and 39-inch 68-72s for May-June deliveries. In the lower-count goods there was less done, from all accounts, but Eastern mills were asking 7¼ cents for 39-inch 56-44s. Seven cents was bid by buyers for 5.50-yard sheetings for shipment during the remainder of this month and through next, and some business was done early in the day at that figure. Later on, sellers were asking an eighth more. For 5-yard goods of the 36-inch width 7⅝ cents was paid.

Silk Sweaters in Growing Demand.

Although the movement of real silk sweaters in this market was said yesterday not to be so free as that of well-made fibre goods, due to the higher costs of the former, a more active sale of both varieties was reported as a result of the coming of more seasonable weather. In the real silk goods, it was said, a feature is the increasing call for tuxedo effects, as against smocks, but in the fibre goods the demand for smocks is much the larger of the two. The best selling types of fibre silk tuxedos are those that retail at $10 to $12.50. In these goods, rack bottom effects are in steadily growing vogue. In the fibre silk smocks, "numbers" to retail around $7.50 are reported to be selling well. In the woolen goods only the low-end stuff appears to be moving in any volume, and most of this is very light in weight.

Low Shoes to Stay In.

Judging from the exhibits of the Brooklyn shoe manufacturers at the Hotel Commodore, coincident with the style show that is being given there by them, there is very little indication of high shoes for women returning to vogue this Fall. Some of the great variety of models displayed for the new season are of the pump and sandal type. Both one and two-strap effects are seen, with the former more frequently displayed than the latter. The heels of the new models, which are of the Louis Spanish-Louis and Cuban types, range in height from three-fourths of an inche to two inches. The average vamp length is 3¼ inches, and many of the vamps show cutout treatments. The soles are of the square edge turn variety and range in weight from heavy stock to the light turn. The materials used are patent leather, both alone and in combination with suede, kid, satin, white kid, gray buck, coss, Moroccan calf, ax bindings, perforations and other trimmings are much in evidence.

BUILDERS PURCHASE APARTMENT SITE

The De Coppett Mansion on West 85th Street Sold to A. Paterno and V. Cerabone.

A deal involving about $1,000,000 was closed yesterday in the heart of the upper west side apartment house section when Anthony A. Paterno, operator and builder, and his associate in several recent building apartments, Victor Cerabone, purchased the old De Coppett mansion on Eighty-fifth Street, just west of West End Avenue, and two adjacent parcels.

The buyers will form a new corporation for the erection of a high-class nine-story apartment on the site of the De Coppett house, which has a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 102.2 feet. Mr. Paterno and his associate also purchased 502 and 512 West Eighty-fifth Street, two private dwellings.

Mr. Paterno has just completed at 506 West End Avenue, the northwest corner of Eighty-fourth Street, a high-class fourteen-story fireproof building. The specific reason for purchasing 502 West Eighty-fifth Street is to protect the northerly light of this building.

By the purchase of 502 and also 512, they have also protected the easterly and westerly sides, which insures perfect light, making it equal to a corner. Mr. Cerabone has also erected a number of high-class apartments on the west side, and has just completed 320 West Eighty-ninth Street, on a plot 40 by 102.5, a nine-story building considered one of the most attractive apartment houses in the section.

The De Coppett mansion will be demolished in the early part of December and the new building finished and ready for occupancy about July 1, 1923. Earle & Calhoun were the brokers in this transaction.

Investors Buy Tenements.

Max N. Natanson has resold to an investor 2,401 Second Avenue at the northwest corner of 125d Street, a five-story and basement cold-water tenement, fronting twenty-five feet on the avenue and ninety feet on the street. It contains three stores and twenty apartments, and the annual rents are in excess of $4,000.

This is one of the three properties recently purchased by Mr. Natanson from the J. Chr. G. Hupfel Company. It was held at $35,000.

Negotiations are now pending for the resale of the remaining two houses, namely, 180 West End Avenue at the northeast corner of Sixty-eighth Street and 663 First Avenue at the southwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street.

Leo Schwartz sold to an investor the southeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and 131st Street, a five-story apartment house with stores on lot 24.11 by 100. The property was held at $46,000. Pierre & Golden & Company were the brokers.

Samuel A. Kelsey sold for David Baum to an investing client 139 West 138th Street, a five-story walk-up on lot 26 by 100.

F. Picker & Sons sold for Well & Mayer the seven-story elevator apartment at 1,433 Madison Avenue, known as the Blythebourne, to Mrs. C. Bloom. The rentals are about $25,000 and the property was held at $150,000.

The five-story flat with stores, on a lot 26 by 65 feet at 2,131 Third Avenue, was resold by Julius Reich to Milton Cohen. George W. Bretell was the broker in the deal.

$285,000 Broome Street Sale.

The Farmers Loan and Trust Company, executor for the estate of Margaret Jasger, sold 295 and 297 Broome Street, 39.10 by 88.2; 80 Chrystie Street, 25.1 by 100; 310 and 312 East Fifth Street, 35.9 by 95; 322 and 324 East Eighth Street, 39.8 by 97.6, and 222 and 224 East Fifty-first Street, 35.4 by 107.4.

The purchaser is the newly formed Lewkres Realty Corporation, Louis Kresner, President. Julius Fins, attorney, represented the seller. The properties yield an annual rental of $50,000, and were held at $285,000.

The thirty-family tenement at 88 and 90 First Street has been sold by Lena Haas, Louis Hornberger and Mary Mates to Israel Eisenberg.

The newly formed Acinom Realty Corporation, H. F. Connolly, J. J. O'Connor and F. V. Cummins, directors, purchased from the Kopp estate 404 East Seventy-ninth Street, a four-story tenement, 25 by 102.2.

Realty Notes.

The Harlem Property Owners' Association will meet tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock at 67 West 125th Street.

Benjamin Korndorfer & Hastings, Inc., were the brokers who sold for Albert P. Weber 305 East 154th Street, a two-family frame house, on a lot 25 by 100, to A. Weines, who will occupy.

Willard A. Lynch has purchased an apartment in 130 Twenty-first Street, Jackson Heights; in the same building another apartment has been purchased by F. W. Miller.

Brooks & Mormand were the brokers who negotiated the twenty-one-year lease on the five-story building at the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street.

The New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital obtained from the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank a loan of $175,000 on its property, 118.6 by 230 by irregular, at the northeast corner of Second Avenue and Twentieth Street.

Builder Resells Heights Plot.

T. W. Stemmler Jr., Inc., engineers and constructors, who recently purchased through M. M. Ringler the southeast corner of Wadsworth Avenue and 156th Street, have resold this parcel to a syndicate of upstate capitalists headed by G. F. Williams, who contemplate large investments in choice New York properties during the coming year. T. W. Stemmler Jr., Inc., received the general contract to construct a five-story apartment house containing suites of three and four rooms, from plans by George Keister. M. M. Ringler acted as broker in the resale of the property.

Brooklyn Lots Bring $46,575.

Sixty-six lots on Cropsey and Fifteenth Avenues, Bay Eighth and Bay Tenth Streets, Brooklyn, were sold at auction Monday evening by the Jere Johnson Jr. Co., auctioneers. The sale was held at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague Street.

The 66 lots sold for $46,575. Two lots on Cropsey Avenue sold for $1,005 each. On Fifteenth Avenue the lots brought $750.

Mount Vernon Hotel Project.

The Knolls on Chester Hill, Mount Vernon, country home of the late James A. Bailey, circus man, will be converted into a country club and hotel by the newly formed Bailey Park Hotel Company. A twelve-story structure containing 500 rooms is planned and an eighteen-hole golf course is to be laid out, the project to involve about $3,000,000. It comprises about thirty-two acres.

Long Island Acreages Sold.

The Long Island Motor Parkway sold seven acres at Dix Hill, L. I., to Otto R. Koechl, who purchased the adjoining property recently through the same broker, Warren Murdock.

The same broker sold 10 acres of waterfront at Eaton's Neck, Huntington, to George J. Feirer for development.

Sale at Spuyten Duyvil.

Governors Island Auction Today.

At Governors Island, today at 10 A. M., Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, will sell at auction by order of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States, 58,000 feet of railroad trackage, 24 sheet metal warehouses, 6 sheet metal sheds and the sprinkler systems in 34 additional warehouses.

Big Madison Avenue Loan.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., have obtained from the New York Life Insurance Company a loan of $450,000 on 777 Madison Avenue. The plot, 100 by 100.5, is improved with a ten-story fireproof elevator apartment house with a pent house containing thirty-two servants' rooms. It has an aggregate rental of $120,000.

BUYING IN THE SUBURBS.

New Yorker Purchases Old Haviland Homestead at Rye, N. Y.

The old Haviland homestead, situated at Pleasant Ridge Road and North Street, in the hills back of Rye, N. Y., consisting of a large American Colonial farm house, one of the landmarks in that section, garage and chauffeur's cottage, has been sold to a prominent New Yorker for the Sterling estate by Kenneth Ives & Co. The property was held at $60,000.

Edward J. Fenelon sold a corner plot at South Broadway and Caryl Avenue, Yonkers, size 77 by 103 feet, to the Ruthie Realty Corporation, who will improve this site with a two-story building and ten stores. Frank Vols was the broker in the deal.

Herbert Brenon of New York City has purchased the Dr. R. Miller place at Little Neck Hills. Thomas O'Connell was the broker. The same broker has sold the Mrs. Mary Brooks property at Port Washington to John Olson and the Edward Cleary property at Plandome to L. C. Karle.

J. Albert Johntra sold for Rosemary Barton three lots on the west side of Twenty-first Street, Broadway, Flushing, to Agusta S. Jockers.

The purchaser intends to erect a Colonial dwelling on the property and will occupy it when completed.

Edward Stapleton sold, through the Dalleran agency, the six-room Colonial dwelling situated at 174 Franklin Place, Flushing. The house stands on a plot 50 by 100 feet.

The purchaser is James S. Barron of the Laubady Construction Company of New York City, who will occupy the premises.

Chauncey B. Griffen has sold for Luke S. Van Zandt plot 45 on Mamaroneck Avenue, in the Gedney Terrace section at White Plains, to Mrs. Mildred H. Johnson, who contemplates building in the near future.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Two Apartment House Properties Purchased for Investment.

The three-story single brick apartment, on a lot 20 by 100 feet, containing three stores and two apartments, at the northwest corner of Sumpter Street and Hopkinson Avenue, was sold by S. Goldinger to Gottfried Saner for investment.

The property was held at $18,500. George Gamble was the broker who closed the deal.

The same broker sold to a client for investment the six-story double apartment building, on a lot 25 by 100, at 30 Floyd Street, near Nostrand Avenue.

The seller, John J. Trumpfeeler, held the property at $9,500.

The Adage Realty Corporation sold to A. S. Beck a plot of ground 60 by 100, on the southwest corner of Avenue J and East Tenth Street, for the erection of a residence for himself. The property was held for $10,500. A. Mishkin was the broker.

The Henry L. Nielsen Offices sold the plot 40 by 100 feet, on the northeast corner of Avenue S and East Ninth Street, for Mrs. A. Maass to a client.

Samuel Gallitka, as broker, sold for Simon Colits to Gussie Feld for occupancy a two-story and attic two-family frame detached cottage with garage, on a plot 35 by 100, at 1,077 East Twelfth Street, Flatbush. This property was held at $16,000.

Joseph Stein, as broker, sold for Mrs. Helen Willow 1,559 Fifty-eighth Street, a one-family cottage with garage, to M. Renna for occupancy; also for Mrs. Ida Smith, 1,430 Forty-seventh Street, one-family cottage, on a plot 40 by 100, to a client who will alter same into a two-family house for occupancy.

Commercial Leases.

The entire building at 232-238 West Twenty-ninth Street, on lot 100 by 100, was leased by the Fenimore C. Goode Company for the De Foe Realty Company to a client who will occupy the property for garage purposes after extensive alterations have been made. The lease is for twenty-one years at a rental aggregating approximately $250,000, or about $11,000 yearly.

The Lewis L. Rosenthal Company has leased for a term of ten years two stores in the building now in course of construction on the southeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Broadway, one store being on Broadway, the other store being on Fourteenth Street, forming an "L" to Silver & Herman, who will add another link in their chain of men's furnishing stores.

A store at 1,118 Madison Avenue was leased by Harris, Vought & Co. to Helen V. Reardon.

505 "Tax Exemption" Lots in Port Chester, 45 minutes from Grand Central at Absolute Auction, Next Saturday

To Homeseeker:

This is the FINEST large residential tract available in Westchester County today!

I live in Port Chester myself, so I know what I am talking about when I tell you that the attractions of Long Island Sound, the many country clubs of Westchester County, the schools, the churches, the stores and the 43-MINUTE COMMUTING SERVICE of Port Chester make this one of the most desirable suburban properties that we have ever sold.

I urge each and every homeseeker to come out to Port Chester TODAY. I am not asking you to BUY, because once you have seen these homesites further argument will be UNNECESSARY!

Estate of Edward B. Wesley, Deceased, at Westchester Ave. and North Regent St.

Come out to Port Chester TODAY! Get the fresh air from the Westchester hills. Look over the property. Satisfy yourself that, in location, scenery, neighborhood and city conveniences it is ALL that Mr. Kennelly says in his letter above.

Let our REPRESENTATIVES show you around. See the fine old mansion and garage, and the two 10-room houses. Select the plot you want for your lifetime HOME.

Then realize how, with the steady growth of real estate values in Westchester, values in this splendid tract are bound to INCREASE. With the very EASY TERMS, plus village TAX EXEMPTION, you simply CANNOT afford to miss this chance to buy at your own price!

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY TO SEIZE THIS UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

4 P. M.

"Are you P. J., the advertising man?

"I'm P. J., all right, the 'schlemiel' man. I have an 'ad' in your paper this morning. I thought the owner was kidding when he gave the price and terms of that house I advertised. I came to the office an hour earlier to take care of the rush. Here it is ten after four and I still have that 'Matcoca' in stock."

You may print it again if you will put it on the front page along with all the robberies. Some investors don't know where to find the real news.

I notice you use different inks on Sundays. Ask your Editor if he can have this advertisement red. The owner of this house, I think, has Financial Economic Paralysis and subject to Frozen Credits. I don't just know what this means, but if he gets $35,000 and is relieved of a Broadway corner 100x125 on the Heights he may recover.

I can tell you the whole story, but remember one man's loss is sometimes worse for the next.

CLASSY DEAL BEACH THE BEAUTIFUL

If you have social standing I may sell you a Deal Home fully furnished, few steps from the ocean, possession at your convenience, $30,000, $10,000 cash. Photograph at my office.

AND DECENT RENTALS

CONVENIENT location, plenty of daylight and fresh air, thorough-going service, tenants of high character and decent rentals—rentals no higher than those charged in ordinary buildings.

These in brief, are the essentials which characterize the ideal office building.

Valuable Dog Returned
May 15, 1922.

The New York Times:

I lost a valuable dog and advertised for its return in the local newspapers in Brooklyn and Far Rockaway, Long Island, without results. Three weeks later I inserted an advertisement in the Lost and Found columns of The New York Times and the dog was returned within twenty-four hours by a gentleman in Brooklyn, who had seen my announcement in The Times. My own home is in Far Rockaway.

Blazing the trail to Quiet to increased production and more satisfactory work

The NOISELESS
PORTABLE
"Your Junior Partner."

Before you buy a Portable Typewriter—consider The Noiseless Portable. We can't promise that you will hear much—but you will SEE a beautiful, convenient typewriter that combines quiet with the speed, beauty of work, durability and economy that only The Noiseless can give.

The Noiseless Portable is the only portable typewriter in the world that can be used anywhere at any time without disturbing anybody.

Made possible by The Noiseless

THE ever-increasing, nation-wide acceptance of The Noiseless Typewriter is more than the recognition usually accorded a good product. It is the triumph of a great idea. An idea that means better working conditions and more satisfactory output for every one in an office—

QUIET

This success has not been easily won. The Noiseless has met with the most severe competition and the most thorough tests that modern business methods could impose.

We have encouraged comparisons between The Noiseless and other typewriters. We know that the best way to prove the merit of any product is actually to show it in comparative service.

And it is in this way that The Noiseless has definitely made good!

The Recognition of Quiet

We believe that the value of the quiet office is now recognized by every thoughtful business man. A most convincing proof of this is the fact that so many other typewriter companies are hastening to feature sound absorbers and other devices to deaden the noise of their machines.

But The Noiseless is the only inherently quiet typewriter in the world. It does not need sound absorbers—it simply does not make a noise when it writes. The hammer blow method of writing has been entirely eliminated—and with it noise!

Popularity Among Stenographers

Evidence based upon the experience of thousands of stenographers indicates that users of Noiseless Typewriters after a few weeks of operation find The Noiseless superior in every respect to the old type noisy machine.

Its quiet is a welcome relief from nerve fatigue caused by noise, and its light, responsive touch materially reduces the strain of physical fatigue. No stenographer once accustomed to the superiority of The Noiseless will voluntarily use any other typewriter.

Let us consider your office—

We commend The Noiseless to you on a strict basis of economy. We would like the opportunity to explain, in your office, just how The Noiseless will actually pay for itself in a few years as compared with a noisy machine. We will gladly bring you a Noiseless—and compare its speed, touch, quality of work and durability with any typewriter. Call, write or phone for a demonstration.
